LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons accompanying it are, under the 19th of the Rules for the Conduct of Business at Meetings of the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, published for general information by order of His Excellency the Governor General :—

A Bill to regulate the administration of Civil and Criminal Justice, and the superintendence of Police and Conservancy within the limits of Military Cantonments.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make provision for regulating the administration of Civil and Criminal Justice and the superintendence of Police and Conservancy within the limits of Military Cantonments in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal, and for laying down local Rules and Regulations to be enforced within such limits ; It is enacted as follows :—

Criminal jurisdiction of a Cantonment Magistrate.

I. When any person shall be invested with the powers of a Magistrate within the limits of any Military Cantonment who is not the Magistrate of the District in which such Cantonment is situate, such person shall be styled the Cantonment Magistrate, and within the limits of such Cantonment shall, subject to the control of the Magistrate of the District in which such Cantonment is situate, exercise the powers of a Magistrate under the Code of Criminal Procedure as defined in the said Code, for the purpose of disposing of all cases arising within such Cantonment which the Magistrate of a District may dispose of, and for the commitment for trial before the Court of Session of the District or place in which such Cantonment is situate, of any person charged with any offence which a Magistrate is not competent to try, or for which the person charged shall appear to deserve a more severe sentence than a Magistrate is competent under the said Code of Criminal Procedure to award.

Appeal.

II. The sentences and orders passed by a Cantonment Magistrate under the preceding Section shall be open to appeal to the Court of Session of the District or place in which such Cantonment is situate, under the Rules contained in the said Code of Criminal Procedure in respect of appeals from sentences and orders passed by the Magistrate of a District.

Commitments and appeals in Non-Regulation Provinces.

III. In the Territories not subject to the general Regulations of the Bengal Code, the commitments made by such Cantonment Magistrate shall be made to such Court as shall in such Territories exercise the powers of a Court of Session as defined in the said Code of Criminal Procedure, and appeals from the sentences or orders of Cantonment Magistrates in such Territories shall lie to such Court. Provided that, if any person be invested with the powers of a Cantonment Magistrate within the limits of any Cantonment situated in any District or place in which there is no person exercising the powers of a Court of Session, the Governor-General in Council may direct that the commitments made, and the appeals from the sentences and orders passed, by such Cantonment Magistrate shall be heard and determined by the Court of Session nearest to such Cantonment, and such commitments and appeals shall be heard and determined by such Court in the same manner as if the commitments had been made, or the sentences or orders appealed from had been passed, by a Magistrate within the jurisdiction of such Court of Session.

Proviso.

Sentences of Court of Session open to appeal to, or revision by, highest local Court of Criminal appeal.

IV. The sentences and orders passed by a Court of Session, or by a Court exercising the powers of a Court of Session under the last preceding Section, shall be open to appeal or reference to, or shall be subject to revision by, the highest Court of Criminal appeal in the Territory or place in which the said Court of Session or Court exercising the powers of a Court of Session is situated under the rules contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, in the same manner as other sentences and orders passed by such Court are open to appeal or reference to, or are subject to revision by, the said highest Court of Criminal Appeal.

Civil jurisdiction of Cantonment Magistrates.

V. Act III of 1859 (for conferring Civil jurisdiction in certain cases upon Cantonment Joint Magistrates, and for constituting those Officers Registers of Deeds) shall apply to Cantonment Magistrates appointed under this Act, in the same manner as if Cantonment Magistrates had been expressly named in all places in the said Act III of 1859, in connection with "Cantonment Joint Magistrates," "Joint Magistrates of any Military Bazar or Station" and "Joint Magistrates."

Police Jurisdiction of Cantonment Magistrates.

VI. The Cantonment Magistrate shall, within the limits of the Cantonment to which he is appointed, exercise in subordination to the Inspector-General of Police appointed under Act V of 1861 (for the Regulation of Police) all the powers which are vested by the said Act in a District Superintendent of Police, and shall in all Police proceedings be subject to the general control and direction of the Commanding Officer of such Cantonment, in like manner as the District Superintendent is, under Section IV of the said Act, subject to the general control and direction of the Magistrate of the District.

Service and execution, through Cantonment Magistrate, of process issued by Commanding Officers.

VII. The Commanding Officer of a Cantonment may send any process requiring service or execution by any means not immediately at his disposal, to the Cantonment Magistrate, for service or execution through the Cantonment Police, and it shall be the duty of the Cantonment Magistrate to serve or execute such process in the same manner as if it had been issued by himself and subject to the same rules.

Local Government may extend Act XX of 1856 to any Military Cantonment.

VIII. It shall be lawful for the local Governments to extend the provisions of Act XX of 1856 (to make better provision for the appointment and maintenance of Police Chowkeydars in Cities, Towns, Stations, Suburbs, and Bazars, in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal) to any Military Cantonment subject to such Governments respectively, and when the provisions of the said Act have been so extended to any Military Cantonment, and a Cantonment Magistrate has been appointed in such Cantonment, all the powers vested in a Magistrate by that Act shall be exercised by the Cantonment Magistrate, subject only to the control of the Magistrate of the District and the local Government. If there be no Cantonment Magistrate, the Magistrate of the District shall carry out the provisions of the said Act in the same manner as if such Cantonment formed a part of his ordinary jurisdiction. Provided that it shall be lawful for the local Government to order that the said Military Cantonment be divided into any number of Cantonment divisions, and to determine the nature of the tax to be levied in each such division according to Section X of the said Act. Provided also that the local Government may lay down rules for the guidance of the Cantonment Magistrate or the Magistrate as aforesaid with regard to the expenditure of the surplus funds described in Section XXXVI of the said Act, and that such funds may be expended for the purpose of carrying out any measures under any of the Rules and Regulations passed under Section X of this Act in addition to the purposes described in the said Section XXXVI of Act XX of 1856.

And may order division of Cantonments, &c.

Also lay down rules for guidance.

Parts of certain Regulations to cease to have effect where Cantonment Magistrates exercise jurisdiction under this Act.

IX. From the time when a Cantonment Magistrate shall begin to exercise jurisdiction under this Act, Sections II and III Regulation III. 1809 of the Bengal Code (for the support of the Police in the Cantonments and Military Bazars; for defining the powers of the Civil and Military Officers in the performance of that duty; and for fixing the local limits of the said Cantonments and Bazars), so much of Section XII Regulation XX 1810 of the said Code (for subjecting persons attached to the Military Establishments to Martial law in certain cases, and for the better Government of the retainers and dependants of the Army receiving public pay on fixed establishments, and of persons seeking a livelihood by supplying the Troops in Garrison, Cantonment, and Station Military Bazars, or attached to Bazars of Corps), as declares that the persons therein mentioned shall be liable to be tried by a Native Court Martial for the offence stated; and Sections XIII, XIV, XV, XVI, XVII, XVIII, and XXI of the said Regulation shall cease to have any effect in such Cantonment.

Rules and Regulations to provide for certain matters specified.

X. The local Government shall have power to make Rules and Regulations not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, or of any other law in force, to provide within the limits of any Military Cantonment for the matters hereinafter mentioned, and from time to time to repeal, alter, or amend such Rules and Regulations. No such Rule or Regulation or any alteration thereof shall have effect until the same shall have been confirmed by the Government of India, and such Rules and Regulations when so confirmed shall be published in the Official Gazette, and a copy thereof in English and in the Vernacular language chiefly in use shall be hung up in some conspicuous part of the Office of the Cantonment Magistrate, or in such other place as the local Government or the Commanding Officer may direct. The Rules and Regulations passed under this Section may provide.

1*st*.—For regulating, in cases in which the land within the limits of the Cantonment is the property of Government, and the occupation and use of which by private persons is only permissive, the conditions under which such occupation or use shall be allowed, and under which the Government may resume possession of such land, and under which compensation shall be given to persons occupying or using the land so resumed.

2*nd*.—For maintaining proper registers of property within the limits of the Cantonment, and for providing for the registration of transfers of such property.

3*rd*.—For regulating the manner in which houses within the limits of the Cantonment shall be claimable for purchase or hire, when necessary, for the accommodation of Military Officers.

4*th*.—For regulating the management and expenditure of any funds made available by law or by the Government for the purpose of public improvements within the limits of the Cantonment, or for carrying out any Rules and Regulations passed under this Section and the appointment of the necessary servants and establishments.

5*th*.—For the definition and prohibition of public nuisances.

6*th*.—For the maintenance generally of the Cantonment in a proper sanitary condition; for the prevention and cure of disease; for the management and regulation of the public roads, of conservancy and drainage; for the regulation and inspection of public and private necessaries, urinals, cess-pools, drains, and all places in which filth or rubbish is deposited; of slaughter-houses, public markets, houses of ill-fame, burial and burning grounds, and of all offensive or dangerous trades and occupations.

7*th*.—For the supervision and regulation of public wells, tanks, springs or other sources from which water is or may be made available for public use.

8*th*.—For the execution and promotion of works of public utility and convenience.

9*th*.—For the registration of deaths, and for making and recording observations and facts important for the public health and interests.

10*th*.—For the imposition of penalties on persons convicted of the breach of any Rule or Regulation passed under this Section, and for prescribing the manner in which offences under such Rules and Regulations shall be inquired into or be cognizable by any public servant. Provided that no such penalty shall exceed a fine of fifty Rupees, or imprisonment exceeding eight days.

Trial of offences under such Rules and Regulations.

XI. Offences under any Rule or Regulation passed under Section X of this Act shall be triable by the Cantonment Magistrate, but it shall be competent to the local Government to vest any other Officer with the powers of a Magistrate for the special purpose of disposing of cases that may arise under any such Rule or Regulation, and may authorize such person to exercise such powers independently of the Cantonment Magistrate. The Magistrate of the District shall have no control over the Cantonment Magistrate, or over any other Officer invested with the powers of a Magistrate in respect to any cases arising under any Rule or Regulation passed under Section X of this Act.

Levy of fines imposed.

XII. In every case in which an offender is sentenced to a fine for any offence against any such Rule or Regulation, the amount may, in case of non-payment, be levied by distress and sale of any moveable property of the offender which may be found within the limits of the Cantonment.

Imprisonment in case of amount not being recoverable as above.

XIII. If no such property sufficient for the payment of the fine can be found, the offender, provided he is not a European British subject, shall be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding one month.

Levy of fines in case of European British subjects.

XIV. If the offender be a European British subject, the amount of the fine and the costs, if any, shall be levied in the manner provided for the execution of Decrees of the Civil Court.

Prosecutions, &c., under other Regulations, &c., not barred by this Act.

XV. Nothing in this Act, nor in any Rule or Regulation passed under Section X of this Act, shall prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other Regulation or Act for any offence punishable under this Act, or from being liable under any other Regulation or Act to any other or higher penalty or punishment than is provided for such offence by this Act. Provided that no person shall be punished twice for the same offence.

Courts, &c., to take judicial notice of Rules passed under this Act.

XVI. All Courts and Magistrates shall take judicial notice of all Rules and Regulations passed under Section X of this Act, when the same shall have been confirmed and published as aforesaid.

Effect of Rules, &c., passed under Section X of this Act in respect of Regulations, &c., previously in force.

XVII. Whenever, in any Military Cantonment, Rules and Regulations have been laid down under Section X of this Act, so much of Regulation XX of 1810, and of any other Regulation or Act as may be held to empower the Commanding Officer to make local Regulations regarding matters other than Military, shall cease to have any effect in such Cantonment, and all local Regulations for any Military Cantonment which may have been made before the promulgation of the Rules and Regulations passed under Section X of this Act, shall cease to have any effect. Provided that nothing in this Section shall be held to interfere with any Military authority vested in the said Commanding Officer.

Proviso.

Act not to interfere with jurisdiction of Courts Martial, &c.

XVIII. Nothing in this Act shall interfere with the jurisdiction of Courts Martial, or of Commanding Officers of Cantonments or of Regiments, Corps, or Detachments under Act XXIX of 1861, (to consolidate and amend the Articles of War for the Government of the Native Officers and Soldiers in Her Majesty's Indian Army) or under Act V of 1863 (to amend the said Act XXIX of 1861*)*, or with the provisions of any Statute for punishing mutiny and desertion of Officers and Soldiers in the service of Her Majesty in the East Indies, and the Cantonment Magistrate shall exercise no jurisdiction in respect of such offences. Provided that when a Cantonment Magistrate or other Officer not being the Commanding Officer shall have been vested by the local Government with power within the limits of any Military Cantonment to dispose of cases under any Rule or Regulation passed under Section X of this Act, it shall not be competent to the Commanding Officer to exercise the powers described in Article 84 of the said Act XXIX of 1861 in respect of any case arising under such Rule or Regulation, when such Rules and Regulations have been passed for such Cantonment under Section X of this Act, and penalties shall have been laid down for their infringement; the said Rules and Regulations shall be held to be the Rules and Regulations mentioned in the said Article 84 of the said Act XXIX of 1861, and so much of the said Article as declares the penalties which may be inflicted for breach of Cantonment Regulations, shall cease from that time to have any effect in such Cantonment.

Proviso.

XIX. The local Government may appoint any person to be a subordinate Cantonment Magistrate, and may authorize him to exercise within the limits of any Military Cantonment the powers of a subordinate Magistrate of the 1st or 2nd Class, as defined in the Code of Criminal Procedure, and may invest him with power to try any offences against any Rule or Regulation passed under Section X of this Act. Such subordinate Cantonment Magistrate shall be subject to the Rules laid down for subordinate Magistrates in the Code of Criminal Procedure. Provided that when a Cantonment Magistrate has been appointed in any such Cantonment, the Cantonment Magistrate shall exercise, with respect to such subordinate Cantonment Magistrate, all the powers which, under the Code of Criminal Procedure, are exercised by the Magistrate of a District with respect to a subordinate Magistrate, and sentences and orders passed by such subordinate Cantonment Magistrate shall be open to appeal to the Cantonment Magistrate in the same manner in which, under the said Code, appeals may be made to the Magistrate of a District. If there shall be no Cantonment Magistrate, such subordinate Cantonment Magistrate shall be subject to the control of the Magistrate of the District in the same manner as a subordinate Magistrate under the Code of Criminal Procedure. Provided that such subordinate Cantonment Magistrate shall not be subject to the control of the Magistrate of the District in respect to any cases arising under any Rule or Regulation passed under Section X of this Act.

Appointment and powers of subordinate Cantonment Magistrates.

Proviso.

XX. The Commissioner of the Division in which any Military Cantonment may be situated, when such Officer exists, shall have no power to interfere with the exercise in the said Cantonment of any powers exercised by any Officer under the provisions of this Act. Provided that nothing in this Section shall affect the authority exercised by a Commissioner under Act XXI of 1856 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Abkaree Revenue in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal), or under any other law in force for the control and direction of Officers having charge of the Abkaree Revenue.

Commissioners not competent to interfere with exercise of powers under this Act.

Proviso.

XXI. All acts done previously to the passing of this Act by Cantonment Joint Magistrates, or by persons acting under their authority or otherwise, in any Military Cantonment, in pursuance of an order of Government, or which shall have been or shall be ratified by the Executive Government, are hereby confirmed and made valid; and all such Officers and persons as aforesaid are hereby indemnified and discharged from liability in respect of such acts.

Acts done by Cantonment Magistrates before passing of this Act legalized.

XXII. This Act shall extend only to the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal, but the provisions of the Act may be extend by order of the Governor-General in Council to any place administered by a Chief Commissioner, or Agent to the Governor-General, under the orders of the Supreme Government, or by order of the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, or of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab, to any part of the Territories under their Governments, respectively, not within the said Presidency, or by order of the Governor-General in Council to any place in India not within any of the Presidencies of Fort William in Bengal, Fort St. George, or Bombay, or not under the local Governments of those Presidencies, respectively, or of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, the North-Western Provinces, or the Punjab, in which British Troops are cantoned. Every order issued under this Section shall be published in the Official Gazette.

Extension of Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE late Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, in a communication dated 10th of January 1862, brought to the notice of the Supreme Government the unsatisfactory condition of the Law respecting the office of Cantonment Joint Magistrate, and with a view to its amendment, made several proposals, the chief of which follow :—

1*st*. That the appointment of Cantonment Joint Magistrate should be constituted by express authority of Law.

2*nd*. That the Cantonment Police should be under the Cantonment Joint Magistrate, but that, in respect of Police matters, that Officer should stand in the same relation to the Commanding Officer of the Cantonment in which the District Superintendent of Police is declared by Section IV. Act V of 1861 to stand to the Magistrate of the District:—explained by His Honor to mean, that the Cantonment Joint Magistrate should be subject in all his Police proceedings to the direction and control of the Commanding Officer of the Cantonment, but that he should be departmentally subordinate to the Inspector-General of Police, in the same manner in which the District Superintendent is subordinate to that Officer.

3*rd*. That the Cantonment Joint Magistrate should, subject to the supervision of the Commanding Officer of the Cantonment, have jurisdiction in petty cases, for the trial of which Regulation XX of 1810 provides through the instrumentality of Courts Martial.

4*th*. That the Cantonment Joint Magistrate should, in subordination to the Magistrate of the District, hold the preliminary investigation in heinous cases arising within the limits of the Cantonment in which he holds his office, and either commit the accused persons to the Sessions, or, when the alleged offences are within the competency of the Magistrate of the District to try, dispose of the case himself.

The late Mr. Ritchie having been of opinion that some legislation was called for, and that several of the recommendations of the late Lieutenant-Governor might be advantageously adopted, a draft Bill was subsequently prepared by the Hon'ble Mr. Harington, embodying these suggestions, and was submitted to His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, and to the Government of India in the Military Department. That Bill has since been re-considered with a view to making it applicable to a variety of matters requiring regulation within Military Cantonments, and the present Bill, though embodying many of the provisions of the former one, may be regarded as substantially new.

As now drawn, the Bill substitutes the designation "Cantonment Magistrate" for "Cantonment Joint Magistrate," and by this alteration, certain legal difficulties connected with the manner in which the office has heretofore been constituted and occupied will, it is thought, be got rid of. In its earlier Sections, the Bill defines the jurisdiction of the Cantonment Magistrate.

Section I describes the Judicial powers of a Cantonment Magistrate, and Section II gives an appeal from his sentences and orders to the Court of Session of the District or place in which the Cantonment is situated.

Section III is framed to meet the case of Cantonments situated in Non-Regulation Provinces, or places in which there are no persons exercising the powers of a Court of Session; and Section IV provides that sentences and orders passed by a Court of Session, or a Court acting under the last preceding Section, shall be open to appeal or revision.

Section V constitutes Cantonment Magistrates Registers of Deeds; and Section VI provides for their exercising the powers vested in the District Superintendent of Police, under the general direction and control of the Commanding Officer of the Cantonment, in the same manner in which a District Superintendent is ordinarily controlled by the Magistrate of the District. The Commanding Officer is empowered by Section VII, to have process served and executed in certain cases through the agency of the Cantonment Magistrate; and Section VIII enables the local Governments to extend to Military Cantonments the provisions of Act XX of 1856

Sections X to XVII permit the local Government to make Rules on certain subjects which urgently require regulation within Military Cantonments, and they provide the means, and prescribe the manner, of carrying these rules into operation. Considerations of sanitary reform led originally to the preparation of these Sections, but the opportunity has been taken to give the local Government power to regulate other matters on which rules are much needed,—e g.—the resumption of Government land occupied by individuals, the acquisition of houses for Officers' quarters, and the transfer of property generally.

Section XVIII is intended to save all strictly Military Authority, and to prevent any conflict of jurisdiction between the Commanding Officer and the Cantonment Magistrate; and Section XX prevents the Commissioner of the Division from interfering with the Cantonment Magistrate when exercising his powers under this Act. Section XIX permits the appointment of Subordinate Cantonment Magistrates.

In consequence of the supposed legal difficulties mentioned above, it has been thought desirable to give validity in Section XXI to all past acts of Cantonment Joint Magistrates.

The measure applies primarily to the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal, but may be extended to other Territories by their Governments.

ADVERTISEMENT OF SALE.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the Zemindaree right of Government to the undermentioned Khas Mehals, situated in the District of Purneah, will be put to sale, under orders of the Board of Revenue, No. 53 of the 21st April 1863, in the Collectorate of Purneah, on Wednesday, the 10th of June 1863, corresponding with 9th Assar 1270, Fuslee.

The Purchaser of such Mehals will be subject to the Conditions laid down below:—

CONDITIONS OF SALE.

1*st.*—The Estates to be sold, with the Sudder Jumma entered against each Mehal, to the highest bidder above the upset price.

2*nd.*—The sale to be subject to existing leases, and to the right conferred by the Settlement proceedings and laws in force, and Purchasers to be bound to respect the rights of resident cultivators who have signed the Jummabundee made by the Revenue Authorities.

3*rd.*—If the amount of purchase money do not exceed Rupees 100, the whole amount is to be paid down at once.

4*th.*—If the amount of purchase money exceed Rupees 100, a deposit to be at once made of Rupees 25 per cent. upon the amount bid; the same to be forfeited to Government if the whole amount of purchase money be not paid by noon of the fifteenth day after the sale, reckoning the day of sale as one, and the Mehal to be put up again for sale at the risk of the former Purchaser.

Government of India, Public Works Department.

Opening of the Branch Railway to Sher Shah.

From the Under-Secretary to Government, Punjab, Public Works Department, Railway Branch, to COLONEL R. STRACHEY, R. E., Secretary to the Government of India, with the Governor General, Simla,—(No. 148, dated Lahore, the 7th May 1863.)

I AM directed by the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab to announce to you, for the information and satisfaction of His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India, that the extension or Branch of the Punjab Railway from Mooltan to the River Terminus on the Chenab, at the Sher Shah Ghât, about 12 miles in length, was opened for public traffic on and from the 5th instant, after an official inspection of the Line and work had been carefully made by the Consulting Engineer on the 30th ultimo.

2. In concert with the Civil Authorities, who took measures to notify the same to the inhabitants of Mooltan, the Consulting Engineer proposed to the Railway Officers to give one "free" day in Special Trains to all who were disposed to go by Rail to Sher Shah and back; and on the 4th these Trains carried 5,000 'free' Excursionists each way, without accident. His Honor considers that this "free" day was well thought of, and trusts that the inhabitants of Mooltan will ere long be induced to use this Branch Railway both for Goods as well Passengers proceeding to the River side and Ferries in the neighbourhood.

3. At present there is but one Engine at Mooltan in running order to convey the Trains, two in number each way, that have been first put on. But a second Engine will be in a few days available, while two fresh Engines were landed at the Ghât from Kurrachee on the 2nd instant, and these will be as soon as possible erected for employment with the Ballast and Permanent Way Trains that are constantly required along that Branch, as as well as to deliver materials upwards from Mooltan towards Lahore where Plate-laying is going on.

Government of Bengal.

Report on the Baragai or Marang Hill.

From LIEUTENANT-COLONEL E T. DALTON, Commissioner of Chota Nagpore, to the HON'BLE A. EDEN, Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 708, dated the 28th April 1863.)

I HAVE the honor to lay before the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor a letter* from Captain G. C. Depree, the Officer in charge of No. 4, Topographical Survey Party, forwarding a Report, by Mr. Apothecary Horrox on an interesting locality, fifteen miles north of this Station, called the Baragai or Marang Hill.

* No. 4, dated 27th January 1863.

2. The Hill is in the Zemindaree of Chota Nagpore, and is included in the sub-tenure or "Jaghir" of Rai Juggutpal Singh Bahadoor of Pithoria, Honorary Magistrate.

3. I append an Extract from the Meteorological Register kept at Ranchee for the days in December, on which observations were made by Mr. Horrox, but as the observations taken at Ranchee do not give the maximum and minimum temperature during the twenty-four hours, the means of comparison are imperfect.

4. It is not, however, in the month of December that the greatest difference is likely to be found. Senior and Presidency Surgeon Dr. J. P. Brougham visited the Hill, and remained for some days on its summit, but I cannot find in my Office any record of his observations.

5. It is not, however, as a Sanatarium that I think it desirable to bring the locality to notice, but, with reference to Captain Depree's and Mr. Horrox's remark on the fertility of the soil, on its resources in springs and accessibility, to point it out as a good situation for a plantation under European management.

From Captain G. C. Depree, Surveyor in charge of No. 4 Topographical Party, Chota Nagpore Revenue Survey, to Major E. T. Dalton, Commissioner of Chota Nagpore,—(No. 4, dated the 27th January 1863.)

I have the honor to enclose a Report by Mr. Apothecary Horrox, in Medical charge of this Party, on the Hill called Marang or Baragai, the highest point in the vicinity of Ranchee, being elevated about 1,500 feet above that plateau, with reference to its suitability as a Sanatarium or for the cultivation of Tea.

I visited the Hill professionally in the beginning of December last; and, although my own duties prevented me from examining its capabilities minutely, I saw so much of it as to enable me to concur generally in the statements of Mr. Apothecary Horrox, and to form an opinion that, from its being situated on the Ranchee table land, it would probably be a healthy, and, from its facility of access and good soil, a desirable spot for an European settler to take up.

I am unable to form an estimate of the number of acres of cultivated land available on the south slopes of the Hill, but it must be considerable. There is also a second range running parallel to and south of Marang, but of less height, which would also be probably suitable for cultivation, besides, on the west of the Hill there is a large tract of undulating and hilly land covered with luxuriant jungle shewing good soil, but little elevated above the plateau.

The Hill Marang is a conspicuous object from the Station of Ranchee, from which it bears north at about fifteen miles. From the south base of the Hill the cultivated plateau of Chota Nagpore extends for miles, from which labor could be drawn, while on the north the valley of the Damooda River lies covered with extensive tree jungle.

Report on the Hill Baragai or Marang, height 3,440 feet, situated on the Chota Nagpore Plateau, with reference to its capabilities as a Sanatarium, by Mr. T. Horrox, Second Apothecary, No. 4 Topographical Survey Party.

Approaches, &c.—This Hill is a Station of the Great Trigonometrical Survey, and named from a village at its base; is situated in North Latitude 23° 33' and East Longitude 85° 30', about fifteen miles north-west of the Civil Station of Ranchee. Leaving the Civil Station and Town to proceed to the Hill the Survey Party passed along the high road to Calcutta for two coss, or five miles, to the village of Baragai, half mile north of road and the Hill Station of the same name, near which the path diverges across country to the north-west over undulating plains under cultivation, having large villages en route. After a journey of eight miles, and crossing a large stream or nullah, we enter a narrow outlet or gorge, wild and picturesque, between two low parallel ranges of Hills running to the north and south, enclosing a valley of a horse-shoe form, having for its base the village and lofty Hill in question. To the left of this opening is a large village on rising ground, and another midway from which to the base of the Hill; the slope is graduated. The extent of the valley is about two miles long by five broad, and is covered with villages and luxuriant cultivation of wheat, barley, peas, rice, mustard, oil seeds, &c.

Roads, &c.—Two paths lead up from below; the one to the south-west is the more practicable; the ascent for one-third of the distance is straight up a small ghat (which might easily be improved) on uneven rocky ground, and walking is rather difficult and tiresome; it then becomes a footpath, denuded of jungle to some extent, in parts level, and in others over small hillocks; the remaining one-third is by a much more gradual slope till the general level is attained. The other to the east is very steep, rugged, and follows the course of a winding mountain stream.

Elevation, Temperature, &c.—The summit calculated at 3,440 feet above sea level is a small plateau or platform cleared of jungle to the extent of an acre, open and level; it is of an oblong shape, the broadest part being about fifty feet, and shelving towards its northern extremity where it terminates in a declivity; it is suitable for two or more bungalows, and commands a wide view of the subjacent plains to the north and south, and indeed on every side.

The temperature at this present season is about 8° or 10° lower than at the base; the maximum in forty-eight hours reached up to 70°, and the minimum 43°: these registrations were made from 4th to 6th December 1862, and there is a feeling of freshness and salubrity in the air quite invigorating.

Water Supply, &c.—There are three springs and two rivulets on the Hill. The first spring to the west is found at fifty yards from summit, the largest and most important, said to be perennial and easy of access, either by the track already described as from the south-west, or direct down the side of the Hill oozing extensively under black loam, and collecting in a small reservoir lower down, from which a portion is allowed to escape for irrigating paddy and other fields to the plain on that side. The second to the east is near the junction of the two rivulets. About five yards from it, in a small hollow, and about twice the distance of the former one from the summit, the pathway to it is precipitous and surrounded by jungle; it is much smaller, and like the other perennial. The third to the north is difficult of approach down the side of the perpendicular Hill, and at the bottom of a ravine, in the bed of a torrent dried up, and through brushwood, jungle, and high grass this is exhausted during the hot weather. The sources of the rivulets were not traced: they, however, unite at an acute angle and traverse the bottom on the eastern side, but being of a temporary nature and fed principally by the rains were not sufficiently noticed. The water from all these is pellucid and tastes good; no precipitate or impurities thrown down by boiling, and no change detected in that of the western spring after an interval of eight or ten days. Subjected to the Acid, Alkaline Sulphur, and Iron tests, a trace only of the latter is perceptible with a little Carbonic Acid.

Physical Aspect, &c.—Outline bold, steep, and rugged, terminating abruptly towards the north, but wavy and with a graduated inclination to the south, forming a long spur on joining another lower range on the south running parallel. On the flanks and declivities are huge bolders, chiefly composed of gneiss, with disrupting masses of a dense dark basalt; the small slopes and surface soil a rich black alluvium, percolated by springs and moisture abundant, supporting a young forest of jungle trees, clumps of bamboos, festoons of creepers, and other parasites, with the long elephant grass, but no large timber found, excepting in the glens and bottom in the neighbourhood of streams.

Vegetable productions.—As stated above, vegetation luxuriant, and the sides of the Hills are clothed with jungle becoming thicker and higher as they reach the valleys, but nothing characteristic excepting those already referred to. From the richness of the soil and the altitude of the Hill it is well adapted for the cultivation of Tea, Coffee, or any European esculents if the experiment for a Sanatarium be abandoned.

Climate.—No data to be guided by, but the Villagers are healthy looking, shew no enlargement of spleen, and state that fever is not endemic in the valley, which speaks in favor of the climate. Further research, however, is necessary to be positive on the subject.

Remarks.—Although the Hill is not above fever range an attempt should be made by a residence there during one hot season to prove that no malarial influences are at work ere it can be recommended as salutary to the Invalid or Convalescent, and to European residents in particular, so as to utilise the Hill as a cool retreat from the heat of the plains.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons accompanying it are, under the 19th of the Rules for the Conduct of Business at Meetings of the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations, published for general information by order of His Excellency the Governor General :—

A Bill to regulate the administration of Civil and Criminal Justice, and the superintendence of Police and Conservancy within the limits of Military Cantonments.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make provision for regulating the administration of Civil and Criminal Justice and the superintendence of Police and Conservancy within the limits of Military Cantonments in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal, and for laying down local Rules and Regulations to be enforced within such limits; It is enacted as follows :—

Criminal jurisdiction of a Cantonment Magistrate.

I. When any person shall be invested with the powers of a Magistrate within the limits of any Military Cantonment who is not the Magistrate of the District in which such Cantonment is situate, such person shall be styled the Cantonment Magistrate, and within the limits of such Cantonment shall, subject to the control of the Magistrate of the District in which such Cantonment is situate, exercise the powers of a Magistrate under the Code of Criminal Procedure as defined in the said Code, for the purpose of disposing of all cases arising within such Cantonment which the Magistrate of a District may dispose of, and for the commitment for trial before the Court of Session of the District or place in which such Cantonment is situate, of any person charged with any offence which a Magistrate is not competent to try, or for which the person charged shall appear to deserve a more severe sentence than a Magistrate is competent under the said Code of Criminal Procedure to award.

Appeal.

II. The sentences and orders passed by a Cantonment Magistrate under the preceding Section shall be open to appeal to the Court of Session of the District or place in which such Cantonment is situate, under the Rules contained in the said Code of Criminal Procedure in respect of appeals from sentences and orders passed by the Magistrate of a District.

Commitments and appeals in Non-Regulation Provinces.

III. In the Territories not subject to the general Regulations of the Bengal Code, the commitments made by such Cantonment Magistrate shall be made to such Court as shall in such Territories exercise the powers of a Court of Session as defined in the said Code of Criminal Procedure, and appeals from the sentences or orders of Cantonment Magistrates in such Territories shall lie to such Court. Provided that, if any person be invested with the powers of a Cantonment Magistrate within the limits of any Cantonment situated in any District or place in which there is no person exercising the powers of a Court of Session, the Governor-General in Council may direct that the commitments made, and the appeals from the sentences and orders passed, by such Cantonment Magistrate shall be heard and determined by the Court of Session nearest to such Cantonment, and such commitments and appeals shall be heard and determined by such Court in the same manner as if the commitments had been made, or the sentences or orders appealed from had been passed, by a Magistrate within the jurisdiction of such Court of Session.

Proviso.

Sentences of Court of Session open to appeal to, or revision by, highest local Court of Criminal appeal.

IV. The sentences and orders passed by a Court of Session, or by a Court exercising the powers of a Court of Session under the last preceding Section, shall be open to appeal or reference to, or shall be subject to revision by, the highest Court of Criminal appeal in the Territory or place in which the said Court of Session or Court exercising the powers of a Court of Session is situated under the rules contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, in the same manner as other sentences and orders passed by such Court are open to appeal or reference to, or are subject to revision by, the said highest Court of Criminal Appeal.

Civil jurisdiction of Cantonment Magistrates

V. Act III of 1859 (for conferring Civil jurisdiction in certain cases upon Cantonment Joint Magistrates, and for constituting those Officers Registers of Deeds) shall apply to Cantonment Magistrates appointed under this Act, in the same manner as if Cantonment Magistrates had been expressly named in all places in the said Act III of 1859, in connection with "Cantonment Joint Magistrates," "Joint Magistrates of any Military Bazar or Station" and "Joint Magistrates."

Police Jurisdiction of Cantonment Magistrates.

VI. The Cantonment Magistrate shall, within the limits of the Cantonment to which he is appointed, exercise in subordination to the Inspector-General of Police appointed under Act V of 1861 (for the Regulation of Police) all the powers which are vested by the said Act in a District Superintendent of Police, and shall in all Police proceedings be subject to the general control and direction of the Commanding Officer of such Cantonment, in like manner as the District Superintendent is, under Section IV of the said Act, subject to the general control and direction of the Magistrate of the District.

Service and execution through Cantonment Magistrate, of process issued by Commanding Officers.

VII. The Commanding Officer of a Cantonment may send any process requiring service or execution by any means not immediately at his disposal, to the Cantonment Magistrate, for service or execution through the Cantonment Police, and it shall be the duty of the Cantonment Magistrate to serve or execute such process in the same manner as if it had been issued by himself and subject to the same rules.

Local Government may extend Act XX of 1856 to any Military Cantonment

VIII. It shall be lawful for the local Governments to extend the provisions of Act XX of 1856 (to make better provision for the appointment and maintenance of Police Chowkeydars in Cities, Towns, Stations, Suburbs, and Bazars, in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal) to any Military Cantonment subject to such Governments respectively, and when the provisions of the said Act have been so extended to any Military Cantonment, and a Cantonment Magistrate has been appointed in such Cantonment, all the powers vested in a Magistrate by that Act shall be exercised by the Cantonment Magistrate, subject only to the control of the Magistrate of the District and the local Government. If there be no Cantonment Magistrate, the Magistrate of the District shall carry out the provisions of the said Act in the same manner as if such Cantonment formed a part of his ordinary jurisdiction. Provided that it shall be lawful for the local Government to order that the said Military Cantonment be divided into any number of Cantonment divisions, and to determine the nature of the tax to be levied in each such division according to Section X of the said Act. Provided also that the local Government may lay down rules for the guidance of the Cantonment Magistrate or the Magistrate as aforesaid with regard to the expenditure of the surplus funds described in Section XXXVI of the said Act, and that such funds may be expended for the purpose of carrying out any measures under any of the Rules and Regulations passed under Section X of this Act in addition to the purposes described in the said Section XXXVI of Act XX of 1856.

And may order division of Cantonments, &c.

Also lay down rules for guidance.

Parts of certain Regulations to cease to have effect where Cantonment Magistrates exercise jurisdiction under this Act.

IX. From the time when a Cantonment Magistrate shall begin to exercise jurisdiction under this Act, Sections II and III Regulation III. 1809 of the Bengal Code (for the support of the Police in the Cantonments and Military Bazars; for defining the powers of the Civil and Military Officers in the performance of that duty; and for fixing the local limits of the said Cantonments and Bazars), so much of Section XII Regulation XX. 1810 of the said Code (for subjecting persons attached to the Military Establishments to Martial law in certain cases, and for the better Government of the retainers and dependants of the Army receiving public pay on fixed establishments, and of persons seeking a livelihood by supplying the Troops in Garrison, Cantonment, and Station Military Bazars, or attached to Bazars of Corps), as declares that the persons therein mentioned shall be liable to be tried by a Native Court Martial for the offence stated; and Sections XIII, XIV, XV, XVI, XVII, XVIII, and XXI of the said Regulation shall cease to have any effect in such Cantonment.

Rules and Regulations to provide for certain matters specified.

X. The local Government shall have power to make Rules and Regulations not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, or of any other law in force, to provide within the limits of any Military Cantonment for the matters hereinafter mentioned, and from time to time to repeal, alter, or amend such Rules and Regulations. No such Rule or Regulation or any alteration thereof shall have effect until the same shall have been confirmed by the Government of India, and such Rules and Regulations when so confirmed shall be published in the Official Gazette, and a copy thereof in English and in the Vernacular language chiefly in use shall be hung up in some conspicuous part of the Office of the Cantonment Magistrate, or in such other place as the local Government or the Commanding Officer may direct. The Rules and Regulations passed under this Section may provide.

1*st*.—For regulating, in cases in which the land within the limits of the Cantonment is the property of Government, and the occupation and use of which by private persons is only permissive, the conditions under which such occupation or use shall be allowed, and under which the Government may resume possession of such land, and under which compensation shall be given to persons occupying or using the land so resumed.

2*nd*.—For maintaining proper registers of property within the limits of the Cantonment, and for providing for the registration of transfers of such property.

3*rd*.—For regulating the manner in which houses within the limits of the Cantonment shall be claimable for purchase or hire, when necessary, for the accommodation of Military Officers.

4*th*.—For regulating the management and expenditure of any funds made available by law or by the Government for the purpose of public improvements within the limits of the Cantonment, or for carrying out any Rules and Regulations passed under this Section and the appointment of the necessary servants and establishments.

5th.—For the definition and prohibition of public nuisances.

6th.—For the maintenance generally of the Cantonment in a proper sanitary condition; for the prevention and cure of disease; for the management and regulation of the public roads, of conservancy and drainage; for the regulation and inspection of public and private necessaries, urinals, cess-pools, drains, and all places in which filth or rubbish is deposited; of slaughter-houses, public markets, houses of ill-fame, burial and burning grounds, and of all offensive or dangerous trades and occupations.

7th.—For the supervision and regulation of public wells, tanks, springs or other sources from which water is or may be made available for public use.

8th.—For the execution and promotion of works of public utility and convenience.

9th.—For the registration of deaths, and for making and recording observations and facts important for the public health and interests.

10th.—For the imposition of penalties on persons convicted of the breach of any Rule or Regulation passed under this Section, and for prescribing the manner in which offences under such Rules and Regulations shall be inquired into or be cognizable by any public servant. Provided that no such penalty shall exceed a fine of fifty Rupees, or imprisonment exceeding eight days.

Trial of offences under such Rules and Regulations.

Levy of fines imposed

XII. In every case in which an offender is sentenced to a fine for any offence against any such Rule or Regulation, the amount may, in case of non-payment, be levied by distress and sale of any moveable property of the offender which may be found within the limits of the Cantonment.

Imprisonment in case of amount not being recoverable as above.

XIII. If no such property sufficient for the payment of the fine can be found, the offender, provided he is not a European British subject, shall be liable to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding one month.

Levy of fines in case of European British subjects.

XIV. If the offender be a European British subject, the amount of the fine and the costs, if any, shall be levied in the manner provided for the execution of Decrees of the Civil Court.

Prosecutions, &c., under other Regulations, &c., not barred by this Act.

XV. Nothing in this Act, nor in any Rule or Regulation passed under Section X of this Act, shall prevent any person from being prosecuted under any other Regulation or Act for any offence punishable under this Act, or from being liable under any other Regulation or Act to any other or higher penalty or punishment than is provided for such offence by this Act. Provided that no person shall be punished twice for the same offence.

Courts, &c., to take judicial notice of Rules passed under this Act.

XVI. All Courts and Magistrates shall take judicial notice of all Rules and Regulations passed under Section X of this Act, when the same shall have been confirmed and published as aforesaid.

Effect of Rules, &c., passed under Section X of this Act in respect of Regulations, &c., previously in force.

XVII. Whenever, in any Military Cantonment, Rules and Regulations have been laid down under Section X of this Act, so much of Regulation XX. of 1810, and of any other Regulation or Act as may be held to empower the Commanding Officer to make local Regulations regarding matters other than Military, shall cease to have any effect in such Cantonment, and all local Regulations for any Military Cantonment which may have been made before the promulgation of the Rules and Regulations passed under Section X of this Act, shall cease to have any effect. Provided that nothing in this Section shall be held to interfere with any Military authority vested in the said Commanding Officer.

Proviso.

Act not to interfere with jurisdiction of Courts Martial, &c.

XVIII. Nothing in this Act shall interfere with the jurisdiction of Courts Martial, or of Commanding Officers of Cantonments or of Regiments, Corps, or Detachments under Act XXIX of 1861, (to consolidate and amend the Articles of War for the Government of the Native Officers and Soldiers in Her Majesty's Indian Army) or under Act V of 1863 (to amend the said Act XXIX of 1861), or with the provisions of any Statute for punishing mutiny and desertion of Officers and Soldiers in the service of Her Majesty in the East Indies, and the Cantonment Magistrate shall exercise no jurisdiction in respect of such offences. Provided that when a Cantonment Magistrate or other Officer not being the Commanding Officer shall have been vested by the local Government with power within the limits of any Military Cantonment to dispose of cases under any Rule or Regulation passed under Section X of this Act, it shall not be competent to the Commanding Officer to exercise the powers described in Article 84 of the said Act XXIX of 1861 in respect of any case arising under such Rule or Regulation, when such Rules and Regulations have been passed for such Cantonment under Section X of this Act, and penalties shall have been laid down for their infringement; the said Rules and Regulations shall be held to be the Rules and Regulations mentioned in the said Article 84 of the said Act XXIX of 1861, and so much of the said Article as declares the penalties which may be inflicted for breach of Cantonment Regulations, shall cease from that time to have any effect in such Cantonment.

Proviso.

XIX. The local Government may appoint any person to be a subordinate Cantonment Magistrate, and may authorize him to exercise within the limits of any Military Cantonment the powers of a subordinate Magistrate of the 1st or 2nd Class, as defined in the Code of Criminal Procedure, and may invest him with power to try any offences against any Rule or Regulation passed under Section X of this Act. Such subordinate Cantonment Magistrate shall be subject to the Rules laid down for subordinate Magistrates in the Code of Criminal Procedure. Provided that when a Cantonment Magistrate has been appointed in any such Cantonment, the Cantonment Magistrate shall exercise, with respect to such subordinate Cantonment Magistrate, all the powers which, under the Code of Criminal Procedure, are exercised by the Magistrate of a District with respect to a subordinate Magistrate, and sentences and orders passed by such subordinate Cantonment Magistrate shall be open to appeal to the Cantonment Magistrate in the same manner in which, under the said Code, appeals may be made to the Magistrate of a District. If there shall be no Cantonment Magistrate, such subordinate Cantonment Magistrate shall be subject to the control of the Magistrate of the District in the same manner as a subordinate Magistrate under the Code of Criminal Procedure. Provided that such subordinate Cantonment Magistrate shall not be subject to the control of the Magistrate of the District in respect to any cases arising under any Rule or Regulation passed under Section X of this Act.

Appointment and powers of subordinate Cantonment Magistrates.

Proviso.

XX. The Commissioner of the Division in which any Military Cantonment may be situated, when such Officer exists, shall have no power to interfere with the exercise in the said Cantonment of any powers exercised by any Officer under the provisions of this Act. Provided that nothing in this Section shall affect the authority exercised by a Commissioner under Act XXI of 1856 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Abkaree Revenue in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal), or under any other law in force for the control and direction of Officers having charge of the Abkaree Revenue.

Commissioners not competent to interfere with exercise of powers under this Act.

Proviso.

XXI. All acts done previously to the passing of this Act by Cantonment Joint Magistrates, or by persons acting under their authority or otherwise, in any Military Cantonment, in pursuance of an order of Government, or which shall have been or shall be ratified by the Executive Government, are hereby confirmed and made valid; and all such Officers and persons as aforesaid are hereby indemnified and discharged from liability in respect of such acts.

Acts done by Cantonment Magistrates before passing of this Act legalized.

XXII. This Act shall extend only to the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal, but the provisions of the Act may be extended by order of the Governor-General in Council to any place administered by a Chief Commissioner, or Agent to the Governor-General, under the orders of the Supreme Government, or by order of the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, or of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Punjab, to any part of the Territories under their Governments, respectively, not within the said Presidency, or by order of the Governor-General in Council to any place in India not within any of the Presidencies of Fort William in Bengal, Fort St. George, or Bombay, or not under the local Governments of those Presidencies, respectively, or of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, the North-Western Provinces, or the Punjab, in which British Troops are cantoned. Every order issued under this Section shall be published in the Official Gazette.

Extension of Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE late Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces, in a communication dated 10th of January 1862, brought to the notice of the Supreme Government the unsatisfactory condition of the Law respecting the office of Cantonment Joint Magistrate, and with a view to its amendment, made several proposals, the chief of which follow:—

1*st*. That the appointment of Cantonment Joint Magistrate should be constituted by express authority of Law.

2*nd*. That the Cantonment Police should be under the Cantonment Joint Magistrate, but that, in respect of Police matters, that Officer should stand in the same relation to the Commanding Officer of the Cantonment in which the District Superintendent of Police is declared by Section IV Act V of 1861 to stand to the Magistrate of the District:—explained by His Honor to mean, that the Cantonment Joint Magistrate should be subject in all his Police proceedings to the direction and control of the Commanding Officer of the Cantonment, but that he should be departmentally subordinate to the Inspector-General of Police, in the same manner in which the District Superintendent is subordinate to that Officer.

3*rd*. That the Cantonment Joint Magistrate should, subject to the supervision of the Commanding Officer of the Cantonment, have jurisdiction in petty cases, for the trial of which Regulation XX. of 1810 provides through the instrumentality of Courts Martial.

4*th*. That the Cantonment Joint Magistrate should, in subordination to the Magistrate of the District, hold the preliminary investigation in heinous cases arising within the limits of the Cantonment in which he holds his office, and either commit the accused persons to the Sessions, or, when the alleged offences are within the competency of the Magistrate of the District to try, dispose of the case himself.

The late Mr. Ritchie having been of opinion that some legislation was called for, and that several of the recommendations of the late Lieutenant-Governor might be advantageously adopted, a draft Bill was subsequently prepared by the Hon'ble Mr. Harington, embodying these suggestions, and was submitted to His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, and to the Government of India in the Military Department. That Bill has since been re-considered with a view to making it applicable to a variety of matters requiring regulation within Military Cantonments, and the present Bill, though embodying many of the provisions of the former one, may be regarded as substantially new.

As now drawn, the Bill substitutes the designation "Cantonment Magistrate" for "Cantonment Joint Magistrate," and by this alteration, certain legal difficulties connected with the manner in which the office has heretofore been constituted and occupied will, it is thought, be got rid of. In its earlier Sections, the Bill defines the jurisdiction of the Cantonment Magistrate.

Section I describes the Judicial powers of a Cantonment Magistrate; and Section II gives an appeal from his sentences and orders to the Court of Session of the District or place in which the Cantonment is situated.

Section III is framed to meet the case of Cantonments situated in Non-Regulation Provinces, or places in which there are no persons exercising the powers of a Court of Session; and Section IV provides that sentences and orders passed by a Court of Session, or a Court acting under the last preceding Section, shall be open to appeal or revision.

Section V constitutes Cantonment Magistrates Registers of Deeds; and Section VI provides for their exercising the powers vested in the District Superintendent of Police, under the general direction and control of the Commanding Officer of the Cantonment, in the same manner in which a District Superintendent is ordinarily controlled by the Magistrate of the District. The Commanding Officer is empowered by Section VII to have process served and executed in certain cases through the agency of the Cantonment Magistrate; and Section VIII enables the local Governments to extend to Military Cantonments the provisions of Act XX of 1856

Sections X to XVII permit the local Government to make Rules on certain subjects which urgently require regulation within Military Cantonments, and they provide the means, and prescribe the manner, of carrying these rules into operation. Considerations of sanitary reform led originally to the preparation of these Sections, but the opportunity has been taken to give the local Government power to regulate other matters on which rules are much needed,—e. g.—the resumption of Government land occupied by individuals, the acquisition of houses for Officers' quarters, and the transfer of property generally.

Section XVIII is intended to save all strictly Military Authority, and to prevent any conflict of jurisdiction between the Commanding Officer and the Cantonment Magistrate; and Section XX prevents the Commissioner of the Division from interfering with the Cantonment Magistrate when exercising his powers under this Act. Section XIX permits the appointment of Subordinate Cantonment Magistrates.

In consequence of the supposed legal difficulties mentioned above, it has been thought desirable to give validity in Section XXI to all past acts of Cantonment Joint Magistrates.

The measure applies primarily to the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal, but may be extended to other Territories by their Governments.

No. 66A. of 1863.—His Excellency the Governor General is pleased to appoint Captain John Shand, Officiating Second in Command and Adjutant, 1st Infantry, Hyderabad Contingent, to officiate as Commandant during the absence of Captain Fagan on Medical Certificate, or until further orders.

Simla, the 22nd May 1863.

No. 67A. of 1863.—His Excellency the Governor General is pleased to promote Soobhan Khan, Bahadoor, Ressaldar, 13th Bengal Cavalry, and formerly of the 3rd Bengal Irregular Cavalry, from the Second to the First Class of the Order of British India with the title of "Sirdar Bahadoor," as an additional reward for his distinguished services during the Mutiny.

No. 68A. of 1863.—His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor General of India having decided that the Home system of District and Station Artillery Commands shall, as far as practicable, henceforward obtain in India in supersession of the present system, the following Rules are laid down for observance at the three Presidencies, and will take effect from the respective dates on which the provisions of this order may be carried out at the several Stations.

2. The Artillery serving in each Division and separate District of the Army will comprise an Artillery Divisional or District Command.

3. The Head-Quarters of only one Brigade of Artillery will be located in each Division or District, and the Artillery Command of the Division or District will be exercised by the Officer Commanding the Artillery Brigade without extra emolument.

4. When it shall happen that in any Army Division or separate District there shall not be the Head-Quarters of any Brigade of Artillery, then the Artillery Divisional or District Command will be held by a selected Field Officer, who will receive a Command allowance of Rupees (300) three hundred when the strength of the Artillery under his Command shall equal three Batteries, and an allowance of Rupees (200) two hundred when the Artillery shall consist of two Batteries.

These rates of Command allowance will be granted whether the Batteries are or are not of the same Brigade.

5. Officers Commanding Artillery in Divisions or separate Districts will be responsible for the efficient condition of all the Artillery within the Command, and will ordinarily be required to inspect every Battery once during each half-year, under such instructions as may be issued by the Commander-in-Chief.

6. During their inspections travelling allowance at the usual rate* will be admitted to Divisional or District Commanders, and also to their Staff Officers if the Commander-in-Chief shall direct that the Divisional or District Adjutants shall accompany their Commanding Officers on these occasions.

* By Dâk 8 annas a mile.
By Rail 3 annas a mile.

7. It is to be distinctly understood that during the absence of the Commander and his Staff from the Head-Quarters of the Division or District no extra expense will be sanctioned on account of Command or any other allowances.

8. The Adjutants of Brigades will perform also the Divisional of District duties, receiving an extra allowance of Rupees (20) twenty per mensem.

9. When there is no Brigade Adjutant available the Adjutant performing the Divisional or District duties will receive Rupees (181-5) one hundred and eighty-one and five annas per mensem, and this allowance will be passed when the strength of the Artillery in the Command shall equal two Batteries.

10. In the event of there being only one Battery or less than two Batteries serving in any Division or District of the Army, no Command allowance or Staff allowance for an Adjutant will be sanctioned.

11. Officers Commanding Artillery Divisions or Districts will ordinarily, twice in each year, inspect the Arsenals, Magazines, and Ordnance Depôts, and also the Ordnance Mounted in any Forts situated within their Commands.

They will, however, have no authority over Officers of the Ordnance Department, and their duty will be confined to reporting any deficiencies for the information of the Commander-in-Chief.

His Excellency will, if considered necessary, bring the points reported upon under the notice of the Government.

12. The Artillery at each Garrison, not being the Head-Quarters of a Divisional or District Command, will be commanded by the Senior Officer, and his Command will be designated an Artillery Station Command.

13. If the Command shall consist of two or more Batteries not of the same Brigade, a Command allowance of Rupees (200) two hundred a month will be granted.

This allowance is only admissible to a Regimental Field Officer.

14. If the Batteries at any such Garrison shall belong to the same Brigade, the Station Artillery Command will be exercised by the Senior Regimental Officer of whatever rank, and no remuneration will be granted.

15. When the strength of an Artillery Station Command shall equal two Batteries, whether of the same Brigade or not, an Adjutant will be allowed with a Staff salary of Rupees (60) sixty, and Office allowance Rupees (30) thirty, as also an allowance Rupees (30) thirty, for one horse if not already in receipt of Horse allowance.

No. 69A. of 1863.—The services of Lieutenant A. J. C. Cunningham, Royal Engineers, at present with the Sappers and Miners, are placed at the disposal of the Public Works Department with the Governor General.

Simla, the 23rd May 1863.

No. 70A. of 1863.—The name of Lieutenant M. H. L. Harris, of the 11th Regiment Madras Native Infantry, was through misapprehension submitted to Government in the List of Officers of the Madras Army who volunteered unconditionally for General Service in one of the new Line Regiments. He was accordingly appointed to Her Majesty's 108th Regiment.

It having since been brought to notice that Lieutenant Harris volunteered for "General Service" under a misunderstanding, but on the express and declared proviso that by so doing he should not be removed from the Regiment to which he at the time belonged, Her Majesty has been pleased to permit Lieutenant Harris to withdraw from the 108th Regiment.

He will accordingly revert to his proper position in the 11th Regiment Madras Native Infantry.

H. W. Norman, Lieut.-Col.,
Secretary to the Govt. of India, with the Governor General.

Government of Madras.

Report on the condition of the Hill Zemindaries.

From D. F CARMICHAEL, Esq., Acting Agent to the Governor, Vizagapatam, to the HON'BLE H. A. ARBUTHNOT, Chief Secretary to Government, Fort St. George,—(dated Vizagapatam, the 31st March 1863.)

Report on Tour. Condition of Hill Zemindaries.—I set out on my tour to the Hill Zemindaries and Jeypore on the 1st December, and returned to Vizagapatam on the 7th March instant. I was accompanied throughout by Major Buck, Superintendent of Police.

The whole of December was devoted to the Hill Zemindaries and I proceed to speak of them first. They are all in a highly prosperous condition. The export trade at Bimlipatam and Calingapatam has probably doubled the land under cultivation in the course of the last thirty years. The whole country to the foot of the ghauts is one sheet of cultivation, not only paddy fields, but considerable gardens of sugar-cane and tobacco. I met with no complaints; the Ryots seem on the best terms with the ancient Zemindars. It is only in the south of the District where one or two estates have fallen into the hands of money lenders and usurers that any thing like a general ill-feeling prevails between the landlord and tenant.

2. The Zemindars themselves.—The Zemindars still indulge in much feudal pomp in their retinues, but they no longer shut themselves up in their fortresses. These ancient buildings are either entirely deserted, or converted into commodious substantial modern houses. Some of the Chiefs succeeded to their estates as minors and were brought down to Vizagapatam to be trained up under the eye of the Governor's Agent. These all speak English after a fashion, and mention with unfailing gratitude the personal kindness of an Arbuthnot, a Smollett, and a Robertson. I wish I could see them solicitous to secure an English education for their sons. I stirred them up to this end and extracted some promises; Government are aware that there is an excellent Anglo-Vernacular School at Vizagapatam, supported by the Native gentry of the District, with a Grant-in-aid from Government and under the management of a Committee of Hindus.

3. Exceptional case in Panchipenta.—The only notable exception to the good condition of the Zemindaries is the Panchipenta Estate, which, I fear, will shortly be brought to the hammer. On succeeding to the estate, now more than twelve years since, the proprietor neglected to resume or to assess with a suitable quit-rent the numerous villages granted on service tenure by his father; and having thus slept on his rights for a period beyond the statute he is left without remedy. Moreover, Government has recently directed the discontinuance of the transit Duty heretofore illegally, but with their implied sanction, collected on traders passing through his country to and from the coast by this Zemindar, and he is reduced to great straits. I assembled his retainers and pointed out to them that the ruin of their Chief would entail their own, a sale for arrears of tribute of course cancelling all tenancies of this kind created after the permanent settlement; and that it would be for their own benefit to contribute a moderate rent for their lands and so keep the Zemindar afloat. If they give no heed to this advice the estate will certainly be attached to their immediate ruin, and a similar fate would befall them should a casualty in the ownership of the Zemindary occur in the ordinary course of nature.

4. State of the roads.—Carts can travel to most leading towns in the Hill Zemindaries, but with very great difficulty. Happily there is an excellent road, with a maintenance allowance of of Rupees 100 a mile, from Parvatipur, through Palconda, to Chicacole and Calingapatam. What is wanted is a road to connect Parvatipur with Vizianagrum, from which last mentioned place the road is good to Bimlipatam and Vizagapatam. As we are superseding the Salt pans of Konada and Kuppili by one large one to be constructed at Bimlipatam, it seems important to improve the upper portions of this road which is certainly the main line of the District.

5. Palconda.—After making the tour of the Hill Estates I went to Palconda, which is flourishing in the hands of the lessees, Arbuthnot and Company, and passed through the Sitampéta Ghaut into Parla Kimedy of Ganjam, which from Palconda was my shortest route to Gunapur.

6. Importance of Sitampéta Ghaut.—This is a very important ghaut, connecting Kimedy with Palconda. An excellent road, made at the expense of the Parla Kimedy Estate, runs at right angles to it from the Ganjam Coast to Buttelee, and if the track for carts passing through this ghaut to and from Palconda could be improved into a tolerable road the present traffic would be enormously enhanced. In 1835, after the disturbances, and before the Palconda Estate was leased out to the Messrs. Arbuthnot, four and twenty of the neighbouring Mokhasadars contracted with the Collector to clear the jungle on each side of the road; they were to enjoy the clearings free for five years and then to hold the land on a favorable quit-rent. This was done and the ghaut has long ceased to be dangerous either from wild beasts or robbers. The traffic is very great, as, with the exception of the coast line, it is the only communication between this and the Ganjam District. But the line is entirely unmade, and a very great development of traffic would attend a very slight outlay for an improved road.

7. Gunapur of Jeypore. Rajah's debts.—At Gunapur I was principally engaged in making arrangements with the registered creditors of the Jeypore Rajah, who mostly reside at this place. After some little negociation the great majority came forward and assented to eight annas in the Rupee. The claims of twenty-five creditors, amounting to Rupees 21,500-12-9, were thus settled for Rupees 10,750-6-4. Eight creditors, with a demand of Rupees 11,622-12-6, held out for better terms, but I saw no reason to accede to them. Many other claims were preferred, but we must draw a line somewhere, and I decided not to concern myself with unregistered claim, it being open to the parties, as well of course to the dissenting registered creditors, to prosecute their demands in any competent Court.

8. The Soura Tribes near Gunapur.—At Gunapur I heard great complaints of the thievish habits of the Soura tribes on the Hills dividing Gunapur from Pedda Kimedy. They are not dacoits, but very expert burglars, if the term can be applied to digging a hole in the night through a mud wall. If discovered and hard pressed they do not hesitate to discharge their arrows, which they do with unerring aim, and always with fatal result. Three or four murders have been perpetrated by these people in this way since the country has been under our management. I arranged with the Superintendent of Police to station a party of the armed Reserve in the ghaut leading to the Soura country. One or two cases of seizure and conviction will suffice to put a check to the crime.

9. Aspect of country beyond Gunapur.—North of the five Taluqs to which Gunapur gives its name, and which have been managed by this Agency, on account of the lawless state of the country since 1855, the Jeypore territories extend for some fifty miles; but the Rajah, though universally acknowledged as the Suzeram, has not always the direct control. Exclusive of large tracts occupied by independent and semi-independent Khonds, the country is divided between three powerful Chiefs, one at Godairy, another at Bissemcuttack, and the third at Singapore.

10. The Khond Districts. First Sirdarpur.—This Agency was informed by Captain McNeill that there are seven Khond Mootahs in Jeypore addicted to human sacrifice. They are noted in the margin, and we visited them in the order indicated.

Starting from Gunapur we made two marches to Sirdarpur. This will be found in No. 107, Trigonometrical Survey Map, lying about twenty miles north-east of Gunapur. For fifteen miles our road lay through a fertile, well cultivated valley; after that we had heavy jungle on either side, and found our tents pitched near the village of Sirdarpur by the side of a most unwholesome looking pool, the only water in the place, and common alike therefore to elephants, horses, bullocks, and men. All around were lofty hills covered with dense jungle. We left this village on the second day after an interview with the neighbouring Khonds and passed on to Godairy, distant some twelve miles north north-west; road bad, and jungle heavy all the way. About a mile from Sirdarpur we marked down a very suitable halting place near the village of Komúrigudda, where we determined to encamp next year.

11. Second Godairy.—Godairy is a very different place. It was first visited by Colonel Campbell some twelve years ago, and, being very central as well as tolerably healthy, it was at once selected by him as a permanent station for a portion of his force. He appropriated some three or four acres of ground near the village, which is a large place on the banks of the main stream of the Bonsadhara River, with supplies of all kinds available; and there he constructed a Guard-house, a small one-roomed Bungalow for the occasional visits of an Officer, with other conveniences. We left a guard of Sebundy here consisting of 1 Havildar, 2 Naiques, and 12 Privates, which will keep a constant surveillance over the surrounding country. It is an excellent situation. Being within two marches of Gunapur with an open country between it can readily be reached from that place, which will be the head-quarters of the armed Reserve in these parts, and is as easily accessible to the Agent or his Assistants from the other side of the ghaut.

12. Description of Godairy Taluq.—The Godairy Chief is a member of the Rajah's family. His father was the brother of the present Rajah's grandfather, who granted this brother two very extensive Taluqs, Godairy and Nowrungapoor, in Jeypore proper, both free of quit-rent. Sri-Chaitan Deo, the present Chief, as the eldest member of the Jeypore family, now living, is treated with universal respect. He is between 50 and 60 years old, possessed of considerable intelligence, and with a character marked with but few of the vices characteristic of his class.

From the information given to me by his Managers it appears that the Godairy Taluq, comprising the four Muttas of Deppagudda, Navera, Jalanidhi, and Burukudu, consists of seventy-six villages, seventy of which are assessed to the revenue, three held free by Brahmins, one dedicated to a Temple, and two in the enjoyment of the Chieftain's relatives. His income from these lands comes to Rupees 5,850 a year in money, besides 21 garces of grain. Over and above these seventy villages there are as many more of independent Khonds. The villages are rented for three or five years to one of the principal Ryots; and the renter, whoever he is, is always considered the Patro or Maggi (headman) of the village, performing the duties without extra emoluments of any kind. The office is frequently held for generations by the same family, for there is a disposition not to disturb those once in if it can be avoided. Each village, too, has its serf or vetty, but in very few cases is there any land attached to the office, which is remunerated by fees in grain by the general community.

13. The Mohturfa still collected.—The morning after my arrival at Godairy I luckily fell in with some Telugu traders, who have been adventurous enough to establish themselves in these Hills, and obtained a great deal of information from them. They complained bitterly of the continued existence of the Mohturfa Tax. 'We understand,' they said, "that it has been abolished throughout the Vizagapatam District, and even in the Gunupuran Taluqs of Jeypore held under attachment by the Sirkar. In short, the beams of Sri Koompanee's sun have shone in every place, but not in these highlands." It appears that the privileges of retailing salt, oil, and tobacco by sale are yearly put up to public auction, and the system is extended to such petty articles as beads (which are highly prized by the Khonds and lower classes generally) and metal dishes. There is also a house tax on traders and an annual levy of eight annas on every pack bullock. The licensed dealer in salt pays as much as Rupees 250 per annum, and the other sums are in proportion. Persons venturing to sell these commodities without a license are fined, and harassed in a variety of ways familiar to those parts of India, where the sun of 'Sri Koompanee' has never shone.

14. At once prohibited by Governor's Agent.—I immediately wrote to Chaitan Deo prohibiting the collection of these exactions in future; and I further proclaimed them to be at an end by beat of tom-tom in the bazars of Godairy. I also took measures to establish a weekly fair at that place, to be held in a tope adjacent to the Bungalow and Guard-houses constructed by Officers of the Meriah Agency, which will now be occupied by a small party, the armed Reserve of the Vizagapatam Police Force. The practice of holding fairs is universal in the District, but has been discouraged here by the local Chief for obvious reasons connected with the illegal measures of finance above described.

15. From Godairy to third Khond District, Bijipur.—The Godairy Muttah contains a considerable Khond population. We devoted three days to interviews with the headmen and others from these villages, and then passed on to Bijipur, north north-east, distant two marches. Soon after leaving Godairy we ascended an inconsiderable ghaut, at the foot of which lay a fine valley perhaps four miles long. After this the road was bad and jungle heavy up to Ponkála, our first stage. From Ponkála to Bijipur it is almost one dense unbroken tree* jungle; my companion, Major Buck, who served many years in Central India, observed that he had seen nothing like it in the Nermal jungles or in the forests of the Nerbudda. But bad as it is, it is not so bad as the ghauts and jungle between Godairy and Rayabiji and between the latter place and Bijipur, if we may trust the account given by some of our party, who, from one of those mistakes which always occur at the outset of undertakings like this, were taken by the guides straight off from Godairy to Rayabija instead of to Bijipur.

* Sal,

16. Shyness of Khonds.—Bijipur is the centre of a Muttah of nine Khond villages, and is included in the Godairy Taluq belonging to Chaitan Deo. At this and other places on our route, at which the Meriah Agency annually halted for a few days, we found a great difference in the bearing of the Khonds. They seemed glad, or at any rate not averse to see us, and readily furnished us with straw, firewood, &c., on payment. Nor was there displayed any timidity in visiting us in large parties at these central places. But if, as occasionally happened, we halted for a few hours at any other place, the village was instantly deserted. Not a human being nor a single head of cattle remained. For the consternation we created we might have been the advancing column of a hostile force. The same if we came across a party of Khonds in the jungle, they ran off into the forest like startled deer. This is incidental perhaps to the disposition of savages; but after years of friendly intercourse it does wear a somewhat disheartening appearance.

17. Our mode with them.—Our mode with the Khonds was this:—We invited all comers to our tents and, after inquiring with interest after the state of the crops and the health of their children and cattle, examined them strictly with regard to the practice of Meriah. They all declared with great apparent sincerity that they had utterly abjured and renounced the rite, offering animal sacrifices in its place, and that not a single human being had been immolated for upwards of ten years. We enjoined them to continue true to their pledges, and then distributing a little cloth, tobacco, some strings of beads, and a few Rupees, dismissed them to their villages.

18. Meriah discontinued for many years.—I am of opinion that their statement as to the discontinuance of the Meriah, endorsed as it is by the universal testimony of all intelligent men whom I have enquired of in these parts, may be safely accepted as true. Colonel Campbell, indeed, declared the practice to have ceased amongst the Jeypore Khonds in his Report for the season of 1853. He, however, at the same time strongly advocated the system of yearly visitations by the European Officers of Government, and it would appear from the latest Report of the last Special Agent that this periodical supervision is no less necessary now than then. I quote his language in the margin.

"After ten consecutive years of intercourse with all these tribes it is my confirmed opinion that, if the same degree of surveillance be not kept up, they will without fail revert to human sacrifices, and that no unaided efforts on the part of any subordinates or even of the Rajah will be able to prevent it. Personal influence and local knowledge, not only of the tribes, but of their language, will alone have any effect on the Khonds."

Captain McNeill, page 20 of Collection and Precis.

19. We cannot rival the local Agency Officers.—Now it cannot of course be expected that the Vizagapatam Agency, with its other manifold duties, can ever hope to rival the Officers of the late Meriah Agency either in the time they can afford to the supervision of the Khonds, or in the special acquirements which years of training, directed to one single end, were so well calculated to foster.

20. Their accomplishments as Linguists—These able, experienced, and truly devoted Officers found time, it is believed, to acquire, in some cases, a very thorough, in all, a very sufficient, knowledge both of the Uriya and of the Khond dialects. This we can hardly hope to do under the most favorable circumstances, and I own it was with extreme discomfort that I felt obliged to have recourse to interpreters everywhere at my side.

21. Time to try Roads, Fairs, &c.—If, then, after years of friendly and immediate intercourse with the Khond races, the Officers of the late Meriah Agency, in taking leave of them, have expressed a firm conviction that these people are not yet weaned from a hankering after this brutal rite, and are only restrained from its practice by the repeated and systematic visitation of European officials, it occurs to ask whether it would not be as well to try something else concurrently with the maintenance of these annual tours. It might be time now to try what can be done to civilize them by opening roads, clearing the jungle, establishing weekly fairs at all the principal villages in the Taluq, and the like. When an entire community are thrown into an ecstacy of happiness, and commence to dance for joy, as these amiable savages did before me at sight of a string of beads and (rarer still) a few yards of red cloth, articles readily procurable at the commonest Indian bazar, it might be good policy to take means to place such luxuries more universally within their reach, and so work as a lever for their civilization the 'expulsive force of a new affection.' If a sum of Rupees 2,000 could be placed at my disposal I would undertake to give a very good account of it by this time next year, so that we should no longer be constrained to go through the jungles in Indian file as at present.

22-3. Necessity of thorough annual visitations.—I trust the Government will please to give orders that every one of these seven Khond Muttahs of Jeypore be yearly visited by the Governor's Agent or one of his Assistants. It is not more than can be accomplished in a few weeks. We cannot do more perhaps at present than visit the head-quarters of each Muttah and there invite the Khonds to a conference, but we should not do less than this. Even now many of the Khonds came from considerable distances, and if the Agent visits one or two Muttahs only the Khonds of the remaining Muttahs will certainly not come in, and being left without surveillance, a bad season or a murrain amongst their cattle will induce them once more to propitiate their gods with the blood of human victims.

24. Bijipur. Nine Khond hamlets.—Bijipur is under Chaitan Deo of Godairy. He has a Patro here, an Uriya peon, who superintends the nine Khond villages comprising the Muttah, each village paying a trifling annual tribute to the Patro, who again pays something to Chitan Deo.

25. Chandrapur, Fourth Khond District.—On leaving Bijipur we went one march to Chandrapur, lying due north. It is not marked in the Trigonometrical Survey Map, but its situation is just two miles below the large Khond village of Bandari, marked "Bundaree" in the map. In Scott's large Map of the Madras Presidency both Bundaree and the last place we visited, Bijipur, are erroneously placed outside the Jeypore boundary.

26. Description of Khond village and cultivation.—For the first three miles we passed through a level fertile country, with two or three villages here and there. I may here describe the appearance of a Khond village. It consists of two streets, each with a double row of huts. One is occupied by the Khonds, and the other by a class of people equivalent to our southern "Pariahs," called "Paidi," who are weavers by profession, supplying the Khonds for payments in grain with the coarse cloth worn by them. The huts are well built, the walls consisting of posts of timber placed close together and daubed with mud, and the roofs well thatched. In some cases the villages are stockaded, in others surrounded with a slighter protection of wattled bamboos. Within these enclosures, on one side the cattle are folded at night, and on the other the women and children raise vegetables, chillies, tobacco, and other garden produce. Outside, wherever a jungle stream is available, rice is grown; otherwise a level piece of forest is burnt, a fire being kindled at the root of every considerable tree and the brushwood cleared by the axe. The fires are not kept up longer than is necessary to destroy the bark of the tree, which is then left to its fate, and cultivation is immediately commenced. In these places we principally saw dholl and the castor oil plant, and occasionally patches of cotton, of which, it appears, each Khond grows enough for his own household. After the lapse of a few years, when the soil shews symptoms of exhaustion, a fresh site is selected for clearing, and jungle once more covers the first.

27. Route to Chandrapur.—After passing the village of Khillidi, three miles from Bijipur, we came to a ghaut the ascent of which was the next thing to the perpendicular, and which may be a mile and a quarter in length; at the top we found ourselves on a plateau, which extended for a mile and a half up to the village of Chotragam, when we again went down; but up again once more to perhaps the same level till we came to Chandrapur. From Chotragam to Chandrapur we were crossing an extensive but irregular valley, and within a hundred yards of the latter place we crossed a river flowing south. The distance between the two villages may be six or seven miles; it is very heavy jungle the whole way.

28. Description of Chandrapur.—Chandrapur itself is a small Hindu Colony. Some twenty years ago the Jeypore Rajah sent one of his peons up here with permission to cultivate free of rent as much ground as he cared to clear, and to take any tribute he could extract from the neighbouring Khonds. The man came up with twenty adherents and their families, and the village is now a very thriving one; but nothing has been got from the Khonds, who continue in all their ancient independence. They acknowledge the Jeypore Rajah and respect his local representative; but they contribute nothing to the fisc, unless it be a few chickens and bunches of plantains at the Dasahara.

29. Its former lawless state.—There are twelve villages here, and it was formerly a very troublesome Muttah. They had the audacity to turn out in great force and attack Colonel Campbell's camp, but twelve years have made a great change. They came in very willingly to see us when summoned by the Patro for that purpose.

The furthest Jeypore village, they told us, lay six kos (12 miles) beyond Bundaree.

30. Route to Rayabiji.—Leaving Chundrapur we marched 10 or 12 miles south-west to Rayabiji; jungle all the way, in great part bamboo. Our road was tolerably level, and we crossed what we supposed to be the same river again at the foot of the village of Rayabiji.

31. Description of the fifth Khond District.—Rayabiji is an important place as the centre of the most considerable of the Khond Hill tracts of Jeypore. It comprises 106 Khond villages, divided into six Muttahs. There are twelve other villages in the hands of Uriya Patros, one Patro to each Khond Muttah, about one-half of the Khond householders pay their Patros a Rupee each annually, and a putty of grain. The rest pay nothing at all, excepting a trifling offering on the occasion of a change of Patros, which only happens by the occurrence of death. The next of kin then goes to Jeypore, presents his Nuzzer to the Rajah, who gives him a bracelet, a sword, or turban, and formally invests him with the vacant office. On his return to his Muttah the Khonds go through the ceremony of paying him homage, and each man contributes a buffaloe, a sheep, or a cow according to his means. The office of Patro is always hereditary, and instances have been known of the Khonds deserting their villages and retiring into the denser forests of Orissa in search of a fresh habitation when the rule has been departed from. The connection has now subsisted for many generations with good feeling on both sides, and these savages dread a change.

32. Route to Bissemcuttack.—From Rayabiji we proceeded in due course to Bissemcuttack, 30 miles to the west, halting at Donjasurada and Kutragadda. The jungle was lighter; the ghauts not considerable. Between Donjasurada and Kutragadda we crossed the Vansadhavra River three times. Near Bissemcuttack the villages lay pretty closely together; the cultivation appeared to be carried on with great industry, and several fine Mango topes came into view. We were told that we have now left the Koliya or Mountaineer Khonds behind us, and that we were now in the country of the Désh'ya or outer Khonds.

33. Description of Bissemcuttack, the sixth Khond District.—Bissemcuttack is the capital of the Tát Rajah, or the Rajah at the head of the Military Force of Jeypore. The family has been here for seven or eight generations, the first comer having had this frontier Taluq granted to him on terms of service by his Chief. The service has now been commuted into a yearly tribute of Rupees 2,500; besides which, when specially called upon to do so, the feudatory is expected to accompany the Suzerain with a numerous retinue on his travels. The last occasion of his doing so was during the visit paid by the present Rajah of Jeypore to the Rajah of Vizianagram in 1859. The Tát Rajah then came forward with a rabble of 500 men. By caste he is a Srishti Karnam, a race which in this part of the country is extremely warlike, though in Rajahmundry and even in the lower Taluqs of Vizagapatam they are known only as good Accountants and bustling traders. I found him a man of good address, he reads and writes his own language, and speaks fluently in Telugu. Two hundred of his peons are salaried and reside in the Fort, a tumbledown construction of mud and its suburbs. The town contains some 400 houses and is supplied with artizans of all kinds. The martial element is very perceptible amongst the townspeople. Every third man is one of the Rajah's servants and swaggers about with a sword. In the centre of the town is a good sized Gymnasium, where these fellows wrestle and box and perform feats of "Khusrut" generally. I hope our higher rates of pay and other privileges will tempt some of them to enter the Police. Finer young men I never saw.

34. Route to Durgi, seventh Khond District.—From Bissemcuttack we marched 15 miles to Durgi. This route is described in Scott's Road Book, No. 91, whose accounts I transcribe.—"Road passes through defiles and gorges between detached masses of an irregular chain of hills. It is a broad beaten bullock tract, but presents considerable difficulty for carts; jungle all the way." I endorse this description. I made particular inquiries and learnt that a cart has never been seen either at Durgi or at Bissemcuttack.

35. Condition of sixth and seventh Districts generally.—In these two Taluqs (Bissemcuttack and Durgi) there are but eighteen *Koliya Khond villages; they all lie in Bissemcuttack. The population in both Taluqs is chiefly Khond, but there is a very little difference between them and the Ryots of the rest of the District. In the highlands every Khond carries an axe and a bow and arrows, and goes always bareheaded and with little or no clothing on the rest of his body. I don't think I saw three turbans during the whole of my tour, and this were presents by the late Meriah Agent. Here in these outer Taluqs the Khond is dressed very much like other Indian cultivators, and lethal weapons are laid aside for the ordinary Ryot's staff. Like other Khonds they are known to have practised Meriah, but the injunction to discontinue the rite was at once obeyed without shew of resistance. It appears indeed from the accounts of the late Agency Officers, and from what was admitted in my own hearing, that the entire population of the country, both Khonds and Hindu colonists, participated, more or less, directly in offering human sacrifices. The whole countryside frequented the scene of the sacrifice as they would a fair or other spectacle. The Hindu Patros or Headman actually presented the sacrificial knife, for which the Priest paid a small fee. In 1851, when the Jeypore country was in a very disturbed state and an encounter imminent between the forces of the Rajah and those of his feudatory, the Tát Zemindar, Colonel Campbell found that the latter had purchased a young boy, who was kept in confinement, ready to be offered up to Manicksoro, the God of War, so soon as hostilities actually commenced. All this is changed now; thanks to the efforts and exertions of Colonel Campbell and his successors. In 1854, when there was a Meriah sacrificed at Rayabiji, and the Khonds of Bissemcuttack were furtively sending messages to procure morsels of flesh to buy in their fields as a pleasing tribute to "Tari Pennu," the great earth goddess, the Tát Raja sent for them and threatened to shoot down with his peons any person who ventured to leave the country on such an errand; and he shewed us with much pride a double barrelled Rifle, which had been presented to him, through the Agency Officers, in appreciation of this achievement, and his good conduct on other occasions.

36. Number of Villages, &c., in Bissemcuttack.—I proceed to give some account of the number of villages, &c., in the Bissemcuttack and Durgi Taluqs.

Bissemcuttack.—The country is divided into eight Muttahs comprising 149 villages, as noted in the margin. With but few exceptions the village communities are entirely Khond; but, as already stated, there are but eighteen Kotiya Khond villages, and these all lie in the Ambodala Muttah. All these villages pay a certain mámúl sum of money to their respective Patros, who are invariably renters under the Zemindar. Besides this each village contributes a sheep, and each householder a Rupee, at the Dasahara to the Raja direct. At the head of each Muttah is a Patro responsible for the whole. He has lands conditioned for feudal service, and is expected to pay his respects to the Zemindar once a year with his peons when he presents a Nuzzer, and gets a cloth in return.

1. Kanakaladi	... 24	Villages.
2. Jigada	... 21	„
3. Sogata	 8	„
4. Kojiri	... 6	„
5. Ambodalu	... 33	„

7. Jogadalapur	... 16	„

The Jamabandi of the Taluq is set down at Rupees 6,500, but it must be a great deal more. The Zemindar has also considerable private demesne and numerous gardens.

The produce of the Taluq includes paddy, turmeric, oil seeds of all kinds, tobacco, and sugar-cane. The last is grown in twelve villages only by a race of thirty Uriya cultivators, called 'Máli.' The jaggery, together with grains and oil seeds, is sent as far as Parvatipur and even Bobbili to the south, or rather Komaties and Uriya Brahmins come from thence and export it on pack bullocks. In the same way tobacco is exported to the Nagpore country. A great deal of business is done by barter. The Nagporeans bring iron, and the southerners cloths and salt. A measure of salt will here fetch 5 measures of produce. There is no lac here, as I was led to expect, and no dammer. For the latter, the Brinjarries are said occasionally to penetrate to the less remote villages of the highland Khond tracts. I shall take means to establish a weekly fair at this place.

37. Number of villages, &c., in Durgi.—Durgi.—This has a small Muttah of thirty-six villages—twenty-six of these Khond. The country contains no Kotiya Khonds however, and in other respects the remarks made on the Bissemcuttack Taluq are applicable to this. It is presided over by an Uriya Rajput, the hereditary Patro; he pays Rupees 600 to the Jeypore Rajah and acknowledges to Rupees 400 (over and above the produce of some lands in his own cultivation) as his net income. The villages being so few in number he looks after them all himself, each village making up the customary sum without the intervention of a renter.

38. Route to Rayagadda valley.—From Durgi I moved my camp across the ghauts to the west and entered the Rayagadda valley, the second or (including the Khond tract) the third natural division of the Jeypore territory.

Our first stage was Paikipodo, 18 miles. It is not in the Trigonometrical Survey Map, but is situated about 5 miles north-west of 'Bhaminy.' The plateaus between the chains of Hills are well cultivated and we noted numerous flourishing villages. There is one very heavy ghaut at the entrance of Bhaminy. From Bhaminy we made one march, another 18 miles, to Singapore, which will be found in the map, in the same latitude with Bissemcuttack. But between these two places there is hardly any direct communication on account of a tremendous ghaut in the Neemgherry Hills, which you must ascend from Bissemcuttack.

39. Singapore. Illegal levy of transit Duty.—Going from Paikipodo to Singapore we had occasion to cross the Nagávali River three or four times, the banks of which are very precipitous. But after this, with the exception of a troublesome defile before you get to Shikarpoy, our road lay through a very level and open country. Singapore itself is surrounded on three sides by river, and is entirely shut out from view by a dense jungle of bamboo. North of the town there is a fair encamping ground. We stayed here two days It is the residence of a Zemindar, a relative of the Jeypore Rajah. He pays no quit-rent, and has been hitherto almost supreme in his own Taluq. Some Brinjarries I met down at Parvatipur told me that this petty chieftain still levied a transit Duty on traders, and handed me in proof thereof a cadjan leaf receipt granted to them a month or two before, setting forth that they had paid the instalment payable on going down to the coast. I of course at once wrote to the Zemindar prohibiting this levy, and I determined to visit him in the course of my tour. He pleaded ignorance of the order of Government in the matter, which, it seems, was not furnished to him by the Rajah of Jeypore. He is a young man of eighteen years of age only. He will not repeat the offence, and I am of opinion that his excuse may be accepted; but this is only one instance out of many: how necessary it is for the European Officers of Government to make regular visitations into every part of their charge.

40. Other illegal cesses throughout Jeypore country.—I may here mention another matter of the same kind. It appears that every Zemindar in the country following the example of the Jeypore Rajah sells licenses permitting the holders to assume the sacred thread common to the upper classes; to use the sectarial marks smeared by Hindus on their foreheads; to wear bracelets of the precious metals; and even to use an umbrella, provided always that it is of calico; for I must do them the justice to say that that there is no extra charge where the article is of Palmyra leaf only. If it were only that parties think themselves honored by being a Rajah's umbrella man and the like, this, however absurd and irrational, would be no ground of complaint; the gist of which of course is that no person declining to pay down his fee is allowed to avail himself of any of these privileges.

I have sent a circular letter to each potentate, explaining the privileges of the subject in these matters, and notifying that their people are not to be harassed in future in respect thereof.

41. Condition of Singapore.—To return to the Singapore Zemindary.

Here, as in the Bissemcuttack valley, the great bulk of the population is Khond, but still further removed from barbarism. There are 105 Khond villages, six of Malis, and seven of other Uriyas, besides these are eight villages held free by Brahmins, and 33 Mokhasas charged with furnishing 200 peons. The Zemindar's income is given at Rupees 5,000 and odd. The revenue system is much the same as in Bissemcuttack.

42. Great Brinjarry trade. Cart road proposed.—Meriah practices are never known to have prevailed amongst the Singapore Khonds. This is admitted by the Officers of the late Special Agency. Indeed, the aspect of this valley is in all respects of a highly promising character. It is the favorite route of Brinjarries from Nagpore owing to the open level character of the country. A cart road might be made at very little expense connecting Singapore, through Rayagadda, with Parvatipur, the great mart at the foot of the ghauts, which divide this portion of Jeypore from the older Taluqs of the Vizagapatam District. A fair bullock track has now been made by the Department Public Works from Parvatipur to Rayagadda, but it is not practicable for carts. The merchants of Rayagadda invited us to proceed a couple of miles down the road and judge for ourselves. We did so, and found that, while there was serious impediment to wheeled traffic on the north of the river, the ascent and descent on the south of it make it absolutely impossible for carts to go either up or down. Were matters improved there, and at one or two other nullahs and defiles further up, bandies might travel with ease from Parvatipur to the extreme frontier of Singapore.

48. Rayagadda.—Rayagadda is 30 miles from Singapore; we made it in two marches, halting at Lakshmipuram. Here, too, the population is almost entirely Khond, and a more industrious people it would be impossible to meet with. The Taluq is one of the five attached by Government in 1855. The place itself is a thriving town, being the emporium of the local trade. Five generations ago it was the Capital of the Jeypore Rajah, Biswanath Deo, who built an enormous Fort here, the ruins of which are still visible, and where they point out the site of the self immolation of his one hundred and sixteen wives, who ascended the funeral pyre on the occurrence of his death. The Government are aware that the practice of 'Sati' only lately ceased in Jeypore. The old Rajah was entirely ignorant of the prohibitory law passed by Lord William Bentinck; but, ready at once to meet the Agent's views, he ordered its discontinuance by beat of tom-tom, observing only that, "as this is a hilly country and the people are rather savage, the rules will take effect but slowly." The last use to which the Fort of Rayagadda has been put was the imprisonment of the late Rajah by the present one, then heir apparent, in the disturbances of 1849, an account of which, and of the old man's release by Major Haly with a party of Sebundies, will be found in my Precis of Jeypore papers annexed.

44. Route westward to Jeypore.—From Rayagadda we moved across the western ghauts to Jeypore Proper, and in this place it will be convenient to sum up the opinions I have formed and the arrangements I would propose in regard to the administration of the extensive country I have, up to this point in my narrative, travelled over.

45. General description of country visited.—This moiety of the Jeypore Rajah is certainly 4,000 square miles in extent.

On the north it is bounded by the Nagpore Tributary State of Kalahandy or Khoronde, and by a portion of Ganjam; on the south by the Hill Zemindaries of Vizagapatam with Parla Kimedy; on the east by Chinna Kimedy: and on the west partly by Jeypore Proper, and partly by Kalahandy.

The country is entirely surrounded by chains of ghauts, and is divided into three extensive valleys, which I may call the Godairy, the Bissemcuttack, and the Rayagadda, respectively.

The five fertile Taluqs to the south, viz., Gunapur, Kailasakota, Rayagadda, Alamanda, and Narayanapatnam are very little wilder than the remoter Hill Zemindaries of Vizagapatam; and different factions that formerly distracted Jeypore always made them their first prey. Possession of these tracts was possession of the sinews of war. Accordingly, when the Government at last stept in to check these disorders in 1855, their first act was to assume the direct management of the five Districts which have been held ever since in trust for the Rajah of Jeypore, and entirely, both in Revenue and Police administration, at his expense.

46. Proposal to re-transfer the attached Taluqs.—With the introduction of the new Police it has always been in contemplation to restore these Taluqs to the Rajah, and I recommend that this be now done.

47. The Great Chiefs very helpful.—North of these five Taluqs to the left lies the Singapore Zemindary, to the centre that of Bissemcuttack, and to the right the Godairy Zemindary with the Khond tracts beyond. I have received every assistance from these Zemindars, and I doubt not that they will give their support to the new order of things. They have been entirely independent up to this time, for they formed no part of the Gunapur Ameen's charge. If treated with consideration and respect they will be found the Agent's best allies. In a country so wild I congratulate myself that we have these influential Chiefs between ourselves and the people. If there were no Zemindars of this mark, men who can at once call into the field several hundreds of armed followers, and help us, as occasion requires, to coerce or negociate with the wilder denizens of the mountain and the jungle, the Police Force allowed for this District would require to be raised fourfold, and still prove inefficient for its purposes.

48. Khond tract only doubtful one.—The only doubtful part of the country is, of course, the Khond tracts. The Khonds, and next to Khonds, the independent Soura tribes of Jeypore, all lie alongside of Parla Kimedy and Chinna Kimedy of Ganjam. The boundaries march together. It seems that the very complete arrangements originally proposed by Mr. Robinson and the Governor's Agent, Ganjam, have not been fully carried out in regard to Chinna Kimedy. The District is given by Mr. Robinson as comprising 2,200 miles of wild and jungly country, and it is always emphatically spoken of by the Meriah Agency Officers as "the very pulse of Khond feeling." Under these circumstances it is clearly all the more incumbent upon us at Vizagapatam to make our side of the border as secure as possible.

49. Allocation of Police.—I have already said that I make no account whatever, as of bonâ fide Khond tracts, either of Bissemcuttack or Durgi. Deducting these two five Muttahs still remain, viz., Godairy, Sirdarpur, Bijipur, Chandrapur (or Bundaree), and Rayabiji.

All of these, as well of course as the rest of the country, but these above all, should be yearly visited by the Agent or one of his Assistants, in company with one of the European Officers of Police, and at the first and last of these five places guards of Sebundies should be stationed; at Godairy all the year round, and at Rayabiji in the cold months. This comprises every thing that the late Agency recommended, and it will, I hope, be sufficient to watch the inner Khonds, and, if necessary, to enforce abstinence from Meriah Sacrifices.

50. Bungalow required at Rayabiji.—At Godairy we left a guard, and to Rayabiji one will shortly be pushed forward. At this latter place it would be very desirable to have a rough Bungalow for the Agent or Officer of Police, in case his presence should be suddenly required there, such as has been sanctioned for numerous places in Ganjam. A well need not be dug as there is a river close by.

51. Comforts for the sick in Camp.—This is all the additional outlay I propose. Two Sepoys' tents should be allowed for the guard accompanying the Governor's Agent on these tours, and six Hospital doolies for the conveyance of the sick. The Apothecary in charge should further be allowed to indent for a small quantity of wine. The convalescent rallied wonderfully under the stimulus of a few occasional glasses of Port Wine; but it was not from the Government stores. I feel sure that it will not be begrudged to fever-stricken men serving in this perilous climate, any more than it is to Sepoys serving in the field.

52. Contingent expenses of Tour.—The contingent expenses of the tour amounted to Rupees 237-9. The Khond headmen, the rescued Meriahs, "Government children" as they gratefully call themselves, the country peons who accompanied us from one Muttah to another, all expected trifling presents, and it will be desirable occasionally to give a silver bracelet or anklet to the Uriya Patros presiding over each Muttah. Such was the practice of the late Agency, and we must not go backward, especially at the outset.

53. Annual grant for clearing roads. Further remarks on Police. Necessity of Village Watchmen.—But what is pincipally required is a small annual grant for clearing the jungle and opening up roads. I have adverted to this in paragraph 21 supra. Rupees 2,000 will not, I hope, be considered an immoderate yearly outlay for the present. The people of the country would contract for the work with the Agency Officers direct, as proposed by Mr. Robinson for the Ganjam Maliahs. This is all I have to say of the Khonds. For the occupation of the rest of the country I have arranged with the Superintendent of Police as follows:—

The head-quarters of the armed Reserve are to be at Gunapur, with posts every ten or twelve miles up the road to Bissemcuttack. Corresponding posts from Singapore all down the Rayagadda Road, and on the road leading from Parvatipur through Alamandah and Narayanapatam. This will keep open these lines of road. But a Constabulary is nothing without a subsidiary force of Village Police, and this outlay must be met at once. Every village has its vettyman, but he is the servant of the community only and is paid as they please with grain. These people are of the 'Paidi' class already described, and from them we must select our Village Police. The division contains 1,370 villages, and if we allow one to every five, and give each man two Rupees a month, the sum monthly—Rupees 548. This expense is absolutely necessary for efficiency of administration.

54. Two roads very desirable. If the Bissemcuttack and Rayagadda routes could be made into decent roads for cart traffic, so as to connect the first with Battelee of Ganjam, and the other with Parvatipur in our own District, from both of which places there are excellent roads to the coast, these Districts would soon be as flourishing as any part of Vizagapatam. Both roads are important; the Rayagadda is the more frequented by Brinjarries than the other. But the expense of its construction would be so trifling that I hope that the other road would receive simultaneous sanction. Bissemcuttack being so close to the inner Khonds a road would be every thing for the civilization of these people. Both roads unite at Joonagoodda, the capital of Kalahundy, and the route is then one to Raipore, the capital of the Chutteesgurh Division of Nagpore.

These works would naturally come under the Department of Public Works.

55. Another Sub-Magistrate required.—Finally I must ask the Government for a second Sub-Magistrate, whom I would station at Rayagadda. Gunapur is an important town, and it is very well situated for all that side of the country. But no single station, place it where you will, will suffice for this enormous division of the District, a division which it has taken me exactly six weeks to inspect, though I have never halted more than two or three days at one place, and have constantly marched eighteen miles a day for three days consecutively in order to pass with expedition from one important place to another. I shall add no more, for I have written to very little purpose if the magnitude and importance of the charge are not felt by Government to justify the cost of a second Sub-Magistrate. Both Sub-Magistrates should be invested with the power of a First Class Sub-Magistrate, or every case not trivial will have to be sent out of the division to be tried by an European Officer with full powers, a great hardship on the prosecutor, witnesses, and Constabulary. I find that there is little or no traffic between this and Jeypore Proper, and that Parvatipur on the Vizagapatam frontier is the place to which every body resorts. I intend therefore that that place shall be the head-quarters of the Senior Assistant; and the Supetintendent of Police, entirely concurring with me in my view of the importance of the town, is about to move the head-quarters of his First European Assistant to it. I must here ask sanction for a road between Parvatipur and Gunapur. At present it is very bad indeed, quite impassable for carts, and the general route is down by Palconda, through the ghauts into the Ganjam District, and so up the Parla Kimedy Road, which goes to the Ganjam frontier, Buttelee, five miles from Gunapur.

The Junior Assistant and the Second European Assistant of Police will have quite enough on their hands in Jeypore Proper, which estimated to contain 5,000 square miles of country, and from constant border frays and other causes is by no means the settled country which this division of Jeypore appears, on the whole, to be.

56. Route to Jagannadpur, whence to Naurangpur of Jeypore.—To resume my route. From Rayagadda we made seven stages* to Jagannadpur of Jeypore, accomplishing the entire distance in four days. From the third to the fifth stage the country between the ridges of ghaut is open and well cultivated, but with this exception our journey here lay through as wild and difficult a country as any we have passed through. On leaving Jagannadpur we crossed the Indravatty not far from its source, yet rafts were found necessary, for even here it is a deep stream with steep banks. A little to the north of the town there is a tolerable ford.

* Guma.

We halted two days at Naurangpur, the residence of the Zemindar Chaitan Deo, who, as already mentioned, holds this estate and that of Godairy in the Khond tract.

57. Naurangpur Estate.—The Naurangpur Estate consists of 124 villages, besides six held on favorable tenure by Brahmins and others. The Jamabundi for the whole, according to the accounts furnished me, is Rupees 4,089 in money, and Rupees 3,113 in grain.

The system of management is nearly the same as that at Godairy. Here the people begin to change from Khonds to a class called Porazas. 'Meriah' has never been known.

58. Route to Kotapad.—From Naurangpur we made two marches to Kotapad. I may say of this plateau, thirty miles long and perhaps twenty broad, extending from Jagannadpur to Kotapad, that it is as fine a country as one would desire to see. It is one mass of paddy fields; the cultivation is not fed from tanks, but is dependent on the rains. Near the Indravatty wells are sunk for the cultivation of sugar-cane. We noticed also fine fields of wheat and of Bengal gram.

59. Report on the Kotapad dispute between Joypore and Bustar.—Kotapad is the chief village in the five Taluqs of that name, which have been so long in dispute between Jeypore and Bustar.

Immediately on receiving, through your Office, the order of the Supreme Government, approving the suggestion I had the honor to make that the affray between Jeyporeans and Bustar might be settled with advantage by this Agency, I instructed Lieutenant Smith, Assistant Agent at Jeypore, to proceed himself to Kotapad to issue proclamations to the Bustar people to come forward with their complaints and to commit the accused to my Court on my arrival at Kotapad if a primâ facie case against them were made out. Lieutenant Smith was twelve days at Kotapad, but nobody came forward. Bustar is now taken up by the Police of the Central Provinces, and there is a small force at Tarapur under an intelligent East Indian Inspector (Stewart) who assisted Lieutenant Smith in circulating his Notification. Every facility was thus afforded to persons desirous of redress; and their silence now leads to the belief either that no lives were lost on the occasion of this border fray, or that the parties have compromised the matter in the interim. With the possession of these lands secured by the Governor General's decision to Jeypore, and a Police Force established on both sides of the border, I anticipate hearing no more of these feuds, the more so that death has removed from the scene the leader of the faction against the Jeyporeans, Dalganjari Singh Lal, a very turbulent character, the uncle and Dewan of the Bustar Rajah. There is a mud Fort at Kotapad of considerable extent, and great part of the town lies within it. I have arranged with the Jeypore Rajah gradually to reduce the numbers of the peons he maintains at his frontier post, and he appeared quite willing to do so in the present position of affairs.

60. Route to Jeypore the Capital.—From Kotapad it is two marches to Jeypore through a country nearly all swamp and jungle. The villages are few and far between, and the appearance of the Ryots extremely squalid. This is the case generally with such portions of the country as are managed from Jeypore direct, and is to be attributed to the unhappy factions which so long disturbed the Rajah.

61. Interview with Rajah. Three principal topics discussed. Necessity of Village Police.—At Jeypore I stayed a week and had frequent interviews with the Rajah. He is about 30 years old. I found him by no means the boor he had been represented to be; on the contrary he is superior both in manners and intellect to what might be expected of one with his limited opportunities to cultivate the one or the other. His Dewan is a very sensible man; but his efforts at reform are very generally frustrated by the machinations of a crowd of parasites hanging about the Chief. These men I advised the Rajah to discharge and to attend to his own affairs with the assistance of the Dewan alone.

Besides this and other advise, too obvious for detailed report, the conversation turned on three principal points—

I. I insisted that he should lessen the number of his armed retainers. He seemed glad to be ordered to do so, and promised early compliance. Many of these men are paid in land, and in their case it is desirable that the full rent should be gradually required of them, the condition of service being of course dispensed with.

II. I spoke to him about his step-brother, Madya Yuva Ráz. The history of this ill-conditioned young man will be found in my Precis. He lives at Gunapur and draws from his brother through this Agency a monthly allowance of 500 Rupees. He has always been pressing for land in lieu of money. I sounded the Rajah on this point, but found him extremely unwilling to concede it. It appears to be entirely a matter for the Rajah's consideration. Very few Zemindars care to alienate any portion of their lands; and it would be extremely harsh to press Jeypore (with large existing alienations and with an income under a lac and a quarter) to do so in favor of a relative who never ceases to intrigue against him; and who, in less settled times, attempted to accomplish his ends at the point of the sword.

III. I alluded to the alleged existence of the 'Meriah rite' in the more civilized portions of his Zemindary. It has been repeatedly stated by the Officers of the late Meriah Agency that influential Hindus of Jeypore secretly practice this rite, and that there is even reason to believe that the present Rajah, when he installed himself at his father's decease in 1860-61, sacrificed a young girl of thirteen years of age at the shrine of the goddess Durgá in the town of Jeypore. Further, these Officers asserted that the Rajah and his Chiefs retain in their services great numbers of professional robbers, called Khongurs, whom they employ, within the Jeypore country and in the plains, on expeditions of rapine and bloodshed.

In mentioning these astounding allegations to the Rajah I added that I was willing to believe that the Meriah Agent had been grossly misinformed, it being hardly credible in the present day that persons of rank would put life and honor in jeopardy by engaging in such atrocious crimes. The charges of course have always been stoutly denied, and, while bowing to the superior experience of Captain McNeill in those outlying portions of the Vizagapatam District, I must say that the results of such enquiries as I have been able to make do not support those statements. At all events with our Police in the country under the command of an European Officer, and with the presence of my Junior Assistant, we may be confident that speedy detection will follow the commission of all heinous offences for the future. Village Police, I regret to state, there is none. Jeypore Proper contains, I have ascertained, 1,300 villages. Sanction for 260 village Talaries,* one Talari for every five villages, is absolutely necessary. It would be introduced by degrees, as the Assistant Superintendent of Police and Lieutenant Smith might have opportunities to visit the several localities.

* At 2 Rupees a month.

62. The Petta Ghaut. Description of Jeypore Road.—When I was at Jeypore the Order of Government in the Public Works Department, Military, re-calling the Company of Sappers was received there. This Company had just relieved another Company which had been working for some time on the Petta Ghaut near Jeypore, and while engaged in that duty had suffered very severely from fever. And I have since my return to this place accidentally seen the order referred to, which, besides re-calling the Sappers, directs a letter to be written to the Supreme Government, "with a request that they will desire the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces to complete the Jeypore Road by cooly labor as proposed by Colonel Birdwood." Order of Government, Public Works Department, Military, 28th January 1863, No. 245.

63. As I have been over every inch of this road, I trust I may be allowed to say something on the subject, and to shew cause for a re-consideration of the order so far as regards the proposed communication to the Authorities at Nagpore

When it was determined that this Agency should take up the administration of Jeypore it became necessary to improve one or other of the lines of ghaut more commonly used by wayfarers and Brinjarries travelling to and from that country to the coast. The Madgole and Parvatipur Lines (descriptions of which will be found from the pen of Lieutenant Vertue, of the Engineers, in the Appendix to my Precis) were rejected in favor of a new line by Galikonda, which was then in great favor as a proposed Sanitarium.

The line was to run north from Vizagapatam through Srunguvárapukota and Kasipuram to Kottur, where you ascend a very long and troublesome ghaut to Rayavalsa, which is 3,000 feet above the level of the sea.

From Rayavalsa to the head of the Pettah Ghaut, which is about 16 miles south of Jeypore, there are one or two difficult defiles, but for the most part the road lies through an undulating plain with a slight descent; at Pettah you descend 1,000 feet and reach a perfectly plain country.

I say that from Rayavalsa to the top of the Pettah Ghaut no actual difficulties supervene. But instead of following this line it was determined to carry the road right over Galikonda, which is an isolated range towering over Rayavalsa to the west.

This line from Kasipuram over Galikonda to the head of the Pettah Ghaut was first traced by the old Sebundy Force under Lieutenants Dobree and Gordon, and then improved by the Sappers under Lieutenant Irvine, who further constructed the trace down the Pettah Ghaut so far as it is finished, which is about two-thirds.

Finally, Major Stewart, R. E., traced out an entirely new line, avoiding Galikonda. The excellent trace down the Pettah Ghaut was also made by this Officer, and the Rajah of Vizianagram giving 50,000 Rupees for the work. Government sanctioned a similar sum, and this money is now being spent on the line through the District Engineer.

64. A Special European Officer required for the road.—The sickness of the Sappers is to be deplored, but I have no reason to doubt (having now seen the whole country) that the people of the District would come forward in sufficient gangs for the work if an Officer could be specially detailed to the duty to see that they are regularly paid and properly treated in every respect. But the work does require that an European Officer should be at its head. Great tact, kindness, and judgment are required in the management of these hill men; and a stout heart not to quail before the real dangers and difficulties of the undertaking.

65. Route from Jeypore home.—But it is time I brought this long report to a conclusion. The country between Pettah and Galikonda I have described as one great undulating plain. There are numerous villages, and considerable cultivation is carried on, which cannot fail to receive a great stimulus from the opening up of this new road. The third Sub-Magistrate allowed for Jeypore I have stationed for the present at Araku, a march to the south of Ourarah. A line of Police posts will run the whole way from Jeypore.

66. General success of Tour.—I have been very fortunate in this tour. We have had but little sickness in the camp, and no deaths. The season for travelling (January and February) was no doubt in our favor, and by taking a select few only I was able to travel with very little trouble to the people of the country. The Agency Elephants were invaluable, and we found it necessary to borrow two more (of course paying their charges) from the Jeypore Rajah. They are for many purposes the only suitable carriage in such Hills as we have visited.

67. No fears for future of Jeypore.—I have no fears for the future of Jeypore. Some embarrassments in the earlier administration we must of course be prepared to expect. But I see nothing in the aspect of the Rajah, his Chiefs or his people, which leads me to expect that the task before us is one of any extraordinary difficulty.

ORDER THEREON, 4th May 1863, No. 683.

In the foregoing letter the Acting Agent at Vizagapatam has furnished a very full and interesting Report on his recent tour in the Hill Zemindaries of his District, including that of Jeypore. In the latter Zemindary, the greater part of which has hitherto been little influenced by British administration, the Police has now been introduced, and one of the Agent's European Assistants with two Sub-Magistrates have been stationed in it. Mr. Carmichael's recent visit has enabled him to suggest several measures well calculated to facilitate the success of the arrangements which have been made for maintaining peace and order and preventing a recurrence to the barbarous practices prevalent in former years, but which were suppressed by the late Meriah Agency and appear to have been discontinued for some time past.

2. The Governor in Council will notice Mr. Carmichael's recommendations seriatim and pass his orders separately on each.

1*st*. As to roads. He recommends—

(a.) That a good road be made to connect Parvatipur, an important town below the ghauts, and which is proposed to be the head-quarters of the Senior Assistant Agent and of a European Assistant Superintendent of Police, with Vizianagram. From the latter place there is a good road to Bimlipatam and Vizagapatam, and the road now proposed will complete the communication between the head-quarters of the District and Parvatipur. The Governor in Council approves of the suggestion which will be carried out by the Department of Public Works, if possible, from the Reserve Fund of the current year.

(b.) The completion of the road by the Petta Ghaut through Jeypore, on which a Company of Sappers was recently employed. Mr. Carmichael is satisfied that if a European Officer could be specially detailed to superintend the work the people of the District would come forward in sufficient gangs to carry it out. There is much force in Mr. Carmichael's remarks on this point, and the Governor in Council directs that the subject shall be re-considered in the Department of Public Works.

(c.) The improvement of the existing Cart track from and through the Sitampéta Ghaut to Palcondah.

(d.) The conversion into good roads adapted for cart traffic, of the bullock tracks from Bissamcuttack to Buttelee in Ganjam, and from Parvatipur to Rayagudda and Gunapur. The construction of these three roads, and, apparently, of that from the Sitampéta Ghaut to Palcondah, Mr. Carmichael proposes to entrust to the Department of Public Works. The Superintending Engineer will be instructed to prepare Estimates of their cost in communication with the Acting Agent at an early date.

(e.) An annual grant of Rupees 2,000 for clearing the jungle and opening up roads in the interior of the country. This work, Mr. Carmichael proposes, should be entrusted to the Agency Officers, who will get it done on contract by the people of the country.. The amount will be placed at Mr. Carmichael's disposal from the Public Works Reserve Fund for the current official year.

3. In paragraph 56 of his Report the Agent recommends the appointment of an additional Sub-Magistrate of the First Class for the Gunapuram Talook, to be stationed at Rayagudda. At present there is a Sub-Magistrate at Gunapur, the distance of which place from Rayagudda is not stated; but from the tenor of Mr. Carmichael's remarks as to the great extent of the present Sub-Magistrate's range, the Government infer that he has satisfied himself of the necessity of the proposed appointment, which is accordingly sanctioned at a cost of Rupees 149 per mensem. The charge will be included in Mr. Pelly's revised scheme of Establishments.

4. The Agent recommends (paragraph 46) that the Revenue Administration of these Taluqs shall now be restored to the Rajah of Jeypore. They were taken under the management of the Officers of the Agency in 1855 in consequence of the unsettled state of the country and the incapacity of the late Rajah. They are very fertile, and, as Mr. Carmichael observes, "the different factions that formerly distracted Jeypore always made them their first prey." Since they have been taken under the management of Government the country has been perfectly quiet; and now that the regular Police has been introduced, Mr. Carmichael is of opinion that the Revenue Administration may be safely restored to the Zemindar. The Governor in Council resolves to sanction the measure.

5. The Agent's recommendation (paragraph 54) that a grant of Rupees 548 per mensem should be made for the payment of the Village Police, will be referred for the opinion of the Inspector-General. The Governor in Council apprehends that the reductions lately ordered in the Police Budget will preclude this measure, however desirable, being carried out at present.

6. The erection of a rough Bungalow at Rayabiji for the use of the Officers of the Agency and Police is sanctioned. The Agent will submit an estimate of the cost, and will state whether he proposes that the work shall be done under his own orders or by the Department of Public Works.

7. Orders will be issued in the Military Department for placing two Sepoys' tents and six Hospital doolies at the disposal of the Agent on the occasion of his annual tour in Jeypore, and the Apothecary in charge of the Agent's camp will be authorized to indent for a small quantity of Port Wine.

8. The contingent charges incurred in the late tour, amounting to Rupees 237-9, are sanctioned. Mr. Carmichael will state what funds will be requisite for the establishment of weekly fare in the principal villages of the Khond Moottahs.

9. The result of the enquiry which has been instituted into the affray between the Kotupad and Bustar people will be communicated to the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces.

10. The Governor in Council entirely approves of the suggestion that the Agent shall in future make an annual tour in Jeypore, and that either he or one of his European Assistants shall visit each one of the seven Khond Moottahs. It is much to be regretted that so little should have been done hitherto for these tracts, and especially for the Gunapuram Talooks; but with an organized Police improved communications and frequent supervision from the European Officers, both of the Police and of the Agency, the Governor in Council sees every reason to hope that order and civilization will gradually re-place the anarchy and barbarism which have hitherto been the prevailing characteristics of these wild tracts.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 16th May 1863, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. XXIV OF 1863.

An Act to amend Act I of 1863, (to define the Jurisdiction and to regulate the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature in British Burmah, and to provide for the extension of certain Acts to the said Territory.)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act I of 1863, (to define the Jurisdiction and to regulate the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature in British Burmah, and to provide for the extension of certain Acts to the said Territory); It is enacted as follows :—

Governor-General may invest certain Courts in British Burmah with power to try suits, &c., now cognizable by Courts of lower grade.

I. It shall be lawful for the Governor-General of India in Council to invest any Court in British Burmah of the second, third, and fourth grades of Courts mentioned in Section II of the said Act I of 1863, with power to receive suits, and to take cognizance of other matters, arising within the jurisdiction of the Court so invested, which from their amount as well as in other respects may be cognizable under the provisions of the said Act by a Court of a lower grade, and to try and determine the same subject to all the provisions of the said Act.

Provision for appeals from orders and decisions in suits, &c., dealt with under preceding Section.

II. Appeals from orders and decisions passed by any Court invested as aforesaid, in suits or other matters of the nature described in the last preceding Section, shall lie to the Court to which appeals from orders and decisions passed by the said Court in the exercise of its ordinary jurisdiction lie under the said Act I of 1863, and shall be subject to all the rules contained in the said Act in relation to such appeals.

Jurisdiction of Deputy Judicial Commissioner at Rangoon, and his Court.

III. The Court of the Deputy Judicial Commissioner at Rangoon shall, for the purposes of Act I of 1863, be a Court of a Deputy Commissioner as constituted by the said Act; and the said Deputy Judicial Commissioner shall exercise the same jurisdiction in respect to receiving, trying, and determining suits and other matters arising within his jurisdiction as Deputy Judicial Commissioner, as a Deputy Commissioner is competent to exercise under the said Act.

Civil Code of Pegu repealed, and Act VIII of 1859 substituted during certain period.

IV. The Code called the "Civil Code of the Province of Pegu," with exception to Chapter III of the said Code as to the limitation of suits, and Chapter XXVII relating to Stamps, shall be held to have been repealed from the twentieth day of May 1862; and on and after the said date, until the first day of May 1863, Act VIII of 1859 (for simplifying the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature not established by Royal Charter), as extended by the Chief Commissioner of British Burmah to the Province of Pegu, shall be held to have been in force in that Province.

Provision as to order or decision passed, or proceeding held, by Courts in Pegu on or after the 20th May 1862.

A. G. MACPHERSON,

Offg. Depy. Secy. to the Govt. of India,
Home Department.

ACT No. XXV OF 1863.

An Act to empower Judges of the High Court and other Authorities at Fort William in Bengal to direct convicts to be imprisoned either in the House of Correction, or the Great Jail of Calcutta; and to authorize the transfer of prisoners, in certain cases, from the House of Correction to the Great Jail, and from the Great Jail to the House of Correction.

Preamble.

WHEREAS great inconvenience is occasioned in the administration of Criminal Justice, by reason of the House of Correction in Calcutta not having sufficient accommodation to contain all the prisoners from time to time sentenced to be there confined for divers offences, and it is desirable that the Judges of Her Majesty's High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, and the Justices of the Peace and Magistrates of Police for the Town of Calcutta, should be empowered to send prisoners to the Great Jail of Calcutta, as well as to the House of Correction; and whereas also it is desirable that the Government of Bengal should have power, in cases of over-crowding, sickness, or the like, to order the transfer of prisoners from the Great Jail to the House of Correction, and vice versâ; It is enacted as follows:—

Certain Sections of Act XVIII of 1862 repealed in part.

I. Sections XLVII, XLVIII, XLIX, L, LI, and LII, of Act XVIII of 1862 (to repeal Act XVI of 1852 in those parts of British India in which the Indian Penal Code is in force, and to re-enact some of the provisions thereof with amendments, and further to improve the administration of Criminal Justice in Her Majesty's Supreme Courts of Judicature), are hereby repealed, so far as they are applicable to, or have effect in, the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal, except as to any persons sentenced before the passing of this Act to rigorous imprisonment, or to imprisonment with hard labor, or to solitary confinement.

Persons sentenced by High Court to rigorous imprisonment, &c., may be imprisoned in the House of Correction or Great Jail.

II. Whenever any person shall be sentenced by Her Majesty's High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal to rigorous imprisonment, or to imprisonment with hard labor, or to solitary confinement, it shall be lawful for the Judges or Judge of the said Court to direct such person to be imprisoned either in the House of Correction, whether such House of Correction be under the control of the Sheriff or not, or in the Great Jail, as to them or him shall seem fit.

Persons sentenced by the said Court to transportation, &c., may be kept in House of Correction, or Great Jail.

III. Whenever any person shall be sentenced by the said High Court to transportation, or penal servitude, such person may, at the discretion of the Judges or Judge of the said Court, be kept in the House of Correction, whether such House of Correction be under the control of the Sheriff or not, or in the Great Jail, as the place of intermediate custody.

Delivery into, and responsibility for, custody of person directed to be kept in House of Correction.

IV. The Sheriff shall cause any person directed under either of the last two preceding Sections to be imprisoned or kept in the House of Correction, to be delivered to the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or to the Keeper of such House of Correction, together with a warrant to be signed by a Judge of the said High Court authorizing the detention of such person. Such Officer or Keeper shall be bound to receive the person so delivered over to his custody, and shall be responsible for the safe custody of such person.

All Constables, &c., empowered to assist.

V. All Constables and Police Officers are hereby empowered to aid and assist the Sheriff in carrying to the House of Correction any person sentenced as aforesaid.

Sheriff when absolved from responsibility.

VI. The Sheriff shall be absolved from all responsibility, in respect of the custody of any person sentenced as aforesaid to be imprisoned or kept in the House of Correction, from the time such person shall be delivered to the custody of the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or to the Keeper of such House of Correction.

Persons sentenced by Justice of the Peace, or Police Magistrate, to rigorous imprisonment, &c., may be committed either to House of Correction, or Great Jail.

VII. Whenever any person shall be sentenced by a Justice of the Peace or Magistrate of Police for the Town of Calcutta, to rigorous imprisonment, or imprisonment with hard labor, for any offence committed within the local limits of the ordinary original Civil jurisdiction of the said High Court, the person so sentenced may be committed by such Justice of the Peace or Police Magistrate either to the custody of the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or of the Keeper of the said House of Correction, whether such House of Correction be under the control of the Sheriff or not, or to the custody of the Sheriff, as to such Justice of the Peace or Police Magistrate shall seem fit. If the person so sentenced is committed to the custody of the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or the Keeper of the House of Correction, such Officer and Keeper shall be responsible for the safe custody of such person: if the person so sentenced is committed to the custody of the Sheriff, the Sheriff shall be responsible for his safe custody.

Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal may order transfer of prisoners from House of Correction to Great Jail, and vice versâ.

VIII. If it shall at any time appear to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal that, by reason of sickness, over-crowding, or any other cause, it is necessary or desirable that any prisoner under sentence of imprisonment in the House of Correction should be transferred to the Great Jail, or that any prisoner under sentence of imprisonment in the Great Jail should be transferred to the House of Correction, it shall be lawful for the said Lieutenant-Governor to order the transfer of such prisoner, and the prisoner shall thereupon be transferred in the manner hereinafter provided for carrying out the transfer. If the order be for the transfer of a prisoner from the Great Jail to the House of Correction, the Sheriff shall cause the prisoner to be delivered to the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or to the Keeper of the House of Correction, together with the original warrant authorizing the detention of such prisoner, and the order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal signed by a Secretary to the Government of Bengal ordering his transfer. Such Officer or Keeper shall be bound to receive the person so delivered over to his custody, and shall be responsible for his safe custody. If the order be for the transfer of a prisoner from the House of Correction to the Great Jail, the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or the Keeper thereof, shall cause the prisoner to be delivered to the Sheriff, together with the original warrant authorizing the detention of such prisoner, and the order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal signed by a Secretary to the Government of Bengal ordering his transfer. The Sheriff shall be bound to receive the person so delivered over to his custody, and shall be responsible for his safe custody.

Transfer how made.

Recent transfers of prisoners from House of Correction to Great Jail declared to be legal.

IX. And whereas certain persons under sentence of imprisonment in the House of Correction have recently been on divers occasions transferred from the House of Correction to the Great Jail, and from the Great Jail to the House of Correction: it is hereby declared, that such transfers respectively shall be held to be, and at all times to have been, legal in all respects; and that the said persons now are, and always have been, and shall continue to be until the expiration of the period of their sentences respectively, in lawful custody, whether for the time being in the custody of the Sheriff in the Great Jail, or of the Keeper or Officer having the control of the House of Correction, in the House of Correction. Provided that nothing in this Section contained shall be held to render lawful the detention or custody of any prisoner whose detention or custody would have been unlawful irrespectively of such transfer.

Act No. XXVII of 1863.

An Act to further amend Act XXXII of 1860 (for imposing Duties on profits arising from Property, Professions, Trades, and Offices), and to amend Act XXXIX of 1860 (to amend Act XXXII of 1860*), and Act XVI of* 1862 (to limit in certain cases the amount of assessment to the Duties chargeable after the thirty-first day of July 1862, under Act XXXII of 1860, and Act XXXIX of 1860, and otherwise to modify the said Acts.)

Preamble.

Acts XXXII of 1860, XXXIX of 1860, and XVI of 1862 to be read with this Section.

I. From and after the thirty-first day of July 1863, the said Act XXXII of 1860, and the said Act XXXIX of 1860, and the said Act XVI of 1862, shall be read and construed as if, in the first Section of the said Act XXXII of 1860, the words "the yearly Duty of two Rupees for every hundred Rupees of the annual value thereof" appeared instead of the words "the yearly Duty of three Rupees for every hundred Rupees of the annual value thereof," except as to any Duties which shall have become chargeable under the said Acts previously to the said thirty-first day of July 1863.

II. Section XV of Act XVI of 1862 shall, from and after the said thirty-first day of July 1863, be read and construed as if the words "not less than twenty per cent. of the gross sum collected on account of the Duties of two and one per cent." appeared therein in lieu of the words "not less than twenty per cent. of the gross sum collected on account of the Duties of three and one per cent."

Section XV of Act XVI of 1862 to be read with this Section.

ACT No. XXVIII OF 1863.

An Act to remove doubts as to the operation of Act X of 1862 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to Stamp Duties) in the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca, between the first day of November 1862, and the first day of January 1863 ; and respecting the rate of exchange for payment of Stamp Duties, in the Currency of India, in the said Settlement.

Preamble.

WHEREAS by a Notification of the Governor-General of India in Council, dated the thirtieth day of May 1862, it was directed that all Deeds, Instruments, or Writings, executed in the Straits' Settlement, should be exempt from the Duties prescribed in Act X of 1862 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to Stamp Duties) ; and whereas by another Notification of the Governor-General of India in Council, dated the first day of November 1862, it was ordered that the temporary suspension of the operation of the said Act X of 1862 in the Straits' Settlement, under the said Notification dated the thirtieth of May 1862, should cease and determine from the said first day of November 1862 ; and whereas by a further Notification of the Governor-General of India in Council, dated the sixth of November 1862, His Excellency in Council was pleased to exempt, until further orders, all Deeds, Instruments, and Writings, enumerated in Schedule B of the said Act X of 1862, from the Duties prescribed in that Schedule ; and whereas, afterwards, the Governor of the Straits' Settlement suspended the operation of the said Act X of 1862 in the said Settlement until the first day of January 1863 ; and whereas, in consequence of such suspension of the operation of the said Act, many penalties have been incurred, and many Deeds, Instruments, and Writings, have been rendered invalid, or inadmissible in evidence, and it is expedient that such effects should be removed ; and whereas it is also expedient to remove all doubt as to the rate of exchange for the payment of Stamp Duties, in the Currency of India, in the said Settlement ; It is enacted as follows :—

I. The said Act X of 1862 shall be held not to have come into operation in the said Settlement before the first day of January 1863.

Act X of 1862 not in operation in Straits' Settlement before 1st January 1863.

II. The said Act X of 1862, except Schedule B, shall be held to have come into operation in the said Settlement on the said first day of January 1863. The said Schedule B shall come into operation in the said Settlement from such time as the Governor-General of India in Council shall, under the authority vested in him by Section XXXIII of the said Act X of 1862, by an order to be published in the Calcutta Gazette, appoint.

Operation of Act, and of Schedule B of same, when to commence.

III. For the purpose of fixing the rate at which Stamp Duties, payable in the Currency of India, under the said Act X of 1862, on Deeds, Instruments, and Writings, which are liable to Stamp Duty in the said Settlement, shall be calculated and paid, when the Deeds, Instruments, or Writings, in respect of which such Duties are payable, are Deeds, Instruments, or Writings, in which the amount or value on which the Stamp Duties is payable is not expressed or estimated in such Currency, it shall be lawful for the Governor of the said Settlement, from time to time, by a Notification to be published in the Official Gazette, to fix the rate at which Stamp Duties under the said Act X of 1862 will be taken by Government on such Deeds, Instruments, and Writings, as aforesaid ; and every such Deed, Instrument, and Writing, which shall be stamped with the full and proper stamp or stamps required by the said Act X of 1862, calculated according to the rate of exchange which shall have been fixed by the said Governor, by a Notification as aforesaid (which Notification shall be in force, and not rescinded by any other such Notification as aforesaid, at the time when such Deed, Instrument, or Writing, became liable to Stamp Duty), shall be held to be duly stamped under the said Act X of 1862.

Rate of exchange for payment of Stamp Duties, in Indian Currency, to be fixed by Governor.

IV. Every Deed, Instrument, or Writing, liable to Stamp Duty in the said Settlement, which, before the time when the last preceding Section and this Section of this Act shall come into operation, shall have been stamped with the full and proper stamp or stamps required by the said Act X of 1862, calculated according to the rate fixed by a Notification of the said Governor before the time when the said Sections shall come into operation (which Notification shall be in force, and shall not have been rescinded by any other such Notification, at the time when such Deed, Instrument, or Writing, became liable to Stamp Duty), shall be held to have been duly stamped under the said Act X of 1862.

Provision as to Deeds, &c., stamped before the coming into operation of this and the last Section.

V. Section III and Section IV of this Act shall be read and taken as part of the said Act X of 1862, and shall come into operation on the first day of June 1863.

Commencement of Sections III & IV.

which are hereby rescinded.

1. Recommendations of Non-Commissioned Officers desirous of entering the Ordnance Department from Regiments and Brigades of Artillery are to be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Ordnance and Magazines, accompanied by a Roll prepared in the form laid down in paragraph 8, Section XLIV, Military Regulations, (the heading being altered to suit the case) to which a Character Sheet is to be attached, and by an application from the candidate which, together with the Roll, should be prepared by himself in the presence of the Officer recommending him, who should certify that they were written without assistance or correction by any other person, and that the candidate has a knowledge of Arithmetic, especially Vulgar and Decimal Fractions.

2. The Roll should also shew that the applicant has read Circular No. 1781A., dated Adjutant General's Office, Calcutta, the 20th September 1861, that he is willing to be transferred to the Unattached List on the conditions specified therein, and to be posted to an Arsenal or Magazine in the grade of Laboratory man. The Roll should be accompanied by a Certificate from the Officer Commanding his Regiment, or if in the Artillery, his Brigade stating his consent to the transfer, and whether there is or is not any Regimental objection to it.

3. The recommendation is further to be accompanied by a Medical Certificate that the applicant is free from bodily infirmity, and likely to prove fit for the duties of the Ordnance Department, which require ability to undergo much bodily exertion and exposure to the weather at all seasons.

4. The above conditions having been fulfilled, and the Roll forwarded to the Inspector-General of Ordnance, as directed in the 1st paragraph, the name of the Non-Commissioned Officer will be placed on the list of candidates in the Office of the Inspector-General of Ordnance, from which, when necessary, he will select and forward to His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief the names of such men as he desires to have placed at his disposal for transfer to the Unattached List and appointment as Laboratory man, from which grade upwards every candidate for Warrant rank must in future pass.

5. When a sufficient period in the grades of Laboratory man and Magazine Serjeant has been passed, which (unless vacancies occur in the Warrant Grades which pressingly require to be filled up) will not be less than one year to admit of the candidate acquiring a knowledge of the general duties of the Department, and a Report being received from the Commissary of Ordnance under whose orders he is serving, of his being so qualified, he will, according to his standing on the roster of candidates, be appointed in General Orders a Probationer for Warrant rank, and will enter on the course of instruction hereafter laid down, with a view to his eventual appointment as Officiating Sub-Conductor of Ordnance when opportunity offers.

6. Rolls of such men now in the Department who are considered likely to prove fit for the Warrant Grade are to be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Ordnance under the Rules laid down in paragraphs 1 and 3 of this Order; and if approved, their names will be placed on the list of candidates, and their probation for Warrant rank commence in due course according to their standing on that list.

7. The course of instruction for candidates for Warrant rank will be as follows :—

The composition, properties, uses, and mode of proving and preserving Gunpowder, Boxer's Fuzes, Armstrong Fuzes, Friction Tubes, Enfield Rifle Ammunition, Percussion Caps.

A practical acquaintance with the several Laboratory operations carried on in Arsenals and Magazines, including the manufacture of port-fires, signal rockets, quick match, slow match, light balls, smoke balls, percussion musket, and two-grooved rifle ammunition, balled and blank; preparing the different compositions, driving, marking, capping, and setting common fuzes; filling carcases, casting leaden balls, grummetting, and fixing wooden bottoms to shot and shell.

Knotting and splicing rope, laying down platforms, mounting and dismounting Ordnance, removing crippled Ordnance carriages, changing wheels, the use of the Triangle Gyn, and a practical knowledge of all the mechanical manœuvres described in "Lefroy's Hand Book for Field Service," pages 177 to 190, 3rd edition of 1862.

Packing and equipping for service a Field and Siege gun and ammunition carriage of each description.

A practical knowledge of the mode of examining, cleaning, and preserving musketry, and brass and iron Ordnance.

A knowledge of the equipment of the several arms of the service.

A knowledge of the nomenclature, properties, and uses of the principal Ordnance stores,—of the best mode of storing, packing, and preserving destructible articles under different circumstances and climates.

A complete knowledge of the Rules for the receipt, issue, condemnation, and conversion of stock.

A sufficient knowledge of the Vernacular for issuing orders and supervising bodies of Native workmen.

8. After being six months under instruction in the duties of a Warrant Officer, (or sooner if the candidate qualifies) the Commissary of Ordnance will examine him on all the points specified, and report accordingly to the Inspector-General of Ordnance through the Deputy Inspector-General of Ordnance, who will cause him to be further tested by working out certain written questions on Ordnance subjects* under the eye of the Commissary of Ordnance. Should the result be favorable, and a vacancy exist, he will be at once appointed Officiating Sub-Conductor, and posted in that grade to an Arsenal or Magazine; but, in the event of no vacancy existing, he will continue to do duty as a Non-Commissioned Officer in the Arsenal or Magazine to which he belongs until a vacancy occurs, when he will be appointed.

* In arithmetic, piling of shot and shell, timber measurement, cordage, mensuration of planes and solids, &c.

9. If the Report is unfavorable, he will revert to his former position in the Arsenal or Magazine, and such reversion will be in like manner duly notified in General Orders by His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief on the recommendation of the Inspector-General.

10. After the lapse of six months (and not sooner in this case) passed in the grade of Officiating Sub-Conductor, a further report will be made as before, but with special reference to the candidates performance of the duties of a Warrant Officer; and if favorable, he will be permanently appointed Sub-Conductor, his rank reckoning from the date of his officiating appointment.

11. Three Supernumerary Non-Commissioned Probationers for Warrant rank are allowed to be under instruction at the same time; their places in the Arsenal or Magazine, as well as those of absentees on furlough, will be filled up by the appointment of other Non-Commissioned candidates from the post of Laboratory man.

12. Promotion from the rank of Sub-Conductor to that of Conductor will take place in the usual course, provided it can be shown that individuals have not "retrograded either in character or bodily or mental activity from the period of their entrance into the Ordnance Department, and that they have proved themselves capable of satisfactorily holding charge of command parties either by land or water."

13. Recommendation to Government for promotion from the rank of Conductor to that of the senior grade must be accompanied by Medical Certificates, to the effect that the individuals are mentally and physically fit for the duties of their profession in Cantonments and the Field, and by Certificates from the Commissary of Ordnance under whose orders they may be serving, that they are sufficiently active, zealous, and energetic, to ensure their correct performance.

14. The appointment of Second Class permanent Conductors will be made by the Inspector-General on the recommendation of Commissaries of Ordnance and the Deputy Inspector-General; and Officers recommending men for these appointments will be held strictly responsible that they possess the qualifications necessary for the efficient performance of the duties required from this class, viz., good Accountants, Penmen, and Readers; good judges of arms, accoutrements, and Ordnance stores generally, and thoroughly conversant with Ordnance details, and with every detail of duty, and be quite capable of holding charge of an Ordnance Depôt.

To obtain advancement from the Second to First Class Permanent Conductor, candidates will be required to undergo an examination by the Deputy Inspector-General.

15. The Deputy Inspector-General during his periodical tours of inspection will bring to the notice of the Inspector-General, for the information of Government, any instances when permanent Conductors are found to be deficient in the above qualifications.

16. The Warrant and Non-Commissioned Officers of the Ordnance Department will be entirely under the control and orders of the Inspector-General, and their promotion regulated by him, and on his recommendation will be published in General Orders.

Government of Bengal.

The Offices of District and Deputy Registers.

(RESOLUTION.)

JUDICIAL.

Fort William, the 16th May 1863.

READ Act IX. of 1862.

Read Resolution dated 28th December 1860, and Circular Order No. 2404, dated 11th September 1861.

RESOLUTION.—In accordance with the principle laid down in the above Resolution, the Lieutenant-Governor determines that all vacancies which now exist, or shall hereafter take place, in the Offices of Districts and Deputy Registers, and all new Offices of Registers which may hereafter be established by the Lieutenant-Governor under the power vested in him by Section 3 of Act IX. of 1862, shall be filled up, when practicable, by Officers in the rank of Principal Sudder Ameen, Additional Principal Sudder Ameen, or Sudder Ameen and Sudder Moonsiff.

In order to carry out this arrangement as closely as possible Zillah Judges are required to report to the Government without delay the occurrence of a permanent vacancy in the Office of Register or Deputy Register, appointing the Officer highest in rank of the classes above specified to act temporarily as Register pending further orders.

In cases of merely temporary vacancy Zillah Judges will, in conformity with this principle of selection, appoint an Officer to officiate as District or Deputy Register under Section 7 of Act IX. of 1862, reporting the name of the person so selected for the information of Government.

On the occurrence of a permanent vacancy in the Office of District or Deputy Register, for which the services of no Officer of any of the classes to which selection has been primarily limited are available, the Zillah Judge will report to Government the names of such other persons as he may consider eligible candidates for the office, selecting one of the number to officiate as Register or Deputy Register, as the case may be, pending the orders of Government. When the vacancy is only temporary the Judge will fill up the appointment, under Section VII., according to his discretion, reporting the name of the person so selected for the information of Government.

District Registers, appointed under the Government Resolution of 28th December 1860, and all District and Deputy Registers who may be hereafter appointed, will not be allowed to receive and appropriate fees, but will be paid by a fixed salary as sanctioned under Section XI. Until further orders the Lieutenant-Governor directs that the salary of each District Register shall be 80 Rupees a month, and that of each Deputy Register 25 Rupees a month. The Salary Bill in each case should be submitted monthly direct to the Civil Pay-Master, who will charge the amount passed against the General Registration Fund. All fees which may hereafter be paid to the District and Deputy Registers shall be forwarded by them, on the 1st of every month, to the Collector of the District in which they hold office, to be credited by him to the District Registration Fund, subject only to the following deductions on account of Establishment :—

Where the fees do not exceed 100 Rupees per month ...	15 Rupees on account of one Clerk.
Above 100 and not exceeding 300 Rupees	An Additional Clerk on 10 Rupees =25 Rupees a month.
Above 400 and not exceeding 600 Rupees ..	A second additional Clerk on 10 Rupees =35 Rupees a month.

No deviation from the above scale can be permitted without the sanction of Government, but District and Deputy Registers may submit monthly a Bill of contingent charges for Register Books, Stationery, &c., to the Zillah Judge, who will sanction payment of the same, debitable to the Registration Fund in the Collectorate.

The Deputy Auditor and Accountant-General will prepare at the close of each financial year a general account of the Registration Fund for all the Districts which may come under the operation of this Resolution: a copy of such account shall be submitted for the information and orders of Government.

District Registers will be appointed in those Districts only where a Zillah Judge is stationed.

The jurisdiction of the District Register of any District shall be co-extensive with that of the Magistrate of such District. The jurisdiction of a Deputy Register whose office may be situated in any Sub-Division of a District shall be co-extensive with the local jurisdiction of the Magistrate in charge of such Sub-Division of a District. The jurisdiction of a Deputy Register whose office is not so situated shall be co-extensive with the jurisdiction of the Magistrate of such District, but shall not include any Sub-Division of such District within which any other Deputy Register's office or offices may be situate.

Pending further instructions all Circular Orders issued by the late Sudder Court for the guidance of Registers, excepting so far as they are modified by any subsequent Law or Regulation, will form the rules of guidance for all Registers in the conduct of their duties and in the preparation of their several Returns.

Government of Bengal.

Sanitary condition of the Villages in the Eastern Bank of the River Hooghly.

From Dr. J. McClelland, Officiating Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, to the Hon'ble A Eden, Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 69, dated the 15th May 1863.)

I have the honor to forward, for submission to the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, the accompanying original letter No. 55, dated 13th instant, from Dr. Elliot, on special duty in the Hooghly and Nuddea Districts; and, with reference to the last paragraph thereof, beg very respectfully to state that a Sub-Assistant Surgeon or superior Native Doctor will at once be placed at Dr. Elliot's disposal to fill the place of Acting Sub-Assistant Surgeon Chunder Coomar Moietry, who has quitted his post without leave or notice.

2. Please return the enclosure when no longer required.

From Dr. J Elliot, Civil Assistant Surgeon, on Special Duty, to the Secretary, Principal Inspector General, Medical Department,—(No 55, dated the 13th May 1863.)

I.—I have the honor to report, for the information of the Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, and of the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, that I have lately visited the principal villages on the eastern bank of the River Hooghly lying between Moolajore, Halleeshahur, Chogdah, Ranaghat, and Oollah, returning by Poorbustholee in the Burdwan District, Goopteeparah, Bullaghur, Pundooah, Bansberiah, and other places on the western bank of the River.

I have also visited the Station of Baraset and the village of Majergram, a few miles distant from it. At many of these places measures are being taken to clear the villages of low jungle, superfluous trees, shrubs, and rank vegetation of every sort, and in localities where the personal supervision and superintendence of Magistrates have been exercised the work progresses favorably, and considerable temporary benefit may be expected on the result of their labors.

At many other places, for want of the constant superintendence of those in authority, and more perhaps owing to want of the following co-operation and assistance of Zemindars and of the people generally, very little has been done, and the sanatory measures recommended for the improvement of villages having been only partially carried out little or no benefit is expected.

This may be said of Goopteeparah in its present state, of Shomrah, Bullaghur, Damoordah, and other villages in the Hooghly District, and the same remark applies to many others in Nuddea and Baraset.

The great difficulty in carrying out this work lies in the indifference and apathy evinced by the higher classes, and I may say in the unwillingness on the part of the whole body of the people to assist in any way unless under the influence of fear or compulsion.

Zemindars of the Districts in question and other men of property who ought to have come forward as examples to others, and who should have provided funds in their respective villages for the purpose of clearing them and relieving their poorer fellowmen from suffering, have almost, without exception, proved the greatest obstructions to the work, either by pleading poverty, by absenting themselves when called upon to attend, or by quietly evading orders, and delaying to commence work on their own land till a certain amount of pressure has been brought to bear upon them. Many such people prefer death to parting with their money, although they are well aware that it has to be expended in their own villages and for their own special benefit.

There is a want of ready money and also of laborers in most places, both of which are necessary to carry out sanatory operations effectually on a large scale, and much time is lost by the ineffectual attempts of the people to carry out the work with their own hands which ought to be done by hired labor. When money is more frequently promised than willingly paid for the purpose of procuring laborers, and when it has to be extracted from day to day in small sums, much delay and inconvenience necessarily results to those superintending such a work.

With reference to the more expensive operations, such as deepening and re-digging tanks, making roads, drains, and digging of khals, &c., but little has been or can be done on a large scale, until considerable sums of money have been deposited to ensure that the work shall not be stopped when it is half executed. The difficulties attending operations of this kind are greater than can be imagined by those who have not been on the spot, and who have not seen what is actually required in most large villages.

Another difficulty will shortly present itself, and that is the inability on the part of the people to keep their land free of jungle after it has been once cleared.

Owing to the entire want of cultivation of village land, jungle of every description springs up almost as quickly as it has been cleared, and unless arrangements are speedily made by which the land can be put under immediate cultivation and crops can be grown, which will prove more or less profitable to the cultivator, the same process of cutting, clearing and uprooting must be continued and repeated under compulsion from year to year at great expense and trouble.

This will prove unprofitable to all concerned, and in large villages, such as Oollah and others where there is much waste land and a scanty population, it will be impossible to keep the place clear for more than a few weeks or months at most.

Under these circumstances, I think it necessary to bring this to the notice of the Government, with a view to the matter being taken into consideration, and such measures being adopted as may be deemed best to bring the waste land in and around villages as much as possible under cultivation.

Patches of land in the centre of villages held rent free producing only jungle. Land occupied by mangoe, plantain, and other fruit trees generally belongs to people of high caste who do not cultivate themselves, and are unwilling to let it out to others for that purpose. Until these and similar tracts of land are brought under cultivation, and until the soil is exposed to the sun's rays at least twice in the year, I am of opinion that such places can never be healthy or habitable.

II.—I visited the various Dispensaries in their respective Districts. They are all provided with a fair supply of the most necessary medicines. The Native Doctors of Oollah and Chogdah have been dismissed, as they have not given satisfaction in the discharge of their duties, and more competent men have been substituted.

The Sub-Assistant Surgeon who was sent to the village of Poorbustholee has not returned to his post, and as I have not been able to learn any particulars regarding him, I solicit the favor of your sending another man in his stead, as the people in that and the surrounding villages are suffering much from epidemic fever.

Government of Bengal.

Report on the sanitary measures adopted in the 24-Pergunnahs.

From C. F. Montresor, Esq., Magistrate of the 24-Pergunnahs, to the Junior Secretary to the Government of Bengal.—(No. 272, dated the 10th May 1863.)

With advertence to your letter No. 1655 of the 10th ultimo, I have the honor to report that considerable progress is being made in clearing away the jungle in some of the villages that have been more seriously affected by the late epidemic and from general Report, as well as that from Mr. Harrison at Baraset, I understand the sickness is much on the decline.

2. Mr. J. D. Maclean, having been deputed to superintend the duty on those parts immediately adjacent to the banks of the Hooghly from Tittaghore to Kanchraparrah, has doubtless furnished a separate Report, and I would remark that for some days I have not heard of what progress he has made.

3. The sum of Rupees 3,000 was sent to him from this Office during the course of the past week.

4. Dr. Elliot and Lieutenant Hills have been to Baraset and placed themselves in communication with Mr. Harrison.

5. Annexed are four Reports from Mr. Harrison regarding his own labors, which have been confined to Baraset and its immediate vicinity, owing to the great difficulty in procuring labor in those parts. I have supplied Mr. Harrison with 100 Boona Coolies employed by me in the Ferry Fund Roads, these men are well suited for the work, and I have sent for a further supply from Chota Nagpore, but I am doubtful of success at this season of the year.

6. Mr. Harrison has daily superintended the work himself, and encouraged by his presence the villagers to assist, but he informs me that beyond Baraset Proper he has been able to do little, owing to the excessive apathy evinced by the villagers themselves.

7. I have instructed Mr. Harrison to extend his operations to those villages immediately requiring his assistance, and to carry out my instructions for fumigating the villages thoroughly by fires composed of the foliage and jungle cut in different parts of the villages.

From H. L. Harrison, Esq., Assistant Magistrate, Baraset, to the Magistrate of the 24-Pergunnahs,—(No. 115, dated the 10th April 1863.)

The village of Badoo, near Baraset, has suffered from the epidemic very seriously, more severely I think than any other place in the neighbourhood of Baraset. Doctor Elliot's Report will, I know, corroborate this; one of the chief causes is that a large tank from which the majority of the inhabitants drink has become so densely overgrown with weeds and mosses that the water is entirely corrupted. The inhabitants of the village spontaneously held a Meeting about cleaning this tank on Saturday last, the 4th instant, which I attended at their invitation, and subsequently have contracted to have the tank cleared for Rupees 310, of which, after the Meeting, Rupees 153 were subscribed by themselves. As Badoo is one of the villages in the union of Baraset and pays monthly nearly Rupees 100 Chowkeydaree Tax, and as up to the present time it has received no benefit from it beyond the entertainments of the Chowkeydars, I think that Rupees 50 might fairly be allowed in aid of the above purpose, to be granted conditionally on the money which has been subscribed being collected. I therefore request your sanction to Rupees 50 being given from the Chowkeydaree Fund for that purpose.

From H L Harrison. Esq. Assistant Magistrate of Baraset, to the Magistrate of the 24-Pergunnahs,—(No. 145, dated the 27th April 1863.)

I have the honor to forward herewith a weekly Statement of expenses up to Saturday evening, April 25th, connected with the cutting jungles, &c., in Baraset :—

Of this latter sum of Rupees 30-3 a further sum of about Rupees 23 will be realized and the balance of Rupees 7 remitted, the owners being too poor to bear the expense.

On Tuesday I appointed a Mohurir on Rupees 15 a month, who is performing his work very efficiently and satisfactorily. To-day Mr. Erming, of the Public Works Department, reported himself. I shall leave to him the more immediate superintendence of the neighbouring, and myself with the aid of the Mohurir shall be able to complete the work at Baraset.

Through want of Coolies no works have yet been commenced in any other places, but at Baraset a good announcement has been made, and the entire town will be cleared by the end of May at the latest. Lieutenant Hills and Doctor Elliot intend paying Baraset a visit on Monday.

The Baraset Committee have made over to me Rupees 200 out of the collections in addition to the Rupees 40 they have already granted for the Thakoor Pookur Tank.

Lieutenant Hills and Dr Elliot have been here to-day, and have undertaken to send 500 Coolies down here in there days. If I get these I can get on. Doctor Elliot insists that unless the pits and tanks are filled in the whole labor will be thrown away. Accordingly, an effort will be made to do this, but I agree with you that it will be found impossible to complete it before 1870.

From H L. Harrison, Esq., Assistant Magistrate of Baraset, to the Magistrate of the 24-Pergunnahs,—(No. 145, dated the 29th April 1863.)

I have the honor to request the favor of your 208. giving me some definite information at your earliest convenience as to the amount of Government aid on which I can rely in conducting the works around Baraset. In a day or two I hope to have 300 or 400 Coolies at work, re-digging and cleaning tanks and cleaning out drains. Of course my intention is to recover by far the greater portion of the expense from the owners on whose land and for whose benefit they work, but in recovering this delay must frequently occur, while, if I have not a constant supply of ready money, the Coolies will strike and the works stand still. It is therefore very essential for me to know what amount I can rely on as a working balance. I should be greatly aided if you could let me draw on you for a further sum of Rupees 200 at once. Baraset itself is progressing well, and I feel hopeful of being able to bring it into a good state before the rains, but with regard to the neighbouring villages I am by no means sanguine, the task is so immense. In Majorgram I am going to commence at once, the greater part of your Boona Coolies will be sent there when they arrive. As Sections 308, 314 of the Code of Criminal Procedure are being universally made use of, and as acting on these Sections it may in several instances be expedient to fine the owners under Section 188 of the Penal Code, I am desirous to know whether it would be permissible to add the amount of such fines to the funds for removing the nuisances, &c. Such a course I think both reasonable and equitable, but I am afraid that without a special permission it cannot be done. If you approve of this proposal, may I request that you will endeavor to obtain the permission at once, as it will very greatly facilitate my efforts.

From H. L. HARRISON, Esq., Assistant Magistrate of Baraset, to the Magistrate of the 24-Pergunnahs,—(No. 152, dated the 5th May 1863)

I HAVE the honor to forward my second weekly Report of the progress of the measures which are being taken to remove the epidemic.

In Baraset everything is proceeding well; it is too late in the year to re-dig many tanks, but one important tank is being re-dug, and there is another very good tank in the town. These two will be preserved for drinking purposes only, so that there will be a good supply of water for all who take the trouble to fetch it.

The remainder of the tanks and dobbas, which cannot easily be filled in, are being cleared of weeds and jungles, and every description of vegetation removed from their banks. By this means I hope that the malaria emanating from them will be in a great measure stayed. The jungles and superfluous trees and bamboos are also being cut down, and the work is progressing well. I have also at Doctor Elliot's advice engaged men to turn up the soil where the jungles have been cut and draining has commenced; in fact, I have 300 Coolies of all descriptions at work (including those cutting the tank under Contract), and I receive very great assistance from the several Members of the Branch British Indian Association and other inhabitants. I have great hopes of satisfactorily completing the work here, as regards Baraset itself and its adjacent Mohullas. Unfortunately, I regret to say that I have little or no hope of accomplishing any thing satisfactorily in any of the other villages. I have issued Am. Perwannahs, and also a great number of Special Perwannahs on the occupiers, but I have no Coolies to send there and no means of adequately superintending them if sent. During the past week I have in person visited two of the villages, Rungopore and Majorgram, but I can well see that the time is too short, the work too extensive, and the difficulty of finding Coolie too great to allow me to hope that I can accomplish anything beyond what the inhabitants can be prevailed on to do for themselves. Mr. Ewing, a Public Works Overseer, has been here since Saturday, the 25th April, and I have stationed him at Majorgram, but he does not understand the work, and though he has been here ten days he has not succeeded in procuring any Coolies or in commencing any works of any description whatever. If these villages are to be cleared on any large scale it is absolutely indispensable that a Special Officer should be deputed here, but I am privately of opinion that by attempting too much everything would be badly done. If this year Baraset is well cleared, something like Jessore was several years ago, and if the result is a clear and decisive improvement of health of the inhabitants, then there will be little difficulty in prevailing on the neighbouring villages to imitate its examples next year, and the work can be commenced early in November or December. In that case whatever can be done to mitigate the sickness shall be done, but I will continue to direct my efforts as at present towards bringing Baraset into a proper condition.

I shall be glad if you can give me an early answer as to the disposal of fines for neglect of orders.

Account up to Saturday, May 2nd, inclusive.

The advances in Baraset have been pretty well worked off and may be taken as a fair representation of the expenses. More of the advances at Majorgram have been worked off. In addition to the sums re-paid, Rupees 140 are due for works done on behalf of Government, and are in course of being recovered.

Government of Bengal.

Report on the sanitary measures adopted in Hooghly, &c., &c.

From A. V. Palmer, Esq., Magistrate of Hooghly, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 274, dated the 11th May 1863.)

As directed in your letters marginally noted, I have the honor to submit a Report of the progress of the sanitary measures adopted in this District and of that portion of the Nuddea and 24-Pergunnahs District lying between Santipore and Moolajore.

No. 1657, dated 10th April.

2. Mr. J. Maclean has superintended the works on the east side of the Hooghly, and his Reports, dated respectively 30th ultimo and 5th instant, I herewith forward.

3. His attention has been chiefly directed to the cutting and removing of jungle and the formation of roads and common drains in the villages marginally noted. He has been successful in obtaining promises of pecuniary support in the villages marked with an asterisk, and I have every reason to hope that other villages will follow this example.

Nyehatty.*	Bheestoopore
Hallesahaur.*	Meenda.
Kanchrapara.*	Goreefa.
Ghoseparrah.	Chogdah.*
Goostiah.	Kantalhara.
Moorutpore.	Vatpara.

4. On the west bank of the Hooghly I have as directed by Government superintended operations myself. In the affected villages within the Pandooah, Hooghly, and Bansbaria Thannahs, the greater part of the jungles ($\frac{11}{16}$) has been cut and removed by the people themselves at their own expense. I think we have attained a very important point, when the principle of each man clearing his own jungle is recognized, as then there is some chance of the affected localities being in future kept in a clean and healthy condition. Had the cutting and removal of this jungle been done at the Government expense it would not have been effected nearly as promptly, would have cost several thousands of Rupees, caused intense grumbling, and the people would never hereafter have been induced to do at their own expense what had once been done at the expense of Government.

5. The precedent, I submit, would have been a dangerous one.

6. I have repeatedly visited those villages named in the margin, lying between Tribanny and Hooghly, in which the epidemic was most severe. The Public Works Department have not as yet "placed at my disposal several intelligent Overseers," as communicated in your letter No. 1783, and I am much in need of them. Mr. Rooke was here for three days only when he had to leave for his other duties.

Mullick Joendirbag.	Dewanarbag.
Goriboollabag.	Shibpore
Shahagunge.	Mooraripore.
Mirkolla.	Tribanny.

7. I have carefully noted the suggestion of Mr. Beaufort regarding opening out a jungle by cutting a passage through it of fifty feet wide, but on this side of the River I do not apprehend it will be necessary to resort to this measure. I am opening out several village roads, raising them above flood level, with two good drains on either side, thereby affording a facility of communication in the village not previously engaged. I am also having holes filled up, and main drains cut to carry of the rain water. Having secured a main channel for the outlet of water, it will be easy, as occasion require, to cut feeders thereto.

8. The tanks and deep holes are by far the most difficult part of the business to deal with. Those which are very filthy and in which the water is discolored and unwholesome I am having cleaned, assisting the owners, if indigent, from the money at my disposal.

But as a rule this portion of the work must be let alone for the present season, as to do anything effectually will be a work of magnitude and time.

9. Any one acquainted with the habits and internal economy of a Bengalee village is aware that no arrangement whatever exists in its formation. Each individual raises his house where he likes, and drainage is never thought of. The houses are for the most part made of mud; the holes caused by the removal of the earth for the construction of the walls of the house are never filled up. During the rains they are filled with water, which after a time stagnates, and which, however filthy its condition may be, the inmates of the house insist on using, owing to its propinquity to their houses. From these causes tanks or deep holes of all sizes having more or less water exist every twenty or thirty yards.

10. It is a waste of time and money to proceed with those otherwise than by a properly organized system, and all we can do at present is to ameliorate those which are simply poisonous.

11. Pandooah, the village adverted to in your letter No. 1755, dated 15th April, has been tolerably cleared of jungle. The Executive Engineer, Mr. Rooke, has reported the natural drainage to be excellent, and there are several good broad roads through every part of the village. There is in this village no deficiency of passages for air.

12. The tanks, or rather holes of water, are quite innumerable. What is to be done with them I have not as yet finally determined. I have caused all the graves to be battened down and well covered with earth. These graves are all over the place. The village is composed of a quantity of petty Ayma holdings, and there is no common Burial Ground, hence each dead man has been buried on the ground attached to the house he occupied when alive. I am in hopes of being able to make an arrangement for a public Mahomedan Burial Ground at Pandooah.

13. As an experiment, I have caused several wells to be sunk where eight or nine houses are together. This will give the people pure water, (which at Pandooah is naturally excellent,) to drink at their very thresholds, and if notwithstanding this they still persist in resorting to the stagnant holes, I think we may reasonably give up the idea of attempting to benefit such a pig-headed community.

14. In the Hooghly District I have not attempted to collect local subscriptions. From a letter received from the British Indian Association I was of opinion that it would be preferable for me not in any way to interfere in the matter of collecting subscriptions but to leave that to be done by the Association themselves.

15. I beg to say that I see no necessity for any immediate special legislation. I think that a Village Conservancy Act for the whole of Bengal might with advantage be introduced hereafter, but special legislation is always invidious, and I do not consider that any absolute necessity for it at present exist.

16. I would also take this opportunity of stating, for the information of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, the procedure which I have adopted in regard to carrying out the sanitary measures as directed by Government.

17. In the first place, I issued a general Notice to the community at large, affixing a written copy in each village, calling on parties possessing or having within their occupancy jungles or dirty tanks forthwith to clear and to clean them by uprooting, removing, and burning. On its being brought to my notice that any parties persistently refused to conform to the order, as contained in the aforesaid Notice, special direction was served on them pointing out what was required, and calling on them to do it within a given time.

18. This direction was in two forms, one under Section 308, Criminal Procedure Code, applying to nuisances requiring to be removed from a thoroughfare or public place, and the other, under Section 62, applying to any locality, and with reference to causes from which the Medical Officer had on oath stated that immediate injury and danger to human health and life arose.

19. After the period named in these orders a Police Officer was deputed to the spot, who reported how far the order had been carried out.

20. If it appeared that the party was bonâ fide obeying the order without any unreasonable delay, the Police Officer was directed to report again after a fixed reasonable time had elapsed.

21. If it appeared that the party persistently refused to obey the order, a Summons for his attendance on a fixed day before the Magistrate was issued, on which day, after proof had been taken of his receipt of the order, and of the fact of his disobedience thereto on conviction, a moderate fine, under Section 188 of the Indian Penal Code, was imposed upon him.

22. If the party when before the Magistrate consented to carry out the orders issued to him within a reasonable time, he was allowed to do so, if not, the amount of fine for disobedience has been regulated by the estimated cost of carrying out the directions issued.

23. Finally, I beg to state that in every case the object has been to get the people to do what is absolutely necessary themselves, and not to harass them by attendance at Court and by fine.

24. Mr. Kelly, who has been appointed my Assistant in this District, reported his arrival on the 5th instant, and on the 7th proceeded to Bullaghur.

From J. D. MACLEAN, ESQ., on Special Duty in Nudden and 24-Pergunnahs, to A. V. PALMER, ESQ., Magistrate of Hooghly,—(dated the 30th April 1867.)

I HAVE the honor to submit my first weekly Report on the operations on the Nudden side of the River between Moolajore and Santipore, with regard to the special duty on which I have been deputed.

I have within this period visited the villages of Nychatty, Halleeshahur, Moolajore, and Kanchrapara. In each and all I have in company with Lieutenant Hills and Dr. Elliot been round the villages examining the state of the tanks, and have impressed on the inhabitants the necessity of clearing away all superfluous vegetation, and of cleansing their tanks, and generally of doing their utmost to bring the village into a proper and healthy state, and have at the same time warned them that if I see that they are apathetic and indifferent I should not hesitate to use the provisions of the Law to enforce the performance of what was necessary when it was evident that they would not obey orders.

As far as we were able to compass the inhabitants promised to do what was pointed out to them, and late visits to some of these villages bear evidence that they are to a certain extent complying with those orders, though not as thoroughly as yet as I could wish; but I think that after the period has elapsed, which was granted to them to do the work themselves, a few summary punishments of recusants will produce a greater result than is at present apparent. To state the case briefly, they like all Bengalee villagers are somewhat anxious to see how little they can do without bringing unpleasant consequences on themselves, but I think when convinced that they must do what is ordered they will do what is necessary from motives of self-interest. In these villages and similar ones close to the line of Railway the greatest difficulty we have to contend with is the absence of the persons most interested in, and most capable of, performing the work. These men are, on enquiry, generally found to be men employed or engaged in business in Calcutta, who seldom visit their homes, and leave no one in responsible charge of their houses and land, and the result is great delay in referring the matters to them by some relative in the village or head servant, who has little or no authority to expend money without his master's sanction.

The measures to which I have chiefly directed my attention have been first, the clearing away of jungle; second, the state of the tanks; and third, the means of securing such drainage as may be beneficial and at the same time compatible with the means at my disposal.

1st.—As to the clearing away of jungle and superfluous vegetation.—I have distributed throughout all the villages within my superintendence Notices calling upon the inhabitants to clear all such away, and have directed periodical Reports from the Police to be sent to me that I may deal with those men who do not comply as offenders. I have given reasonable time extending from three to seven days within which to perform this duty, and I shall not hesitate to enforce the necessary compliance with orders from those who are wilfully and determinately regardless of what their duty is; I have no fear but that this part of the work can be carried out.

2nd.—The state of, and necessary measures for clearing out the tanks and securing a proper supply of water.—This is by far the most critical and difficult part of the work for several reasons. (1.) Because the tanks are numerous, in fact so numerous that nothing but having seen them would convince a person of how numerous they are. I do not think I am beyond a safe estimate when I say that, on the average, a man can hardly walk twenty yards without coming to a regularly dug out tank or to a hole from which earth has been dug out to build a house, and which has afterwards become a tank of the most filthy description, covered with weeds, and thoroughly saturated with decomposing vegetable matter on the edges and bottom, and the water of which is manifestly, to the most unscientific eye, totally unfit for human use.

(III.) Because the work of digging out or filling a tank involves the expenditure of a considerable sum of money which they are not willing, and in some cases not able to afford, or even to command if they are willing to incur the expense individually. Added to this many men have more than one tank that it would be very advisable either to dig out or to fill in. I feel that I am representing this matter in a very strong light, but it is not unsupported by the facts. Moreover, though we may persuade many men individually to have their tanks re-dug or filled, if they can afford to do so, yet there will still remain much to be done, which, if it is to produce any thoroughly satisfactory result, must be the work of other than individual efforts. The money available from Government is, to speak plainly, utterly insufficient to supply this call; in fact, it would not suffice for the cleansing of many single villages; but this point I shall notice later. Lieutenant Hills is considering a plan for the general drainage of the villages as a whole, but this must entirely depend upon the amount of money that I can authorize him to spend, and this again must depend upon the amount available from Government and the private generosity of the Zemindars. I need hardly, however, point out the delay that must necessarily elapse in collecting and realizing the latter, nor refer to the very short time that is available to us for the execution of any work.

3rd.—The drainage to some extent of the Villages.—In concert with Lieutenant Hills I have decided to undertake a course of drainage founded upon Dr. Elliot's Report, viz., the waysides are to be cut out, the pathway slightly raised, and then smaller drains carried into the tanks or large water-courses that already exist in the village. The result we hope will be that there will be no stagnant or fetid accumulation of water, and the tanks will be kept continually flushed by a fresh supply, due consideration being given to the outlet of superfluous water either into other tanks or into the River.

Finally, I have to give my present opinion, after my investigation, of the necessary steps to be taken. I do not wish to be presumptuous when I say that we doubtless shall do much good, but that much will be but little in comparison with what is necessary, unless there is further power of carrying out whatever steps are necessary. We may be able to check any further increase, and perhaps slightly diminish the present evil, but to produce any thoroughly satisfactory result we must be supplied with far greater pecuniary resources.

All that Government can be expected to do (after supplying the scientific aid required to carry out the necessary operations) in a pecuniary way is as nothing to the wants of these villages, and we must look to private munificence or to the Law to assist us if any satisfactory result is to be looked for. Doubtless private generosity will do much; but considering what there is to do (and I have no hesitation in saying that none but those who have seen can conceive the amount), and the short time there is to do it in, I would earnestly recommend the immediate passing of a short Act throwing the burden of the necessary works upon the Zemindars and Villagers, or else the introduction of a compulsory Act similar to the Municipal or Suburban Act into these Districts, giving power to the Officers to collect the funds by a rate or otherwise. I am aware that special legislation is looked on generally with disfavor, and that it were far better that the Villagers should depend on themselves, but considering the crisis at which things have arrived and the absolute necessity of some powerful intervention to prevent the further spreading of this scourge either in the Mofussil or towards Calcutta, whither it appears to be advancing, and remembering, too, that the example of one year's exercise of such power (though it be felt oppresive in a pecuniary sense,) would shew the Zemindars and Villagers that if they will not do what is their duty, Government will insist upon their doing what is imperative, not only for themselves but for the preservation of public health. I would assuredly urge the promulgation of some such Law.

From J. D. MACLEAN, ESQ., Magistrate of the 24-Pergunnahs and Nuddea, to A. V. PALMER, ESQ., Magistrate of Hooghly,—(dated the 5th May 1863.)

IN continuation of my former Report I beg to inform you that during the past week I have visited the villages of Goreefa, Chogdah, Kantalpara, and Vatpara, in addition to frequent inspections of those villages that I had already visited. The demolition of the jungle and rank injurious vegetation has been progressing fairly, and here has produced a marked difference in the aspect of the villages by the amount of light and air thus introduced. I think the Villagers themselves are beginning to appreciate the difference.

Ghoseparah.	Beerpara.
Goostiah.	Bheestoopore.
Moorutpore.	Meenda.

I have chiefly devoted my attention this week to the endeavor to raise subscriptions in the villages themselves, apart from anything that the greater Zemindars may do, and I have been well met by the Villagers as a rule. In Halleshahur, Nyehatty, Kanchrapara, Chogdah, and Moolajore, the subscriptions will amount to about Rupees 10,000, according to the promises of the inhabitants. In doing this I have almost entirely left them to themselves. I used no argument beyond pointing out to them what their duty was, to what objects the money would be applied, and promising them that I would from the money at my disposal add 20 per cent to their subscription, and, as a matter of course, added that the money would be spent in the villages in which it was collected. I had some slight difficulty at first in getting them to come forward, but I have succeeded in removing that, and though, perhaps, some

In several places the work of improving the roadway and cutting slight drains, so as to give free outlet to the waters that collect in the interior of the village, has been begun by the Officers under Lieutenant Hills' guidance; and from what has been done already I think we shall improve the condition of the villages much by this part of the work alone: it is one, too, that is of general interest to the Villagers who would like more done in this way, than we shall have funds to accomplish. We have not been able as yet to take up the tanks, as it is very doubtful whether we can do any thing with them before the commencement of the rains, and the heavy rains of the last week or ten days have not improved our prospects in this respect.

The villages are for the most part of two kinds: those along the edge of the Hooghly somewhat wealthy and densely populated with the Subordinates of Calcutta Offices and the like, and the others more remote, which may be termed "chassa" villages, and are inhabited by mere ryots, very often without a single well-to-do man in the village; consequently in the former our difficulty consists in the fact that the village is left to itself from Monday till Saturday, and it is not easy to get the owners of the houses to do their work, because, firstly, they are not in the habit of staying in their village, and next, that they are not of a class of men that are used to work with their own hands, and some inconvenience has been felt by the demand for foreign labor. They certainly have afforded a certain amount of subscriptions, not as much as they should have done as a rule, but still better than nothing. The "chassa" Villagers on the contrary are too poor to make any money contribution, though they are cutting their own jungle, &c.; but these are so numerous that unless the Zemindars come forward with a very large sum we cannot do as much for them as they require.

The great want I feel is the certainty of a command of a large sum of money, such that I could authorize Lieutenant Hills to commence any large work for the benefit of a village with no uneasiness, lest the necessary amount should not be forthcoming, whereas I am obliged to divide the money into small portions, and cannot therefore undertake any very large operations, such as re-digging tanks. Moreover, these villages are seldom the property of any one Zemindar, but are infinitely sub-divided, and the Zemindars are not therefore in a position able to do much, nor are they to [illegible] ther to act in concert. We shall [illegible] make satisfactory progress [illegible] ans with the jungle and [illegible] will require a very [illegible] are to be put into a [illegible] repair, and will probably [illegible] after the rains.

Government of Bombay.

Progress Report on the Great Indian Peninsular Railway between Julgaon and the River Mund.

From Captain H. F. Hancock, Deputy Consulting Engineer, to the Consulting Engineer for Railways,—(dated Bombay, the 29th January 1863.)

I have recently inspected the works in progress on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway between Julgaon, the present terminus of the north-east line, and the River Mund at the 70th mile of the Nagpore Branch.

2. I find that it will be sometime yet before the fourteen miles of Railway between Julgaon and the Bhosawul Junction can be opened for public traffic. About four miles of rails have still to be laid. The ballasting and fencing are not more than half finished. There is another span of girders to be erected at the Wagoor Bridge, and the timbers and rails have to be laid across it. A bridge of two 15 arches have to be put in near Bhosawul and a culvert near Julgaon is unfinished. The Bhosaul Station has hardly been begun; only about one-third of the platform wall having been built. The sidings and crossings, however, have been laid.

3. With the exception of the Bhosawul Station building the above works might be completed in about two months by dint of hard work, and as it is highly desirable that the line should be made available for the conveyance of Railway material without unnecessary delay, I trust the Railway Company will secure its completion by the end of March, and at the same time urge the Contractors to greater activity at the Bhosawul Station, in order that it may be sufficiently advanced to admit of the public opening of the Railway in April.

4. The buildings at the Bhosawul Depôt are being put up rapidly and in excellent style by the Contractors Messrs. Hill, Cutts and Lund. The Running Engine Shed, Smithery, Machine Shops, Engineers and Locomotive Superintendents' Offices and the European Officers' Bungalows are ready for the roofing, which is now in hand, and the other buildings are in a forward state. The progress made is creditable to the Contractors.

5. From the junction of the Main Line and the Nagpoor Branch of Bhosawul to the commencement of No. 13 Contract, where the latter diverges a distance of about one and a half miles, the Railway is formed for the double line, and a little ballast has been spread on the side the Nagpoor rails are to run, but the rails are not yet laid. This portion of the Nagpoor Branch is, as you are aware, included in No. 15 Contract under Messrs. Wythes and Co., and the Railway Company should lose no time in getting those Contractors to complete this all-important link. Until it is finished the break will seriously interfere with the carriage of material intended for the Nagpoor line to the delay of the works; and of course no part of the Nagpoor Branch can be opened for traffic.

6. An Engine now runs from the commencement of No. 13 Contract one and a half miles beyond Bhosawul to a point a few miles beyond Mulkapoor Station (twenty-eight and a half miles on the Contract and thirty miles from Bhosawul). The following works are still unfinished on this portion:—

1. Stations and Sidings ...	(In progress.)
2. Inspectors' Bungalows, Gates and Level Crossings ...	(Hardly commenced.)
3. Fencing ...	(In progress.)
4. Ballast in places, parapet walls to Bridges, copings to parapets and wing walls and other small works ...	(In progress.)

7. I see nothing to prevent the Contractors completing the line to Mulkapoor Station (with the exception perhaps of the Booking Offices and Bungalows) by the 15th April next. The backwardness of masonry works will, as mentioned hereafter, prevent the line being opened beyond Mulkapoor for some months later.

8. As every mile of extension of the Railway into Berar will be of value to the trade of the country, the Railway Company will I think do right to open the line to Mulkapoor as soon as possible. Some additional expense will have to be incurred in fitting Mulkapoor Station for a Terminus, but the additional buildings may be of a light temporary character, the monsoon in West Berar being generally very mild. The Contractors have informed me that they will be glad to hand the line over to the Railway Company when ready, but that they must stipulate for the conveyance of their material intended for the works beyond Mulkapoor in certain proportions at rates to be fixed by agreement.

9. From Mulkapoor there is not much to be done to render the line passable to the Chandoor Bridge at 37¼ miles, but about a thousand yards of masonry are still required before that work, which consists of ten thirty feet openings, will be ready for the girders.

10. Between Chandoor and Sheagaom (sixty-two miles on the Contract and nearly sixty-four from Bhosawul) the progress in masonry since my inspection in January 1862 has not been satisfactory. The distance from which the Contractors have to bring building stone and the consequent expense of the work on this part of the line was probably the cause of the work proceeding languidly, until an increase of price was promised in the Spring of 1862; and in April last there was a severe visitation of Cholera, which drove the work-people away, and [I am informed] put almost an entire stop to the work for the remainder of the working season.

11. The principal unfinished masonry works are a Bridge of eight 30 openings at forty-one miles, one of ten 30 openings at forty-seven miles, one of five 30 openings at fifty miles, and one of seven openings at fifty-three miles. There are many culverts and small Bridges to be put in between the 40th and 55th miles; from the 55th mile to Sheagaom the masonry is more forward. Some miles of rails have been laid since I saw the works last year, and some ballasting done, but the progress made in these respects is not great. The Stations at Nandoora and Sheagaom have just been started and the fencing is being prepared.

12. The Contractors say they hope to finish to Sheagaom in October; but I think that it will not be safe to count upon the line being finished thus far before 1st January 1864. If the Contractors are soon relieved of the line as far as Mulkapoor, and are thus able to employ their Engine between that place and Sheagaom, they will no doubt be able to push the works on quicker than heretofore.

14. I take this opportunity of mentioning that the telegraph wire is (if I am not misinformed) now completed along the Railway as far as Budnaira, the Station for Oomrawuttee, and that it would probably be advantageous to the Railway Company and to the Merchants of Bombay to establish Offices at different points through the Cotton Districts; there is no reason why this should not be done at once if deemed advisable.

Resolution of the Government of Bombay, dated 24th February 1863.

Extracts of Captain Hancock's Report to be sent to Railway Company. Government regret to see that Bhosawul Station is hardly commenced, and that 1¼ mile of Railway, which by some extraordinary arrangement has been given to Messrs. Wythes' Contract, though it is so essential a portion of No. 13 Contract, is not yet laid.

The want of this link not only causes the Contractors of No. 13 loss of money, but must delay their work and the public opening of this most important line to Berar, which Government relied with such confidence would be rendered available for this season's Cotton Crop.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 16th May 1863, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

Act No. XXIV of 1863.

An Act to amend Act I of 1863, (to define the Jurisdiction and to regulate the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature in British Burmah, and to provide for the extension of certain Acts to the said Territory.)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act I of 1863, (to define the Jurisdiction and to regulate the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature in British Burmah, and to provide for the extension of certain Acts to the said Territory); It is enacted as follows:—

Governor-General may invest certain Courts in British Burmah with power to try suits, &c., now cognizable by Courts of lower grade.

Provision for appeals from orders and decisions in suits, &c., dealt with under preceding Section.

II. Appeals from orders and decisions passed by any Court invested as aforesaid, in suits or other matters of the nature described in the first preceding Section, shall lie to the Court to which appeals from orders and decisions passed by the said Court in the exercise of its ordinary [illegible] shall be subject to all the rules contained in the said Act in relation to such appeals.

Jurisdiction of Deputy Judicial Commissioner at Rangoon, and his Court.

III. The Court of the Deputy Judicial Commissioner at Rangoon shall, for the purposes of Act I of 1863, be a Court of a Deputy Commissioner as constituted by the said Act; and the said Deputy Judicial Commissioner shall exercise the same jurisdiction in respect to receiving, trying, and determining suits and other matters arising within his jurisdiction as Deputy Judicial Commissioner, as a Deputy Commissioner is competent to exercise under the said Act.

Civil Code of Pegu repealed, and Act VIII of 1859 substituted during certain period.

IV. The Code called the "Civil Code" of the Province of Pegu," with exception to Chapter III of the said Code as to the limitations of suits, and Chapter XXVII relating to Stamps, shall be held to have been repealed from the twentieth day of May 1862; and on and after the said date, until the first day of May 1863, Act VIII of 1859 (for simplifying the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature not established by Royal Charter), as extended by the Chief Commissioner of British Burmah to the Province of Pegu, shall be held to have been in force in that Province.

Provision as to order or decision passed, or proceeding held, by Courts in Pegu on or after the 20th May, 1862.

Home Department.

ACT No. XXV OF 1863.

An Act to empower Judges of the High Court and other Authorities at Fort William in Bengal to direct convicts to be imprisoned either in the House of Correction, or the Great Jail of Calcutta; and to authorize the transfer of prisoners, in certain cases, from the House of Correction to the Great Jail, and from the Great Jail to the House of Correction.

Preamble.

WHEREAS great inconvenience is occasioned in the administration of Criminal Justice, by reason of the House of Correction in Calcutta not having sufficient accommodation to contain all the prisoners from time to time sentenced to be there confined for divers offences, and it is desirable that the Judges of Her Majesty's High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, and the Justices of the Peace and Magistrates of Police for the Town of Calcutta, should be empowered to send prisoners to the Great Jail of Calcutta, as well as to the House of Correction; and whereas also it is desirable that the Government of Bengal should have power, in cases of over-crowding, sickness, or the like, to order the transfer of prisoners from the Great Jail to the House of Correction, and vice versâ; It is enacted as follows:—

Certain Sections of Act XVIII of 1862 repealed in part.

I. Sections XLVII, XLVIII, XLIX, L, LI, and LII, of Act XVIII of 1862 (to repeal Act XVI of 1852 in those parts of British India in which the Indian Penal Code is in force, and to re-enact some of the provisions thereof with amendments, and further to improve the administration of Criminal Justice in Her Majesty's Supreme Courts of Judicature), are hereby repealed, so far as they are applicable to, or have effect in, the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal, except as to any persons sentenced before the passing of this Act to rigorous imprisonment, or to imprisonment with hard labor, or to solitary confinement.

Persons sentenced by High Court to rigorous imprisonment, &c., may be imprisoned in the House of Correction or Great Jail.

II. Whenever any person shall be sentenced by Her Majesty's High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal to rigorous imprisonment, or to imprisonment with hard labor, or to solitary confinement, it shall be lawful for the Judges or Judge of the said Court to direct such person to be imprisoned either in the House of Correction, whether such House of Correction be under the control of the Sheriff or not, or in the Great Jail, as to them or him shall seem fit.

Persons sentenced by the said Court to transportation, &c., may be kept in House of Correction, or Great Jail.

III. Whenever any person shall be sentenced by the said High Court to transportation, or penal servitude, such person may, at the discretion of the Judges or Judge of the said Court, be kept in the House of Correction, whether such House of Correction be under the control of the Sheriff or not, or in the Great Jail, as the place of intermediate custody.

Delivery into, and responsibility for, custody of person directed to be kept in House of Correction.

IV. The Sheriff shall cause any person directed under either of the last two preceding Sections to be imprisoned or kept in the House of Correction, to be delivered to the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or to the Keeper of such House of Correction, together with a warrant to be signed by a Judge of the said High Court authorizing the detention of such person. Such Officer or Keeper shall be bound to receive the person so delivered over to his custody, and shall be responsible for the safe custody of such person.

All Constables, &c., empowered to assist.

V. All Constables and Police Officers are hereby empowered to aid and assist the Sheriff in carrying to the House of Correction any person sentenced as aforesaid.

Sheriff when absolved from responsibility.

VI. The Sheriff shall be absolved from all responsibility, in respect of the custody of any person sentenced as aforesaid to be imprisoned or kept in the House of Correction, from the time such person shall be delivered to the custody of the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or to the Keeper of such House of Correction.

Persons sentenced by Justice of the Peace, or Police Magistrate, to rigorous imprisonment, &c., may be committed either to House of Correction, or Great Jail.

VII. Whenever any person shall be sentenced by a Justice of the Peace or Magistrate of Police for the Town of Calcutta, to rigorous imprisonment, or imprisonment with hard labor, for any offence committed within the local limits of the ordinary original Civil jurisdiction of the said High Court, the person so sentenced may be committed by such Justice of the Peace or Police Magistrate either to the custody of the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or of the Keeper of the said House of Correction, whether such House of Correction be under the control of the Sheriff or not, or to the custody of the Sheriff, as to such Justice of the Peace or Police Magistrate shall seem fit. If the person so sentenced is committed to the custody of the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or the Keeper of the House of Correction, such Officer and Keeper shall be responsible for the safe custody of such person: if the person so sentenced is committed to the custody of the Sheriff, the Sheriff shall be responsible for his safe custody.

Lieutenant Governor of Bengal may order transfer of prisoners from House of Correction to Great Jail, and vice versâ.

VIII. If it shall at any time appear to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal that, by reason of sickness, over-crowding, or any other cause, it is necessary or desirable that any prisoner under sentence of imprisonment in the House of Correction should be transferred to the Great Jail, or that any prisoner under sentence of imprisonment in the Great Jail should be transferred to the House of Correction, it shall be lawful for the said Lieutenant-Governor to order the transfer of such prisoner, and the prisoner shall thereupon be transferred in the manner hereinafter provided for carrying out the transfer. If the order be for the transfer of a prisoner from the Great Jail to the House of Correction, the Sheriff shall cause the prisoner to be delivered to the Officer in whom the control

Transfer how made.

the House of Correction is vested, or to the Keeper of the House of Correction, together with the original warrant authorizing the detention of such prisoner, and the order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal signed by a Secretary to the Government of Bengal ordering his transfer. Such Officer or Keeper shall be bound to receive the person so delivered over to his custody, and shall be responsible for his safe custody. If the order be for the transfer of a prisoner from the House of Correction to the Great Jail, the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or the Keeper thereof, shall cause the prisoner to be delivered to the Sheriff, together with the original warrant authorizing the detention of such prisoner, and the order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal signed by a Secretary to the Government of Bengal ordering his transfer. The Sheriff shall be bound to receive the person so delivered over to his custody, and shall be responsible for his safe custody.

Recent transfers of prisoners from House of Correction to Great Jail declared to be legal.

IX. And whereas certain persons under sentence of imprisonment in the House of Correction have recently been on divers occasions transferred from the House of Correction to the Great Jail, and from the Great Jail to the House of Correction: it is hereby declared, that such transfers respectively shall be held to be, and at all times to have been, legal in all respects; and that the said persons now are, and always have been, and shall continue to be until the expiration of the period of their sentences respectively, in lawful custody, whether for the time being in the custody of the Sheriff in the Great Jail, or of the Keeper or Officer having the control of the House of Correction, in the House of Correction. Provided that nothing in this Section contained shall be held to render lawful the detention or custody of any prisoner whose detention or custody would have been unlawful irrespectively of such transfer.

ACT No. XXVI OF 1863.

An Act to amend Act XI of 1862 (to amend Act X of 1860, to amend Act VII of 1859, to alter the Duties of Customs on Goods imported or exported by Sea.)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the law relating to Customs' Duties; It is enacted as follows:—

Duty to be charged on Iron, and on Wines, Beer, Porter, &c.

I. In lieu of the Customs Duties authorized in Act XI of 1862 (to amend Act X of 1860, to amend Act VII of 1859, to alter the Duties of Customs on Goods imported or exported by Sea), to be charged on Iron, on Wines and Liqueurs, and on Porter, Ale, Beer, Cider, and other similar fermented Liquors when imported by Sea, there shall be levied and collected on the aforesaid Articles, when imported by Sea, the following Duties of Customs: that is to say;—

On Iron (which shall not be taken to include ironmongery, cutlery, or hardware)	...	One per cent. ad valorem:
On Wines and Liqueurs	...	One Rupee the Imperial Gallon:
And on Porter, Ale, Beer, Cider, and other similar fermented liquors	...	One anna the Imperial Gallon.

Act to have effect from 1st May 1863.

II. This Act shall be deemed to have had and to have effect as if it had actually passed and received the assent of the Governor-General on the first day of May 1863.

THE following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 16th May 1863, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT No. XXVII OF 1863.

An Act to further amend Act XXXII of 1860 (for imposing Duties on profits arising from Property, Professions, Trades, and Offices), and to amend Act XXXIX of 1860 (to amend Act XXXII of 1860), and Act XVI of 1862 (to limit in certain cases the amount of assessment to the Duties chargeable after the thirty-first day of July 1862, under Act XXXII of 1860, and Act XXXIX of 1860, and otherwise to modify the said Acts.)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to diminish the amount of Duties chargeable under Act XXXII of 1860 (for imposing Duties on profits arising from Property, Professions, Trades, and Offices), and under Act XXXIX of 1860 (to amend Act XXXII of 1860), and for that purpose to amend those Acts: and also to amend Act XVI of 1862 (to limit in certain cases the amount of assessment to the Duties chargeable after the thirty-first day of July 1862, under Act XXXII of 1860, and Act XXXIX of 1860, and otherwise to modify the said Acts); It is enacted as follows:—

Acts XXXII of 1860, XXXIX of 1860, and XVI of 1862 to be read with this Section.

I. From and after the thirty-first day of July 1863, the said Act XXXII of 1860, and the said Act XXXIX of 1860, and the said Act XVI of 1862, shall be read and construed as if, in the first Section of the said Act XXXII of 1860, the words "the yearly Duty of two Rupees for every hundred Rupees of the annual value thereof" appeared instead of the words "the yearly Duty of three Rupees for every hundred Rupees of the annual value thereof," except as to any Duties which shall have become chargeable under the said Acts previously to the said thirty-first day of July 1863.

II. Section XV of Act XVI of 1862 shall, from and after the said thirty-first day of July 1863, be read and construed as if the words "not less than twenty per cent. of the gross sum collected on account of the Duties of two and one per cent.," appeared therein in lieu of the words "not less than twenty per cent. of the gross sum collected on account of the Duties of three and one per cent."

Section XV of Act XVI of 1862 to be read with this Section.

THE following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 16th May 1863, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. XXVIII OF 1863.

An Act to remove doubts as to the operation of Act X of 1862 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to Stamp Duties) in the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca, between the first day of November 1862, and the first day of January 1863; and respecting the rate of exchange for payment of Stamp Duties, in the Currency of India, in the said Settlement.

Preamble.

WHEREAS by a Notification of the Governor-General of India in Council, dated the thirtieth day of May 1862, it was directed that all Deeds, Instruments, or Writings, executed in the Straits' Settlement, should be exempt from the Duties prescribed in Act X of 1862 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to Stamp Duties); and whereas by another Notification of the Governor-General of India in Council, dated the first day of November 1862, it was ordered that the temporary suspension of the operation of the said Act X of 1862 in the Straits' Settlement, under the said Notification dated the thirtieth of May 1862, should cease and determine from the said first day of November 1862; and whereas by a further Notification of the Governor-General of India in Council, dated the sixth of November 1862, His Excellency in Council was pleased to exempt, until further orders, all Deeds, Instruments, and Writings, enumerated in Schedule B of the said Act X of 1862, from the Duties prescribed in that Schedule; and whereas, afterwards, the Governor of the Straits' Settlement suspended the operation of the said Act X of 1862 in the said Settlement until the first day of January 1863; and whereas, in consequence of such suspension of the operation of the said Act, many penalties have been incurred, and many Deeds, Instruments, and Writings, have been rendered invalid, or inadmissible in evidence, and it is expedient that such effects should be removed; and whereas it is also expedient to remove all doubt as to the rate of exchange for the payment of Stamp Duties, in the Currency of India, in the said Settlement; It is enacted as follows :—

I. The said Act X of 1862 shall be held not to have come into operation in the said Settlement before the first day of January 1863.

Act X of 1862 not in operation in Straits' Settlement before 1st January 1863.

II. The said Act X of 1862, except Schedule B, shall be held to have come into operation in the said Settlement on the said first day of January 1863. The said Schedule B shall come into operation in the said Settlement from such time as the Governor-General of India in Council shall, under the authority vested in him by Section XXXIII of the said Act X of 1862, by an order to be published in the Calcutta Gazette, appoint.

Operation of Act, and of Schedule B of same, when to commence.

Rate of exchange for payment of Stamp Duties, in Indian Currency, to be fixed by Governor.

IV. Every Deed, Instrument, or Writing, liable to Stamp Duty in the said Settlement, which, before the time when the last preceding Section and this Section of this Act shall come into operation, shall have been stamped with the full and proper stamp or stamps required by the said Act X of 1862, calculated according to the rate fixed by a Notification of the said Governor before the time when the said Sections shall come into operation (which Notification shall be in force, and shall not have been rescinded by any other such Notification, at the time when such Deed, Instrument, or Writing, became liable to Stamp Duty), shall be held to have been duly stamped under the said Act X of 1862.

Provision as to Deeds, &c., stamped before the coming into operation of this and the last Section.

V. Section III and Section IV of this Act shall be read and taken as part of the said Act X of 1862, and shall come into operation on the first day of June 1863.

Commencement of Sections III & IV.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Act of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council received the assent of His Honor on the 29th April 1863, and having been assented to by His Excellency the Governor-General on the 23rd May 1863, is hereby promulgated for general information :—

Act No. V of 1863.

An Act to amend the law relating to the employment and remuneration of Peons for the service and execution of the process of the Civil and Revenue Courts.

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to amend the law relating to the employment and remuneration of Peons for the service and execution of the process of the Civil and Revenue Courts of the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal; It is enacted as follows :—

Laws repealed.

I. Section XIV of Regulation XXVI. 1814 (for modifying some of the Rules at present in force regarding the admission and trial of special and summary appeals from decisions passed in regular suits; for limiting and altering some of the existing provisions respecting the pleadings and processes, and the mode of executing decrees and regular suits and appeals; and for explaining and making certian additions to the provisions of Regulation I. 1814), Section V of Regulation VII. 1832 (for modifying certain of the provisions of Regulation V. 1831, and for providing supplementary Rules to that enactment), and Act XIV of 1845 (to provide for the appointment of Nazirs in the Moonsiffs' Courts)—are hereby repealed, so far as the same relate to, or have effect in, the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal, respectively.

Number of Peons for each Court by whom to be fixed.

Appointment and registration of Peons.

III. The appointment of Peons under the last preceding Section shall be made, subject to the approval of the Judge of the Court, by the Nazir of the Court in which the Peons are employed, or in the case of a Small Cause Court by the Clerk of the Court where there is such an Officer; and every such appointment shall be registered in the Court with the name of the Peon, his age, his place of abode, his father's name, and date of appointment.

None but registered Peons to be employed without special leave of Court.

IV. No person who shall not be appointed and registered as a Peon in the manner hereinbefore provided, shall be employed in the service or execution of the process of any Court without the special leave of such Court. The Court granting such special leave shall record its reasons for so doing.

Peons to be furnished with uniform belt and plate.

V. The Peons who are appointed and registered in the manner above prescribed, shall be furnished, at the expense of the Government of Bengal, with a uniform belt and plate, on which shall be inscribed the Court to which the Peon belongs and the number of the Peon in the register.

Remuneration of Peons.

VI. The Peons appointed and registered under this Act shall either receive fixed salaries or be remunerated by fees as the Government of Bengal shall direct. The amount of salary shall be from time to time fixed by the said Government.

Rates of serving or executing process.

VII. The cost of serving or executing the process of the several Courts shall, subject to the approval of the Government of Bengal, be fixed by the Judge and Collector of each District, respectively, with due regard to the distance at which service or execution is to take place from the Court whence the process is issued. A Table in the English and Vernacular languages, showing the amount chargeable for such service and execution, shall be exposed to view in a conspicuous part of each Court.

Process to be endorsed by Nazir or Clerk.

VIII. On every process issued for service or execution by any Peon appointed under this Act there shall be endorsed the name of the Peon deputed to serve or execute the same, the period within which the Peon is required to certify service or execution, the amount payable for the service or execution of the process, and the date of payment, and such endorsement shall be signed by the Nazir, or Clerk of the Court.

Disposal of money paid for the issue or execution of process.

IX. The money paid under this Act for the service, or execution, of processes, shall be carried to the credit of the Government of Bengal, and shall be formed into a fund out of which the salaries or fees of the Peons appointed under this Act shall be paid. Any surplus that may accrue from such fund, after paying the salaries or fees of the Peons, shall be disposed of by the Government of Bengal, in such manner as shall to the said Government seem proper.

Moneys received into and paid out of Court to be duly accounted for.

X. A regular account of all moneys received into and paid out of Court under this Act shall be kept, and extracts from this account shall be forwarded to the Government of Bengal at such times, and in such form, as such Government shall direct.

XI. Every process issuing out of a Civil Court and served or executed under this Act, shall be held to be a process within the meaning of Section 188 of the Code of Civil Procedure and Section 2 of Act XXIII of 1861.

Construction of process.

XII. The term "Judge" in this Act shall denote the Presiding Officer in every Court of Civil Judicature, and in every Revenue Court, by whatever title he shall be designated.

Interpretation of the term "Judge"

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

No. 9.

ISLAND OF MADEIRA.

Sunken Wreck in Funchal Bay.

Information has been received at the Admiralty that the brig Comet has recently been sunk at the anchorage in Funchal Bay, Island of Madeira.

The wreck lies in about 23½ fathoms water, with Cape Garajoa bearing S. E. by E. ¾ E.; Ilheo do Gorgulho, W. by N. ¼ N.; Pico da Cruz N. W. ¾ W.; the Cathedral, N. E.; and the right extreme of the Loo rock, N. ¼ E., and in line with the house west of the Flagstaff.

Mariners are cautioned not to anchor near the wreck, as H. M. S. Egmont by doing so lost an anchor and a portion of cable.

EAST INDIES—MALACCA STRAIT.

Fixed Light on Cape Rachado.

The Colonial Government at Singapore has given Notice, that on or about the 1st day of February 1863 a light would be exhibited from a Lighthouse recently erected on Cape Rachado in the Malacca Strait.

The light is a fixed white light, seen through an arca of 180°, or when bearing from S. E. by E. round by east and north to N. W. by W. The line of nothern limit of the light passes over the centre of the Bambek shoal, and touches the extreme point to the north-westward, and nearly a mile south-west of the Diana rock to the south-eastward. It is placed at an elevation of 416 feet above the mean level of the sea, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 20 miles. Between the bearings of S. E. by E. ½ E. and E. ¼ S. a more intense light appears, which is visible at a distance of about 25 miles. The former bearing leads about a mile south-west of the Bambek, and the latter bearing in the direction of the Pyramid shoal.

The illuminating apparatus is dioptric or by lenses of the second order.

The Tower is round, about 78 feet high from base to vane, white, and stands in lat. 2° 24′ 30″ N., long. 101° 52′ 40″ east of Greenwich.

From the Lighthouse the Pyramid shoal bears W. ¼ N., distant 21½ miles; Bambek shoal N. W. by W., 13¾ miles; and the light-vessel on the one-fathom bank N. W. by W. ½ W., 59 miles.

No. 11.

AUSTRALIA—SOUTH COAST.

Alteration of Lights at Shortland Bluff, Port Phillip.

The Colonial Government of New South Wales has given Notice, that on and after the 19th day of February 1863 lights would be exhibited from two Lighthouses recently erected at Shortland Bluff, at the entrance to Port Phillip, south coast of Australia.

The higher and inner light is a fixed white light visible from seaward to vessels in the offing on any bearing between about E. by N. and North; but when close in with the Lonsdale land it will only be seen when bearing between N. E. by E. and North. Within Port Phillip heads the light will be visible from N. E. by E., round by north and west, to S. W. by W. The light is elevated 130 feet above the level of high water, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 17 miles.

The illuminating apparatus is dioptric or by lenses of the second order.

The Tower is gray, 68 feet high, and stands N.E. by N., distant 352 yards from the low Light-house.

The low light is a fixed red and white light, shewing white when bearing from about N. E. by E. to N.E.., red from N.E. to N. N.E., and white from N. N. E. round by north to W. by N. It is placed at an elevation of 90 feet above the level of high water. The white light should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 14 miles, and the red light at 10 miles.

The illuminating apparatus is dioptric or by lenses, and the Tower is white.

Vessels entering between the heads at Port Phillip should keep the red light in sight, and steer in with it bearing N. E. by N. and in line with the high white light. The change of color from red to white indicates an approach to the Lonsdale or Nepean reefs. The white light between the bearings of N. E. by E. and N.E. shews over the dangers extending from Lonsdale point. Between the bearings of N. N. E. to W. by N. the white light shews over the Corsair rock to a line passing from the Lighthouse through the south channel, southward of Popes eye and the black buoys, and to the northward of the white buoys, so that vessels during night with light winds or adverse tides will be aided by a bearing of the light.

The old Towers will be removed as speedily as possible.

Swan Spit Light.

Also, that on and after the 10th day of February 1863, the Swan spit light would be altered from red to red and white, so as to shew white when bearing from about E.N.E. to N. E. ½ E., red from N.E ½ E. to N.E. ¾ N., white from N.E. ¾ N. to N. by W. ½ W., and red from N. by W. ½ W., round by the west to S. ¼ W.

The red light in sight between the bearings of N. E. ½ E. to N. E. ¾ N. indicates the entrance to the west channel between No. 1. black buoy and the white buoy with perch on the Royal George shoal.

Corsair Rock.

To clear the Corsair rock keep the east end of the Telegraph station open westward of the red obelisk, which is 40 feet high and standing near the site of the old Lighthouse, until the white beacon on Nepean point is open northward of the red beacon. The beacon on Nepean point open south of the red beacon leads to the southward of the rock.

No. 12.

SOUTH AMERICA—COAST OF BRAZIL.

Fixed Light at Cotinguiba Bar.

The Secretary of State for the Marine Department at Rio de Janeiro has given Notice that a light is exhibited from the Watch Tower at the bar of Continguiba, in the Province of Sergipe, on the east coast of Brazil.

The light is a fixed light, shewing red to the eastward, white to the south-east, and green to the southward. It is placed at an elevation of 115 feet above the mean level of the sea, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 6 to 9 miles.

The Watch Tower is said to stand in lat. 11° 1′ S., long. 37° 4′ 50″ west of Greenwhich, or about 5′ west of that of the Admiralty Charts.

Vessels with the white or green light in sight should not stand into less than 5 fathoms water; and should anchor with the red light in sight, in 4 fathoms, over fine sand and mud. The light will disappear whilst being trimmed.

CHIEF ENGINEER'S OFFICE;
Punjab Railway,
Lahore, the 8th May 1863.

(Sd.) JOSEPH HARRIS,
Chief Engineer, Punjab Railway.

NOTE.—From the above, with my figures added, it appears that out of 263· 51 miles of plate-laying required, including Station plots and sidings, a distance, amounting in all to 86·59½ miles, had been linked in up to end of March 1863, or not equal to one-third. But most of this distance, called "linked in" is actually all but completed. Though not put in column of completion, because here and there ballast is wanted to complete line and boxing up to full quantity of 90,000 cubic feet per mile, I trust next Report will shew better progress.

Government of Bengal.

Report of the state of the Salt Market.

From J. P. GRANT, Esq., Officiating Junior Secretary to the Board of Revenue, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 416, dated the 18th May 1863.)

SIR,—I AM directed by the Board of Revenue to submit the following Report of the state of the Salt Market during the fourth quarter of 1862-63, or from February to April last.

2. The Rowannah sales of Government Salt sold by the Board, as shewn in the margin, reached maunds 2,21,764. In February the sales exceeded those of January by maunds 3,000. In March they fell again to less than half a lac of maunds, being equal to the sales of December. But in April they exceeded a lac of maunds, an increase which is attributable to the large clearances made under an impression prevalent among the traders that the Duty on Salt was to be raised after the 1st of May. The proportion of sales of Tumlook Salt to the aggregate sales of the quarter is about three-fourths, as in the previous quarter. The sales of stocks at Sulkea amounted to maunds 37,000, exceeding those of the previous Quarter by about maunds 15,000.

	Maunds
February 1863	57,149
March „ ...	46,370
April „ ...	18,245
Total ...	2,21,764

3. The following is a comparative Statement of importation and clearances of Sea-imported Salt during the quarter :—

7. The Russoolpore Golahs were burned down in January last, and, instead of re-building them, the Board determined on bringing up the Salt (maunds one and a half lac) to Narainpore (Tumlook.) This Salt has not been included in the Hidgellee Salts available at the Depôts, as it must bear its own special transport charges, which are not yet known; the price of this Salt will be notified shortly. Its transport to Tumlook, the Board regret to say, has not been completed, and the Contractors will not further risk their boats. The Board have, therefore, directed the Agents to thatch over the quantity which is not now capable of removal before next November.

Government of Bengal.

Telegraphic Communication from Rajmehal via Maldah and Dinagepore to Gowhatty, with a branch from Gowhatty to Sylhet and Cachar.

From the HON'BLE A. EDEN, Secretary to the Government of Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(No 1422, dated the 25th March 1863)

I AM directed to request the early attention of the Government of India to the very important question of connecting Calcutta with Assam, the Cossyah Hills, and Sylhet by Electric Telegraph.

2. So far back as April of last year the construction of such a line was suggested by the Government of India. The line then indicated was one branching off from the present Chittagong line at Dacca and passing through Sylhet and across the Cossyah Hills to Gowhatty, with a future extension to Debroogurh.

3. The Government of Bengal warmly supported the project and subsequently drew attention to its importance in connexion with the disturbed state of the Cossyah Hills.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor was informed by your letter No. 2810, dated 6th June last, that the construction of the line had been actually sanctioned; but in the following August His Honor, having in the mean time become aware of the extreme difficulty of constructing a line from Dacca to Sylhet through a country which, for some months in the year, is entirely under water, proposed an alternative line branching off from the present Patna line at Rajmehal and passing through the Civil Stations of Maldah, Dinagepore, Rungpore, and Gowalparah to Gowhatty, by way of the Valley of the Berhampooter, and then across the Cossyah Hills to Sylhet.

5. The Director-General of Telegraphs has since reported on the comparative merits of these two lines, and has shewn that, while the line from Dacca to Gowhatty viâ Sylhet is 257 miles in length, and would cost Rupees 1,50,000, the line from Rajmehal to Sylhet is 416 miles in length, and would cost about Rupees 2,50,000. The monthly expenses of the Dacca line are calculated at Rupees 1,035 a month, and the monthly income at Rupees 331 a month. The monthly expenses of the Rajmehal line are estimated at Rupees 1,589 a month, and the monthly income at Rupees 496.

6. The Lieutenant-Governor does not suppose that the Estimate of the cost of construction and maintenance in either case is lower than will actually have to be incurred, but he believes that the Estimate of receipts in both cases is below the truth. The very long time which the Post takes between Gowhatty and Calcutta, and between Sylhet and Calcutta, will render resort to the Telegraph on these lines a matter of much greater necessity than elsewhere, and the local receipts will be accompanied by a corresponding increase in the receipts at the Calcutta Office.

7. Colonel Douglas gives a preference to the Dacca line in consequence of its comparative cheapness; but he seems to the Lieutenant-Governor to under-rate the difficulty of keeping up communication through a country annually flooded for months to the depth of twelve feet and permeated by rivers of extreme tortuosity, while he certainly does not give sufficient weight to the advantages possessed by the Rajmehal line, as pointed out in my letter No. 1534, dated the 20th August last, especially to the fact that the line from Rajmehal to Dinagepore will be so much saved in the construction of a line to Darjeeling which must shortly be undertaken.

8. It now appears that a third line has been suggested, namely, one to leave the Chittagong line at Furreedpore and to pass through Comercolly, Kooshteah, Pubna, Nattore, and Bogra, joining the proposed Rajmehal line at Rungpore. The Director-General has been desired to report on this line, and meanwhile the construction of any line at all is suspended, and the prospect of communication by Telegraph between Calcutta and Assam is indefinitely postponed.

9. The Lieutenant-Governor begs strongly to urge upon the Government of India the expediency of adopting the Rajmehal line without further enquiry. The reasons which induce him to look with disfavor on the Dacca line are already on record, and seem to have had weight with the Government of India, or else it is probable that the third line, viâ Furreedpore, would not have been thought of.

10. As regards the Furreedpore line the Lieutenant-Governor would observe, first, that it is open to the objection urged by Colonel Douglas against the proposal made by one of his Officers to throw off the Dacca line from the Subordinate Station of Comillah; secondly, that it involves three large river crossings instead of two, that is to say, the Goraie in addition to the Ganges and the Berhampooter; thirdly, that the distance from Furreedpore to Rungpore is much greater than the distance from Rajmehal to Rungpore, and that the country, in the former case, is of a much more difficult character than in the latter; fourthly, that the Furreedpore line passes through no places of importance, and is destitute of the great advantage of touching the obligatory point at Dinagepore from which the line to Darjeeling must eventually run; fifthly, that all that is important between Kooshteah and Rungpore will be obtained before long by the projected extension of the Eastern Bengal Railway with its Telegraph to Serajgunge, and that for the Government to take up this line would be to do the same work to a certain extent twice over.

11. These considerations, which are on the surface, seem to the Lieutenant-Governor to prove the inutility of incurring the expense and delay attending a survey of the Furreedpore line. A long time has already passed since the general project was sanctioned, and much public inconvenience will continue to be felt—as it has been severely felt during the past few months—until it is carried out. His Honor, therefore, begs to recommend that the Director-General may be instructed to take immediate steps towards the construction of the line from Rajmehal to Gowhatty, with a branch thence to Sylhet, and make every possible effort to complete it in the course of next season.

From E. C. Bayley, Esq., Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department,—(No. 3223, dated the 20th May 1863.)

Ordered, that a copy of the following letter be forwarded to the Government of Bengal, with reference to the letters from that Government noted on the margin, and to the Financial Department for information, with the remark that the route vid Rajmehal, &c., has been preferentially adopted for securing Telegraphic communication with Gowhatty in supersession of the arrangements originally contemplated in the correspondence forwarded from this Department with the Orders of 6th June last, No. 284.

No. 1534, dated 20th August 1862.

„ 1422, „ 26th March 1863.

From E. C. Bayley, Esq., Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department, to Lieutenant-Colonel C. Douglas, Director-General of Telegraphs in India,—(No. 3222, dated the 20th May 1863.)

With reference to your letter dated the 28th ultimo, No. 3189, and to previous correspondence on the subject of establishing Telegraphic communication with Gowhatty and other Stations in Assam, I am directed to state that the President in Council finally sanctions the proposed line from Rajmehal vid Maldah and Dinagepore to Gowhatty, with a branch from Gowhatty to Sylhet and Cachar, at an estimated total cost of Rupees 2,48,738.

2. It is understood that your preparations for the establishment of the new line are sufficiently advanced to admit of your commencing operations early in the cold weather, and also that the expenditure will be covered by your Budget Estimate for 1863-64.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 16th May 1863, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. XXIV OF 1863.

An Act to amend Act I of 1863 (to define the Jurisdiction and to regulate the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature in British Burmah, and to provide for the extension of certain Acts to the said Territory.)

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Act I of 1863 (to define the Jurisdiction and to regulate the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature in British Burmah, and to provide for the extension of certain Acts to the said Territory); It is enacted as follows :—

Governor-General may invest certain Courts in British Burmah with power to try suits, &c., now cognizable by Courts of lower grade.

I. It shall be lawful for the Governor-General of India in Council to invest any Court in British Burmah of the second, third, and fourth grades of Courts mentioned in Section II of the said Act I of 1863, with power to receive suits, and to take cognizance of other matters, arising within the jurisdiction of the Court so invested, which from their amount as well as in other respects may be cognizable under the provisions of the said Act by a Court of a lower grade, and to try and determine the same subject to all the provisions of the said Act.

Provision for appeals from orders and decisions in suits, &c., dealt with under preceding Section.

II. Appeals from orders and decisions passed by any Court invested as aforesaid, in suits or other matters of the nature described in the last preceding Section, shall lie to the Court to which appeals from orders and decisions passed by the said Court in the exercise of its ordinary jurisdiction lie under the said Act I of 1863, and shall be subject to all the rules contained in the said Act in relation to such appeals.

Jurisdiction of Deputy Judicial Commissioner at Rangoon, and his Court.

III. The Court of the Deputy Judicial Commissioner at Rangoon shall, for the purposes of Act I of 1863, be a Court of a Deputy Commissioner as constituted by the said Act; and the said Deputy Judicial Commissioner shall exercise the same jurisdiction in respect to receiving, trying, and determining suits and other matters arising within his jurisdiction as Deputy Judicial Commissioner, as a Deputy Commissioner is competent to exercise under the said Act.

Civil Code of Pegu repealed, and Act VIII of 1859 substituted during certain period.

IV. The Code called the "Civil Code of the Province of Pegu," with exception to Chapter III of the said Code as to the limitation of suits, and Chapter XXVII relating to Stamps, shall be held to have been repealed from the twentieth day of May 1862; and on and after the said date, until the first day of May 1863, Act VIII of 1859 (for simplifying the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature not established by Royal Charter), as extended by the Chief Commissioner of British Burmah to the Province of Pegu, shall be held to have been in force in that Province.

Provision as to order or decision passed, or proceeding held, by Courts in Pegu on or after the 20th May 1862.

A. G. MACPHERSON,

Offg. Depy. Secy. to the Govt. of India,

Home Department.

THE following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 16th May 1863, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. XXV OF 1863.

n Act to empower Judges of the High Court and other Authorities at Fort William in Bengal to direct convicts to be imprisoned either in the House of Correction, or the Great Jail of Calcutta; and to authorize the transfer of prisoners, in certain cases, from the House of Correction to the Great Jail, and from the Great Jail to the House of Correction.

Preamble.

WHEREAS great inconvenience is occasioned in the administration of Criminal Justice, by reason of the House of Correction in Calcutta not having sufficient accommodation to contain all the prisoners from time to time sentenced to be there confined for divers offences, and it is desirable that the Judges of Her Majesty's High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, and the Justices of the Peace and Magistrates of Police for the Town of Calcutta, should be empowered to send prisoners to the Great Jail of Calcutta, as well as to the House of Correction; and whereas also it is desirable that the Government of Bengal should have power, in cases of over-crowding, sickness, or the like, to order the transfer of prisoners from the Great Jail to the House of Correction, and vice versâ; It is enacted as follows :—

Certain Sections of Act XVIII of 1862 repealed in part.

I. Sections XLVII, XLVIII, XLIX, L, LI, and LII, of Act XVIII of 1862 (to repeal Act XVI of 1852 in those parts of British India in which the Indian Penal Code is in force, and to re-enact some of the provisions thereof with amendments, and further to improve the administration of Criminal Justice in Her Majesty's Supreme Courts of Judicature), are hereby repealed, so far as they are applicable to, or have effect in, the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal, except as to any persons sentenced before the passing of this Act to rigorous imprisonment, or to imprisonment with hard labor, or to solitary confinement.

Persons sentenced by High Court to rigorous imprisonment, &c., may be imprisoned in the House of Correction or Great Jail.

II. Whenever any person shall be sentenced by Her Majesty's High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal to rigorous imprisonment, or to imprisonment with hard labor, or to solitary confinement, it shall be lawful for the Judges or Judge of the said Court to direct such person to be imprisoned either in the House of Correction, whether such House of Correction be under the control of the Sheriff or not, or in the Great Jail, as to them or him shall seem fit.

Persons sentenced by the said Court to transportation, &c., may be kept in House of Correction, or Great Jail.

III. Whenever any person shall be sentenced by the said High Court to transportation, or penal servitude, such person may, at the discretion of the Judges or Judge of the said Court, be kept in the House of Correction, whether such House of Correction be under the control of the Sheriff or not, or in the Great Jail, as the place of intermediate custody.

Delivery into, and responsibility for, custody of person directed to be kept in House of Correction.

IV. The Sheriff shall cause any person directed under either of the last two preceding Sections to be imprisoned or kept in the House of Correction, to be delivered to the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or to the Keeper of such House of Correction, together with a warrant to be signed by a Judge of the said High Court authorizing the detention of such person. Such Officer or Keeper shall be bound to receive the person so delivered over to his custody, and shall be responsible for the safe custody of such person.

All Constables, &c., empowered to assist.

V. All Constables and Police Officers are hereby empowered to aid and assist the Sheriff in carrying to the House of Correction any person sentenced as aforesaid.

Sheriff when absolved from responsibility.

VI. The Sheriff shall be absolved from all responsibility, in respect of the custody of any person sentenced as aforesaid to be imprisoned or kept in the House of Correction, from the time such person shall be delivered to the custody of the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or to the Keeper of such House of Correction.

Persons sentenced by Justice of the Peace, or Police Magistrate, to rigorous imprisonment, &c., may be committed either to House of Correction, or Great Jail.

VII. Whenever any person shall be sentenced by a Justice of the Peace or Magistrate of Police for the Town of Calcutta, to rigorous imprisonment, or imprisonment with hard labor, for any offence committed within the local limits of the ordinary original Civil jurisdiction of the said High Court, the person so sentenced may be committed by such Justice of the Peace or Police Magistrate either to the custody of the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or of the Keeper of the said House of Correction, whether such House of Correction be under the control of the Sheriff or not, or to the custody of the Sheriff, as to such Justice of the Peace or Police Magistrate shall seem fit. If the person so sentenced is committed to the custody of the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or the Keeper of the House of Correction, such Officer and Keeper shall be responsible for the safe custody of such person: if the person so sentenced is committed to the custody of the Sheriff, the Sheriff shall be responsible for his safe custody.

Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal may order transfer of prisoners from House of Correction to Great Jail, and vice versâ.

VIII. If it shall at any time appear to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal that, by reason of sickness, over-crowding, or any other cause, it is necessary or desirable that any prisoner under sentence of imprisonment in the House of Correction should be transferred to the Great Jail, or that any prisoner under sentence of imprisonment in the Great Jail should be transferred to the House of Correction, it shall be lawful for the said Lieutenant-Governor to order the transfer of such prisoner, and the prisoner shall thereupon be transferred in the manner hereinafter provided for carrying out the transfer. If the order be for the transfer of a prisoner from the Great Jail to the Transfer how made.

House of Correction, the Sheriff shall cause the prisoner to be delivered to the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or to the Keeper of the House of Correction, together with the original warrant authorizing the detention of such prisoner, and the order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal signed by a Secretary to the Government of Bengal ordering his transfer. Such Officer or Keeper shall be bound to receive the person so delivered over to his custody, and shall be responsible for his safe custody. If the order be for the transfer of a prisoner from the House of Correction to the Great Jail, the Officer in whom the control of the House of Correction is vested, or the Keeper thereof, shall cause the prisoner to be delivered to the Sheriff, together with the original warrant authorizing the detention of such prisoner, and the order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal signed by a Secretary to the Government of Bengal ordering his transfer. The Sheriff shall be bound to receive the person so delivered over to his custody, and shall be responsible for his safe custody.

Recent transfers of prisoners from House of Correction to Great Jail declared to be legal.

IX. And whereas certain persons under sentence of imprisonment in the House of Correction have recently been on divers occasions transferred from the House of Correction to the Great Jail, and from the Great Jail to the House of Correction: it is hereby declared, that such transfers respectively shall be held to be, and at all times to have been, legal in all respects; and that the said persons now are, and always have been, and shall continue to be until the expiration of the period of their sentences respectively, in lawful custody, whether for the time being in the custody of the Sheriff in the Great Jail, or of the Keeper or Officer having the control of the House of Correction, in the House of Correction. Provided that nothing in this Section contained shall be held to render lawful the detention or custody of any prisoner whose detention or custody would have been unlawful irrespectively of such transfer.

Act No. XXVI of 1863.

An Act to amend Act XI of 1862 (to amend Act X of 1860, to amend Act VII of 1859, to alter the Duties of Customs on Goods imported or exported by Sea.)

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient further to amend the law relating to Customs Duties; It is enacted as follows:—

Duty to be charged on Iron, and on Wines, Beer, Porter, &c.

I. In lieu of the Customs Duties authorized in Act XI of 1862 (to amend Act X of 1860, to amend Act VII of 1859, to alter the Duties of Customs on Goods imported or exported by Sea), to be charged on Iron, on Wines and Liqueurs, and on Porter, Ale, Beer, Cider, and other similar fermented Liquors when imported by Sea, there shall be levied and collected on the aforesaid Articles, when imported by Sea, the following Duties of Customs: that is to say;—

On Iron (which shall not be taken to include ironmongery, cutlery, or hardware)	...	One per cent. ad valorem.
On Wines and Liqueurs	...	One Rupee the Imperial Gallon.
And on Porter, Ale, Beer, Cider, and other similar fermented liquors	...	One anna the Imperial Gallon.

Act to have effect from 1st May 1863.

II. This Act shall be deemed to have had and to have effect as if it had actually passed and received the assent of the Governor-General on the first day of May 1863.

The following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 16th May 1863, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

Act No. XXVII of 1863.

An Act to further amend Act XXXII of 1860 (for imposing Duties on profits arising from Property, Professions, Trades, and Offices), and to amend Act XXXIX of 1860 (to amend Act XXXII of 1860*), and Act XVI of* 1862 (to limit in certain cases the amount of assessment to the Duties chargeable after the thirty-first day of July 1862, under Act XXXII of 1860, and Act XXXIX of 1860, and otherwise to modify the said Acts.)

Preamble.

Acts XXXII of 1860, XXXIX of 1860, and XVI of 1862 to be read with this Section.

I. From and after the thirty-first day of July 1863, the said Act XXXII of 1860, and the said Act XXXIX of 1860, and the said Act XVI of 1862, shall be read and construed as if, in the first Section of the said Act XXXII of 1860, the words "the yearly Duty of two Rupees for every hundred Rupees of the annual value thereof" appeared instead of the words "the yearly Duty of three Rupees for every hundred Rupees of the annual value thereof," except as to any Duties which shall have become chargeable under the said Acts previously to the said thirty-first day of July 1863.

II. Section XV of Act XVI of 1862 shall, from and after the said thirty-first day of July 1863, be read and construed as if the words "not less than twenty per cent. of the gross sum collected on account of the Duties of two and one per cent.," appeared therein in lieu of the words "not less than twenty per cent. of the gross sum collected on account of the Duties of three and one per cent."

Section XV of Act XVI of 1862 to be read with this Section.

ACT No. XXVIII OF 1863.

An Act to remove doubts as to the operation of Act X of 1862 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to Stamp Duties) in the Settlement of Prince of Wales' Island, Singapore, and Malacca, between the first day of November 1862, and the first day of January 1863 ; and respecting the rate of exchange for payment of Stamp Duties, in the Currency of India, in the said Settlement.

WHEREAS by a Notification of the Governor-General of India in Council, dated the thirtieth day of May 1862, it was directed that all Deeds, Instruments, or Writings, executed in the Straits' Settlement, should be exempt from the Duties prescribed in Act X of 1862 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to Stamp Duties) ; and whereas by another Notification of the Governor-General of India in Council, dated the first day of November 1862, it was ordered that the temporary suspension of the operation of the said Act X of 1862 in the Straits' Settlement, under the said Notification dated the thirtieth of May 1862, should cease and determine from the said first day of November 1862 ; and whereas by a further Notification of the Governor-General of India in Council, dated the sixth of November 1862, His Excellency in Council was pleased to exempt, until further orders, all Deeds, Instruments, and Writings, enumerated in Schedule B of the said Act X of 1862, from the Duties prescribed in that Schedule ; and whereas, afterwards, the Governor of the Straits' Settlement suspended the operation of the said Act X of 1862 in the said Settlement until the first day of January 1863 ; and whereas, in consequence of such suspension of the operation of the said Act, many penalties have been incurred, and many Deeds, Instruments, and Writings, have been rendered invalid, or inadmissible in evidence, and it is expedient that such effects should be removed ; and whereas it is also expedient to remove all doubt as to the rate of exchange for the payment of Stamp Duties, in the Currency of India, in the said Settlement ; It is enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

I. The said Act X of 1862 shall be held not to have come into operation in the said Settlement before the first day of January 1863.

Act X of 1862 not in operation in Straits' Settlement before 1st January 1863.

II. The said Act X of 1862, except Schedule B, shall be held to have come into operation in the said Settlement on the said first day of January 1863. The said Schedule B shall come into operation in the said Settlement from such time as the Governor-General of India in Council shall, under the authority vested in him by Section XXXIII of the said Act X of 1862, by an order to be published in the Calcutta Gazette, appoint.

Operation of Act, and of Schedule B of same, when to commence.

Rate of exchange for payment of Stamp Duties, in Indian Currency, to be fixed by Governor.

IV. Every Deed, Instrument, or Writing, liable to Stamp Duty in the said Settlement, which, before the time when the last preceding Section and this Section of this Act shall come into operation, shall have been stamped with the full and proper stamp or stamps required by the said Act X of 1862, calculated according to the rate fixed by a Notification of the said Governor before the time when the said Sections shall come into operation (which Notification shall be in force, and shall not have been rescinded by any other such Notification, at the time when such Deed, Instrument, or Writing, became liable to Stamp Duty), shall be held to have been duly stamped under the said Act X of 1862.

Provision as to Deeds, &c., stamped before the coming into operation of this and the last Section.

V. Section III and Section IV of this Act shall be read and taken as part of the said Act X of 1862, and shall come into operation on the first day of June 1863.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Act of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council received the assent of His Honor on the 29th April 1863, and having been assented to by His Excellency the Governor-General on the 23rd May 1863, is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. V OF 1863.

An Act to amend the law relating to the employment and remuneration of Peons for the service and execution of the process of the Civil and Revenue Courts.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to the employment and remuneration of Peons for the service and execution of the process of the Civil and Revenue Courts of the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal; It is enacted as follows :—

Laws repealed.

I. Section XIV of Regulation XXVI. 1814 (for modifying some of the Rules at present in force regarding the admission and trial of special and summary appeals from decisions passed in regular suits; for limiting and altering some of the existing provisions respecting the pleadings and processes, and the mode of executing decrees and regular suits and appeals; and for explaining and making certian additions to the provisions of Regulation I. 1814*)*, Section V of Regulation VII. 1832 (for modifying certain of the provisions of Regulation V. 1831, and for providing supplementary Rules to that enactment), and Act XIV of 1845 (to provide for the appointment of Nazirs in the Moonsiffs' Courts)—are hereby repealed, so far as the same relate to, or have effect in, the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal, respectively.

Number of Peons for each Court by whom to be fixed.

Appointment and registration of Peons.

III. The appointment of Peons under the last preceding Section shall be made, subject to the approval of the Judge of the Court, by the Nazir of the Court in which the Peons are employed, or in the case of a Small Cause Court by the Clerk of the Court where there is such an Officer; and every such appointment shall be registered in the Court with the name of the Peon, his age, his place of abode, his father's name, and date of appointment.

None but registered Peons to be employed without special leave of Court.

IV. No person who shall not be appointed and registered as a Peon in the manner hereinbefore provided, shall be employed in the service or execution of the process of any Court without the special leave of such Court. The Court granting such special leave shall record its reasons for so doing.

Peons to be furnished with uniform belt and plate.

V. The Peons who are appointed and registered in the manner above prescribed, shall be furnished, at the expense of the Government of Bengal, with a uniform belt and plate, on which shall be inscribed the Court to which the Peon belongs and the number of the Peon in the register.

Remuneration of Peons.

VI. The Peons appointed and registered under this Act shall either receive fixed salaries or be remunerated by fees as the Government of Bengal shall direct. The amount of salary shall be from time to time fixed by the said Government.

Rates of serving or executing process.

VII. The cost of serving or executing the process of the several Courts shall, subject to the approval of the Government of Bengal, be fixed by the Judge and Collector of each District, respectively, with due regard to the distance at which service or execution is to take place from the Court whence the process is issued. A Table in the English and Vernacular languages, showing the amount chargeable for such service and execution, shall be exposed to view in a conspicuous part of each Court.

Process to be endorsed by Nazir or Clerk.

VIII. On every process issued for service or execution by any Peon appointed under this Act there shall be endorsed the name of the Peon deputed to serve or execute the same, the period within which the Peon is required to certify service or execution, the amount payable for the service or execution of the process, and the date of payment, and such endorsement shall be signed by the Nazir, or Clerk of the Court.

Disposal of money paid for the issue or execution of process.

IX. The money paid under this Act for the service, or execution, of processes, shall be carried to the credit of the Government of Bengal, and shall be formed into a fund out of which the salaries or fees of the Peons appointed under this Act shall be paid. Any surplus that may accrue from such fund, after paying the salaries or fees of the Peons, shall be disposed of by the Government of Bengal, in such manner as shall to the said Government seem proper.

Moneys received into and paid out of Court to be duly accounted for.

X. A regular account of all moneys received into and paid out of Court under this Act shall be kept, and extracts from this account shall be forwarded to the Government of Bengal at such times, and in such form, as such Government shall direct.

XI. Every process issuing out of a Civil Court and served or executed under this Act, shall be held to be a process within the meaning of Section 188 of the Code of Civil Procedure and Section 2 of Act XXIII of 1861.

Construction of process.

XII. The term "Judge" in this Act shall denote the Presiding Officer in every Court of Civil Judicature, and in every Revenue Court, by whatever title he shall be designated.

Interpretation of the term "Judge."

Simla, the 30th May 1863.

Notification.—His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Viceroy and Governor General held a Durbar this day for the reception of the Chiefs of the Hills States between the Sutlej and Jumna.

The Chiefs with their nearest relatives and principal Ministers and the Civil and Military Officers of the Station having assembled, the Viceroy and Governor General accompanied by His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief entered and took his seat.

Each Chief and Native Gentleman present was introduced to the Viceroy and Governor General, and the usual offerings having been presented and accepted, suitable Khilluts were bestowed.

His Excellency then addressed the Chiefs in the following words:—

"The Chiefs of the Hill States in this Neighbourhood have at all times enjoyed in a special degree the favor and protection of the British Government.

Of this a signal proof was given in the restoration of their Estates to your Ancestors at the close of the War of 1814.

I can undertake to promise that the same favor and protection shall be continued to you so long as you merit it by good conduct and loyalty.

I have it in my power moreover at the present time to illustrate by example the interest which the British Government takes in your welfare.

Some years ago Government was invited to charge itself with the management of the State of Joobul, in consequence of the incompetence of the then ruling Rana.

Government undertook this charge with reluctance, because it has no wish to assume the direct control of Native States, but rather desires to see them well administered by their own Chiefs.

Nevertheless, the able Officers in whom this task devolved acquitted themselves of their trust with so much success, that, in a short period, not by oppression or extortion but by prudence and economy they restored the finances of the State to good order and accumulated a considerable amount of surplus Revenue.

It was at one time proposed that this surplus should be expended by the British Government at its own discretion for the benefit of the State and people of Joobul, but it has now been resolved that it shall be transferred to the Rana, and that the responsibility of making a proper application of it shall devolve on him.

I accordingly avail myself of this opportunity to place these accumulations in the Rana's hands, with the expression of my hope that he will make a judicious use of them.

I trust also that the Chiefs who are assembled here to-day will learn from this example that to treat their dependants with consideration, and to abstain from wasteful and extravagant expenditure, is the surest way of advancing their own interest, and further, that the British Government is their true friend, not unwilling to help them in difficulty, but above all desirous to impart to them the knowledge which will enable them to help themselves.

I shall only add that you will most effectually second the exertion of the British Government for your good, if you do all in your power to provide a useful education for your own children."

After the concluding ceremonies His Excellency left his Seat* and the Assembly broke up.

No. 31.

To His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor-General of India in Council,

My Lord,—I transmit herewith, for the information of your Excellency's Government, a printed copy of a Treaty of Friendship, Commerce, and Navigation between Her Majesty and the Republic of Salvador.

Treaty of Friendship, Commerce, and Navigation between Her Majesty and the Republic of Salvador.

Signed at Guatemala, October 24, 1862.

[Ratifications exchanged at London, April 16, 1863.]

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britian and Ireland, and the Republic of Salvador, being desirous to maintain and improve the relations of good understanding which happily subsist between them, and to promote the commercial intercourse between their respective subjects and citizens, have deemed it expedient to conclude a Treaty of Friendship, Commerce, and Navigation, and have for that purpose named as their respective Plenipotentiaries, that is to say:

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britian and Ireland, George Benvenuto Mathew, Esquire, Her Majesty's Minister Plenipotentiary to the Republics of Central America;

And His Excellency the President of the Republic of Salvador, Senor Doctor Don Mariano Padilla, Knight of the Royal American Order of Isabel la Católica;

Who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon and concluded the following Articles:

Article I.

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Bretain and Ireland recognizes the sovereignty and independence of the Republic of Salvador. Consequently, there shall be perfect, firm, and invisable peace and sincere friendship between Her Britannic Majesty and the Republic of Salvador, throughout the whole extent of their possessions and territories, and between their subjects and citizens, respectively, without distinction of persons or places.

ARTICLE II.

The two High Contracting Parties being desirous of placing the commerce and navigation of their respective countries on the liberal basis of perfect equality and reciprocity, mutually agree that the subjects or citizens of each may frequent all the coasts and countries of the other, and reside therein, and shall have the power to purchase and hold all kinds of property which the laws of the country may permit any foreigners, of whatever nation, to hold, and to engage in all kinds of trade, manufactures, and mining, upon the same terms with native subjects or citizens. They shall enjoy all the privileges and concessions in these matters which are or may be made to the subjects or citizens of any country; and shall enjoy all the rights, privileges, and exemptions, in navigation, commerce, and manufactures, which native subjects or citizens do or shall enjoy, submitting themselves to the laws there established, to which native subjects or citizens are subjected.

The ships of war and post office packets of each Contracting Party, respectively, shall have liberty to enter into all harbours, rivers, and places within the territories of the other, to which the ships of war and packets of other nations are or may be permitted to come; to anchor there and to remain and re-fit; subject always to the laws of the two countries respectively.

The High Contracting Parties further engage that neither will grant any favor to any other nation, in respect of commerce and navigation, which shall not immediately become common to the other Contracting Party.

ARTICLE III.

The High Contracting Parties agree that, in regard to the coasting trade, the ships, subjects, and citizens of each shall enjoy, in the dominions and territories of the other, the same privileges, and shall be treated in all respects in the same manner, as national vessels, and as native subjects and citizens.

ARTICLE IV.

The Contracting Parties likewise agree, that whatever kind of produce, manufacture, or merchandise can be from time to time lawfully imported into the British dominions in British vessels, may also be imported in vessels of the Republic of Salvador; and that no higher or other duties upon the vessel or upon her cargo shall be levied and collected, whether the importation be made in vessels of the one country or of the other: and in like manner that whatever kind of produce, manufacture, or merchandise can be from time to time lawfully imported into the Republic of Salvador in its own vessels, may be also imported in British vessels; and that no higher or other duties upon the vessel or upon her cargo shall be levied or collected, whether the importation be made in vessels of the one country or of the other.

And they further agree that whatever may be lawfully exported or re-exported from the one country in its own vessels to any foreign country, may in like manner be exported or re-exported in the vessels of the other country; and that the same bounties, duties, and drawbacks shall be allowed and collected, whether such exportation or re-exportation be made in the British vessels, or in vessels of the Republic of Salvador.

ARTICLE V.

No higher or other duties shall be imposed on the importation into the British dominions of any article the growth, produce, or manufacture of the Republic of Salvador, and no higher or other duties shall be imposed on the importation into the Republic of Salvador of any article the growth, produce, or manufacture of the British dominions, than are or shall be payable on the same or the like article being the produce of manufacture of any other foreign country. Nor shall any higher or other duties or charges be imposed, in either of the two countries, on the exportation of any article to the territories of the other, than such as are payable on the exportation of the same or the like article to any other foreign country.

No prohibition shall be imposed upon the importation of any article the growth, produce, or manufacture of the territories of either of the two Contracting Parties into the territories of the other, which shall not equally extend to the importation of the same or the like article being the growth, produce, or manufacture of any other country; nor shall any prohibition be imposed on the exportation of any article from the territories of either of the two Contracting Parties to the territories of the other, which shall not equally extend to the exportation of the same or the like article to the territories of all other nations.

ARTICLE VI.

The subjects and citizens of one of the Contracting Parties shall enjoy, in the dominions, possessions, and territories of the other, equality of treatment with native subjects and citizens, or with the subjects and citizens of the most favored nation in regard to warehousing, transit, and reexport, and also in regard to bounties, facilities, and drawbacks.

ARTICLE VII.

No duties of tonnage, harbour, pilotage, lighthouse, quarantine, or other similar or corresponding duties, of whatever nature or under whatever denomination, levied in the name or for the profit of the Government, public functionaries, corporations, or establishments, of whatever kind, shall be imposed in the ports of either country upon the vessels of the other country, which shall not be equally imposed in the like cases on national vessels.

ARTICLE VIII.

In order to prevent the possibility of any misunderstanding it is hereby declared that the stipulations contained in the preceding Articles are, to their full extent, applicable to British vessels and their cargoes arriving in the ports of Salvador, and reciprocally to the vessels of the said Republic and their cargoes arriving in British ports, whether they proceed from the ports of the country to which they respectively belong, or from the ports of any other foreign country; and, in either case, no discriminating duty shall be imposed or collected in the ports of either country on the said vessels or upon their cargoes, whether such cargoes shall consist of native or foreign produce or manufacture.

ARTICLE IX.

All vessels which, according to the laws of Great Britain, are to be deemed British vessels, and all vessels which, according to the laws of the Republic of Salvador, are to be deemed vessels of that Republic, shall, for the purposes of this Treaty, be deemed British vessels and vessels of Salvador respectively.

ARTICLE X.

It is likewise agreed that it shall be wholly free for all merchants, commanders of ships, and other subjects or citizens of both countries, to manage, by themselves or agents, their own business in all the ports and places subject to the jurisdiction of each other, as well with respect to the consignment and sale of their goods and merchandize, by wholesale or retail, as with respect to the loading, unloading, and sending off their ships; they being, in all these cases, to be treated as subjects or citizens of the country in which they reside or are conducting their business, and to be subject to the laws of that country.

ARTICLE XI.

Whenever the citizens of either of the Contracting Parties shall be forced to seek refuge or asylum in the rivers, bays, ports, or dominions of the other with their vessels, whether merchant or of war, public or private, through stress of weather, pursuit of pirates or enemies, or want of provision or water, they shall be received and treated with humanity, and all favour and protection shall be given to them for repairing their ships, procuring provisions, and placing themselves in a situation to continue their voyage without obstacle or hindrance of any kind.

ARTICLE XII.

If any ship of war or merchant-vessel of either of the High Contracting Parties should be wrecked on the coasts of the other, such ship or vessel or any parts thereof, and all furniture and appurtenances belonging thereunto, and all goods and merchandize which shall be saved therefrom, or the produce thereof if sold, shall be faithfully restored to the owners, upon being claimed by them or by their duly authorized agents; and if there are no such owners or agents on the spot, then the said ships, or parts of ships, furniture, appurtenances, goods and merchandize, or the proceeds thereof if sold, as well as all the papers found on board such wrecked ship or vessel, shall be delivered to the British Consul or Vice-Consul, or to the Consul or Vice-Consul of the Republic of Salvador, in whose district the wreck may have taken place, upon being claimed by him, and on his giving a receipt or acknowledgment for the same; and upon payment by such Consul, Vice-Consul, owners, or agents, of only the expenses incurred in the preservation of the property, and of the salvage and other expenses which would have been payable in the like case of a wreck of a national vessel. The charge for such salvage or other expenses shall be made and settled immediately subject to such right of appeal on the part of the person paying the same as may exist in the respective countries. The goods and merchandize saved from the wreck shall not be subject to duties, unless cleared for consumption; in which case they shall be liable only to the same duties as if they had been imported in a national vessel.

ARTICLE XIII.

The subjects and citizens of either of the two Contracting Parties in the territories of the other shall be at full liberty to acquire, possess, and dispose of, whether by purchase, sale, donation, exchange, marriage, testament, succession ab intestato, or in any other manner whatever, every description of property which the laws of the country may permit any foreigners, or whatsoever nation to hold. Their heirs and representatives may succeed to and take possession of such property, either in person or by agents acting on their behalf, in the ordinary form of law, in the same manner as subjects or citizens of the country; and in the absence of such heirs and representatives, the property shall be treated in the same manner as the like property belonging to a subject or citizen of the country under similar circumstances.

In none of these respects shall they pay upon the value of such property any other or higher impost, duty, or charge than is payable by subjects or citizens of the country. In every case the subjects and citizens of the Contracting Parties shall be permitted to export their property, or the proceeds thereof; British subjects from the territory of Salvador, and Salvador citizens from the British territory, freely, and without being subjected on such exportation to pay any duty as foreigners, and without having to pay any other or higher duties than those to which subjects or citizens of the country are liable.

ARTICLE XIV.

Both Contracting Parties promise and engage formally to give their special protection to the persons and property of the subjects or citizens of each other, of all occupations, who may be in the territories subject to the jurisdiction of one or the other, transient or dwelling therein, leaving open and free to them the tribunals of justice, for their judicial recourse, on the same terms which are usual and customary with the native subjects or citizens of the country; for which purpose they may either appear in proper person, or employ, in the prosecution or defence of their rights, such advocates, solicitors, notaries, agents, and factors as they may judge proper, in all their trials at law; and such citizens or agents shall have free opportunity to be present at the decisions or sentences of the tribunals in all cases which may concern them, and shall enjoy in such cases all the rights and privileges accorded to native subjects or citizens.

ARTICLE XV.

In the event of any subject or citizen of either of the two Contracting Parties dying without will or testament in the dominions or territories of the other Contracting Party, or in the absence of lawful heirs or representatives, the Consul-General, Consul, or Acting Consul of the nation to which the deceased may belong, shall, so far as the laws of each country will permit, have the right, after a duly made and attested inventory has been signed by him, to take possession and charge of the property which the deceased may have left, for the benefit of his lawful heirs and creditors, giving immediate notice of the death to the authorities of the country.

ARTICLE XVI.

The subjects of Her Britannic Majesty residing in the Republic of Salvador, and the citizens of the Republic of Salvador residing in the dominions of Her Britannic Majesty, shall be exempted from all compulsory Military service whatsoever, whether by sea or land, and from all forced loans, or Military exactions or requisitions; and they shall not be compelled, under any pretext whatsoever, to pay any ordinary or extraordinary charges, requisitions, or taxes, other or higher than those that are or may be paid by native subjects or citizens.

ARTICLE XVII.

It is agreed and covenanted that neither of the High Contracting Parties shall knowingly receive into, or retain in, its service, any subjects or citizens of the other Party who have deserted from the naval or military service of that other Party; but that, on the contrary, each of the Contracting Parties shall respectively discharge from its service any such deserters, upon being required by the other Party to do so.

And it is further agreed, that if any of the crew of any Merchant-vessel of either Contracting Party shall desert from such vessel within any port in the territory of the other Party, the authorities of such port and territory shall be bound to give every assistance in their power for the apprehension of such deserters, on application to that effect being made by the Consul of the Party concerned, or by the deputy or representative of the Consul, and any person knowingly protecting or habouring such deserters shall be liable to punishment.

ARTICLE XVIII.

British subjects residing in the territories of the Republic of Salvador shall enjoy the most perfect and entire liberty of conscience, without being annoyed, molested, or disturbed on account of their religious belief. Neither shall they be annoyed, molested, or disturbed in the proper exercise of their religion, in private houses, or in the chapels or places of worship destined for that purpose, provided that in so doing they observe the decorum due to Divine worship, and the respect due to the laws of the country. Liberty shall also be granted to bury British subjects who may die in the territories of the Republic of Salvador, in convenient and adequate places, to be appointed and established by British subjects for that purpose, with the knowledge of the local authorities, or in such other places of sepulture as may be chosen by the friends of the deceased; nor shall the funerals or sepulchres of the dead be disturbed in any wise or upon any account.

In like manner, the citizens of Salvador shall enjoy within the dominions of Her Britannic Majesty a perfect and unrestrained liberty of conscience, and of exercising their religion within private houses, or in the chapels or places of worship destined for that purpose, agreeably to the laws of those dominions.

ARTICLE XIX.

For the better security of commerce between the subjects and citizens of the two High Contracting Parties, it is agreed that if at any time any rupture, or any interruption of friendly intercourse, should unfortunately take place between the two Contracting Parties, the subjects or citizens of either of them, established in the territories of the other, who may reside upon the coasts, shall be allowed six months, and those who may reside in the interior a whole year, to wind up their accounts and to dispose of their property; and a safe-conduct shall be given to them to embark at the port which they themselves shall select. The subjects or citizens of either of the two Contracting Parties who may be established in the dominions or territories of the other, in the exercise of any trade or other occupation or employment, shall be allowed to remain and continue in the exercise of the said trade or occupation, notwithstanding the interruption of friendship between the two countries, in the free enjoyment of their personal liberty and property, so long as they behave peaceably and observe the laws; and their goods and effects, of whatever description they may be, whether in their own custody or entrusted to individuals or to the State, shall not be liable to seizure or sequestration, or to any other charges or demands than those which may be made upon the like effects or property belonging to native subjects or citizens. In the same case debts between individuals, public funds, and the shares of companies, shall never be confiscated, sequestered, or detained.

ARTICLE XX.

It shall be free for each of the two Contracting Parties to appoint Consuls for the protection of trade, to reside in the dominions and territories of the other Party; but before any Consul shall act as such, he shall, in the usual form, be approved and admitted by the Government to which he is sent.

The Diplomatic Agents and Consuls of each of the two High Contracting Parties in the dominions or territories of the other, shall enjoy whatever privileges, exemptions, and immunities are or shall be granted there to Agents of the same rank, belonging to the most favoured nation.

ARTICLE XXI.

The present Treaty shall remain in force for the term of twenty years from the day of the exchange of ratifications; and if neither Party shall notify to the other its intention of terminating the same, twelve months before the expiration of the twenty years stipulated above, the said Treaty shall continue binding on both Parties beyond the said twenty years, until twelve months from the time that one of the Parties may notify to the other its intention of terminating it.

ARTICLE XXII.

The present Treaty of Friendship, Commerce, and Navigation shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at London as soon as possible within six months from this date.

In witness whereof, the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto their respective seals.

Done at Guatemala, the twenty-fourth day of October, in the year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

No. 2425.

Fort William, the 8th June 1863.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India, in the Financial Department, under date the 8th June 1863.

READ the following papers regarding Rules for Leave of Absence and Pensions to Uncovenanted Servants:—

A Memorial on the subject from Uncovenanted Servants in the three Presidencies.

Letter from the Supreme Government to the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, No. 42 of 15th June 1861, forwarding the above Memorial, and one from Officers of the Education Department in Bengal, with other correspondence, regarding Pension Rules for Educational Officers.

Financial Letter from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State, No. 205 of 8th December 1862.

ORDERED, that an extract, paragraphs 1 to 18, of the Despatch of the Secretary of State, be published in the Calcutta Gazette for general information, and for the guidance of the several Departments of the Supreme Government, of the Local Governments and Administrations, and of all Officers and Departments concerned.

Extract (Paragraphs 1 to 18*) from a Financial Despatch from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, to the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council, No.* 205 of 1862, dated the 8th December.

I HAVE considered in Council the Memorial from the Uncovenanted Servants of the several Governments in India, praying for modifications in the existing Rules which govern the grant to them of pensions and leave of absence, together with your Public Letters, dated the 8th and 15th June 1861, Nos. 37 and 42; 6th August 1861, No. 56, and your Financial Letter, dated the 4th August 1862, No. 110, on the same subject.

2. The great body of the Uncovenanted Servants of India have always been Natives; and it has been the just and wise policy of the Government to employ, as largely as they could with advantage, the Natives of India in the administration of their own country. It is still the desire and intention of Her Majesty's Government that whilst, to a certain extent, European agency beyond the Covenanted Servants must always be employed in various situations, Natives of India should constitute the great majority of the Uncovenanted Servants in India.

3. Your Government points out the impossibility of making any distinction between Europeans and Natives. In that opinion I entirely concur, and whilst, therefore, I cannot but admit that there are differences of various kinds in the circumstances of persons of the different races who are employed in the Uncovenanted Service of India, it appears to Her Majesty's Government to be indispensable that the Rules to be laid down should be such as are applicable to the whole of that body, of whom the great majority are, and must always be, of Native race and of Native habits.

4. I think there is, however, sufficient ground for an exception as regards Educational Officers, and Law Officers, and Native Judges. In those cases a previous course of study, and, in many instances, practical experience is required, and there is consequently reason for making a distinction in regard to that class of servants whose claims will therefore be separately considered.

5. I now proceed to convey to you the decision of Her Majesty's Government as to the general body of Uncovenanted Servants.

6. It has been decided that no Uncovenanted Servant shall in future be allowed to count for pension any period of service antecedent to his having attained the age of 22 years, and, in calculating the period of service required by this Despatch as a qualification for pension, the period must be reckoned from that age.

7. The allowances to be granted to Uncovenanted Servants on retirement are in future to be as follow, viz.:—

On production of such Medical Certificates as shall satisfy the Government, under which the applicant may be serving, of his incapacity to serve longer in India:

1. Under fifteen years' service,—a gratuity not exceeding twelve months' salary.
2. After fifteen years' service,—one-third of his salary, (and of his personal allowance, if any,) provided that in no case shall a pension be granted exceeding the sum of Rupees 3,000 per annum, whatever the amount of salary, nor of Rupees 2,000 per annum, if the salary shall not exceed Rupees 12,000 per annum.
3. After twenty-five years' service,—one-half of his average salary, (and of his personal allowance, if any,) during the previous five years, provided, however, that in no case shall a pension be granted exceeding Rupees 5,000 per annum, whatever the amount of salary, nor exceeding Rupees 4,000 per annum, if the salary shall not exceed Rupees 12,000 per annum.

After thirty years' service, or upwards, a pension may be granted, without production of Medical Certificate, of the same amount and subject to the same limitation as that sanctioned for twenty-five years' service on Medical Certificate.

8. The period of service which is to be admitted in considering a claim to pension must be continuous; but in case of the abolition of the office held by an Uncovenanted Servant, and his being subsequently employed by Government, his first period of service is to be taken into account.

9. Pensions of the full amount stated are to be granted only as the reward of approved service. In any case in which an Uncovenanted Servant, without having incurred the penalty of removal from Government employ, shall, nevertheless, in the opinion of the Government under which he has been serving, not be entitled to the full amount of pension, the Local Government will make such a reduction in the amount of pension as it shall consider just.

10. These pensions have hitherto been payable only in India. As a rule, Europeans on being pensioned desire to return to this country, and they are consequently under the necessity of employing an agent in India to receive and remit their pensions. If the pensions are allowed to be paid in England, the delay, risk, and inconvenience of agency will be saved, while the charge to Government would be very inconsiderable. Her Majesty's Government have therefore decided that each Uncovenanted Servant shall, on retirement, have the option of drawing his pension either in India or from the Home Treasury. After exercising his option on retirement, he may, at a subsequent period, change the place of payment from England to India, or vice versâ. This change can, however, be allowed but once.

11. The rate of exchange is an important consideration in regard to payment in England. Her Majesty's Government will not now fix any permanent rate for the purpose, but as a rate of exchange, based on the intrinsic value of the rupee, and the market price of bills, is annually fixed in communication with the Lords of the Treasury for the adjustment of transactions between the British and Indian Exchequers, which rate is applied to family remittances of Officers serving in India, the same rate appears to be equitable for the payment in England of the pensions of Uncovenanted Servants and is therefore to be adopted.

12. I am desirous of being furnished with a list of the Uncovenanted Servants who are entitled to the benefit of the Pension Rules; and it must be understood that it is not now intended to grant the benefit of those Rules to any of the lower grades of servants who are not at present entitled to pension.

13. An Uncovenanted Servant may, under the existing Rules, be granted, on sufficient cause being shewn, leave on private affairs for six months in one period, retaining his office with half salary up to 600*l.* per annum, which is the maximum amount allowed to be drawn. This leave may be repeated after intervals of six years, and is allowed to count for pension. Leave of this description may still be granted, but the period of absence will not be allowed to count for pension, and the option may be given to Uncovenanted Servants of taking in lieu of the above leave a furlough for one year after ten years' residence, and a second furlough also for one year after eighteen years' residence in India, such absence being limited to two years during the whole period of service. For such periods an absentee, whose salary does not exceed Rupees 200 per mensem, may be allowed to draw one-half salary; provided, however, that it shall not exceed Rupees 800 or 80*l.* per annum. If the absentees' salary shall be Above Rupees 200, and not exceeding Rupees 400 per month, he may be granted an allowance of Rupees 1,300 or 130*l.* per annum.

„ 700, „ „ 1,800 „ „ 3,000 „ 300*l.* „

„ 1,800, „ „ „ „ 4,000 „ 400*l.* „

On taking leave on private affairs for the first time after the publication of the new Rules, an Uncovenanted Servant must decide whether he will apply for six months' leave on private affairs, or for one year's furlough, and having once exercised his option and obtained leave accordingly, he will not, during the remainder of his service, be eligible to the other description of leave.

14. In regard to absence on Medical Certificate, an Uncovenanted Servant, under the existing Rules, may be granted leave of absence for three years during the whole period of his service, of which two may be continuous, and two only can be counted as service qualifying for pension. For one year of the entire period the absentee may draw half, and during the remainder one-third of his allowances limited, however, to 600*l.* per annum.

15. Instead of the period of leave now allowed Her Majesty's Government authorize the grant of leave of absence, on Medical Certificate, with allowances, to the extent of three years, in two periods, of which not more than two years may be taken at one time.

16. For the first fifteen months of each period the absentee may be allowed one-half salary, provided that it shall in no case exceed 600*l.* per annum; and for the remainder of his absence, within the prescribed limit, he may be allowed one-fourth of his salary, limited to 300*l.* per annum.

17. If any further leave should be applied for on Medical Certificate, it may be granted as exceptional leave but without any allowance.

18. These periods of absence on Furlough and Medical Certificate are not to count for pension; but privilege leave in India may be allowed for one month in each year, which is not, however, to accumulate, and the grant of which must be always subject to the condition that no inconvenience or charge shall be caused to Government thereby; this privilege leave will count in the period of service qualifying for pension.

No. 2426.

Notification.—The following revised Rules for the grant of Leave of Absence to Uncovenanted Civil Servants are published by order of His Honor the President in Council for general information and guidance:—

LEAVE OF ABSENCE TO UNCOVENANTED SERVANTS.

THESE Rules are applicable to all Officers of the Uncovenanted Civil Service receiving salaries of not less than Rupees 100 a month, whether they receive their appointments direct from Government or from Heads of Offices and Departments.

THE following are the kinds of leave allowed:—

I. Leave on Medical Certificate.
II. Leave on Private Affairs and Furlough.
III. Privilege Leave.
IV. Preparatory or Additional Leave.

General Rules.

1. All applications for leave must be made publicly, through the regular channel, in the Department to which the applicant belongs.

2. Officers appointed by Government can obtain privilege leave from the Heads of their respective Departments when the latter are duly authorised to exercise this power. But in other cases leave must be granted by the Government.

3. Officers appointed by Heads of Offices and Departments can obtain any leave under these Rules without reference to Government; but the Authorities granting such leave must furnish to the Civil or Military Audit Office which passes the Pay Bill of their Establishment a monthly Return of the leave granted by them according to the Form given in Appendix A.

4. Absence without leave will involve loss of salary and render the absentee liable to loss of appointment.

5. No leave of absence shall have retrospective effect, except in case of severe illness, to be attested by a Medical Certificate in the prescribed Form.

Applications for Leave on Medical Certificate.

6. Applications for leave on Medical Certificate must be accompanied by a statement from the Medical man by whom the applicant has been attended, distinctly stating, from personal observation, the nature of the disease, its symptoms, causes, and duration, so far as the knowledge of the Medical Officer extends, and by a Certificate from the chief Medical Officer of the Station or District, or, if at a Presidency Town, from a Presidency or other Official Surgeon, certifying, after careful personal investigation, the necessity for temporary removal, and the period for which absence is to the best of his judgment absolutely requisite for restoration to health. If the requisite leave be for a longer period than six months, the Certificate must be countersigned by the Superintending Surgeon of the Division in which the applicant may be employed. In cases of leave beyond sea, the Certificate must be also submitted, with the statement of the case, for the countersignature of the Principal Inspector-General of the Medical Department.

Extension of Leave on Medical Certificate.

7. An application for extension of leave must, if the applicant be in India, be accompanied by a Certificate to a like effect from the Medical Officer by whom the applicant is attended, together with a statement shewing sufficient reason for the extension solicited, and such Certificate must be countersigned by the Principal Inspector-General of the Medical Department, or by the Superintending Surgeon of the Division in which the applicant may be residing. If the applicant shall have proceeded beyond the territories under the Government of India, he must furnish a Certificate and Statement to the required effect from a Surgeon or Physician at the place of his temporary residence by whom he has been attended; such attendance, and the period of it, to be stated, and the Certificate to be countersigned, after personal examination, by the examining Physician of the India Office, if the absentee is in England,—or by the Principal Medical Authority of the Colony or country to which the absentee may have proceeded.

8. If any of the above particulars be neglected, or the omission of any one of them unsatisfactorily explained, the leave will be refused.

Application for Leave on Private Affairs.

9. Leave on Private Affairs and Furlough will be granted by Government, or by authorised Officers, on sufficient cause being shewn, and when the concession of the indulgence may in no way interfere with the interest of the Public Service.

Extension of Leave to date of arrival of vessel.

10. When an Officer on leave in England is permitted by the Home Government to return to duty by a particular vessel, this permission, if necessary, will be held equivalent to an extension of leave until the arrival in India of the vessel on which the Officer is permitted to return.

Leave on Medical Certificate.

11. Leave on Medical Certificate, with allowances, is limited to the extent of three years in two periods, of which not more than two years may be taken at one time. Should any further leave be applied for on Medical Certificate, it may be granted, but without any allowance.

Leave on Private Affairs and Furlough.

12. Leave on Private Affairs and Furlough, with retention of office, may be granted as follows:—

1*st.*—Leave on Private Affairs;—for six months in one period, which leave may be repeated after intervals of six years.

2*nd.*—Or a FURLOUGH—for one year after ten years' service, and a second Furlough, also for one year, after eighteen years' service in India, such absence being limited to two years during the whole period of service.

13. On taking leave under the preceding Rule, for the first time, an Officer must decide whether he will apply for leave on Private Affairs, or for Furlough, and having once exercised his option and obtained leave accordingly, he will not, during the remainder of his service, be eligible to the other description of leave.

14. Furlough, and Leave on Private Affairs, taken in India, will reckon from the date of leaving office to the date of return thereto. Furlough, and Leave on Private Affairs, taken beyond India will reckon from the sailing of the vessel on which the Officer embarks to the date of his return to India.

15. Furlough or Leave on Private Affairs cannot be taken in continuation of privilege leave.

Privilege Leave.

16. Privilege leave, when it can be granted without injury to the Public Service, and without additional expense to the State, may be allowed for not more than one month in each Calendar year, to be taken either in one period or in not more than two instalments. This leave is not allowed to accumulate, and will, therefore, lapse if not taken within the year.

17. Privilege leave for one month in each Calendar year may be allowed to Officers who have not been absent on leave for eleven months immediately preceding; unless they took their last privilege leave in two instalments, in which case the indulgence will not be available until eleven months after the expiration of the first instalment, and six months after expiration of the second instalment of the previous year's privilege leave.

Preparatory Leave.

18. Preparatory or additional leave is allowed to Officers proceeding to or from a sanatarium on Medical Certificate, or to or from the port of embarkation from India to Europe on Private Affairs, Furlough, or Medical Certificate, and is limited to such period as the authority granting leave may think sufficient. Officers proceeding from Presidency Towns on sick leave beyond Sea will be allowed fourteen days for preparation.

19. Officers retiring from the Service on pension will be allowed fourteen days' leave on half pay, provided the indulgence can be given without detriment or extra expense to the Public Service.

Absentee Pay.

20. Absentee pay, if at half salary, shall in no case exceed Rupees 6,000 or £ 600 per annum,—or if at one-fourth salary, shall not exceed £ 300 per annum. Within these limitations Absentee Pay will be given as follows:—

I. To an Officer absent on sick leave in or out of India—half salary for the first fifteen months of each period of absence, and one-fourth salary during the remainder of his absence on allowances.

II. To an Officer on leave on private affairs—one-half of his salary for a period not exceeding six months of continuous absence, and for any further period of preparatory leave which may be granted to him. But if an Officer absent on private affairs obtain an extension of leave on Medical Certificate, he will be subject for the whole period of his absence to the rules for sick leave.

III. To an Officer proceeding on furlough whose salary does not exceed Rupees 200 per month—one-half of his salary, provided, however, that it shall not exceed Rupees 800 or £ 80 per annum. If the absentee's salary shall be—

Above Rs.	200,	and not exceeding Rs.	400	per month,	he may be granted an annual allowance of	Rs.	1,200	or £	120
"	"	400	"	"	" 700	"	"	2,000	" £ 200
"	"	700	"	"	" 1,200	"	"	3,000	" £ 300
"	"	1,200	"	"			"	4,000	" £ 400

IV. To an Officer on preparatory leave—one-half salary before commencement of other leave, and—on return from leave—one-half or one-fourth salary, or furlough pay, according to the rate of salary he may be then drawing.

V. To an Officer on privilege leave—full pay.

21. An Officer who overstays privilege leave by not more than one month will forfeit pay for the period in excess, but if he exceed his leave by more than one month his office will become vacant. An Officer on privilege leave who may resign the service, or who may obtain sick leave without first re-joining, will in the former case, forfeit his salary for the period of privilege leave, and in the latter case be subject to the Rules for sick leave for the whole period of his absence.

Rules for joining Office.

Time allowed for joining an appointment will be fixed by the Authority conferring the appointment.

An Officer entering the service of the Government is not entitled to any salary before joining his appointment, but when transferred from one appointment to another of equal or higher value, he will draw so much of the salary of his new office as may be equal to that of his former appointment.

Payments of Absentee Allowances.

22. Officers absent on privilege leave cannot draw pay until their return to duty.

23. Officers proceeding to England on Furlough, or on Private Affairs, or on Medical Certificate, must obtain Certificates from the Civil Pay-Master, in the Form given below, for submission to the India Office on their arrival in London.—

Name, Service, and designation of the party obtaining leave.	Nature and period of the leave.	Date of intended departure of vessel from Calcutta or other Port.	Rate of allowance to be drawn in England or not.	Date from which the first payment is to commence.
			In England. — In Calcutta.

24. But if they desire to draw their allowances through their Agents in India, the latter must execute a guarantee to refund over payments. When Officers remain in India and draw their allowances themselves, and attach to their Bills life Certificates attested by a Deputy Magistrate or a Covenanted District Officer, they will not be required to furnish any security.

F., (here enter designation of office) is in a bad state of health ; and I solemnly and sincerely declare that, according to the best of my judgment, a change of air is essentially necessary to his recovery, and that the circumstances of his case are such as to render leave of absence for the period of absolutely necessary (or highly desirable).

The following Form shall be observed by the Superintending Surgeon and the Principal Inspector-General of the Medical Department in countersigning the Certificate :—

I do hereby certify that, according to the best of my professional judgment, after careful consideration of his case, I believe the state of health of E. F. to be such as to render leave of absence for a period of absolutely necessary (or highly desirable) for his recovery.

No. 2427.

Notification.—The following revised Rules for the grant of Pensions and Superannuation Allowances to certain classes of Uncovenanted Servants are published by order of His Honor the President in Council for general information and guidance :—

PENSION RULES for Uncovenanted Servants other than Educational Officers, Law Officers, and Native Judges, receiving more than Rupees 10 a month, and belonging to classes eligible to Pension under the Orders of Government.

GENERAL RULES FOR APPLICATIONS FOR PENSION.

Applications for pension must be submitted in a letter to Government by the Head of the Office or Department in which the applicant may be employed, who shall certify that the character, conduct, and past service of the applicant are such as to entitle him to the favorable consideration of Government.

2. Every application shall be accompanied by a Register prepared according to Form A. in the Appendix. In cases of other than a Good Service Pension every application shall be accompanied by a Medical Certificate, stating the applicant's incapacity for further service, with the cause thereof, and that it has not been induced by irregular or intemperate habits.

3. Applicants for a Superannuation Allowance must be examined by the Principal Inspector-General of the Medical Department, if serving at the Presidency, or by a Military Invaliding Committee, if serving elsewhere within a moderate distance of a Station at which a Military Invaliding Committee is periodically assembled. It is optional, however, with the Local Government to accept the Certificate of a single Medical Officer, or to convene a Special Invaliding Committee at a convenient Civil Station, if the applicant be serving at an inconvenient distance from a Station where a Military Invaliding Committee can be assembled.

4. Good Service and Superannuation Allowances on retirement, sanctioned under these Rules by the Local Governments, will be reported to the Government of India in Quarterly Returns in the Form given in Appendix B.

ALLOWANCES ON RETIREMENT.

5. On production by an applicant of such Medical Certificates as shall satisfy the Government, under which he may be serving, of his incapacity to serve longer in India, he will be allowed—

I. Under fifteen years' service, a gratuity not exceeding twelve months' salary.

II. After fifteen years' service, one-third of his average salary, (and of his personal allowance, if any,) during the previous five years, provided that in no case shall a pension be granted exceeding the sum of Rupees 3,000 per annum, whatever the amount of salary, nor of Rupees 2,000 per annum, if the salary shall not exceed Rupees 12,000 per annum.

III. After twenty-five years' service, one-half of his average salary, (and of his personal allowance, if any,) during the previous five years, provided, however, that in no case shall a pension be granted exceeding Rupees 5,000 per annum, whatever the amount of salary, nor exceeding Rupees 4,000 per annum, if the salary shall not exceed Rupees 12,000 per annum.

6. After thirty years' service or upwards a pension may be granted, without production of Medical Certificate, of the same amount and subject to the same limitation as that sanctioned for twenty-five years' service on Medical Certificate. This pension, as the reward of faithful, efficient discharge of duty for thirty years, is termed a Good Service Pension.

7. Pensions of the full amount authorized in paragraphs 5 and 6 are to be granted only as the reward of approved service. In any case in which an Uncovenanted Servant, without having incurred the penalty of removal from Government employ, shall, nevertheless, in the opinion of the Government under which he has been serving not be entitled to the full amount of pension, the Local Government will make such a reduction in the amount of pension as it shall consider just.

8. The foregoing rates of pension and gratuity are applicable also, without the production of a Medical Certificate of unfitness for service, to Officers discharged on reduction of Establishment.

SERVICE TOWARDS PENSION.

9. Dismissal for misconduct entails forfeiture of the benefit of past service.

10. Service as a substitute does not count towards pension.

11. Periods of service before the age of 22, or of absence on other than privilege leave and preparatory leave, shall not count towards pension.

12. The whole of the service, in virtue of which pension is claimed, must have been passed in an eligible grade and on a permanent Establishment; but claims barred by this Rule will be specially considered if the promotion from an ineligible grade was bestowed as a reward for meritorious service or for good conduct.

13. The period of service must be continuous, but in case of the abolition of the office held by an Officer, and his being subsequently employed by Government, his first period of service is to be taken into account.

Gratuities.

14. When an Officer is discharged with a gratuity under these Rules on reduction of Establishment, the gratuity will not be given to him in one sum, but in monthly instalments of a month's pay until the full amount is exhausted. Should he be re-employed before or after the period for which gratuity is allowed, he will have the option of refunding the gratuity and recovering his former service, or of forfeiting that service by retaining the gratuity. In the latter case, any balance of gratuity remaining undrawn at the date of his re-employment may be paid to him.

Payment of Pensions.

15. Payment of pension will commence from the date on which the applicant ceases to be borne on the Establishment, or from that of his application, whichever may be the later date.

16. No pension shall be payable in arrear, for a period exceeding six months, without the express sanction of the Government obtained through the Civil Pay-Master,—unless the cause of the suspension of payment shall have been the neglect, order, or act of some public Officer and beyond the control of the Pensioner, when the Civil Pay-Master, on a reference being made to him, shall exercise his discretion in passing arrears for payment, or submit a representation of the case for the information and orders of Government, as he shall consider proper.

18. An Officer shall, on retirement, have the option of drawing his pension either in India or from the Home Treasury. After exercising his option on retirement, he may, at a subsequent period, change the place of payment from England to India, or vice versâ. This change can, however, be allowed but once. The payments in England will be made at the rate of exchange which is annually fixed in communication with the Lords of the Treasury for the adjustment of transactions between the British and Indian Exchequers.

No. 2428.

Extract from the Proceedings of the Government of India, in the Financial Department, under date the 8th June 1863.

Read letter No. 111 of 6th August 1862, to the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State, regarding the limitation to 500*l* per annum of the maximum pension to Uncovenanted Officers.

Read reply thereto in paragraphs 19 to 24 of the Despatch from the Secretary of State, No. 205, dated 8th December 1862.

Ordered, that the foregoing correspondence be published for general information :—

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

No. 111 of 1862.

To the Right Hon'ble Sir C. Wood, Bart., M. P., Secretary of State for India.
Fort William, the 6th August 1862.

Sir,—The Rules of the 4th January 1831, regarding the grant of pensions to Uncovenanted Servants, restrict the amount of pension to half salary for those who have served for thirty years or more (except as regards Law Officers and Native Judges, in whose case twenty-two years' service is sufficient) and to one-third for those who have served for a shorter period not less than twenty years (fifteen years being substituted for twenty in the case of Law Officers and Native Judges).

2. Referring, however, to the extension of the service and the alteration in the prospects of its members since the Rules were passed, the late Court of Directors decided, in their Despatch No. 21, dated the 28th February 1855, that 500*l* per annum should be the maximum pension to be granted to Uncovenanted Officers "hereafter appointed to the Service." Accordingly, as respects all Uncovenanted Officers who entered the Service prior to that date, the Rules of 4th January 1831 continue to be applied, and with reference to the continually increasing number of highly paid appointments which are now thrown open to Uncovenanted Servants, the Government of Bombay, anticipating that the State will become saddled with large pensions payable on their retirement from the Service, have addressed us proposing that "before any Uncovenanted Servant who shall have entered the Service before the 19th May* 1855 is promoted to an appointment the salary of which is Rupees 10,000 per annum and upwards, he shall be called upon to renounce formally any claim to pension beyond the sum of 500*l* per annum."

* The date of the orders of the Government of India, notifying the decision of the Court of Directors in their Despatch No. 21 of 1855.

3. The restriction proposed by the Bombay Government is in itself quite reasonable, and the only doubt we find regarding it is whether it is the proper way of attaining the object in view.

4. The Uncovenanted Service, it seems to us, cannot claim to have any rights under the Rules of 1831 beyond what may be considered to arise out of the general pledge which those Rules may be taken to give, that a member of that service when rendered incapable of further duty shall not be discharged without some pensionary support. As regards the amount of pension to be given, the Rules merely fix a limit which is not to be exceeded; and although it has, with rare exceptions, been the practice to allow the highest pension of which the Rules allow, this practice cannot be admitted to confer on the Uncovenanted Service any right to claim that maximum in all cases without any regard whatever to the original design and scope of the Rules.

5. The Rules of 1831 were obviously not framed with a view to the duties and emoluments of the high offices which are now bestowed on the Uncovenanted Service.

6. Apart from any question of construction of the Rules as they stand, we see no ground for holding that the Government in passing the Rules of 1831 pledged the State to allow pensions on the scale, and according to the conditions therein prescribed, to all Uncovenanted Servants who were at that time in the Public Service, or who might enter the Service while the Rules yet remained in force.

7. It appears to us that it was always open to the Government to modify these Rules whenever it might in good faith consider that the public interests called for their modification; and when it appeared that the circumstances of the Uncovenanted Service were becoming rapidly changed, and that the Rules which were framed chiefly in reference to Natives of India, among whom at that time it is probable that no salary higher than 500 or 600 Rupees a month would have been found, were claimed as applicable to a class of appointments for which they never were meant to provide, we consider that the Government would have been perfectly justified in framing new Rules and making them applicable to all classes of appointments which were plainly not included within the original intention of the Rules of 1831. This would have been a direct, and in our judgment a very legitimate way of attaining the object, which it is now proposed to attain by the somewhat doubtful proceeding of refusing promotion to a deserving Officer, unless he will consent to abandon that to which it is assumed he has a right under the existing Rules.

8. We incline to think, notwithstanding the difficulty which is undoubtedly caused by the Proceedings of 1855, referred to in the second paragraph of this letter, that even now it will be better that the Government should assert its right to alter the Rules of 1831, as regards all appointments clearly not embraced by the original intention of those Rules, and to declare such alteration applicable to all Uncovenanted Servants whether they entered the Public Service before 1855 or since.

9. But if this be done it may be right, perhaps, having regard to the expectations which must naturally have been created by the order of 1855, to allow the full advantages of the Rules of 1831, with respect to all appointments made up to the present time and held by Officers who entered the Public Service before 1855. Thus, such an Officer already holding an appointment of Rupees 1,500 a month will, on superannuation after twenty-two or thirty years' service, according to the class of appointment, be able to claim a pension up to 900*l.* a year; but he will not, if hereafter promoted to higher emoluments, be able to claim a still larger pension calculated on those higher emoluments.

10. The distinction which will thus be made between persons (all having entered the Public Service before 1855) who have already obtained promotion to high and lucrative employment, and those who are yet looking for such promotion, may possibly appear unreasonable and invidious, but it will not really affect the latter class more injuriously than will the proposal submitted by the Government of Bombay, and it is a course which, on the whole, seems to us less open to objection than the Bombay plan.

11. We request the favor of an early decision upon this reference.

Extract (Paragraphs 19 to 24) from a Financial Despatch from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, to the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council, No. 205 of 1862, dated the 8th December.

Para. 19.—I have also had under consideration your Financial Letter, dated the 6th August 1862, No. 111, in which you refer to a proposition made by the Government of Bombay in reference to the restriction on the maximum amount of pension prescribed in the Financial Despatch of the Court of Directors to the Government of India, dated the 28th February 1855, No. 21.

20. That Despatch fixed the sum of 500*l.* as the maximum pension to be granted to "Uncovenanted Servants hereafter appointed to the "Service." The Government of Bombay consider that it would be expedient to require any Uncovenanted Servant, who entered the service before the date of the orders of your Government on the Despatch of the Court of Directors, and who shall hereafter be promoted to an appointment, the salary of which is Rupees 10,000 per annum and upwards, to renounce formally any claim to pension beyond the sum of 500*l.* per annum.

21. In reference to that opinion of the Government of Bombay, you observe that the Uncovenanted Service "cannot claim to have any rights "under the Rules of 1831, beyond what may be "considered to arise out of the general pledge "which those Rules may be taken to give, that a "member of that service, when rendered incapable "of further duty, shall not be discharged without "some pensionary support. As regards the "amount of pension to be given, the Rules merely "fix a limit which is not to be exceeded, and "although it has, with rare exceptions, been the "practice to allow the highest pension of which "the Rules allow, this practice cannot be admitted "to confer on the Uncovenanted Service any "right to claim that maximum in all cases with-"out any regard whatever to the original design "and scope of the Rules."

22. You nevertheless consider that, with reference to the Order of 1855, it may be right "to "allow the full advantages of the Rules of 1831 "with respect to all appointments made up to the "present time and held by Officers who entered "the Public Service before 1855. Thus, such an "Officer already holding an appointment of "Rupees 1,500 a month will, on superannuation "after twenty-two or thirty years' service, according "to the class of appointment, be able to claim a "pension up to 900*l.* a year, but he will not, if "hereafter promoted to higher emoluments, be able "to claim a still larger pension calculated on "those higher emoluments."

23. I must observe that, under the existing Pension Rules, an Uncovenanted Servant is not entitled to claim a pension of the full amount which is only authorized as the reward of approved service, and when the Rules were framed it could not have been contemplated that a larger pension than 500*l.* per annum could ever be granted.

24. Under any circumstances, therefore, the full pension should only be awarded in cases of extraordinary merit.

No. 387 of 1863.—The following Extract from the London Gazette of the 17th April 1863, is published for general information :—

The Queen has been graciously pleased to signify Her intention to confer the decoration of the Victoria Cross on the undermentioned Officers, whose claims to the same have been submitted for Her Majesty's approval, on account of Acts of Bravery performed by them in India, as recorded against their names, viz :—

Regiment or Corps.	Rank and Name.	Acts of Bravery for which recommended.
The late 13th Bengal Native Infantry (now of the Bengal Staff Corps.)	Lieutenant (now Captain) Robert Hope Moncrieff Aitken.	For various acts of gallantry performed during the defence of the Residency of Lucknow, from the 30th of June to the 22nd of November 1857. 1. On three different occasions Lieutenant Aitken went into the Garden under the enemy's loopholes in the "Captain's Bazar." On two of these occasions he brought out a number of bullocks which had been left in the Garden ;—subsequently, on the 3rd of July, the enemy having set fire to the Bhoosa Stock in the Garden, and it being apprehended that the fire would reach the Powder Magazine which had been left there, Lieutenant Aitken, accompanied by other Officers, went into the Garden and cut down all the tents which might have communicated the fire to the powder. This was done close to the enemy's loopholes under a bright light from the flames. It was a most dangerous service. 2. On the night of the 20th of August the enemy having set fire to the Baillie Guard Gate, Lieutenant Aitken was the first man in the gateway, and, assisted by some Sepoys and a water-carrier of his Regiment, he partially opened the gate under a heavy fire of musketry, and having removed the burning wood and straw saved the gate. 3. On the evening of the 25th of September this Officer led on twelve Sepoys of his Regiment for the purpose of attacking two Guns opposite the gate referred to, in order to prevent their being turned on the late Major-General Havelock's second column. Having captured them he attacked and took the Terce Kotee with a small force. 4. On the morning of the 26th of September, with a small party of his Regiment, he assaulted and captured the barricaded gateway of the Furreed Buksh Palace, and the Palace itself. On this occasion he sprang up against a small wicket gate on the right and prevented the enemy from shutting it, until, with assistance, it was forced open, and the assaulting party were thus enabled to rush in. The complete success of the attack was solely owing to this Officer's distinguished bravery. 5. In a subsequent Sortie on the 29th of September Lieutenant Aitken volunteered to take a Gun which still continued firing, taking with him four Soldiers through the houses and lanes to the Gun. The enemy fired on this party from the houses, but they held their ground, until a stronger party coming up, the Gun was upset from its carriage and taken into the Residency. Another Gun was subsequently taken.

Corps.	Rank and Name.	Act of Bravery for which recommended.
The late Bombay Engineers (now of the Royal Engineers.)	Lieutenant Charles Augustus Goodfellow.	For gallant conduct at the attack on the Fort of Beyt, on the 6th of October 1859. On that occasion, a soldier of the 28th Regiment was shot under the walls of the Fort. Lieutenant Goodfellow rushed under the walls, under a sharp fire of matchlocks, and bore off the body of the soldier, who was then dead, but whom he at first supposed to be wounded only.

Government of Bengal.

Reports on the abandoned Embankments of the Rivers Damoodah and Adjai.

From H. L. DAMPIER, Esq., Secretary to the Board of Revenue, to the Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, in the Public Works Department,—(No. 289, dated the 28th October 1862.)

WITH reference to Government Order No. 2393, dated 31st May 1861, I am directed by the Board of Revenue to forward herewith, for submission to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, a copy of a letter* No. 243, dated 27th ultimo, from the Commissioner of Burdwan, containing a report on the condition of the country adjoining the abandoned Embankments of the Rivers Damoodah and Adjai.

* With one Plan in original.

2. In the District of Burdwan the enquiry into the comdition of the localities appears to have been conducted with care by Deputy Collector Mr. Jones and the Collector himself; and the Board accept the conclusions to which they have come, that injury to a great extent has been the result of the abandonment of the Damoodah Embankments, and it will probably be lasting, as (at any rate in the immediate vicinity of every breach) a deposit of sand takes place. The abandonment of the Adjai Embankments in the same District has not been followed by such disastrous results.

3. In Beerbhoom the enquiry has been carefully made by the Collector, and there can be no doubt that in the particular villages and localities named considerable injury has been done principally by the deposit of sand. The Zemindary Embankment referred to in Commissioner's 42nd paragraph do not appear to the Board to call for any remarks, as it is not stated that they are such as the parties are bound to keep up.

4. In the District of Hooghly the Embankments are in good order. The injury that has been done in this District is owing to a breach in the Embankment at Sreekristopore, in Burdwan; but the circumstances attending this have been specially reported by the Commissioner to Government direct.

5. The return of the Plan herewith submitted is requested.

From G. PLOWDEN, Esq., Commissioner of the Burdwan Division, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces,—(No. 243, dated the 27th September 1862.)

WITH reference to your letter No. 16, dated the 21st January last, and the previous correspondence, I have the honor to submit the following Report on the condition of the country adjoining the abandoned Embankments of the Rivers Damoodah and Adjai.

BURDWAN.—2. The Board are aware that Mr. Jones, an Uncovenanted Deputy Collector of Burdwan, was deputed by the Collector on the duty of inspection in that District. He left Burdwan on the 16th December last for Shanghatgolah, and from that point personally inspected and carefully enquired into any damage done by the removal of the bund as far as Korah, the most southern part of the District, situated on the east side of the Khal marked in the District Map, returning northwards from Kootsimool on the west of the said Khal, and inspecting all the land between the Khal and the boundary of the limits of the inundation, as marked on the said Map, to Tundool, where crossing the Khal he went to Mohunpore, at which place he crossed the River and returned to Burdwan.

3. Mr. Jones proceeded from Village to Village inspecting the land and hearing the complaints of the people. The result of his inspection was as follows.

4. From Shanghatgolah to Bundgacha, a Village to the west of Jaktah, the damage done by the removal of the Embankment in the previous years does not seem to have been very great; but the inundation of last year no doubt did much injury to the land and the crops. At Shanghatgolah, Radhakristopore, Mosiliah, Athkola, Kamalpore, and one or two other places, a good deal of sand has been deposited on the arable land.

5. Between Bundgacha and Mohunpore, however, the damage done is more apparent. The bank of the River here is very low and has been breached in several places, particularly at Bundgacha, Bamooneah, and Hijulnah; and much land at Bundgacha, Jaklah, Bamooneah, Hijulnah and Hurripore has become and is becoming waste year after year by the deposit of a great quantity of sand, which in some places is from one to two feet deep over land once cultivated.

6. Between Mohunpore and Halarah the damage is not so apparent. At Shumbhoopore there is an old breach now closed, and the land is apparently fast recovering from the effects of that breach; a few houses were knocked down by last year's flood, and there is a small breach to the west of the Village. At Chukenjadee much damage was caused by an old breach closed about two years ago; but to the east of the Village and west of Hybutpore there is a succession of breaches, and the land between the two Villages for a quarter of a mile is cut up in every direction, the earth being carried away, long and wide channels being ploughed up by the water, and nothing but sand left. These breaches, forming as it were one immense opening, have damaged much land of Jamdoo, Kybutpore, Chubbulpore and Kunukpore, apparently last year, for fields that were evidently then cultivated are now half buried in sand. A number of houses were also destroyed in these Villages, and the lands of Kristopore, which were laid waste by the bursting of the bund between that place and Halarah some time back, are still nothing but jungle.

7. Between Halarah and Sreekristopore the damage does not seem to have been great, but the bund in front of the last named Village gave way during the rains of last year and fourteen lives were lost. The gap was found to be 1,400 feet wide. The greater part of the Village of Sreekristopore consisting in that part of about a hundred houses was swept away, and the lands to the west, south, and north of the Village were covered with sand from one to two and a half feet deep. This breach also damaged a good deal of the land of Rajarampore, and, in fact, its effects were felt more or less by all the Villages between Sreekristopore and Horah, and for a good distance of land.

8. Between Sreekristopore and Horah there were breaches at Jote Seeram and Jote Dukhin, which caused much damage to the lands of those Villages There was also another breach at Mydapore.

9. The following list exhibits the Villages damaged and the percentage of damage in each.—

Villages.	Percentage of Damage.
Shanghatgolah, Radhakristopore, Chundeepore	About 4 or 5 per cent.
Wasiliah, Athkola, Kamalpore	About 4 or 5 per cent.
Bundgacha, Jaktah, Salgatcha, Boylpore, Bamooneah, Hijulnah, Bongram, Boro, Damash, Hurripore, Mohunpore, Sumbhoopore, Chukenjadee	In some 20 per cent. in others 50 per cent.
Hybutpore, Jamdoo, Chubbulpore, Kunukpore, Shadeepore	In some 10 per cent. in others 40 per cent.
Rajarampore, Sreekristopore, Jote Seeram	In some 5 per cent. in others 20 per cent., at Sreekristopore 80 per cent.
Jote Dukhin, Paikpara, Resalutpore, Moydapore	From 5 to 20 per cent.

10. The Deputy Collector did not take the appearance of the crops as the chief test of the damage done, but what he noted as a sure mark of permanent damage was the deposit of large quantities of sand, as well as the washing away of soil by the action of the waters.

11. Having inspected the whole of the bunds close to the River, the Deputy Collector crossed over to Kootsimool, which is on the west side of the Khal mentioned before, and inspected the lands of all the Villages within the boundaries of the limits of the inundation marked in the District Map. Here he noticed from Kootsimool to Tundool one prevailing feature testifying to the damage done by the removal of the bund, namely, the immense quantity of waste land to be met with. The lands are too far from the river to suffer from deposit of sand, but much of the good soil appears to have been washed away. A strip of land along the Khal has apparently been waste for many years owing to the liability of the Khal to overflow its banks; but it was easy to see that very much land had been laid waste more lately by the large addition to the waters of the Khal let in by the removal of the bund.

12. The following is a list of the Villages to the west of the Khal, with the percentage of land calculated to be lying waste in each:—

Kootsimool,	...	About 75 per cent.
Atarpoor and Danapore	...	50 „
Nursingpore	...	35 „

13. Two facts are mentioned to show the damage which must be done to the lands when subject to such floods as those which took place in the rains of last year. At Shoobuldoho and at Bora, places some six or eight miles apart, the water was from ten to twelve feet deep on the lands. The truth of this statement was corroborated by the grass and mud left sticking in branches of trees at that height from the ground, and evidently left there by the flood. The other fact is that at Kamalghurree and two or three other places the people are migrating from their homes.

14. Mr. Jones considers the removal of the bund on the east side of the Khal a mistake; with respect to the bund in front of the Village of Sreekristopore he is of opinion that it was cut away too far, and that if it had been left to overlap a grove of mangoe trees to the north it would in all probability not have been breached The complaints of the people in all but a few places, he states, were fully borne out. The universal wish was that the bund should be restored, and Mr. Jones' general impression as regards the measure of the removal of the bund is that whatever benefit may have accrued the damage done has been far greater.

15. As regards the abandoned embankments of the Adjai, Mr. Jones was informed by Captain Short, the Superintending Engineer of the Burdwan Division, that it was only necessary that he should examine into and report upon the condition of the country from Jehanabad up to Bhedia, on both banks; from Bhedia Saugorpostal on the right bank, and from the mouth of the Toomnee-khal as far as Moocheeparah. He therefore confined his inspection to that tract and the result was as follows.

16. From Bhedia to Jehanabad, on the right bank, there were one or two small breaches in the bank of the River and in the bund which still exists, but the damage was not extensive nor serious. Between Shandla and Futtehpore there is a Khal now connected with the River, which the Deputy Collector was told by the people was closed at the time of making the bund, but which has now been open for some years. The lands adjoining this Khal and belonging to the Villages of Aoosgram, Dangah, Bheetee and Kullumpore, all lying about half a mile from the River, had been much damaged by the floods of the past season; most of the land close to the Khal had evidently been waste for years. There were also one or two breaches close to Futtehpore which had done some damage, but the people here did not complain much. At Itsapoor alias Jungul there was a breach of the past year which had damaged slightly several hundred beeghs of land by leaving a small deposit of sand, but the damage done did not seem to be of a permanent nature.

17. The bunds on both sides of the river from Jehanabad downwards are isolated ones, erected here and there by the Zemindars for the protection of different Villages; the Deputy Collector therefore says nothing concerning the condition of the country adjoining these Embankments.

18. From Jehanabad to Bhedia, on the left bank of the Adjai, much damage appears to have been done. The River is forming a new junction with the Khaner Adjai just opposite the Embankment Bungalow at Jehanabad. At Nowdoho and as far as Goodho a large quantity of sand has been deposited on the soil, but the Rubee crops here were very fine, some of the finest the Deputy Collector had seen. Beyond this as far as Boulpoor the land had not suffered, being protected by Embankments; but at Bhulpoor there was a bad breach which had injured a large quantity of land belonging to Etimdah. There was also another breach at Kullianpoor, and at Hurripore the bank of the River was being gradually eaten away, the bund here was fast disappearing, and the Village itself seemed likely to be carried away.

19. From Hurripore to Simoola little or no injury appears to have taken place, but the Villagers all along this bank wish that the bund should be kept up.

20. From Bhedia to Buxsee Bazar the bund is gradually disappearing from the encroachments of the River, but the Deputy Collector did not see much damage here. From Paoochea to Satcoonee there is a splendid bund.

21. From the mouth of the Toomnee Khal to the rising ground at Moocheeparah there is an abandoned Enbankment two and a quarter miles in length, which was breached in thirteen different places during the rains of last year, and a large quantity of land has been slightly covered with sand. The fact of so many breaches having occurred in this bund is attributed to the trees upon it having been cut down, and the roots dug up by order of the Zemindar; a number of holes were thus made in the bund, which of course weakened and rendered it more liable to be breached in those places where the holes left by the rooting out of the trees existed.

22. On the whole the Deputy Collector is of opinion that the lands adjoining the abandoned Embankments of the Adjai have neither been seriously nor permanently injured, and the damage done appeared to him quite insignificant when compared with the "desolation and ruin" which he witnessed along the Damoodah.

23. The Collector of Burdwan, on a consideration of the Deputy Collector's Report, regards the local investigation as having been most complete, and observes that whatever indirect advantages may have been derived from the measure of abandoning the Embankments, the direct results have been almost complete ruin to the cultivators whose lands are situated along the banks of the Damoodah.

24. The Collector writing from Chuckdighee, the residence of Baboo Sharodaproshad Roy, who has a large amount of property contiguous to the abandoned Embankments of the Damoodah, further states that the Baboo's account of the great loss sustained by him and other Zemindars, in consequence of the Embankments being abandoned, tallies in every respect with Mr. Jones' Report.

Beerbhoom.—25. The inspection in this District was made by the Collector himself, Mr. Alexander, and embraced the localities adjoining the abandoned Embankments on the north side of the Adjai. The result was as follows.

26. The abandoned Embankments are three in number, namely,—

1*st*.—The Nowdaha Embankment which extends for about half a mile from the south of Jehanabad to the Villages of Nowdaha, in Thannah Shacoolleepore.

2*nd*.—The Embankment that commences from a point about a quarter of a mile south-west of Nowdaha, and passing along the Villages of Geedoho, Russulpore, and Kureempore ends just beyond the latter Village. This Embankment is in the Thannahs of Shacoolleepore and Kushbah, and is about five and a half miles in length.

3*rd*.—The Embankment from a point south of the Village Bhobunnessurpoor extending to Kendoolee, in Thannah Kishennagore, being one mile or one mile and a half in length.

27. First Embankment.—This Embankment has been abandoned for five or six years, and the annexed sketch Map will enable the Board to understand more clearly its present condition, and the effect that its abandonment has had, and is likely to have, on the adjacent country and lands. From the point marked A. in the sketch Map to B, the bund withstood the force of the torrent till September last (1861). The letters C. D. E. F. point out the former course of the Adjai, but in 1860 the main current changed, and leaving the old channel cut its way through good land from G. to H., at which last point it again fell into its original channel, filling up the abandoned channel with sand. In September 1861 a heavy bán came down and broke through the bund at the point I., cutting away a quantity of land (about a beegah and a half) and covering all the land (about forty beegahs or so) with a very heavy deposit of sand as far as the point K., destroyed the dhan crops growing thereon, and rendered the soil, which was formerly rich, now almost useless for purposes of cultivation. A large quantity of sand was also carried over all the land near and round Nowdaha, and only cold-weather crops such as mustard, linseed, tobacco, &c., can be grown thereon. In former years the Villagers used to reap a harvest of paddy in addition to the cold-weather crops.

28. The abandonment of this Embankment therefore has caused the neighbouring land to deteriorate in quality, and considerable loss has been sustained therefrom by the Ryots of Nowdaha. Unless the breach at I. be speedily filled up and the bund re-formed there appeared to be every probability that the whole of the lands between Nowdaha and K. would be covered over by the báns of 1862, with such a heavy deposit of sand as to render futile any attempt at cultivation for years to come.

29. The Villagers stated that there had been also a Government bund extending from A. to L., a distance of about a quarter of a mile. If there ever were such a bund it has been levelled with the ground, and but very faint marks of its former existence remain. The Collector, however, believes the Villagers' statement to be correct, because a bund is specially required in that line for the protection of the Village of Nowdaha itself. The abandonment of that Embankment has been attended with most unhappy consequences to the Villagers of Nowdaha. On the occasion of almost every bán the Village is inundated, for sometimes two days, to a depth of three or four feet inside the raised houses. The Collector saw the water mark on the trees and the walls in the Village, and a great and reasonable dread prevails of the Village being soon swept away or rendered altogether untenable during the rains, the last few báns having cut deep nullahs into the Village through which the water rushes with great violence, stopping all communication between the different houses, and throwing all the inhabitants into the greatest discomfort and alarm; though, from enquiries which the Collector made on the spot, no deaths from drowning have been known to have occurred during the inundations in past years.

30. The Village contains from forty-five to fifty families. The Villagers informed the Collector that as long as the bund from A. to L. was in existence it formed an ample protection to their Village, but that ever since its destruction they have been annually subjected to the miseries described above, and he can readily credit their statement.

31. From the destruction of that Embankment moreover, the lands to the south-west and west of Nowdaha, for at least a quarter of a mile in each of those directions, have been so covered with sand that only very thin and scanty cold-weather crops of mustard, linseed, teel, wheat, &c., (all of which different kinds of crops are sown and grown together in a mass in this part of Zillah Beerbhoom) can be reared thereon, whereas formerly, when the bund was kept in good repair, the Villagers assured the Collector that they annually reaped both good dhan crops and rich cold-weather crops. The cold-weather crops that the Collector saw growing thereon were very poor indeed, with the exception of a few patches of sugarcane cultivation, and the soil was chiefly sand. To the west and south-west of Nowdaha, about a quarter of a mile from that Village, there had been dhan crops reaped in 1861, and all the facts observed by the Collector himself confirmed the statements of the Villagers regarding the deterioration of their lands from the abandonment of the Embankments.

32. Second Embankment.—This Embankment has suffered much from the báns, and from all accounts is now from two to four feet lower than it used to be when kept in regular repair. Its height is now on an average about six feet above the level of the bank of the River, and except in one part there have been no breaches of any importance made by the báns as yet, consequently the lands adjoining do not appear to have suffered very much from its abandonment, but that the entire demolition of the bund, which will assuredly take place in a few years unless it be again taken in hand and repaired by the Government, will have a ruinous effect on the adjoining land cannot, in the Collector's opinion, be a matter of doubt. From the sketch Map it will be seen that this bund at present forms a protection along the whole southern side of a large extent of land, including fourteen mouzahs, that has been formed into an island by the change made in its course by the Adjai many years ago before the formation of the said bund. The Villagers informed the Collector that as long as the bunds were kept in repair they were able to grow paddy crops up to the foot of the bunds, but since their abandonment a deposit of sand has been gradually accumulating, and that now, as observed by the Collector, paddy crops will not grow within 400 or 500 yards of the Embankment.

33. The line of paddy cultivation shews the extent to which the sandy deposit extends, because the Ryots will always sow paddy, if they can, in order to get two crops annually off their lands, but paddy will not grow where sand is borne down by an inundation unless the plant is strong and well grown at the time the inundation takes place, which is seldom the case in the Beerbhoom District, as the more violent báns come down in August and September, when the plant is very young and tender.

34. If the statements of the Ryots be true, the soil for on an average 400 or 500 yards along the whole length of this Embankment has deteriorated in quality from the deposit of sand that has gradually accumulated during the last five or six years from the abandonment of the Embankment. No paddy crops and only scanty cold-weather crops of peas, mustard, &c., (except in a very few places where flourishing crops of peas were to be seen) were observed by the Collector along the whole length of the bund. From the general appearance of the soil the statements made by the Ryots appeared to the Collector to be correct and true, and from the condition of the land in the vicinity of the Village of Russoolpore, where about 600 yards of the bund had been completely broken away by the bán about ten years ago and never since repaired, the consequences that will result from the entire demolition of the bund may be foreseen. The Villagers stated that for the first few years after the breach in the bund had been made they could grow dhan on the adjoining lands, because the deposit of sand was trifling, but that for the last four years about 500 beegahs had become almost useless and worthless for the purposes of cultivation. The Collector saw that the greater portion of the land pointed out was sand, and the very scantiest crops of linseed were growing here and there in patches. The Ryots surrounded the Collector in numbers, and were loud and urgent in their prayers and entreaties for the maintenance of the bund.

35. The statement of the Ryots that dhan used to be grown close up to the Embankment on land that was previous to any breaches being made in the Embankment good dhan land and yielding two crops annually was evidently true, for the Collector observed at one or two places where the bund had been broken and repaired with the sand deposit that had accumulated immediately in the vicinity of the breaches that the Ryots had taken advantage of those few spots that had been cleared of sand, and that they had sown and reaped small dhan crops therefrom only last year, the stubble being in the ground when the Collector inspected those spots; whereas all round for several hundred yards where the sand deposit had not been thus removed only scanty cold-weather crops were growing. One of these spots was about a quarter of a mile west of Geedoho, another west of Russoolpore.

36. At a Village called Mohadebpore, between Geedoho and Russoolpoor, the lands were apparently of good quality, because the Government bund had suffered little or no injury to the south, and the Putneedar, Mr. Erskine, had protected his lands from injury from the breach in the Embankment near Russoolpore, by forming, at his own expense, a strong bund running north from the Government bund and west of Mohadebpore, which prevented any deposit of sand on his lands.

37. This precaution and the result seem to show very clearly that people acquainted with the nature and effect of the báns in the Adjai know that any breach in the Embankment will have a most deteriorating influence on the soil adjoining, and the contrast between the crops of the Mohadebpore Ryots, who grew dhan crops last year nearly up to the foot of the Government Embankment, and those of the Ryots of Geedoho on the east, and of Russoolpore on the west of Mohadebpore, shows clearly the deteriorating effect of the abandonment of the Embankment, when no counter-measures have been adopted to protect the soil from a deposit of sand.

38. From Russoolpoor to Kureempoor, a distance of about one mile, the crops along the Embankment and from thence to the opposite side where the old channel of the Adjai runs were poor and very inferior in quality. The Ryots stated that part of the bund about ten years ago was broken through near Russoolpore, and much sand deposited on the adjoining land, and that the bund again opposite Kureempoor had also been broken through some eight years ago and more sand deposited. The land had certainly not recovered from the injuries it must then have sustained, and the soil at this end of the island is much mixed up with sand and is very poor.

39. During the rains, and especially at the time when the báns come down, the current along Kureempoor must, the Collector observes, be fearfully strong, and he is of opinion that if this Embankment be not maintained, the Village of Kureempoor in which twenty-five families reside will be shortly either swept away or rendered wholly untenable during the rains.

40. The Villagers themselves appeared in very great distress about the fate of the Embankment and of the Village, and implored the Collector to intercede on their behalf for the maintenance of the bund for the sake of their homesteads; their lands, they said, had long ago been rendered almost valueless by the deposit of sand from the Adjai. That their Village is in imminent danger, and their lands nearly valueless from the deposit of sand thereon, are facts which the Collector states admit of no question.

41. Third Embankment.—This Embankment is in a bad condition, and unless repaired will in a year or two disappear altogether. The land for 500 or 600 yards on the north is not only uncultivated but unculturable from the heavy deposit of sand thereon, except in the immediate vicinity of Kendoolee. This appears to have been the condition of the land for the last three years, when, as stated by the Putneedar's Agents, a heavy breach was made in the Embankment, a hundred yards of which appears to have been broken down and since repaired, and a heavy deposit of sand is stated to have been then laid on the adjoining land, rendering it utterly worthless for the purposes of cultivation. The Villagers came to the Collector in a body and prayed that the bund might be repaired annually and maintained.

42. Though there are no more abandoned Government Embankments on the north bank of the Adjai, there are some Zemindaree Embankments which have been also abandoned, extending from near Mohoolee, where the Railway Bridge crosses the Adjai, to within two miles of Elambazar. These Embankments are in utter disrepair, and the injury that the soil has sustained from their abandonment has been great. The Putneedar of one Village called Sreechundeepore pointed out to the Collector a place where the Embankment had been completely broken through, and a new channel cut through his Putnee by the River.

The soil for a great distance was much mixed with sand, and lands that used to pay rent of Rupees 4 and Rupees 5 a beegah now only pay annas 8 and 10. In Sreechundeepore the annual mofussil collections used to be Rupees 1,400, but since the deterioration of the soil from the breach in the Embankment the annual mofussil collections have dwindled down to Rupees 985. The total annual mofussil collections of the Putnee used to be Rupees 3,200, now they amount to only Rupees 2,700. The jumma payable by the Putneedar being Rupees 2,680-8-8, the profits of the Putnee have been reduced to almost nil from the abandonment of the Zemindaree Embankment.

43. Hooghly.—In this District also the inspection was made by the Collector himself, Mr. Palmer, and the result was as follows.

44. The question as far as it relates to this District has reference to the tract from Shahpore (where the Burdwan District joins Hooghly) to Dee Bhoorsoot, a distance of about thirteen miles.

45. The Embankment throughout on either side of the Damoodah is in good order, and the cold weather crops immediately on either side of the right Embankment showed indisputably that the land had not been injured by the inundation; on the contrary the deposit left on the retirement of the water had greatly enriched the soil, and the lands in the immediate neighbourhood of the bund reminded the Collector forcibly of the fertile District of Tirhoot. This fertility, however, extended only from about one to two miles on the west bank, after which there came a large tract of country about two to two and a half miles broad, which had been much injured.

46. During the heavy flood in July of last year the water, the Collector gathers, was about twelve feet above this land, and notwithstanding its wide expanse the stream was very strong, uprooting trees and destroying houses, leaving in places considerable deposit of sand, and otherwise devastating a large tract of country. This tract, though it was dry at the time of the Collector's inspection, was, with some trifling exceptions, still uncultivated. It is a rugged tract covered with coarse grass over the greater portion, and is used as a grazing ground for the public. No rent is paid by any cultivator, but in the event of any crop the Zemindar takes a share of it. In some places on this land Boro Dhan was being cultivated, but the crop was not such as would pay the cultivator, and this is probably the reason why the tract generally is allowed to be waste.

47. This devastation is caused by a breach in the bund on the right bank in the Burdwan District at Sreekistopore. The water having broken through the bund did not flow immediately alongside the bund, but took a parallel direction at a distance from three quarter of a mile to two and a half miles therefrom. Passing through the Villages of Shahpore, Gurgohat, Burmsaleepore, Beerbundee, Kistopore, Narekaljole, Saidpore, Ahmedpore, Baneegachee, Gholedegra, Pantoharee Radanuggur, it finally re-joined the Damoodah below Bhoorsootdee where the river bifurcates.

48. The country along this tract is naturally low, and had there been no breach in the bund at Sreekistopore, a considerable body of water from the rains would have been collected therein. Indeed, the Ryots on either side of this tract do not attempt any early rice sowing. They rely on their cold-weather crops chiefly, and also on Boro Dhan. The Ryots did not complain to the extent that the Collector had anticipated He saw no signs of wealth amongst the agricultural classes, and says they are evidently a poor inactive race who earn a subsistence and nothing more.

49. The lands lying between this waste tract and the right bank of the River are, as has been already observed, very fine. Some of the lands let for Rupees 20 per beegah, (Mulberry), and the Collector found none paying rent under Rupees 2 per beegah (Rice.)

50. The Collector hopes that the breach at Sreekistopore will be repaired by the Embankment Authorities, or that some Khals will be dug for the purpose of carrying off the superfluous water. That portion of the old Benares Road which cuts this tract at right angles at Saidpore has been completely washed away, and the bridges, with one exception, destroyed. It is very necessary, says the Collector, that this important road should be put in order; but it would be folly to throw away a large sum of money in earthwork until there was some security that it would not be immediately washed away.

51. As regards the breach at Sreekistopore in July 1861, adverted to in paragraphs 7 and 14 and 47 to 50 of this Report, I beg to state that all the circumstances of that occurrence and the calamitous loss of life and property attending it were fully reported by me to the Government at the time in my letter No. 188, dated the 25th November last.

From Colonel E L. Ommanney, R. E, Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, in the Public Works Department, to the Secretary to the Board of Revenue,—(No. 3005, dated the 18th May 1863.)

On receipt of your letter No. 289, dated the 28th October last, submitting a Report on the condition of the country adjoining the abandoned Embankments on the Rivers Damoodah and Adjai, the Lieutenant-Governor directed the Superintending Engineer of the Burdwan Circle, to whom a copy of your letter was furnished, to proceed immediately with the Executive Engineer of the Damoodah Division over the country on the right bank of the Damoodah, in the Burdwan District, liable to inundation, with the view of obtaining an accurate record of the cultivation as it stood, and of the areas of land which are not culturable, or have not been cultivated, owing to the inundations. Circumstances prevented the Superintending Engineer from accompanying the Executive Engineer on this duty, but the latter Officer, Lieutenant Garnault, traversed the entire portion of the Burdwan District referred to in three different months, viz., November, December, and the latter end of January last, and has submitted a carefully prepared Report. Lieutenant Garnault in January further made a survey of the waste lands from Shangatgolah, the place where the embanking formerly commenced, to Kootsimool, the southernmost extremity of the Burdwan District. His survey has been plotted on a map, copy of which is herewith sent.

2. The Executive Engineer in reporting on the state of the lands has also minutely noted the course the flood takes through the entire length of country; this information is valuable, as it serves to shew the immediate causes of the injury which the land has received in certain localities.

3. It is stated that at Shangatgolah the first great breach in the bank exists, and the flood from this point takes a south-easterly course, running along an interior continuous line of bheels about two or three miles from the river bank up to the old Burdwan and Midnapore Road; between these two points, i. e. from Shangatgolah to Kamalpore, the country has not suffered; the few patches of uncultivated land perceptible here and there being low lands on which the water rests until after the time for sowing the rubbee crops has passed, and on which there is too much water during rainy season to admit of the usual rice cultivation, nor can this be attributed to the removal of the Embankments, as the flood always entered at Kamalpore by the Kamalpore Jheel Khal and flooded with water and covered with sand the low unembanked land.

4. Farther east the flood channel meets the Bachoorda Khal about half a mile from the Burdwan and Midnapore Road, and flows along the Khal doing little or no injury for about three miles, or up to the village of Salgacha. Lieutenant Garnault notices that along this length there is a strip of uncultivated land on each side of the Khal of an average breadth of 700 feet, but this "was in the same state before the Embankments were taken away as it is at present."

5. At Bongacha, Bamooneah, and Hijulnah, three large breaches in the river bank exist, through which a very large volume of water finds its way into the country, and has injured the Villages of Bongacha, Bamooneah, Hijulnah, Bowgram, Roypore, and Bonteer.

6. From Bongram the flood channel takes a more southerly direction up to Dureapore, from whence it runs almost due south to Sreekistopore, still following the course of the Bachoorda Khal. The waste land from Sookoor to Sreekistopore is of an average width of 4,000 feet, but has no sand deposit; it has been left uncultivated on account of the fears the Ryots entertain of permanent injury next flood season if they break the top crust and thus leave a soft surface for the inundation to act on. The Ryots, however, expressed to Lieutenant Garnault their willingness to cultivate at once if they were relieved of this apprehension.

7. At Sreekistopore a serious breach has occurred, which has caused injury to the country between the Villages of Joteseram, Rajarampore, and Adumpore by leaving a deposit of sand. This breach is however now being closed by a strong dam, as a measure necessary for the maintenance of the River channel. Lieutenant Garnault is of opinion that the waste land from Sreekistopore to Kootsimool, a strip averaging 5,000 feet in breadth to the west of the Bachoorda Khal, is premanently injured.

8. At Jamdah and Hybutpore, situated at the bend of the Damoodah, two or three small breaches exist, but the spill water entering from these have, Lieutenant Garnault states, very considerably benefitted the adjacent lands, as he found the whole country from Jamdah to Sadipore in November last "like a sheet of gold" and the rice finer than any he has seen on either bank. Even in the channels themselves, where some sand has been deposited, rubbee cultivation had then commenced and promised to yield very good crops.

9. From the foregoing statements it will be seen that from Shangatgolah to Salgacha the country has not suffered from the floods of the River. That from the latter place to Bonteer the land has been injured in consequence of the breaches at Bongacha, Bamooneah, and Hijulnah. That from Sookoor to Sreekristopore no sand has been deposited by the River, whilst from Jamdah to Sadipore the floods have improved the soil. It is only from Sreekristopore to Kootsimool that the country presents an appearance of permanent injury and unfitness for cultivation.

10. It may here be mentioned that before the Embankments on the right bank of the Damoodah was removed, the great breach at Kristopore was open and the country devastated by the column of water passing through it, as shewn very clearly at the cross road leading to Bancoorah (the old Grand Trunk Road). This breach was closed by Lieutenant-Colonel Beadle, and now the land immediately behind seems to have recovered and to be cultivated. The strip of country beyond this, however, remains the same, and certainly appears to be in no worse condition than before.

11. Lieutenant Garnault's Report is accompanied by a comparative statement of the waste and uncultivated lands in the Burdwan Districts within the limit of inundation. This statement after a deduction for Villages, Tanks, &c., gives beegahs 24,363 as the actual extent of waste land in 1862-63, to allow of a comparison with the data of former years a deduction has to be made of beegahs 3,092, situated to the west of the Burdwan and Midnapore Road, which lands were not included in the statements furnished by the Revenue Authorities in 1854 and in 1858-59; this leaves beegahs 21,271, which compared with the result, beegahs 18,820, given in 1858-59 shews an increase of beegahs 2,451 in the extent of uncultivated lands. The increase is due chiefly to the breach at Sreekristopore, which is now being closed, and to the exceptional extent and nature of the floods of 1862 having prevented a larger cultivation of land than would have taken place in ordinary years.

12. Lieutenant Garnault has pleaded his inability to submit any thing like a correct statement of the lands that have been improved by the removal of the Embankments, as such a task would have entailed a greater amount of labor than he could bestow on it. He further states that from the unwillingness of Ryots to acknowledge any benefit they might have received any statement of the kind could not be relied upon. He however gives it as his opinion:—"That a great quantity of land has been put entirely out of cultivation there is no doubt; that a great quantity more has been unfitted for rice cultivation, but able to produce equally lucrative crops of rubbee, there is also no doubt; but it has yet to be proved that the greater produce on some lands on account of the alluvial deposit from the spill waters of the Damoodah does not compensate for the loss which has been sustained by portions having been laid entirely waste; for my own part I am inclined to think that if the whole of the lands subject to the floods belong to one individual he would find no decrease in the income derived from the produce of the land."

13. Besides, it appears that the portion of waste lands bears but a small proportion to the extent of land over which the flood has rested, and which consequently has been benefitted by the rich alluvial deposit, a point which should not be lost sight of in estimating the effects produced by the removal of the Embankments. That such beneficial results have attended the spill waters of the Damoodah is attested by the Collector of the District, Mr. Hobhouse, who states:—"In places where the floods have simply washed lands without any violent rush of water, and have thence gently and naturally receded after resting some two or three days, there, to judge by the crops, the floods have been beneficial to the country."

14. On a careful consideration of the subject, the Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that the removal of the Embankments on the right bank of the Damoodah has been a judicious measure, the work has been carried out with skill and judgment, and the results accord closely with the expectations formed when it was first authorized in 1856. Whatever partial damage may have been sustained by the natural action of the River, now that it is no longer attempted to confine the flood waters within artificial limits, it is not to be compared with the injury and devastation formerly produced by the sudden and violent irruption of the River bursting its Embankments, while the general fertility of the area subject to inundation has been greatly increased.

15. But while arriving at this conclusion, the Lieutenant-Governor is not unmindful of the fact that a certain extent of country in the immediate vicinity of the breaches that have occurred has been injured, and that a sense of insecurity still prevails among the ryots from the uncertainty of the action of the river on its bank. His Honor is therefore of opinion that some practical measure should be devised to utilize the flood waters of the Damoodah to give confidence to the Ryots, and, if possible, to re-claim the land which is now uncultivated.

16. With this view, it is proposed to appoint an Assistant Engineer to the Damoodah Division and to relieve the Executive Engineer of the immediate charge of the current duties of the Division to such an extent as will permit of his thoroughly examining the upper reaches of the Damoodah River and its confluent streams, and submitting a Report as to the practicability of controlling the inundations of the River, and, if possible, of storing the surplus flood waters in such a manner that they may be made serviceable for purposes of irrigation and navigation.

17. But before entering upon this duty the Executive Engineer will be required to submit through the Superintending Engineer a sketch of the manner in which he proposes to conduct the examination, and to state the probable expense attending it, in order that funds may be appropriated to the extent necessary. This sketch will be duly forwarded to the Board for any suggestion they may have to offer.

No. 3006.

EXTRACT, paragraphs 14 to 17 inclusive, forwarded to the Superintending Engineer of the Burdwan Circle, with reference to his Memorandum No. 4013, dated 30th March last, with a request that the information called for in paragraph 17 may be submitted with the least practicable delay. The Superintending Engineer is requested to convey to Lieutenant-Garnault the thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor for the carefully prepared Report drawn up by that Officer.

From F. R. BOYCE, Esq., Assistant Secretary to the Government of Bengal, in the Public Works Department, to the Superintending Engineer, Burdwan Circle,—(No. 5532, dated the 25th November 1862.)

Board of Revenue's letter No. 289, dated 28th October 1862, with enclosures, sent with this letter.

I HAVE to request that you will make arrangements for proceeding immediately with the Executive Engineer of the Damoodah Division over the area of country on the right bank of the Damoodah, in the Burdwan District, which is liable to be inundated during floods of the Damoodah.

2. Your report of this inspection may be made with reference to the Report of the inspection made last year,* and you might go over the same ground and embrace the same places in your remarks.

* Forwarded with Superintending Engineer, Burdwan Circle's No. 229, dated the 29th May last.

3. It is of importance that you should proceed at once, because of the rainy season crops being still on the ground, which will enable you without any difficulty to say how far the lands which have been liable to inundation have been cultivated. Your observations as to the present cultivation of the land may be compared with the information as to the former state of these lands to be gathered from the accompanying printed† but unpublished papers, and from the papers which have been published.

† To be estimated.

4. You will find out also whether the lands which have not been cultivated during the rainy season will be cultivated during this cold weather and report accordingly.

5. The areas which are so covered with sand as not to be culturable should be measured and entered on the District Maps which have been published with the inundation boundary entered upon them.

6. The object of this personal investigation of the state of the lands is to have an accurate note of the cultivation as it stands this year, and of the areas of land which are not culturable, or have not been cultivated, owing to the inundations from the River.

7. There is no necessity for this measure being carried out for the lands on the borders of the Adjai River.

From CAPTAIN L. RUSSELL, R. E., Officiating Superintending Engineer, Burdwan Circle, to the Officiating Chief Engineer, Bengal,—(No. 2760, dated the 4th December 1862.)

I HAVE the honor to acknowledge Bengal Government's letter, No. 5532 of 25th ultimo, desiring me to proceed with the Executive Engineer, Damoodah Division, to examine the country on the right bank of the Damoodah.

2. I have carefully considered the accompaniments of your letter, as also other papers connected with the subject, which were in this Office.

3. It is not clear what sort of an examination you wish me to make, but I gather that there is required an accurate Report on the present state of the country, which may be presented by this Department to be compared with the Report made by the Deputy Collector in 1854.

That Officer's Report was in great detail, and an examination of the country, such as I believe to be necessary, and as I propose to make, must also be in detail. It will take a considerable time.

4. If there is any particular period of the season by which the submission of my Report is required, I shall be obliged by your letting me know of it.

5. As the Executive Engineer, Damoodah Division, has works to attend to at a distance from the Damoodah, I shall leave him at his own disposal as much as possible.

From LIEUTENANT-COLONEL J. P. BEADLE, Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, in the Public Works Department, to the Officiating Superintending Engineer, Burdwan Circle,—(No. 5857, dated the 11th December 1862.)

YOUR letter No. 2760 of the 4th December, which refers to this Office No. 5532 of the 25th ultimo, has been placed before the Lieutenant-Governor; and I am instructed to intimate that what was more particularly wanted in this case is an immediate Report on the fusl crops of this season, and on the ground on the right bank of the Damoodah, which is subject to the inundations of the floods of that River, and has not been cultivated on that account.

2. The crops are now standing, but will shortly be cut down, and it was therefore urged that the inspection should be made at once. The Lieutenant-Governor understands that before the instructions were received, Lieutenant Garnault, the Executive Engineer, had of his own accord gone over the lands on the right bank and had seen the cultivation; the Executive Engineer's Report should be submitted at once to the Chief Engineer, and you will be able to judge in communication with the Executive Engineer what further inspection may be requisite at the present time to complete the information asked for as to the state of the fusl cultivation, as shewn by the standing crops, as to the extent and position of the uncultivated lands, as to whether this non-cultivation is owing to the removal of Embankments, and to what extent it is greater than it was in 1854 before the Embankments were removed, as established by the Deputy Collector's detailed Report made in that year.

3. When the rubbee crops are on the ground another inspection should be made to establish generally the facts of the cold weather cultivation on the inundated tract, and it should be specially observed whether the lands which are not cultivated for the fusl crops are cultivated for rubbee.

4. The Chief Engineer reports that Lieutenant Garnault is an Officer who, from his general knowledge of the cultivation in Bengal, is well qualified to make the kind of report required, and that an accurate observation of the crops, and of the uncultivated lands, with a rough measurement of the latter, so as to allow of their being entered on the Map, is all that is really necessary for information.

From LIEUTENANT H. W. GARNAULT, R. E., Officiating Executive Engineer, Damoodah Division, to the Superintending Engineer, Burdwan Circle,—(No. 581, dated the 25th February 1863.)

I HAVE the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 2874 of 3rd January 1863, forwarding Chief Engineer's Nos. 5532 and 5857, with accompaniments, relative to the state of the country on the right bank of the Damoodah, in the Burdwan District.

2. In accordance with the instructions contained in the above letters I proceeded on the 25th January 1863 and made a survey of the waste lands, traversing the direction of the waters and taking offsets right and left where the strip of waste was narrow, and cutting it in a zigzag direction where it was broader; the lines of my survey are plotted in red in the enclosed map; the waste lands are shaded with sienna; the lands producing rubbee only are shaded with purple; and those producing both rice and rubbee with green; the portions left uncolored denote ground producing rice.

3. Although this survey pretends to no great accuracy, it is sufficient, I think, to enable us to form a very fair estimate of the lands which are now lying waste from the effects of the floods, and at the same time to compare such areas with the estimate made by Deputy Collector Baboo Jadub Chunder Chatterjea in 1854 of the probable area that would be injured, and with the information collected from the Ryots by Mr. Collector Hobhouse in 1858-59 and by Mr. Deputy Collector Jones in 1860-61.

4. Before entering into the subject of the quantity of land injured, I propose to describe the course which is taken by the spill waters and the effect produced by them on the country over which they pass, commencing then from Shangatgolah where is the first great breach in the bank and where the embanking began formerly; the flood takes a south-easterly course and runs along an interior continuous line of bheels about two or three miles from the River bank up to the old Burdwan and Midnapore Road. West of this road very little injury has been done, besides a few hundred beegahs where sand has been deposited; at Shangatgolah, Roopsa, Nobogram, and Kamalpore, the country has not suffered; there are certainly patches here and there of uncultivated ground, but these are low lands on which the water rests after the time for sowing the rubbee crops has passed, and on which there is too much water during the rainy season to admit of the usual rice cultivation.

5. About half a mile to the west of the Burdwan and Midnapore Road the flood channel meets the Bachoorda Khal and flows along it, doing little or no injury for three miles or up to the village of Salgacha; along this length there is a strip of uncultivated land on each side of the Khal averaging above 700 feet in breadth altogether, but this was in the same state before the Embankments were taken away as it is at present.

6. At Salgacha there is a formidable addition to the flood channel by a breach which has occurred on the river bank at Bongatcha, and signs of devastation first begin to shew themselves; two miles further east two other large breaches exist in the River bank, and through them a very large volume of water finds its way into the country; here it is, viz., at the Villages of Bongatcha, Bamooneah, Hijulnah, Bongram, Roypore, and Bonteer, that the greatest amount of loss has been sustained; the country is in parts ploughed up, at others covered with sand, and altogether has very much the appearance of one of the long standing churs in the Ganges; the Bachoorda Khal, which at Balgacha about a mile to the west is a pretty stream about 300 feet broad and ten or twelve feet deep, is here silted up and not a trace of it exists. There are some slight patches of cultivation in this waste where the sand is not very deep, consisting of cucumbers, melons, pottuls, and here and there mustard, but the crops are so poor that they must barely pay for the labor and seed.

7. From Bongram the flood channel takes a more southerly direction up to Dereapore, from whence it runs almost due south to Sreekristopore, still following the course of the Bachoorda, which re-appears a little to the south of the Village of Gopalnuggur.

8. From Sookoor to Sreekristopore the waste land is a strip averaging 4,000 feet in width, lying to the west of the Bachoorda; the land here has no sand deposit and is uncultivated, simply because of the volume of waters that passes over it. The Ryots stated that the reason they did not plough it for rubbee was because they were afraid that if they broke the top crust the next season's flood having a soft surface to work upon would cut the land up; they also informed me that if safe from the flood the land would be at once cultivated.

9. At Sreekristopore another very disastrous breach has occurred in the River bank through which a large volume of water passes into the country; and the whole of the land between the villages of Joteseram, Rajarampore, and Adumpore, has received a deposit of sand about two or three feet in depth; the Bachoorda Khal is here entirely silted up and its former course can only be detected by some peepul trees which were known to have stood on the banks.

10. This waste to the east of Sreekristopore is in parts sparsely cultivated with cucumber and pettul, but the crops can barely be worth the labor and expense of cultivation.

11. From Sreekistopore to Kootsimool, the southernmost extremity of the Burdwan District, the waste land is still a strip averaging 5,000 feet in breadth, lying wholly to the west of the Bachoorda, but it shews the violence of the waters to a greater extent than any other part. The land is regularly scoured and much cut up and presents an appearance similar to those low ledges of rocks on the sea coast of England, which are covered by every flood tide; this land may be said to be entirely ruined, for, even if free from the floods, it would not, I think, be cultivated; it would be very expensive to level it; and as the Ryots themselves express it, all the flesh of the land has been washed away and nothing but the bones remain.

12. At Jamdah and Hybutpore two or three small breaches exist, but the injury done by them is comparatively trifling, while the benefit to the lands by the floods passing over them is very considerable. I rode over this land from Jamdah to Sadeepore in the month of November last; the whole country was like a sheet of gold, and the rice finer than any I have seen on either bank. Even in the channels from the breaches where some sand had been deposited rubbee cultivation had commenced and promised to yield very good crops.

13. Generally, then, it may be said that the surplus waters of the Damoodah enter the country on right bank by breaches at Shangatgolah, Bongacha, Bamooneah, Hijulnah, Jamdah, and Hybutpoor; that at the vicinity of these breaches the land is more or less covered with sand and produces only the very poorest crops of cucumber, pumpkins, pottul, and mustard; that in passing southwards it lays waste a strip of land about four or 5,000 feet in breadth to the west of the Bachoorda Khal; that at Sreekristopore there is a very large increase to the flood channel by another breach, and that below Sreekristopore a strip of 5,000 feet in width lying wholly to the west of the Bachoorda Khal is so scoured and cut up as to be unfit for any kind of cultivation.

14. With regard to the quantity of land lying waste and uncultivated, it will be seen from the enclosed Statement that the whole area of the portion shaded with burnt sienna in the map is 36,544 beegahs; deducting one-third of this for villages, tanks, and small patches of cultivation it leaves beegahs 24,363 as the amount of waste land, but this includes beegahs 3,092, which lies to the west of the Burdwan and Midnapore Road, in the Villages of Shangatgolah, Roopsa, Kamalpore, &c., these villages have not been included in the Estimate made by the Deputy Collector in 1854, nor in the Statement made by the Collector in 1858-59. Deducting, therefore, this amount we have beegahs 21,271 lying waste and uncultivated in 1862-63 against beegahs 18,820 in 1858-59, and beegahs 16,668 estimated as likely to be injured in 1854; this result is, I think, a very fair and correct one, it shews an increase of beegahs 2,451 since 1858-59, and I account for this in two ways, firstly, there is much more waste at Sreekristopore now than there was in 1858-59; and secondly, there is a quantity of land lying waste this year which in ordinary years would be cultivated. The floods of 1862 were extraordinary, there was an earlier and later rise than there has been before, and the River was in flood for a longer time together; the Edilpore Guage read 10 feet during nearly the whole of July, and as the rice plants were young at this time many that had been planted were washed away.

15. Mr. Jones in his report made in 1861-62 does not give the quantity in beegahs of waste land, but the percentage on the whole lands of the village; I have obtained the number of beegahs in each village from the Collector, and, after making the same deductions for huts, tanks, &c., as made in my own calculations, find that according to Mr. Jones' estimate the waste amounts to beegahs 25,208, this is against beegahs 24,363 according to my calculations, and includes all the waste in the Burdwan District from Shangatgolah to Kootsimool.

16. I regret my inability to give any thing like a correct statement of the quantity of land that has been improved by the removal of the Embankments; the preparation of such a Statement would take a long time and would require a thorough knowledge of the cultivation of the country before the Embankments were removed. To obtain such information from the Ryots would be next to impossible, as the Bengalee, always averse to owning to any advantage he has derived, is particularly averse to attributing any good to the measure of the removal of the Embankments; it is a measure which I think, without exception, is thoroughly unpopular through the whole country on the right bank, the reasons for its being so I will endeavour to shew hereafter.

17. I have perused Mr. Jones' Report as analyzed by Mr. Plowden. Mr. Jones appears to have gone over the waste land very carefully, but he makes no mention of any land that has been improved by the floods, so that it is difficult to understand by what reasoning he arrived at the conclusion that "whatever benefit might have accrued to the country by the removal of the Embankments the damage done has been far greater." That a great quantity of land has been put entirely out of cultivation, there is no doubt; that a great quantity more has been unfitted for rice cultivation, but still able to produce equally lucrative crops of rubbee, there is also no doubt; but it has yet to be proved that the greater produce on some lands on account of the alluvial deposit from the spill waters of the Damoodah does not compensate for the loss which has been sustained by portions having been laid entirely waste; for my own part I am inclined to think that if the whole of the lands subject to the floods belonged to one individual, he would find no decrease in the income derived from the produce of the land. This is only an opinion, and I am as unable to establish it by proof as I think Mr. Jones is unable to establish the conclusion he arrived at, which is mentioned above.

18. Mr. Hobhouse, the Collector of Burdwan, who also travelled over the waste country, gives it as his opinion that "in places where the floods have simply washed lands without any violent rush of water, and have thence gently and naturally receded after resting some two or three days there to judge by the crops, the floods have been beneficial to the country."

I have marked the limit of flood on the map sent herewith, and it will be seen at once what a small proportion the waste land bears to the land over which the flood has rested, as described by Mr. Hobhouse, and which has consequently been benefitted. In this opinion of Mr. Hobhouse's I perfectly concur, and I think that had he seen the rubbee crops in the same state as I did, he would have found a strong corroboration of his opinion; I went over portion of these lands in November, rode over them again in the latter end of December, and traversed them with prismatic compass and chain at the latter end of January, the time when the rubbee crops were at their best. I had therefore greater opportunities I think of seeing the cultivation than either Mr. Hobhouse or Mr. Jones who went over the lands; the former in November, and the latter in the middle of December.

19. As I stated before, the removal of the Embankments has been a thoroughly unpopular measure; in the first place, during the time the country is under water the Villagers cannot move out of their huts, even without canoes; the misery and discomfort this state of things must entail is very considerable; secondly, there is a general feeling of insecurity, as there is no saying where a breach may not occur in the River bank, and villages which hitherto have been free from danger may be devastated in a single flood; and thirdly, thousands of Ryots whose lands used to yield them good crops of paddy are now thoroughly waste, and thousands more whose lands produced paddy are now fitted only for rubbee cultivation, and at length the rubbee produced is as lucrative as the rice was, the Ryots are very nearly as loud in their clamours against the removal of the Embankments as those whose lands produce nothing. The rice crop has peculiar attractions for the Ryot; it is the crop of his forefathers; it involves less trouble, and is attended with fewer risks than the rubbee crops; and at the time when the Ryot is most in want of money for his poojahs, viz., about the months of November and December, he has a crop on the ground for which he can always obtain advances; while the land fitted for rubbee only would be at that time quite bare.

20. It has been stated that the battle of the Damoodah has been fought and won, but I think, with due deference to this opinion, that the measure of the removal of the Embankments of the right bank is only one of temporary success, and that in a few years we shall find ourselves in just as great difficulties as ever with the Damoodah floods, and with one of our chances of relief exhausted, and for the following reasons:—There is no doubt, I think, that the bed of the Damoodah from Raneegunge throughout to Moisrakah has risen and is steadily rising: coal boats which could navigate the river from June till November can now only ply in the highest freshes; there is also no doubt that the country on the right bank is rising; at Sadipore the country has risen a foot since the guage was put up, which was in 1859; and the Villagers informed me that since the removal of the embankments the land had risen three or four feet. At Amurpoor the land has risen six inches since guage was put up; we have therefore our volume of water remaining the same and our channel for passing it off gradually decreasing. I had wished to have proved that the river bed was rising by taking cross sections at the same points that Lieutenant DeBourbel took them in 1853, but I find that the masonry pillars which he put up have been all destroyed on the right bank and nearly all on the left; this is a matter of regret, as the information which these cross sections would have afforded would have been most interesting and useful, shewing as they would at a glance the exact state of the River in 1853, and again in 1863 after a lapse of ten years.

21. With regard to a permanent relief for the Damoodah, I beg to recommend that a thorough investigation of the River be made to its source, with the view of finding some measure for holding up the surplus water which the bed is unable to pass off in the lower reaches. The investigation would occupy about four or five months, and the only extra expenditure involved would be the salary of an Assistant Engineer to carry out the current duties of the Office during the absence of the Executive Engineer. The water might be either held up in reservoirs for irrigation, or in the form of a canal, to supply the means of communication, the want of which is so much felt by the coal fields through which the Damoodah runs.

22. I beg to return herewith the enclosures of your letter under acknowledgment.

SATURDAY, JUNE 13. 1863.

Government of Bengal.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Act of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council received the assent of His Honor on the 29th April 1863, and having been assented to by His Excellency the Governor-General on the 23rd May 1863, is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. V OF 1863.

An Act to amend the law relating to the employment and remuneration of Peons for the service and execution of the process of the Civil and Revenue Courts.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to the employment and remuneration of Peons for the service and execution of the process of the Civil and Revenue Courts of the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal; It is enacted as follows :—

Laws repealed.

I. Section XIV of Regulation XXVI. 1814 (for modifying some of the Rules at present in force regarding the admission and trial of special and summary appeals from decisions passed in regular suits; for limiting and altering some of the existing provisions respecting the pleadings and processes, and the mode of executing decrees and regular suits and appeals; and for explaining and making certain additions to the provisions of Regulation I. 1814), Section V of Regulation VII. 1832 (for modifying certain of the provisions of Regulation V. 1831, and for providing supplementary Rules to that enactment), and Act XIV of 1845 (to provide for the appointment of Nazirs in the Moonsiffs' Courts)—are hereby repealed, so far as the same relate to, or have effect in, the Provinces subject to the Government of Bengal, respectively.

Number of Peons for each Court by whom to be fixed.

Appointment and registration of Peons.

III. The appointment of Peons under the last preceding Section shall be made, subject to the approval of the Judge of the Court, by the Nazir of the Court in which the Peons are employed, or in the case of a Small Cause Court by the Clerk of the Court where there is such an Officer; and every such appointment shall be registered in the Court with the name of the Peon, his age, his place of abode, his father's name, and date of appointment.

None but registered Peons to be employed without special leave of Court.

IV. No person who shall not be appointed and registered as a Peon in the manner hereinbefore provided, shall be employed in the service or execution of the process of any Court without the special leave of such Court. The Court granting such special leave shall record its reasons for so doing.

Peons to be furnished with uniform belt and plate.

V. The Peons who are appointed and registered in the manner above prescribed, shall be furnished, at the expense of the Government of Bengal, with a uniform belt and plate, on which shall be inscribed the Court to which the Peon belongs, and the number of the Peon in the register.

VI. The Peons appointed and registered under this Act shall either receive fixed salaries, or be remunerated by fees as the Government of Bengal shall direct. The amount of salary shall be from time to time fixed by the said Government.

Remuneration of Peons.

VII. The cost of serving or executing the process of the several Courts shall, subject to the approval of the Government of Bengal, be fixed by the Judge and Collector of each District respectively, with due regard to the distance at which service or execution is to take place from the Court whence the process is issued. A Table in the English and Vernacular languages, shewing the amount chargeable for such service and execution, shall be exposed to view in a conspicuous part of each Court.

Rates of serving or executing process.

VIII. On every process issued for service or execution by any Peon appointed under this Act, there shall be endorsed the name of the Peon deputed to serve or execute the same, the period within which the Peon is required to certify service or execution, the amount payable for the service or execution of the process, and the date of payment, and such endorsement shall be signed by the Nazir, or Clerk of the Court.

Process to be endorsed by Nazir or Clerk.

IX. The money paid under this Act for the service or execution of processes shall be carried to the credit of the Government of Bengal, and shall be formed into a fund out of which the salaries or fees of the Peons appointed under this Act shall be paid. Any surplus that may accrue from such fund, after paying the salaries or fees of the Peons, shall be disposed of by the Government of Bengal in such manner as shall to the said Government seem proper.

Disposal of money paid for the issue or execution of process.

X. A regular account of all moneys received into and paid out of Court under this Act shall be kept, and extracts from this account shall be forwarded to the Government of Bengal at such times, and in such form, as such Government shall direct.

Moneys received into and paid out of Court to be duly accounted for.

XI. Every process issuing out of a Civil Court, and served or executed under this Act, shall be held to be a process within the meaning of Section 188 of the Code of Civil Procedure, and Section 2 of Act XXIII of 1861.

Construction of process.

XII. The term "Judge" in this Act shall denote the Presiding Officer in every Court of Civil Judicature and in every Revenue Court, by whatever title he shall be designated.

Interpretation of the term "Judge."

GENERAL ORDER BY HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA.

Simla, the 8th June 1863.

No. 72A. of 1863.—The following Military Letter from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State for India, to His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council, No. 158, dated 30th April 1863, is published for general information :—

INDIA OFFICE;
London, 30th April 1863.

MILITARY.

No. 158.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY THE RIGHT HON'BLE THE GOVERNOR GENERAL OF INDIA IN COUNCIL,

MY LORD,—Para. 1.—I HAVE received and considered in Council your Letter No 45, dated 4th February 1863, inviting a re-consideration of the decision conveyed in my Despatch No. 429, of the 13th November 1862, that Field Officers of the Staff Corps must be held to be in the same position as regards qualification for Staff employ as the effective Field Officers of a Regiment.

2. You observe that in the British Service substantive Field Officers, if not effective Field Officers of Regiments, can hold the appointments of Brigade Major or Aide-de-Camp, and that several substantive Field Officers, unattached, appear to be holding those situations at Home and in the Colonies.

3. You consider the position of an unattached Officer somewhat similar to that of an Officer of the Staff Corps.

4. I have requested the opinion of His Royal Highness the Field Marshal Commanding-in-Chief upon the subject, and have pointed out to His Royal Highness that Officers of the Staff Corps have been declared subject to the Regulation which limits their tenure of such appointments to five years, and that the effect of calling upon them to vacate on promotion to the rank of Field Officer would be to throw an increased number on the unemployed list.

5. His Royal Highness has informed me, in reply, that he concurs in the opinion I had expressed as to the inexpediency of multiplying occasions upon which Officers of the Staff Corps may be called upon to vacate appointments and remain unemployed.

6. His Royal Highness observes that in the British Service Field Officers on full pay are not allowed to hold Staff appointments, as they have important regimental duties to perform from which they cannot be spared, but this is not the case with Officers of the Staff Corps, who may be employed in any capacity most convenient to the Government of India.

7. His Royal Highness is of opinion, therefore, that they should be treated as are unattached Officers on half pay in the British Service.

8. Officers of the Staff Corps will not be required, therefore, to vacate their appointments on promotion, but their rank, on first appointment, should be that laid down in the Queen's Regulations as qualifying for the appointments in question, and they will still be subject to the five years' limitation rule.

I have, &c.,

(Sd.) C. Wood.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Act of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council received the assent of His Honor on the 18th May 1863, and having been assented to by His Excellency the Governor-General on the 12th June 1863, is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. VI OF 1863.

An Act to vest the property of the Town of Calcutta, and the management of its Municipal affairs, in a Corporation, and to make better provision for the Conservancy and Improvement of the Town, and for the levying of rates and taxes therein.

WHEREAS it is expedient to vest the property of the Town of Calcutta, and the management of its Municipal affairs, in a Corporation, and to make better provision for the Conservancy and Improvement of the Town, and for the levying of rates and taxes therein : It is enacted as follows :

Preamble.

I. Act XIV of 1856 (for the Conservancy and Improvement of the Towns of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay), and Act XXV of 1856 (to comprise in one Act the provisions necessary for the assessment and collection of Municipal rates and taxes in the Towns of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay), so far as they relate to the Town of Calcutta ; and Act XXVIII of 1856 (for appointing Municipal Commissioners, and for levying rates and taxes in the town of Calcutta)—are hereby repealed respectively, except so far as they repeal the whole, or any part of, any other Act, and except as to any assessment which shall have been made, or to any act or offence which shall have been done or committed, or to any fine or penalty which shall have been incurred, or to any money which shall have become due, or to any proceedings which shall have been commenced, before this Act shall come into operation. Any sum of money due, or which may become due, under any or either of the said Acts, may be levied and recovered by the Justices under the provisions of this Act.

Laws repealed.

II. The following words and expressions in this Act shall have the meanings hereby assigned to them, unless there be something in the subject or context repugnant to such construction :—

Interpretation.

The word "Town" shall include all places within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of Her Majesty's High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

The Justices of the Peace for the time being in Calcutta, to be a Corporation for the purposes of this Act.

III. All Justices of the Peace for Bengal, Behar, and Orissa, resident in the Town of Calcutta, and all Justices of the Peace for the Town of Calcutta, shall, by the name of "The Justices of the Peace for the Town of Calcutta," be a body corporate and have perpetual succession and a common seal, and by such name shall sue and be sued.

All the property and rights of action of the Municipal Commissioners vested in the Justices.

IV. All lands, buildings, works, and hereditaments, utensils, materials, books, plans, maps, papers, effects, monies, securities, and other property, moveable and immoveable, of what nature or kind soever, and all interest therein, whether vested, contingent, or in remainder, which shall, on the 1st day of July 1863, be vested in, or held in trust for, the Municipal Commissioners appointed under the said Act XXVIII of 1856, or which would have been vested in, or held in trust for, such Municipal Commissioners but for the passing of this Act, and all such estate and interest of and in the same respectively, as shall then be or would have been in, or in trust for, the said Municipal Commissioners or any of them, with all rights of way and other rights and easements now used and enjoyed by the said Municipal Commissioners, shall, on and from the date when this Act comes into operation, be vested in the Justices: and all persons who shall then owe any money to the said Municipal Commissioners, or to any person on behalf of the Municipal Commissioners, shall pay the same to the Justices or as they shall direct: and all monies which shall be then due and owing by, or recoverable from, the Municipal Commissioners, shall be paid by, or recoverable from, the Justices: and all contracts, agreements, mortgages, bonds, covenants, and securities, made or entered into before this Act comes into operation, to, with, or in favor of, or by or for, the said Municipal Commissioners, or any previous Municipal Commissioners for the Town of Calcutta, or any of them, or any person on behalf of such Municipal Commissioners, respectively, and all rights of action and suit arising out of contract or otherwise, shall take effect, and may be proceeded on and enforced, as near as circumstances will admit, in favor of, by, against, and with reference to, the Justices, in such manner as the same would have taken effect, and might have been proceeded on and enforced, in favor of, by, against, and with reference to, the said Municipal Commissioners respectively, or any of them, if this Act had not been passed.

Actions, &c., by or against Municipal Commissioners not to abate, &c

V. No action, suit, prosecution, or other proceeding whatsoever, commenced or carried on either by or against the said Municipal Commissioners previously to the coming of this Act into operation, shall abate or be discontinued or prejudicially affected by this Act, but shall continue and take effect both in favor of and against the Justices, in the same manner in all respects as the same would have continued and taken effect in relation to the said Municipal Commissioners, or any of them, if this Act had not been passed: and all decrees and orders made, and all fines and penalties imposed and incurred, respectively, previously to the coming into operation of this Act, shall and may be enforced, levied, recovered, and proceeded for, and all administrative proceedings, commenced previously to the coming into operation of this Act, shall and may be continued, proceeded with, and completed, in such or the like manner as if this Act had not been passed, the Justices being, in reference to the matters aforesaid, in all respects substituted in the place of the said Municipal Commissioners.

What shall constitute the Municipal Fund.

Appointment and removal of Chairman of the Justices.

VII. The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall, from time to time, appoint one of the said Justices of the Peace to be Chairman of the Justices. Such Chairman shall be removeable from Office by the Lieutenant-Governor, if his removal be recommended by a Resolution in favor of which not less than two-thirds of the Justices of the Peace present at a Special General Meeting of the Justices shall have voted, but not otherwise.

Nomination and appointment of Vice-Chairman.

VIII. The Justices at a Special General Meeting, to be held within fifteen days from the date of the first appointment of a Chairman, shall nominate a proper person to be Vice-Chairman of the Justices. Such nomination shall be subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal; but when such approval shall have been duly notified to the Justices, the appointment shall be made by them. In the event of any nomination made by the Justices not being approved of by the Lieutenant-Governor, or of any vacancy occurring in the Office of Vice-Chairman, the Justices shall forthwith proceed, at a Special General Meeting, to make a fresh nomination and appointment, subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and so on from time to time. Provided that no person shall be appointed to the office of Vice-Chairman, who is not at the time of appointment a Justice of the Peace.

Appointment of Secretary, Engineer, Surveyor, Health Officer, Collector of Taxes, and Assessor.

IX. It shall be lawful for the Justices at a Special General Meeting, from time to time, to appoint proper persons to the several offices of Secretary, of Engineer, of Surveyor, of Health Officer, of Collector of Taxes, and of Assessor, for the Town of Calcutta. Every person so appointed, and the Vice-Chairman, shall be in all things under the immediate orders of the Chairman, and shall perform such duties as shall be assigned by him, and shall be removeable by the Justices by a Resolution in favor of which not less than two-thirds of the Justices of the Peace present at a Special General Meeting shall have voted.

Chairman and Vice-Chairman to reside in Calcutta and not to engage in any other profession or trade.

X. The Chairman and Vice-Chairman shall respectively reside within the Town of Calcutta, and shall devote his whole time to the duties of his office; and no Chairman or Vice-Chairman shall have or engage in any other profession, trade, or business whatsoever: Provided that nothing in this Act shall be deemed to prevent any Civil or Military Officer in the service of Government, from holding the office of Chairman or Vice-Chairman, so long as such Officer shall fill no other appointment: Provided further that it shall be lawful for any Chairman to hold also the office of Commissioner of Police for the Town of Calcutta, if he shall be appointed to such office by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

Proviso.

Allowances of Chairman and Vice-Chairman.

XI. The Chairman and the Vice-Chairman, respectively, may receive such allowances out of the Municipal Fund as shall be from time to time fixed by the Justices at a Special General Meeting. Provided that such allowance for any Chairman shall not exceed the rate of three thousand Rupees a month (exclusive of house rent, which may or may not, at the discretion of the Justices, be also allowed): and provided that such allowance for any Vice-Chairman shall not exceed the rate of twelve hundred Rupees a month.

Salaries of Secretary, Engineer, &c.

XII. Every Secretary, Engineer, Surveyor, Health Officer, Collector of Taxes, and Assessor, appointed as hereinbefore provided, may receive such allowance out of the Municipal Fund, as shall be from time to time fixed by the Justices at a Special General Meeting.

Appointment and remuneration of Overseers, Clerks, and Subordinate Officers.

XIII. The Chairman may from time to time appoint all such Overseers, Clerks, and Subordinate Officers, and servants, as he shall think necessary and proper to assist in the execution of this Act, and may, from time to time, remove any of such persons and appoint others in their place; and out of the Municipal Fund he may, with the sanction of the Justices at a Special General Meeting, pay such allowances to the said persons respectively, or in case of absence on leave such portion thereof, as he shall think reasonable. Provided that no person shall be appointed to, or removed from, any office the monthly salary of which exceeds two hundred Rupees, without the sanction of the Justices at a Meeting.

Proviso.

Officers under Municipal Commissioners to continue until removed.

XIV. Every Overseer, Clerk, and other Officer appointed by, or acting under, the authority of the Municipal Commissioners under Act XXVIII of 1856, and not acting contrary to the provisions of this Act, shall hold and enjoy his office and employment, together with the salary or emolument thereunto annexed, until he shall be removed therefrom by the Chairman or by the Justices at a Meeting. Every such Overseer, Clerk, and Officer shall have the like power and authority for the purposes of this Act, and for carrying the same into execution, and shall be subject and liable to the like pains and penalties, and to the like power of removal, in all respects as if he had been appointed by virtue of this Act.

Justices to grant leave of absence, &c., with sanction of Government.

XV. It shall be lawful for the Justices at a Special Meeting, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, to grant such leave of absence to any Chairman or any Officer appointed under Sections VIII and IX of this Act, and, in the case of any Officer appointed under either of those Sections, to make such arrangements for the carrying on the duties of his office during his absence on leave, as shall to them seem proper. In any case in which leave of absence shall be granted to the Chairman, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall appoint one of the Justices of the Peace to act as Chairman in his place, or shall make such other arrangements for carrying on the duties of the office as shall to him seem proper. Any person appointed under this Section to act for the Chairman or any other Officer, shall, while so acting, have all the powers and be liable to all the restrictions, limitations, and provisions, which the Chairman or other Officer for whom he may be appointed to act, would, under this Act, have or be liable to.

Allowances during absence on leave.

XVI. In any case in which leave of absence shall be granted under the last preceding Section, the Justices may at a Special Meeting, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, out of the Municipal Fund, pay to any Chairman or other Officer aforesaid, such allowance, during absence on leave, as shall to them seem proper. Provided that no greater expenditure from the Municipal Fund shall be in any case incurred in the whole, by reason of any such allowance, or of any allowance paid under Section XIII, than would have been incurred had no leave been granted.

Proviso.

Penalty on Officers, &c., being interested in contracts &c.

XVII. Clause 1.—No Chairman or Vice-Chairman, or other Officer, or servant, of the Justices, shall be in any wise concerned, or interested, in any contract or work, made with, or executed for, the Justices; and if any such Chairman or Vice-Chairman, or other Officer or servant, be so concerned or interested, he shall be incapable of afterwards holding or continuing in any office or employment under the Justices, and shall forfeit and pay the sum of five hundred Rupees, which may be recovered by suit, by any person, with full costs of suit. Provided that no person, being a shareholder of any Joint Stock Company established by, or under the provisions of, any Act of Parliament, or of the Government of India, or by Charter, shall be prevented from being employed as a Chairman, Vice-Chairman, or other Officer or servant, by reason of any contract between such Company and the Justices, or of any work executed by such Company.

Penalty on Officers, &c., for taking unauthorized fees.

Clause 2.—If any person employed under this Act, not being a public servant within the meaning of Section 21 of

Justices to provide an Office and keep a book for entry of complaints.

Time for holding Quarterly and Ordinary Meetings.

XIX. There shall be four Quarterly Meetings in every year, and two Ordinary Meetings in every month, at which the Justices shall meet for the transaction of general business: and it shall not be necessary to give any notice of the business to be transacted at such Meetings. The Quarterly Meetings shall be held at noon, on the first Monday in the months of January, April, July, and October, and the Ordinary Meetings at noon on the first and third Monday of every month respectively, or if any such Monday shall happen to be a holiday allowed by Government, then on the next succeeding day which shall not be such a holiday.

Special, and Special General, Meetings may be called.

What business to be transacted at Special, and Special General, Meetings.

XXI. No business shall be brought before or transacted at any Special, or Special General, Meeting, other than the business specified in the notice given under the last preceding Section: Provided always that any Justice of the Peace may submit to a Special, or Special General, Meeting, any Resolution, beyond the matters mentioned in the notice given of such Meeting, if he shall have given not less than three days' previous notice of his intention so to do, by leaving a copy of the Resolution at the Office of the Justices.

All questions to be decided at Meetings by majority of votes.

XXII. All acts authorized or required to be done by the Justices, and all questions which may come before them for decision, shall, save as is herein otherwise provided, be done, and decided by, a majority of the Justices of the Peace present at any Ordinary or Quarterly Meeting, before which the matter may be brought.

Who to preside at Meetings of the Justices.

XXIII. The Chairman and Vice-Chairman shall attend all Meetings of the Justices held under this Act, unless prevented by sickness or other reasonable cause; and the Chairman, or, in his absence, the Vice-Chairman, shall preside at every such Meeting, and shall have a second, or casting, vote in all cases of equality of votes. In the absence of both the Chairman and Vice-Chairman, the Justices of the Peace present at any Meeting shall choose some one of their number to preside. The President of any Meeting at which a quorum of the Justices of the Peace shall be present, may, with the consent of the Meeting, adjourn the Meeting from time to time and from place to place; but no business shall be transacted at any adjourned Meeting other than the business left unfinished at the Meeting from which such adjournment took place.

What shall constitute a Quorum.

XXIV. No business shall be transacted at any Meeting unless a quorum of Justices of the Peace be present; that is to say, at an Ordinary Meeting unless at least three Justices of the Peace be present, at a Special Meeting unless at least seven Justices of the Peace be present, and at a Special General, or Quarterly, Meeting unless at least twenty-five Justices of the Peace be present; Provided always that, if at any Meeting of the Justices there shall not be a sufficient number of Justices of the Peace present to form a quorum, the President (whether he be the Chairman, or not) shall adjourn the Meeting to such convenient time and place as he shall think fit; and the business which would have been brought before the original Meeting had there been a quorum present, shall be brought before, and disposed of by, the adjourned Meeting in the usual manner, whether there be a quorum of Justices of the Peace present at such adjourned Meeting or not.

Minutes of Proceedings of Justices to be kept, and to be open for inspection.

XXV. Minutes of the Proceedings of all Meetings of the Justices shall be drawn up, and fairly entered in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall be signed by the President after each Meeting; and the said Minutes shall, at all reasonable times, be open at the Office of the Justices to the inspection of any Justice of the Peace without charge, and of any other person on payment of a fee of eight annas.

Declaration of President that a Resolution has been carried sufficient, unless poll be demanded.

XXVI. At any Special General, or Quarterly, Meeting, unless a poll be demanded by at least five Justices of the Peace, and at any Special, or Ordinary, Meeting, unless a poll be demanded by at least three Justices of the Peace, a declaration by the President that a Resolution has been carried, and an entry to that effect in the book of Proceedings of the Justices, shall be sufficient evidence of the fact, without proof of the number or proportion of the votes recorded in favor of, or against, such Resolution.

XXVII. If a poll be demanded as in the last preceding Section mentioned, or be taken at any Meeting of what kind soever, the votes of the Justices of the Peace present shall be taken by the President, each being called on to vote in order of seniority on the roll of the Justices of the Peace, and the result of such poll shall be deemed to be the Resolution of the Justices at such Meeting.

Poll how to be taken.

XXVIII. The Chairman or Vice-Chairman shall, except upon such holidays as shall be allowed by Government, attend daily at the Office of the Justices for the transaction of business connected with or arising under this Act, and, when so attending, shall have all the powers vested by this Act in the Justices; and they may, respectively, exercise the like powers at all times in carrying out the orders of the Justices, or in executing any works sanctioned by them, and generally in the management of the business aforesaid. Provided that it shall not be lawful for the Chairman or Vice-Chairman to act in opposition to, or contravention of, any order of the Justices, or to exercise any power which it is by this Act expressly declared shall be exercised only by the Justices at a Meeting.

Chairman or Vice-Chairman to attend daily for the transaction of business, and to exercise the powers of the Justices.

XXIX. The Justices may enter into all such contracts as may be necessary for carrying this Act into execution. The Chairman or the Vice-Chairman may, for and on behalf of the Justices, enter into any such contract whereof the value or amount shall not exceed five hundred Rupees: but every such contract, whereof the value or amount shall exceed five hundred Rupees, shall be in writing and signed by the Chairman, or in his absence by the Vice-Chairman, and two other Justices of the Peace, and shall be sealed with the seal of the Justices. Every contract so entered into as aforesaid, and duly executed by the other parties thereto, shall be binding on the Justices and their successors, and upon all other parties thereto, and their executors, administrators, successors, or assigns, to all intents and purposes. Provided always that the Justices may compound with any contractor or other person in respect of any penalty incurred by reason of the non-performance of any contract entered into as aforesaid, whether such penalty be mentioned in any such contract or in any bond, or otherwise, for such sums of money or other recompense as to the Justices may seem proper.

Mode of contracting by, and on behalf of, the Justices.

Proviso.

XXX. It shall be lawful for the Justices at a Meeting, from time to time, to appoint from among the Justices of the Peace, such and so many Committees, either of a General, or of a Special, nature, and consisting of such number of persons as they may think fit, for the purpose of inquiring into and reporting upon any matter connected with the Conservancy or Improvement of the Town, or of advising and aiding the Chairman in the discharge of any portion of his executive duties, which in the discretion of the Justices would be better regulated or managed with the advice and aid of any such Committee: Provided that the Chairman or the Vice-Chairman shall be a Member of every such Committee, and that the Proceedings of every such Committee shall be submitted to the Justices at a Meeting.

Justices may appoint Committees.

Proviso.

XXXI. At a Special General Meeting to be held under this Act on the second Monday in the month of July 1863, or as soon after as conveniently may be, the Chairman shall lay before the Justices a Budget or Estimate, prepared by him, of the expenditure and income of the Municipality from the date on which this Act shall come into operation up to the first subsequent day of January: and at the Quarterly Meeting to be held in the month of October in each year, the Chairman shall lay before the Justices a Budget or Estimate, prepared by him, of the expenditure and income of the Municipality for the year commencing on the 1st of January then next succeeding, in such detail and form as the Justices shall from time to time, by order passed at a Quarterly, or Special General, Meeting, direct. Provided always that such Budget shall be completed and printed, and a copy thereof sent by post or otherwise to each of the Justices of the Peace, resident within twenty miles of Government House, at least seven days prior to the Meeting before which the Budget is to be laid.

A Budget or Estimate of Income and Expenditure to be submitted annually to the Justices.

XXXII. The Budget shall shew what expenditure it is proposed to incur during the period to which it relates, and the manner in which it is proposed to meet such expenditure.

Budget of Expenditure.

XXXIII. It shall be in the discretion of the Justices to pass, or to reject, or to modify, the estimates of all or any sums entered in the Budget. No new work or series of works, the entire estimated cost of which as shewn in the Budget shall exceed fifty thousand Rupees, shall be commenced without the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor having been previously obtained.

Revision and passing of Estimates.

No new work, the estimated cost of which exceeds 50,000 Rupees, to be commenced without the sanction of Government.

XXXIV. The accounts of the receipts and expenditure of the Justices shall be audited and examined once in every year, at the least, at such time and by such Auditors as shall from time to time be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. For the purposes of any audit and examination of accounts under this Act, the Auditors may, by summons in writing, require the production before them of all books, deeds, contracts, accounts, vouchers, and all other documents and papers which they may deem necessary, and may require any person, holding or accountable for any such books, deeds, contracts, accounts, vouchers, documents, or papers, to appear before them at any such audit and examination, or adjournment thereof, and to make and sign a declaration with respect to the same: and if any such person neglect or refuse so to do, or to produce any such books, deeds, contracts, accounts, vouchers, documents, or papers, or to make or sign such declaration, he shall be liable for every neglect or refusal to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees. All Auditors acting under this Act shall, in respect of each audit, be paid out of the Municipal Fund such reasonable remuneration as the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall from time to time determine: Provided always that, before each audit and examination of accounts under this Act, the Chairman shall give ten days' notice of the time and place at which the same will be made, by advertisement in the English and Bengallee Government Gazettes, and in at least two of the daily English Newspapers, and in two Vernacular Newspapers, published in Calcutta; and a copy of the accounts to be audited and examined shall be deposited in the Office of the Justices, and be open during office hours thereat, to the inspection of all persons interested, for seven days before the audit and examination, and all such persons shall be at liberty to take copies of, or extracts from, the same, without the payment of any fee; and within fourteen days after the audit and examination shall have been completed, the Auditors shall report upon the accounts audited and examined, and shall deliver such report to the Justices at a Meeting, who shall cause the same to be deposited in the Office of the Justices, and to be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and in some one or more of the said newspapers.

Proviso.

All rates to become due under the last assessments and payable to the Justices.

XXXV. Whereas the assessments last made under the said Acts XXV and XXVIII of 1856, include the months of July, August, September, October, November, and December 1863, and power is given by this Act to impose and levy rates upon the owners and occupiers of the same houses, buildings, and lands, which were subject before the passing of this Act to the said assessments, for a period including the same months, it is hereby enacted that any sum of money, which would have become due from any owner or occupier in respect of the said assessments for the several months aforesaid, may be levied and recovered by the Justices in like manner as the same might have been levied and recovered if this Act had not been passed, unless the Justices shall impose and levy any other rate under the provisions of this Act.

Mode of fixing the rate at which taxes shall be levied under this Act.

XXXVI. At the Special General Meeting to be held on the second Monday in the month of July 1863 as aforesaid, or as soon after as conveniently may be, the Justices shall fix the rates at which such taxes as are leviable under this Act shall be levied, from the date on which this Act shall come into operation, till the first day of January next ensuing: and at the Quarterly Meeting to be held in the month of October in each year, the Justices shall fix the rates at which such taxes as are leviable under this Act, shall be levied for the year commencing on the first day of January then next ensuing.

Such rate not to be altered except at a Special General Meeting.

The rates so fixed shall not be altered before the Quarterly Meeting held in the next succeeding month of October, except by a Resolution passed by the Justices at a Special General Meeting.

Tax on carriages, horses, &c.

Owners of carriages, &c., to take out license.

XXXVIII. The owner of every carriage, horse, pony, or mule, kept within the Town, shall before the 1st day of October 1863, and shall, on or before the 1st day of January and the first day of July in each year, forward to the Office of the Justices a statement in writing, signed by him, containing a description of the vehicles and animals liable to the tax, for which he desires to take out a license. The owner shall at the same time pay to the Justices such sum as shall be payable by him, for the half year commencing on the first day of July 1863, or on such subsequent first day of January or of July (as the case may be), for the vehicles and animals specified in in such statement, according to the rates given in the said Schedule. Any person becoming possessed, between the first day of January, and the first day of July, or between the first day of July and the first day of January, of a carriage, horse, pony, or mule so kept, shall, within a week of becoming so possessed, send to the Office of the Justices a similar statement, together with the full amount payable for the then current half year according to the said Schedule, unless he shall be able to prove, to the satisfaction of the Justices, that the tax for the half year has previously been paid.

On payment of the tax, the Justices to give a license.

XXXIX. On receiving the amount of the tax as aforesaid, the Justices, or some person duly authorized by them in that behalf, shall give to the person paying the same, a license for each of the vehicles and animals for the period in respect of which the money is received. The owner of every carriage, horse, pony, or mule, who shall have received a license for the same, shall, at all reasonable times during the said period, be bound to produce such license, when called upon to do so by the Justices, or any person duly authorized in writing by them to demand its production.

Penalty for keeping a carriage, &c., without having a license.

XL. If the owner of any carriage, horse, pony, or mule, so kept as aforesaid, shall not have duly taken out a license under the last preceding Section, he shall, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, be liable to a fine not exceeding three times the amount of the tax which would have been payable by such person, supposing him to have duly paid the same as soon as it became due. Provided that no proceeding shall be taken, before the first day of October 1863, to enforce such penalty against any person who shall not have duly taken out such license for the half year commencing on the first day of July in the year aforesaid.

Proviso.

Justices may compound for carriages with livery stable-keepers and others.

XLI. The Justices, at their discretion, may compound, for any period not exceeding one year, with livery stable-keepers, and other persons keeping carriages for hire, for a certain sum to be paid for the carriages so kept by such persons, in lieu of the taxes specified in the Schedule (A). And if any person, having so compounded, shall refuse to pay the sum compounded for on the demand of the Justices, he shall, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, be liable to a fine not exceeding three times the amount so payable.

List of persons licensed under Section XXXIX, to be entered in a book.

XLII. The Justices shall, from time to time, cause to be prepared and entered in distinct columns, in a book to be kept at the Office of the Justices, and to be open to the inspection of any person who shall apply for leave to inspect the same, a list of the persons who during the then current period of six months shall have received a license under Section XXXIX of this Act, and of the vehicles and animals in respect of which they may have paid.

Power to inspect stable, &c., and to summon persons liable to the payment of the tax.

Registry and numbering of Hackeries &c.

XLIV. Every cart, hackery, and other wheeled vehicle without springs kept and used within the Town, and every cart, hackery, and other such vehicle plying for hire within the Town, or let for hire within or without the Town and used within it, shall be registered in the Office of the Justices with the name and residence of the owner, and shall bear the number of such registration in such manner as the Justices shall direct. Provided that this Section shall not apply to, or include, carts, hackeries, or other such vehicles as aforesaid, kept at any place more than eight miles distant from Government House, and used only temporarily and casually in the Town; or to carts, hackeries, or other wheeled vehicles without springs, the property of Government; or to Conservancy carts, hackeries, or other such vehicles belonging to the Justices.

Fee for registration.

XLV. The registration of carts, hackeries, and other vehicles under the last preceding Section, shall be made and the numbers assigned half-yearly, on or before the first day of January and the first day of July in each year, upon such days as the Justices shall appoint, and a fee of four Rupees shall be paid for each registration. Any person becoming possessed, between the first day of January and the first day of July, or between the first day of July and the first day of January, of any such cart, hackery, or other vehicle, which has not been registered for the then current half-year, shall, within a week of becoming so possessed, register the same, and the Justices shall grant registration in any such case, on payment of a fee for the unexpired portion of the current half-year, calculated at the rate of four Rupees aforesaid. When any registered cart, hackery, or other vehicle is transferred within any half-year, it shall be registered anew in the name of the person to whom it has been transferred; and a fee of four annas shall be paid for every such last mentioned registration.

Penalty for not registering a cart or hackery.

XLVI. Whoever owns or keeps any cart, hackery, or other wheeled vehicle not on springs, required by this Act to be registered, without having caused the same to be registered under the last preceding Section, shall, on and after the first day of October 1863, be liable, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, to a fine not exceeding three times the usual registration fee: and the Justices, or any Officer duly authorized by them, may seize or cause to be seized any such cart, hackery, or other vehicle, (provided the same be not employed at the time of seizure in the conveyance of any passengers or goods,) together with the horses, bullocks, or other animals drawing the same, and may detain them: and all Police Officers are hereby required, on the application of the Justices or their Officers as aforesaid, to seize and detain the same. If the person owning or keeping such cart, hackery, or other vehicle, shall be convicted before a Justice of the Peace under this Section, and ordered to pay a fine, and if the vehicle seized be not claimed, and and the fine be not paid within ten days, such vehicle, together with the animals seized with it (if any), may be sold by auction by order of a Justice of the Peace, and the proceeds applied to the payment of the fine, and to the costs and charges incurred on account of the seizure, detention, and sale; and the surplus (if any), if not claimed by the owner or the person keeping such cart, hackery, or other vehicle within a further period of twenty days, shall be paid to the Justices.

Persons exercising certain professions trades and callings in the Town, to take out a license.

XLVII. On and after the first day of July 1863 every person who shall within the Town exercise any of the professions, trades, or callings specified in Schedule (B) to this Act annexed, shall take out a license and shall pay for the same such annual sum as is in the said Schedule (B) mentioned: provided that for any such license which shall be granted before the first day of January 1864, there shall be paid only one half of the said annual sum.

License to be granted by Justices and to specify particulars.

XLVIII. Every license under Section XLVII shall be granted by the Justices or by some person duly authorized by them in that behalf, and shall specify the date of the grant thereof, the true name of the person to whom the license is granted, and the sum paid for such license.

License to be in force how long.

XLIX. Every license shall have effect and continue in force from the day of the date thereof until the day hereinafter appointed for the expiration thereof; and every such license which shall be granted before the 1st day of January 1864 shall expire on that day, and every such license which shall be granted upon or at any time after that day, shall expire on the 31st day of December next after the day of the granting thereof.

Licenses to be renewed on expiring.

L. Every person to whom any such license shall be granted and who shall be desirous of continuing to exercise his profession, trade, or calling after the expiration thereof, shall take out a fresh license for that purpose for the following year, to expire on the day appointed in the last preceding Section, and shall renew the same from year to year, so long as he shall desire to continue such profession, trade, or calling.

Chairman to classify all persons required by this Act to be licensed.

LI. The Chairman shall determine under which of the classes mentioned in the Schedule (B) to this Act annexed, every person to whom a license may be granted shall be assessed. The Justices at a Meeting shall from time to time declare what are to be considered, Bazars, Hauts, or Public Markets, within the meaning of this Act.

Chairman to prepare a list of all persons required by this Act to be licensed.

LII. As soon as may be after the first day of January in every year, the Chairman shall prepare a list of the persons licensed under this Act, which list shall state the profession, trade, or calling of each of the persons therein named, the class under which he is assessed, and the sum paid by him in respect of his license, and such list shall be filed in the Office of the said Chairman, and be open to public inspection at all reasonable times.

Penalty for not taking out a license.

LIII. If, after the first day of October 1863, any person within the said limits shall exercise his profession, trade, or calling without having duly taken out a license as required by Section XLVII, he shall be liable, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, to a penalty not exceeding three times the amount which in the judgment of such Justice of the Peace would have been payable by such person in respect of a license duly taken out as aforesaid.

Penalty for not producing license when called on to do so by an Officer of the Justices, &c.

LIV. Any person required by Section XLVII to take out a license, who shall, without reasonable excuse, neglect or refuse to produce and show his license, when required so to do by an Officer duly empowered in writing by the Chairman to make such requisition, shall, on conviction before a Justice of the peace, be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Rate on all houses, buildings, and lands in the Town.

LV. An annual rate, not exceeding ten per centum of their annual value, may be imposed by the Justices upon all houses, buildings, and lands, in the Town, and shall be assessed in the manner hereinafter described: Provided that it shall be at the option of the Justices, in lieu of such rate, to levy upon any lands unappropriated to any building or premises, or upon any native huts with their appurtenances, a fixed annual rate not exceeding four Rupees for every cottah occupied by them, respectively. Any rate levied under this Section shall be payable by the owners of the said houses, buildings, lands, and huts, respectively, by quarterly instalments.

Proviso.

Exemption of Fort William and of buildings on its esplanade, and buildings used for public worship.

LVI. Houses, buildings, and lands situate in Fort William, on the esplanade of the Fort, and in Cooly Bazar, and buildings used exclusively as places of public worship, shall not be liable to any rate under the last preceding Section.

If assessment be made at a higher annual value than the amount paid by the tenant, owner may recover difference from him.

LVII. If the annual value or fixed rate referred to in Section LV, shall in any case exceed the amount of rent payable by the lessee or tenant to the owner, the owner may in such case recover from the lessee or tenant the difference between the sum assessed upon him, and the sum at which he would have been assessed had he been rated only upon the amount of rent actually payable to him, and such difference shall be added to the rent payable by such lessee or tenant, and shall be recoverable by the owner from him, by such means and in like manner in all respects as such rent is recoverable.

Remission on account of vacant houses.

LVIII. When any house shall have been vacant for sixty consecutive days during any year, the Justices shall remit so much, not exceeding one-half, of the rate for that year, as may be proportionate to the number of days the said house may have remained unoccupied: provided that the owner of such house, or his agent, shall have given to the Justices notice in writing of the vacancy thereof, and that the amount of rate to be remitted shall be calculated from the date of the delivery of such notice.

Lighting-rate.

LIX. To provide for the lighting of the public streets of the Town, an annual Lighting-rate, not exceeding two per centum of their annual value, may be imposed by the Justices upon all houses, buildings, and lands in the Town, and shall be assessed in the manner hereinafter described. Provided that it shall be at the option of the Justices, in lieu of such rate, to levy upon any lands unappropriated to any building or premises, or upon any native huts with their appurtenances, a fixed annual rate, not exceeding twelve annas and ten pies, for every cottah occupied by such last mentioned lands, or huts with their appurtenances. Any rate levied under this Section, or under Section LXI, shall be payable by the occupiers of the said houses, buildings, lands, and huts, respectively, by quarterly instalments.

Proviso.

Gross proceeds of Lighting-rate to be applied for purposes of lighting.

LX. The Justices shall cause the public streets of the Town to be sufficiently lighted: and the sum applicable annually to the current expenses of lighting the said streets, shall be the gross proceeds of the said Lighting-rate and no more; but the Justices may expend, out of the Municipal Fund, such further sums as may from time to time be requisite for the purchase, setting up, and maintaining of lamps, lamp-posts, pipes, and other necessary apparatus.

Water-rate.

LXI. The Justices shall carry out a complete system for the supply of water within the Town, and shall for that purpose cause such pipes to be laid and such tanks, reservoirs, and other works to be made and constructed as shall be necessary. Such supply shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, to be complete within the Town, or within any divi-

Occupier liable to the rate for time of occupation.

LXII. Every occupier shall be liable to the Lighting-rate and to the Water-rate for the time of his occupation; and when any person shall have been an occupier for a part only of any quarter, the Justices shall charge him with only so much of the rate for that quarter, as may be proportionate to the number of days during which he shall have continued to be an occupier. No such rate shall be chargeable to any person on account of any unoccupied house for the time during which it may remain unoccupied. Provided always that, when any person ceases to be the occupier of any premises liable to the rate, he shall give the Justices notice thereof, or, if he fail to give such notice, he shall be liable to the rate assessed on the said premises for the whole quarter, although they may have been occupied for a part only of such quarter.

Proviso.

Owner when liable.

LXIII. When any house or building, or any land, is let by the owner in apartments, flats, or portions, the owner shall be liable to pay the Lighting-rate and the Water-rate, instead of the occupier or occupiers.

Occupiers sublotting to be liable.

LXIV. When any person, who rents from the owner any house or building, or any land, sublets the same in apartments or portions, such person, for the purposes of the Lighting-rate and of the Water-rate, shall be held to be the occupier.

Any person liable to any rate, leaving the Town during a quarter, may be made at once to pay such rate up to date.

Annual value of houses, buildings, and lands, how to be ascertained.

LXVI. The estimated gross annual rent at which the houses, buildings, and lands, liable to the rate or rates imposed under this Act upon houses, buildings, and lands according to the annual value thereof, might reasonably be expected to let from year to year, shall, for the purposes of the rates leviable under this Act, be held and deemed to be the annual value of such houses, buildings, and lands. The value of a house or building so estimated shall not include the value of any machinery contained therein.

Annual value to be assessed by the Justices: assessment to remain in force for three years.

LXVII. The annual value at which any lands, houses, buildings, or huts with their appurtenances, are to be assessed, or the area on which they are to be rated under this Act, shall be fixed by the Justices, and such lands, houses, buildings, and huts with their appurtenances, shall be assessed or rated, upon the value or the area so fixed, for three years from the date on which it is so fixed, and on no other value or area. Provided that, if during the currency of the said period of three years any new building shall be erected on any land, or any substantial alteration and improvement shall be made in any premises, it shall be lawful for the Justices to cause such land or premises to be again assessed, even though the three years shall not have expired, and such last mentioned assessment shall be in force, and the rate shall be levied according to it, until the expiration of the said three years.

Proviso.

Value assessed, or measurement, to be entered in a book, &c.

LXVIII. The annual value assessed, or the area fixed, by the Justices as hereinbefore provided, shall be entered in a book to be kept at the Office of the Justices, wherein shall also be written in distinct columns the name of the owner of the property; or, if the occupier, and not the owner, is the person liable to pay the rate, the name of the occupier; a designation of the property, either by name or number, sufficient to identify the same, together with the name of the street or district in which such property is situate, and the amount of the rate assessed or fixed thereon.

New valuation or measurement to be made.

LXIX. The Justices shall, immediately after this Act comes into operation, proceed without delay to make a valuation or measurement of all lands, houses, tenements, and premises within the Town, and for such purpose shall divide the Town into such and so many districts as they many think fit, and proceed to make a separate valuation or measurement district by district, and shall enter the same in the said book. The valuation which, at the date of this Act coming into operation, shall stand entered in the book kept at the Office of the Municipal Commissioners under Section V of Act XXV of 1856, shall be taken to be the first valuation made under this Act, Valuation now standing in the book of the Municipal Commissioners, to be taken as the first under this Act, till new one be made.

until such time as the Justices shall have caused a new valuation or a measurement to be made.

Owner or occupier how to be designated, if his name be unknown.

LXX. When the name of the owner or occupier is not known, it shall be sufficient to designate him in the said book, and also in any notice or other proceeding under this Act, as "the owner" or "the occupier" of the property on which the rate is assessed, without further description.

Returns may be required for purpose of valuation.

LXXI. In order to enable the Justices to arrive at a fair valuation or measurement of any houses, buildings, or lands liable to the rate, it shall be lawful for the Justices to require the owner or occupier of such houses, buildings, or lands to furnish them with returns of the measurements and of the rent or annual value thereof; and for the like purpose, it shall be lawful for the Justices, or any person or persons appointed by them for that purpose, at any time between sunrise and sunset, to enter and inspect and measure such houses, buildings, or lands, after having given forty-eight hours' previous notice of such their intention to the occupier thereof; and whoever refuses or fails to furnish any such return for the space of one week from the day on which he shall have been required so to do, or knowingly makes a false or incorrect return, and whoever hinders, obstructs, or prevents any Justice of the Peace, or any person appointed by the Justices as aforesaid, from entering or inspecting or measuring any such houses, buildings, or lands, shall be liable, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees.

Power to enter houses, &c.

Public notice of valuation and measurement to be given.

Notice of time of revising assessment.

LXXIII. The Justices shall, at the time and in the manner in the preceding Section mentioned, give public notice of a day, not being less than fifteen days from the publication of such notice, when they will proceed to revise the said valuation or measurement and assessment; and in all cases in which any property is for the first time assessed, or in which the valuation or measurement of any property previously assessed is increased, shall give special notice thereof to the owners or occupiers of such property. All appeals against such valuation or measurement and assessment shall be made to the Justices, by application in writing left at their Office three days before the day fixed in the said public notice for the revising of the said valuation or measurement and assessment, and upon hearing such appeals the Justices shall make such amendments, if any, in the said assessment and in the said book, as they shall think proper.

After revision, the assessment book to be authenticated by seal of Justices.

Rate assessed to be deemed the rate for three years.

Alteration or amendment of assessment.

LXXV. Provided always that the Chairman or Vice-Chairman may at any time amend the said book, by inserting therein the name of any person whose name ought to be so inserted, or by inserting any property liable to the rate, after giving notice to such person as may be interested in the making of the amendment, of a day, not being less than fifteen days from the date of the service of such notice, when such amendment is to be made; or by striking out the name of any person or any property not liable to the rate, or reducing the amount of the rate, without notice: and if any amendment shall be made, in cases where notice is required, the same shall be deemed to have been made on the expiration of fifteen days after service of the said notice; and any person interested in such amendment may appeal, by application in writing to the Justices left at their Office three days before the day fixed in the said notice for such amendment.

New assessment book need not be prepared every three years.

Proviso.

LXXVI. It shall not be necessary to prepare a new book every three years, but the Justices may adopt the valuation or measurement and assessment contained in the book for any period of three years, with such alterations as may, in particular cases, be deemed necessary, as the valuation or measurement and assessment for the three years next following. Provided always that public notice of such valuation or measurement and assessment shall be given, in the manner prescribed in Section LXXII of this Act; and the provisions of that and the three following Sections shall be applicable to the said valuation or measurement and assessment, and to the book or books in which it is contained.

Hearing of appeals.

LXXVII. Appeals against any rate assessed or demanded by the Justices under the provisions of this Act, shall be heard and determined by not less than three Justices of the Peace. But no such appeal shall be heard unless the amount of the rate has been deposited with the Justices.

Assessment by Justices when to be final.

LXXVIII. The assessment by the Justices of any rate, when no appeal therefrom is made as hereinbefore provided, and the adjudication of any appeal under the preceding Section, shall be final and conclusive.

Bills to be presented.

LXXIX. When any rate is due, the Justices shall cause to be presented, to the person liable to the payment thereof, a bill for the sum due, which shall also contain a statement of the period, and a description of the property or thing, for which the rate is charged.

Notice of demand.

LXXX. If the bill is not paid, by the person liable to pay the same, within seven days from the presentation thereof, the Justices may cause to be served upon such person a notice of demand, in the form contained in the Schedule (C) to this Act annexed, or to the like effect; and if he shall not, within seven days from the service of such notice of demand, pay the sum due, or show sufficient cause, to the satisfaction of the Justices, for non-payment of the same, such sum, with all costs, may be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the defaulter, or if the defaulter be the occupier of any house, building, or land in respect of which a rate is due, by distress and sale of any goods and chattels found on the premises, under a warrant in the form contained in the Schedule (D) to this Act annexed, or to the like effect, to be issued for that purpose by the Justices. For every notice of demand under this Section which the Justices shall cause to be served upon any person, a fee not exceeding one Rupee, the amount of which shall be in each case fixed by the Justices, shall be paid by such person. Such fee shall be added to the amount of the rate in respect of which the notice is given, and, if not duly paid, shall be levied in the same manner as such rate may be levied.

Distress.

Inventory—notice of distress.

LXXXI. The Officer charged with the execution of a warrant of distress under the last preceding Section, shall make an inventory of the goods and chattels seized under any such warrant, and shall at the same time give a notice in writing, in the form contained in the Schedule (E) to this Act annexed, to the person in possession thereof at the time of the seizure, that the said goods and chattels will be sold as therein mentioned.

Sale.

LXXXII. If the warrant is not in the meantime discharged or suspended by the Justices, the goods and chattels seized shall be sold under the orders of the Justices, who shall apply the proceeds, or such part thereof as may be necessary, in discharge of the said arrears and costs; and the surplus, if any, shall be returned, on demand, to the person in possession of the goods and chattels at the time of the seizure. Fees shall be payable upon distraints under this Act, according to the rates set forth in the Table of Fees in the said Schedule.

Fees.

Goods of defaulter, wherever found, may be distrained.

Rate due from owner may be recovered from occupier and deducted by him from his rent.

LXXXIV. If the sum due on account of any rate from the owner of any house, building, or land remains unpaid, after notice of demand has been duly served, the Justices may demand the amount from the occupier for the time being of such house, building, or land, and, on non-payment thereof, may recover the same by distress and sale of any goods and chattels found on the premises; and in such case, the occupier may deduct, from the next and following payments of his rent, the amount which may be so paid by or recovered from him. Provided that no arrear of rate which has remained due from the owner of any house, building, or land for more than one year, shall be so recovered from the occupier thereof.

Distress not unlawful for want of form.

LXXXV. No distress levied by virtue of this Act shall be deemed unlawful, nor shall any party making the same be deemed a trespasser, on account of any defect or want of form in the notice, schedule, summons, notice of demand, warrant of distress, inventory, or other proceeding relating thereto, nor shall such party be deemed a trespasser ab initio, on account of any irregularity afterwards committed by him; but all persons aggrieved by such irregularity may recover full satisfaction for any special damage sustained by them, in any Court of competent jurisdiction.

Justices may sue, instead of proceeding by distress.

LXXXVI. Instead of proceeding by distress and sale, or in case of failure to realize by distress the whole or any part of the sum due in respect of any rate, the Justices may sue the person liable to pay the same, in any Court of competent jurisdiction.

Service of notices.

Proviso.

LXXXVII. Every notice, schedule, summons, or notice of demand, regarding any assessment, rate, or tax, or any money due in respect of the same, may be served personally upon the person to whom the same is addressed, or be left at his usual place of abode with some adult male member or servant of his family, or, if it cannot be so served, may be put up on some conspicuous part of such place of abode, and shall thereby be deemed to be duly served. Provided that, if the place of abode of the owner of any house, building, or land, in respect of which a rate is assessed, be unknown, or if the owner of any such house, building, or land be not resident within the limits of the Town, every such notice, summons, or notice of demand shall be deemed to be duly served, if put up on some conspicuous part of the house, building, or land in respect of which the rate is assessed.

Assessment not to be impeached, if the directions of the Act are in substance complied with.

LXXXVIII. No assessment, and no charge or demand of a rate or tax, made under the authority of this Act, shall be impeached or affected by reason of any mistake in the name of any person liable to pay the rate or tax, or in the description of any property or thing liable to the rate or tax, or any mistake in the amount of assessment, provided the directions of this Act be in substance and effect complied with; and no proceedings under this Act shall, for want of form, be quashed or set aside in any Court of Justice.

Drainage.

LXXXIX. The Justices shall carry out such a complete system of sewerage and drainage within the Town as they may think desirable, subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and subject to such alterations as may from time to time be ordered by him.

Drainage rate on houses in the environs of the Town.

XC. The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal may determine what portions, if any, of the environs of the Town shall be included in the said system of sewerage and drainage, and may declare the boundaries thereof by notification in the Government Gazette. An annual rate, to be fixed from time to time by the said Lieutenant-Governor, not exceeding two and a half per centum of their annual value, may be imposed upon all houses, buildings, and lands situated within the boundaries so notified, and the same shall be payable by the owners thereof in quarterly instalments. For the purposes of the said rate, the houses, buildings, and lands situated within such boundaries as aforesaid, shall be held to be a part of the Town; and all the provisions of this Act which relate to the assessment and collection of rates payable by owners, shall have effect in respect to such rates.

Justices may erect wharves &c., on river and canal banks, and levy fees for goods landed thereon.

XCI. It shall be lawful for the Justices, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, to erect wharves, jetties, or quays, in any river or canal bordering upon lands which may belong to the Justices. And it shall be lawful for the Justices to levy, upon all goods shipped or landed at any such quays, wharves, or jetties, erected as aforesaid, wharfage, porterage, and other fees, according to a scale to be laid down from time to time by the Justices with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

Goods landed on wharves, &c., may be detained until fees are paid.

XCII. It shall be lawful for the Officers, appointed by the Justices to superintend the landing and shipment of goods from any quays, wharves, and jetties erected under the provisions of the last preceding Section, to detain any such goods until the wharfage, porterage, and other charges due thereon shall have been paid.

Mortgage of rates.

XCIII. Clause 1.—For the construction of works of a permanent nature under this Act, the Justices may, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, from time to time, borrow by way of debenture, on the security of the rates, taxes, and dues imposed and levied on account of the Municipal Fund under this or any Act passed in that behalf, or of a portion of them, and at such rate of interest and upon such terms as to the time of re-payment and otherwise as the said Lieutenant-Governor may approve, any sums of money the Justices may require for the objects aforesaid.

Form of security.

Clause 2.—All the debentures aforesaid, issued under the authority of this Act, shall be in the form contained in the Schedule (F) to this Act, and shall be transferable by endorsement, and the right to sue in respect of the monies secured by any of such debentures, shall be vested in the holders thereof for the time being, without any preference by reason of some of such debentures being prior in date to others.

Payment of debentures by fresh mortgage of rates.

Clause 3.—The Justices may at any time, with such consent as aforesaid, raise, by the issue of new debentures, any money that may be required to pay any monies for the time being due on any debentures issued in pursuance of this Act.

Justices may keep a Register of births and deaths, and appoint Registrars.

XCIV. It shall be lawful for the Justices to keep in their Office a Register of all births and deaths in the Town, and for this purpose they shall divide the Town into such and so many Districts as they shall think fit, and for every such District they shall appoint a person to be Registrar of births and deaths within such District.

Every Registrar to live in his District; list of Registrars to be published, &c.

XCV. Every Registrar shall dwell within the District of which he is Registrar, and shall cause his name, with the addition of Registrar for the District for which he shall be so appointed, to be placed in some conspicuous place on or near the outer door of his own dwelling-house; and the Justices shall cause to be printed and published a list, containing the name and place of abode of every Registrar in the Town.

Justices to have Register books prepared and numbered.

XCVI. The Justices shall cause to be prepared and printed a sufficient number of Register Books for making entries of all births and deaths which may take place in the Town, according to the forms prescribed in Schedules (G) and (H) to this Act annexed: and the pages of such book shall be numbered progressively from the beginning to the end.

Registrar to inform himself of, and register, births and deaths.

XCVII. Every Registrar shall inform himself carefully of every birth and of every death which shall happen in his District after the first day of July 1863, and shall learn and register, as soon as conveniently may be after the event, without fee or reward, the particulars required to be registered, according to the forms in the said Schedules (G) and (H), respectively, touching every such birth and every such death, as the case may be, which shall not have been already registered, every such entry being made in order from the beginning to the end of the book.

Information of births to be given within one month.

XCVIII. The father or mother of every child born in the Town, or in case of the death, illness, absence, or inability of the father and mother, the occupier of the house or tenement in which such child shall have been born, shall, within one month next after the day of every such birth, give information to the Registrar of the District, according to the best of his or her knowledge and belief, of the several particulars hereby required to be known and registered touching the birth of such child. Any person whose duty it shall be to give information to a Registrar under this Section, who shall refuse or neglect to give such information, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Information of death to be given.

XCIX. Some one of the persons present at the death, or in attendance during the last illness, of every person dying in the Town, or, in case of the death, illness, inability, or default of all such persons, the occupier of the house or tenement, or if the occupier be the person who shall have died, some inmate of the house or tenement in which such death shall have happened, shall, within eight days next after the day of such death, give information to the Registrar of the District, according to the best of his or her knowledge and belief, of the several particulars hereby required to be known and registered touching the death of such person. Any person who shall refuse or neglect to give any information which it is his duty to give under this Section, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Person giving information, to sign the Register.

C. Every person by whom the information contained in any Register of births or deaths under this Act shall have been given, shall sign in the Register his name, description, and place of abode; and no such registration shall be deemed to be complete or of any effect until such person shall have so signed it.

Account of population to be taken.

CI. At such times and in such manner as shall be directed from time to time by the Justices, an account shall be taken of the number of persons who, at the time of taking such account, shall be within the Town, and the persons employed in taking such account shall set down the several particulars respecting the same which are hereinafter prescribed.

Chairman to superintend the taking an account of the population.

CII. The Chairman shall superintend the taking of such account, and shall cause to be prepared and issued, for the use of the persons to be employed, such forms and instructions as he shall, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor, deem necessary, and all the expenses incurred shall be defrayed out of the Municipal Fund.

Enumeration Districts.

CIII. Each Police division of the Town shall be formed into one or more Enumeration Districts.

At the appointed time occupiers of houses shall give the required information.

CIV. At such times as shall be appointed under Section CI of this Act, and as shall be notified in the Official Gazette by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, every occupier of a dwelling house or of any part of a dwelling-house distinctly occupied, and every person to whom a Schedule, as hereinafter provided, may have been delivered, shall afford such information, in regard to all persons who were abiding in his house, or in the place under his charge, on the night immediately preceding, and in such manner, as may, under this Act, be lawfully required of them.

Persons to be employed as enumerators.

CV. The Chairman shall select a sufficient number of competent persons to act as enumerators; and every such enumerator, under the direction of the Chairman, shall visit every house within his District, except as hereinafter provided, and shall take an account in writing of the name, sex, age, caste, nationality, and occupation, of every living person who shall abide therein on the night immediately preceding the day appointed as aforesaid, and shall also take an account of the occupied houses and the houses then being built and therefore uninhabited, and also of all other uninhabited houses within his District, and in all respects conform to, and obey, the instructions which may be issued to him by the Chairman in this behalf. Provided always that, in the case of females, no account shall be taken either of their name or age.

Schedules.

CVI. The Chairman, when he may deem such a course to be advisable, may cause a Schedule, in such form as shall be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor, to be delivered to any occupier of any dwelling-house who he shall have ascertained to be able to write, and such occupier shall fill in all the particulars required in the form on the day to be appointed, and shall deliver the same to such persons as may be duly authorized to demand the same.

Military and Naval Officers and certain others, if required, to act as enumerators.

CVII. Any Military or Naval Officers in command of bodies of Military or Naval men, or of Vessels of War, or any Master of a Merchant Vessel, or Nacodah or Tindal of a vessel or boat, or any person in charge of a Lunatic Asylum, Hospital, or Prison, or of any public or private charitable or scholastic institution, or any keepers of Hotels or Lodging-houses, shall, if required, act as enumerators for the purpose of taking account of persons under their command or charge, or abiding in their houses, on the night immediately preceding the day to be appointed; every person so required to act as an enumerator shall receive and conform to all instructions in writing which may be issued to him by the Chairman in that behalf.

Returns of houseless persons.

CVIII. The Chairman shall obtain, by such ways and means as shall appear to him best adapted for the purpose and as shall be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor, returns of the particulars required by this Act with respect to all houseless persons, and all persons who, during the said night preceding the day to be appointed, were on out-door night duty, or for any other reason were not abiding in any house of which account is to be taken by the enumerators.

Streets vested in the Justices.

CIX. All public streets in the Town (not being the property and kept under the control of the Government), existing at the time this Act comes into operation, or which shall afterwards be made, and the pavements, stones, and other materials thereof, and also all erections, materials, implements, and other things provided for such streets, shall vest in and belong to the Justices.

Power to make and improve streets.

CX. The Justices, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, may lay out and make new streets, and may build and construct bridges and tunnels; and may turn, divert, discontinue, or stop up, any public street, and may widen, open, enlarge, or otherwise improve, any such street; making due compensation to the owners and occupiers of any land, houses, or buildings which may be required for any such purposes.

Power to take land adjoining new streets, for building purposes.

CXI. In laying out or making any new street or in turning, diverting, widening, opening, enlarging, or otherwise improving any public street, in addition to the land required for the carriage-ways and foot-ways thereof, the Justices may purchase also the land necessary for the houses and buildings to form the said street, and may sell and dispose of the same, with such stipulations and conditions as to the class and description of houses or buildings to be erected thereon, as they shall think fit. Provided that, if any land be taken under the provisions of this Act, compensation shall be made to the owners for any direct or immediate damage which may be done thereby to any adjoining land or buildings of such owner.

Compensation for damage to adjoining land.

CXII. The Justices may agree with the owners of any land or building for the absolute purchase thereof for the purpose of laying out and making new streets, or of widening, enlarging, or otherwise improving any of the public streets, or for any other purpose whatever connected with the conservancy or general improvement of the Town.

Power to agree for purchase of land for improving streets or for other Municipal purposes.

CXIII. When there is any hinderance to the acquisition by purchase of any land or building required for the purposes of this Act, the Government of Bengal, upon the representation of the Justices and after such inquiry as may be thought proper, may declare that the land or building is needed for a public purpose, and may order proceedings for obtaining possession of the same for Government, and for determining the compensation to be paid to the parties interested, according to any laws now or hereafter to be in force for the acquisition of land for public purposes. And the Government of Bengal may vest such land or building in the Justices, on their paying the compensation awarded.

Mode of ascertaining compensation for land, &c.

CXIV. The Justices may sell any lands or buildings vested in them by virtue of this Act, or acquired by them for the purposes thereof, either together or in parcels as they may find most convenient and advantageous, and the proceeds of such sale shall be applied to the purposes of this Act; and for carrying such sale into effect, the Justices may execute a conveyance of the lands sold to the purchaser, and such conveyance shall be under the common seal of the Justices, and shall be executed in all respects in the manner hereinbefore provided for the execution of contracts, the value or amount of which exceeds five hundred Rupees.

Power to sell lands or buildings.

CXV. Whenever any street hereby vested in the Justices shall be discontinued and stopped up under the provisions of Section CX of this Act, the Justices may sell the lands, or such part thereof as shall not be required for the purposes of this Act.

Power to sell old streets

Maintenance and repair of streets.

Footways.

CXVII. The Justices shall cause the streets, including the foot-ways thereof, to be regularly swept and cleansed; and the dust, dirt, ashes, rubbish, and filth of every sort found thereon, to be collected and removed.

Cleansing streets.

Dust Boxes in streets.

CXIX. Whoever deposits, or permits his servants to deposit, any dust, dirt, dung, ashes; garden, kitchen, or stable refuse; or filth of any kind, or any animal matter, or any broken glass or earthenware, or other rubbish, in any street or on any public quay, jetty, ghaut, or landing place, or on any part of a river-bank whether above or below high-water mark, except in such places and in such manner and at such hours as shall be fixed by the Justices, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten Rupees for each offence. The Justices may, in manner hereinafter provided, make Bye-Laws for regulating the making of such deposits, and for the removing and carrying away the same, and for charging the person making the deposit, with the expense of removing it or carrying it away.

Depositing dirt on streets, &c.

CXX. Whoever causes or allows the water of any sink or sewer, or any other offensive liquid matter belonging to him or being on his land, to run, drain, or be thrown or put upon any street, or causes or allows any offensive matter from any sewer or privy to run, drain, or be thrown into a surface drain in any street, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten Rupees for each offence.

Allowing sewerage to flow on streets.

CXXI. The Justices from time to time may fix the hours within which only it shall be lawful to remove any night-soil or other such offensive matter. When the Justices have fixed such hours and given public notice thereof, whoever removes or causes to be removed along any street any such offensive matter at any time, except within the hours so fixed, and also whoever, at any time, whether such hours have been fixed by the Justices or not, uses for any such purpose any cart, carriage, or other receptacle or vessel not having a covering proper for preventing the escape of the contents thereof or of the stench therefrom, or who slops or spills any such offensive matter in the removal thereof, or who does not carefully sweep and clean every place in which any such offensive matter has been slopped or spilled, or who places or sets down in any public place any vessel containing such offensive matter, or who drives or takes or causes to be driven or taken any cart, carriage, receptacle, or vessel used for any such purpose as aforesaid, through any street or by any route other than such as shall from time to time be by public notice appointed for that purpose by the Justices, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty Rupees for each offence.

Removal of night-soil.

CXXII. The Justices, from time to time, shall appoint or provide places convenient for the deposit of the night-soil, dung, and other filth, and the dust, dirt, ashes, and rubbish collected and removed under the authority of this Act; and for keeping all cattle, carts, implements, and other things required for the above or any of the purposes of this Act; and, for any of such purposes, the Justices may purchase or take on lease any land or buildings by them considered necessary, or may cause any new building to be made upon any land to be purchased or hired by them.

All rubbish, &c., collected, to be the property of the Justices.

CXXIII. All dirt, dust, ashes, rubbish, sewerage, soil, dung, and filth, collected from the streets, houses, privies, sewers, and cess-pools, shall be the property of the Justices, who shall have power to sell or dispose of the same as they may think proper, and the money arising from the sale thereof, shall be applied to the purposes of this Act.

Watering streets.

CXXIV. The Justices, so far as the funds at their disposal will admit, and so far as they may deem requisite for the public convenience, shall cause the public streets to be watered; and for that purpose may provide such works and engines as they may think necessary.

Future obstructions in streets.

CXXV. Whoever builds any wall, or erects or sets up any fence, rail, post, or other obstruction or encroachment, in any public street or in or over any open drain, sewer, or aqueduct along the side of any such street after this Act comes into operation, shall be liable, to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees; and

Power to remove.

the Justices shall have power to remove any such obstruction or encroachment; and the expense of such removal shall be paid by the person erecting the same, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the Justices from allowing any temporary erections in any public street on occasions of festivals and ceremonies.

Temporary obstruction on occasions of festivals, &c.

Taking up pavements.

CXXVI. Whoever displaces, takes up, or makes any alteration in the pavement, flags, or other materials, or in the fences or posts of any public street, without the consent in writing of the Justices, or without other lawful authority, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Private persons laying out new streets.

CXXVII. Every person who wishes to make or lay out any new street, shall give notice in writing thereof to the Justices, shewing the intended level and width of such street; and the level and width of every such street shall be fixed or approved by the Justices; and whoever lays out, makes, or builds upon, any such street, otherwise than in accordance with the level and width so fixed or approved, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five hundred Rupees; and the Justices may, if they think fit, cause any such street, laid out or made at a level or width otherwise than in accordance with the level or width so fixed or approved as aforesaid, to be altered; or may cause any building, erected in any such street otherwise than in accordance with such level and width, to be altered, or if necessary removed, and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid to them by the offender, and be recoverable as hereinafter provided. If no such level or width be fixed, and no approval or disapproval of the level or width proposed be signified by the Justices within one month, the intended street may be laid out and made upon the level and of the width specified in the notice.

Erection of new huts to be under the control of the Justices.

CXXVIII. It shall not be lawful for any person to erect, within the Town, any hut or any range or block of huts, on any plot or parcel of ground on which no huts are standing, without previous notice to the Justices; and the Justices may require such hut or huts to be built so that they may stand in regular lines, with a free passage or way in front of each line, of such width as the Justices may think proper for salutary ventilation, and to facilitate scavengering, and at such a level as will admit of sufficient drainage. And if any such hut or huts be built without giving such notice to the Justices, or otherwise than as required by the Justices, the Justices may give notice to the builder or builders thereof to take down and remove the same within one month, and if such hut or huts be not taken down or removed according to such notice, the Justices may cause the same to be taken down and removed, and the expense incurred in doing so shall be paid by the said builder or builders, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Power of Justices as to existing huts.

CXXIX. Whenever the Justices are satisfied, from inspection or by report of competent persons, that any existing block of huts in the Town, is, by reason of the manner in which the huts are crowded together, or of the want of drainage and the impracticability of scavengering, attended with risk of disease to the inhabitants or the neighbourhood, they may, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, cause a notice to be fixed to some conspicuous part of such block of huts, requiring the owners or occupiers thereof, or, at the option of the Justices, the owner of the land on which such huts are built, within a reasonable time to be fixed by the Justices for that purpose, to execute such operations as the Justices with such sanction as aforesaid may deem necessary for the avoidance of such risk. And in case such owners or occupiers, or the owner of the land, shall refuse or neglect to execute such operations within the time appointed, the Justices may cause the said huts to be taken down, or such operations to be performed in respect of such huts, as the Justices may deem necessary to prevent such risk. If such huts be pulled down, the Justices shall cause the materials of each hut to be sold separately, if such sale can be effected; and the proceeds shall be paid to the owner of the hut, or if the owner be unknown, or the title disputed, shall be held in deposit by the Justices, until the person interested therein shall obtain the order of a competent Court for the payment of the same. The Calcutta Court of Small Causes shall be deemed a competent Court for that purpose.

Paving, &c., of private streets.

CXXX. If any street (not being a public street), or any part thereof, be not levelled, paved, metalled, flagged, channelled, and sewered to the satisfaction of the Justices, they may, by notice in writing to the respective owners or occupiers of the premises fronting, adjoining, or abutting upon, such parts thereof as may need to be levelled, paved, metalled, flagged, channelled, and sewered, require them to level, metal, pave, flag, channel, and sewer the same within a time to be specified in such notice, and upon non-compliance the Justices may, if they think fit, execute the works mentioned or referred to therein: and the expenses incurred by them in so doing shall be paid by the owners in default according to the frontage of their respective premises, and in such proportion as shall be settled by the Justices, or, in case of dispute, as shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses; and such expense shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Proviso.

Provided always that, after such streets shall have been so levelled, paved, metalled, flagged, channelled, and sewered, on the requisition of the Justices, or by the Justices as aforesaid, at the expense of the owners, such owners shall have a right to require that the street shall be declared a public street, to be from time to time repaired by the Justices out of the Municipal Fund.

Certain streets to be deemed public and repaired by the Justices.

CXXXI. If any street (not being a public street, but being a street over or through which the public have or may hereafter have a right of way) be levelled, paved, metalled, flagged channelled, and sewered to the satisfaction of the Justices, they may, if they think fit, by notice in writing put up in any part of such street, declare the same to be a public street, and thereupon the same shall become a public street, and be from time to time repaired by them out of the Municipal Fund.

Houses may be set forward for improving line of streets.

CXXXII. The Justices may, upon such terms as they shall think fit, allow any house or building to be set forward for improving the line of any public street in which such house or building is situated.

Houses projecting beyond line of street, when taken down, to be set back.

CXXXIII. When any house or building, any part of which projects beyond the regular line of a public street, or beyond the front of the house or building on either side thereof, has been taken down in order to be re-built or altered, the Justices may require the same to be set back to or towards the line of the street or the line of the adjoining houses or buildings.

Proviso.

Provided always that the Justices shall make full compensation to the owner of any such house or building for any damage he may thereby sustain, and if any dispute shall arise touching the amount of such compensation, the same shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses.

Names of streets.

CXXXIV. The Justices shall, from time to time, cause to be put up or painted on a conspicuous part of some house, building, wall, or place at or near each end, corner, or entrance of every street, the name by which such street is to be known; and whoever destroys, pulls down, or defaces any such name, or puts up any name different from that put up by order of the Justices, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty Rupees.

Numbers on houses.

CXXXV. The Justices may, from time to time, fix a number in a conspicuous place on the outer side of any house or building, or at the entrance of the enclosure thereof fronting the street; and whoever destroys, pulls down, or defaces any such number, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty Rupees.

Doors not to open outwards.

CXXXVI. All doors, gates, bars, and ground-floor windows put up after this Act comes into operation, which open upon any public street, shall be hung or placed so as not to open outwards and cause obstruction; and if any such door, gate, bar, or window be hung or placed so as to open outwards on any such street and cause obstruction, the owner of the premises to which the same is attached shall, within eight days after notice from the Justices to that effect, cause the same to be altered so as not to open outwards and cause obstruction, and in case he neglects so to do, the Justices may make such alteration, and the expense thereof shall be paid by such owners, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Doors opening outwards to be altered.

CXXXVII. If any door, gate, bar, or ground-floor window, put up before this Act comes into operation, is hung or placed so as to open outwards upon any public street and cause obstruction, the Justices may alter the same, so that no part thereof, when open, shall cause an obstruction, and the expense thereof shall be paid by the owners and be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Troughs and pipes to be fixed to houses.

CXXXVIII. The owner of every house or building in any public street shall, within fifteen days after notice from the Justices to that effect, put up and keep in good condition proper troughs and pipes for catching and carrying the water from the roof and other parts of such house or building, and for discharging the same in such manner as the Justices shall direct, and in default of compliance with such notice within the period aforesaid, such owner shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten Rupees for every day that he shall so make default.

Projections erected in future from houses, to be removed.

CXXXIX. The Justices may give notice in writing to the owner or occupier of any house or building, to remove or alter any projection, encroachment, or obstruction, which, after this Act comes into operation, shall be erected or placed against or in front of such house or building, and such owner or occupier shall, within fifteen days after the service of such notice upon him, remove such projection, encroachment, or obstruction, or alter the same in such manner as shall have been directed by the Justices, and in default thereof shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees; and the Justices in such case may remove such projection, encroachment, or obstruction; and the expense of such removal shall be paid by the owner or occupier so making default, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Proviso.

Provided that, when the expense shall have been paid by the occupier, except in the case in which such projections, encroachments, or obstructions were made or put up by him, such occupier shall be entitled to deduct the expense of removing or altering the same, from the rent payable by him to the owner of the house or building.

Removal of existing projections from houses.

CXL. The Justices may cause any such projection, encroachment, or obstruction, erected or placed against or in front of any house or building, in any public street, before this Act comes into operation, to be removed, or altered as they think fit; provided that they give notice of such intended removal or alteration to the occupier of the house or building against or in front of which such projection, encroachment, or obstruction shall be, thirty days before such alteration or removal is begun; and if such projection, encroachment, or obstruction shall have been lawfully made, they shall make reasonable compensation to every person who suffers damage by such removal or alteration; and if any dispute shall arise touching the amount of such compensation, the same shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses.

Notice of removal.

Compensation when to be made.

Justices may allow certain projections from houses.

CXLI. The Justices may give permission in writing to the owners or occupiers of houses or buildings in public streets, to put up verandahs, balconies, sun-shades, weather-frames, and the like, to project from any upper-story thereof over the street, to an extent not exceeding five feet from the foundation.

Roofs and external walls of huts not to be made of inflammable materials.

CXLII. The external roofs and walls of huts or other buildings erected or renewed within the Town, after this Act comes into operation, shall not be made of grass, leaves, mats, or other such inflammable materials; and it shall not be lawful for the owner of any hut or other building, in or near any street, now having an external roof or wall made of any such material, and which is contiguous to or adjoining to any other building, to suffer such roof or wall to remain after this Act comes into operation, unless with the consent in writing of the Justices; and whoever makes any external roof or wall of such materials, or suffers any roof or wall made of such materials to continue contrary to the provisions herein contained, and who shall not remove or alter the same within one month after notice given to him for that purpose by the Justices, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten Rupees for every day that such roof or wall shall continue. Any person may give information and institute a prosecution under this Section.

Houses in a ruinous and dangerous state.

CXLIII. If, in any street, any house, building, or wall, or any thing affixed thereon, be deemed by the Justices to be in a ruinous state, or likely to fall, or in any way dangerous to the inhabitants of such house or building, or to the neighbouring houses or buildings, or to the occupiers thereof, or to passengers, they shall immediately, if it appears to them to be necessary, cause a proper hoard or fence to be put up for the protection of passengers, and shall cause notice in writing to be given to the owner, if he be known and resident within the limits of their jurisdiction, and shall also cause such notice to be put on the door or other conspicuous part of the said premises or otherwise to be given to the occupier thereof (if any), requiring such owner or occupier forthwith to take down, secure, or repair such house, building, wall, or thing affixed thereon, as the case shall require; and if such owner or occupier do not begin to repair, take down, or secure the same within three days after such notice, and complete such work with due diligence, the Justices shall cause all or so much of such house, building, wall, or thing as they shall think necessary, to be taken down, repaired, or otherwise secured; and all the expenses incurred by the Justices shall be paid by the owner of the premises, and shall be recoverable from him as hereinafter provided.

Sale of materials of ruinous houses.

Power to shut up and secure deserted houses.

CXLV. If any building or land, by reason of abandonment or of disputed ownership or other cause, shall remain untenanted, and thereby become a resort of idle and disorderly persons, or be complained of by any two or more of the neighbours as a nuisance, the Justices, after due enquiry, may cause notice in writing to be given to the owner, or to the person claiming to be the owner, if he be known and resident within the limits of their jurisdiction, and shall also cause such notice to be put on the door of the building or some conspicuous part of the premises, requiring the persons concerned therein, whoever they may be, to secure or enclose the same; and if such notice shall not be complied with within eight days, the Justices shall cause the necessary work to be executed, and all expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the owner of the premises, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Penalty on occupier of a house not removing filth.

Filthy houses, &c.

CXLVII. Whoever, being the owner or occupier of any house, building, or land, within the Town, whether tenantable or otherwise, suffers the same to be in a filthy and unwholesome state, or overgrown with vegetation, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees, and to a penalty not exceeding ten Rupees for every day after conviction for such offence during which the offence is continued.

CXLVIII. The Justices may give notice to the owner or occupier of any land to trim or prune the hedges thereof bordering any public road or street, so that they may not exceed the height of seven feet from the level of the road; and to cut and trim all trees which by overhanging any public road or street obstruct the passage or cause damage thereto; and in the event of such notice not being complied with within eight days from the date thereof, the Justices may cause the said hedges and trees to be cut and trimmed in the manner required, and the expense incurred by the Justices in respect thereof shall be paid to them by the owners, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Power to trim hedges and trees bordering roads.

CXLIX. Whoever within the Town shall keep any pig-stye to the front of any street, not being shut out therefrom by a sufficient wall or fence, and whoever shall within the Town, without the permission of the Justices, keep more than ten swine or more than twenty sheep or goats, or ten horned cattle, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Keeping swine or cattle, &c.

CL. All public sewers and drains, and all sewers, drains, tunnels, and culverts in, alongside, or under the streets, existing at the time this Act comes into operation or afterwards made, and whether made at the cost of the Justices or otherwise, and all works, materials, and things appertaining thereto, shall be vested in and belong to the Justices.

Sewers, drains, &c., vested in the Justices.

Powers of Justices in making public sewers.

CLII. The Justices shall maintain, and from time to time repair, and as they see fit, enlarge, alter, arch-over, or otherwise improve, all or any of the sewers and drains vested in them by this Act: and may discontinue, close up, or destroy such of them as they may deem useless or unnecessary. Provided that if, by reason of any thing done under this Section, any person is deprived of the lawful use of any sewer or drain, the Justices shall, at a place within one hundred feet of the sewer or drain of the use of which he is deprived, provide the means of drainage into some public sewer, tidal river, or other place into which the Justices are empowered to empty their sewers, and thereupon the owner shall make a drain leading thereunto, of such materials, of such size, at such level, and with such fall, as the Justices shall direct; and if he neglect to do so within a reasonable time, the Justices may cause the same to be done, and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the owner, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Justices to repair and alter and close sewers.

Proviso.

Cleansing and emptying sewers.

CLIV. When the contents of any sewer or drain, or any other flow or filth or refuse, are discharged into any river or stream, in the bed or channel of which the quantity of water at any season of the year is so much diminished by natural or artificial causes as to be insufficient to keep such channel clean or clear, the Justices, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, so far as the funds at their disposal will admit, shall make such alteration in the bed of such river or stream as may prevent such sewer and drain-water from spreading over the surface of such bed, or from accumulating and stagnating in parts thereof to the injury of health or the annoyance of the surrounding population.

Bed of stream receiving sewerage to be cleared.

CLV. Whoever, without the written consent of the Justices first obtained, makes or causes to be made any drain into any of the sewers or drains vested in the Justices by this Act, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees; and the Justices may cause such branch-drain to be demolished, altered, re-made, or otherwise dealt with as they shall think fit; and all the expense incurred thereby shall be paid by the person making such branch-drain, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Penalty for making unauthorized drains into public sewers.

CLVI. No building shall be newly erected over any sewer or drain vested in the Justices by this Act, without their written consent; and if any building be so erected, the Justices may cause such building to be pulled down, or otherwise dealt with as they may think fit; and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the person offending and be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Building over sewers, &c., not to be erected without consent of the Justices.

Justices empowered to make drains from houses which are not properly drained.

think necessary for the draining of such house or building; and the expenses incurred by the Justices in respect thereof, if not forthwith paid by the owner, shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Level of houses hereafter built within the Town.

CLVIII. No house or building shall be hereafter built within the Town upon a lower level than will allow of the drainage of such house or building being led into some public sewer either then existing or projected, or into some tidal river or other place into which the Justices are empowered to empty their sewers.

Houses hereafter built to have drains constructed under the orders of the Justices.

CLIX. If any house or building, newly erected or re-built within the Town after this Act comes into operation, have such means of drainage, as in the last preceding Section mentioned, existing within one hundred feet thereof, the owner shall make a drain leading thereunto from the site of such house or building, of such materials, of such size, at such level, and with such fall, as the Justices may direct; and if he neglect to do so within a reasonable time, the Justices may cause the same to be done, and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the owner and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Notice of new buildings to be given to the Justices.

CLX. Before beginning, within the town, to build or re-build any house, the person intending to build or re-build such house shall give to the Justices notice thereof in writing, and shall accompany such notice with a plan, shewing the levels at which the foundation and lowest floor of such house are proposed to be laid, by reference to some level ascertained under the direction of the Justices.

Justices to signify disapproval within fourteen days.

CLXI. Within fourteen days after receiving such notice, the Justices shall signify their approval of the proposed levels, or, if they disapprove thereof, they shall fix other levels in lieu thereof within the same time.

Houses built without notice, or contrary to provisions of this Act, may be altered by the Justices.

CLXII. If such building be begun or made without sending such notice and plan, or at any levels different from those fixed by the Justices within the said fourteen days, or in any other respect contrary to the provisions of this Act, the Justices may, if necessary, cause such building to be altered or demolished as the case may require; and the expense thereby incurred shall be paid by the person failing to comply with the provisions aforesaid, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

If Justices fail to signify approval, &c., within fourteen days, parties may proceed without.

CLXIII. If the Justices fail to signify in writing their approval or disapproval of the levels shewn on such plan as aforesaid, and to fix other levels within fourteen days after receiving such notice and plan as aforesaid, the person giving such notice may, notwithstanding any thing hereinbefore contained, proceed to build or re-build the house therein referred to according to the levels shewn on such plan, provided that such building or re-building be otherwise in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

Sewers in streets to be covered with traps, &c.

CLXIV. All sewers and drains in streets, whether public or private, shall be provided by the Justices, or by the persons to whom they severally belong, with proper traps or other coverings or means of ventilation so as to prevent stench. If the owner of any private sewer or drain shall, for ten days after notice given to him by the Justices, neglect or delay to provide proper traps or coverings or means of ventilation as aforesaid, the Justices may forthwith provide and apply the same; and the expense incurred thereby shall be paid by the owner of such sewer or drain, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Power of Justices to erect or affix to building pipes for ventilation of sewers.

CLXV. The Justices may erect on or fix to any house or building such pipes as they may deem necessary for the proper ventilation of the sewers belonging to them, and such pipes shall be carried to a height of not less than six feet above the highest part of the house or building, and erected so as not to occasion any nuisance or inconvenience to any house or building in the neighbourhood.

Throwing rubbish into sewers.

CLXVI. Whoever throws or puts, or permits his servants to throw or put, any earth, dirt, ashes; garden, kitchen, or stable refuse; or any broken glass or earthen-ware, or other rubbish, or, until suitable sewers shall be provided, any night-soil, into any sewer or drain belonging to any of the Justices, or into any drain communicating therewith, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for each offence.

Common necessaries.

CLXVII. The Justices may provide and maintain in proper and convenient situations, so as not to create a nuisance, common necessaries and urinals, and shall cause the same, when provided, to be kept in proper order and to be daily cleansed.

Licensing of public necessaries, and tola Mether's depôts.

CLXVIII. The Justices may license, for any period not exceeding one year, such necessaries for public accommodation, and such tola mehters' depôts, as they, from time to time, may think proper; and whoever keeps any public necessary, or any tola mehter's depôt without such license, or, having a license for a public necessary or tola mehter's depôt, suffers the same to be in a filthy or noxious state, or neglects to employ proper means for cleaning the same, shall, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees, and the license may be cancelled by the Justice before whom the person is convicted. Provided also that it shall be lawful for the Justices at any time, on giving one month's notice, to cancel any license granted under this Section, if it shall seem proper to them to cancel it.

Neglecting to enclose private privy.

CLXIX. The owner or occupier of any house or building having a privy on his premises, shall have such privy shut out by a

Branch-drains, privies, &c., to be under the control of the Justices, and to be kept in good order by owners.

CLXX. All branch-drains, as well within as without the lands or buildings to which they belong, and all privies and cess-pools within the Town, shall be under the survey and control of the Justices, and shall be altered, repaired, and kept in proper order at the costs and charges of the owners of the lands and buildings to which the same belong, or for the use of which they are constructed or continued; and if the owner of any land or buildings to which any such drain, privy, or cess-pool belongs, neglect, during eight days after notice in writing for that purpose, to alter, repair, and put the same into good order in the manner required by the Justices, the Justices may cause such drain, privy, or cess-pool to be altered, repaired, and put in good order, and the expense incurred by the Justices in respect thereof, shall be paid by the owner, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

If owners neglect, Justices may cause the same to be done and charge the owners with the expense.

Penalty for persons making or altering drains, &c., contrary to the orders of the Justices.

Inspection of drains, privies, and cess-pools.

CLXXII. The Justices, or any Officer appointed by them for the purpose, may inspect any such drain, privy, or cess-pool, and for that purpose, at any time between sunrise and sunset, after one hour's notice in writing to the occupier of the premises to which such drain, privy, or cess-pool is attached, may enter upon any lands and buildings, with such assistants and workmen as are necessary, and cause the ground to be opened where they or he may think fit, doing as little damage as may be; and if, upon such inspection, it appears that the drain, privy, or cess-pool is not in good order and condition, or that it has been constructed after this Act comes into operation contrary to the provisions thereof, the expenses of such inspection shall be paid by the person to whom such drain, privy, or cess-pool may belong, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided; but if the drain, privy, or cess-pool be found to be in proper order and condition, and not to have been constructed in violation of the provisions of this Act, the Justices or Officer as aforesaid shall cause the ground to be closed and made good as soon as may be; and the expenses of opening, closing, and making good, such drain, privy, or cess-pool, shall, in that case, be defrayed by the Justices. Provided always that nothing hereinbefore contained shall authorize an entry into the zenanas or private apartments appropriated to the females of Hindoo and Mussulman families, for the purpose of such inspection, except by the agency of women.

Proviso.

Service of notice on owners and occupiers of buildings and lands.

CLXXIII. Where any notice is required by this Act to be given to the owner or occupier, of any building or land, such notice, addressed to the owner or occupier, as the case may require, may be served on the occupier of such building or land, or left with some adult male member or servant of his family, or, if the notice cannot be so served, or if there be no occupier, may be put up on some conspicuous part of such building or land, and it shall not be necessary in any such notice to name the occupier or the owner. Provided always that, when the owner and his residence are known to the Justices, it shall be their duty, if such owner be residing within the limits of their authority, to cause every notice, required to be given to the owner of any building or land, to be served on such owner or left with some adult male member or servant of his family; and, if the owner be not resident within such limits, they shall send every such notice by post addressed to his residence, and proof of delivery of the notice at the Post Office shall be held to be due service of the same.

Justices, in default of owner or occupier, may execute works and recover expenses.

CLXXIV. Whenever, under the provisions of this Act, any work is required to be executed by the owner or occupier of any building or land, and default is made in the execution of such works, the Justices, whether any penalty is or is not provided for such default, may cause such work to be executed; and the expense thereby incurred shall be paid to them by the person by whom such work ought to have been executed, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Power to levy charges on occupier, who may deduct the same from his rent.

CLXXVI. No occupier of any building or land shall be liable to pay more money, in respect of any expenses charged by this Act on the owner thereof, than the amount of rent due from him, for the premises in respect of which such expenses are payable, at the time of the demand made upon him, or which at any time after such demand has accrued and become payable by him, unless he neglect or refuse, upon application made to him for that purpose by the Justices, truly to disclose the amount of his rent and the name and address of the person to whom such rent is payable; but the burden of proof that the sum demanded of any such occupier is greater than the rent which was due by him at the time of such demand or which has since accrued, shall lie upon such occupier; provided further that nothing herein contained shall be taken to affect any special contract, made between any such owner or occupier, respecting the payment of the expenses of any such works as aforesaid.

Occupier not to be liable for more than the amount of rent due.

CLXXVII. Whenever default is made by the owner of any building or land, in the execution of any work required to be executed by him, the occupier of such building or land may, with the approval of the Justices, cause such work to be executed, and the expense thereof shall be paid to him by the owner, or the amount may be deducted out of the rent from time to time becoming due from him to such owner.

Occupier, in default of owner, may execute works and deduct expenses from his rent.

CLXXVIII. If the occupier of any building or land prevent the owner thereof from carrying into effect, in respect of such building or land, any of the provisions of this Act, after notice of his intention so to do has been given by the owner to such occupier, any Justice of the Peace, upon proof thereof, may give an order in writing, requiring such occupier to permit the owner to execute all such works, with respect to such building or land, as may be necessary for carrying into effect the provisions of this Act; and if, after the expiration of eight days from the date of the order, such occupier continue to refuse to permit such owner to execute such works, such occupier shall, for every day during which he so continues to refuse, be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees; and every such owner, during the continuance of such refusal, shall be discharged from any penalties to which he might otherwise have become liable by reason of his default in executing such works.

Proceedings in case of tenants opposing the execution of this Act.

CLXXIX. All public tanks, reservoirs, cisterns, wells, aqueducts, conduits, tunnels, pipes, pumps, and other water-works, existing at the time this Act comes into operation or afterwards made, laid, or erected, and whether made, laid, or erected at the cost of the Justices or otherwise, and all bridges, buildings, engines, works, materials, and things, connected therewith or appertaining thereto, and also any adjacent land (not being private property) appertaining to any public tank, shall be vested in and belong to the Justices.

Tanks, &c., vested in the Justices.

CLXXX. The Justices shall cause all existing public tanks, reservoirs, cisterns, wells, aqueducts, conduits, tunnels, pipes, pumps, and other water-works used for the supply of water to the inhabitants or for the other purposes mentioned in this Act, to be continued, maintained, and supplied with water; or they shall substitute other such works, and shall cause them to be maintained and supplied with water; and the Justices may, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, from time to time, construct aqueducts and lay pipes for bringing water into the Town, and may provide any number of new tanks, reservoirs, cisterns, wells, and other such water-works for the purpose aforesaid.

Construction and maintenance of works for supply of water.

CLXXXI. Whoever, except as permitted by the Justices under Section CLXXXIV, bathes in any stream, tank, reservoir, well, cistern, conduit, or aqueduct belonging to the Justices, or washes or causes to be washed therein, any horse, dog, or other animal, or any wool, cloth, or wearing apparel, or any utensils for cooking or other purposes, or leather, or the skin of any animal, or other foul or offensive thing; or throws, puts, or casts, or causes to enter therein, any animal, or any gravel, stone, dust, or rubbish, or any dirt, filth, or other noisome or offensive matter or thing; or causes or suffers to run, drain, or be brought thereinto, the water of any sink, sewer, drain, engine, or boiler, or any other unwholesome or offensive liquid matter or thing belonging to him or flowing from any house or building or from any ground occupied by him; or does any thing whatsoever whereby any such water shall be in any degree fouled or corrupted—shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for each offence.

Fouling water by—Bathing.

Washing animals or things, &c.

Throwing rubbish, &c.

Allowing drains, &c., to flow into.

Water fouled by offensive trades.

occasioned by the examination, shall be paid by the Justices.

Injuring water-works or diverting or wasting water.

CLXXXIII. Whoever wilfully or carelessly injures any water-works belonging to the Justices, or unlawfully draws off, diverts, or takes water from any such water-works, or from any water or streams, belonging to the Justices, by which such water-works are supplied, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Justices may set apart bathing places, &c.

CLXXXIV. The Justices may, at their discretion, set apart any public ghaut or place, or any part of the strand of any river (not being private property), for the purpose of being used as a bathing place; and may also provide or set apart a sufficient number of convenient tanks or runs of water for the inhabitants to bathe in, and may also set apart tanks or reservoirs, or runs of water, for washing animals or clothes, or for any other purpose connected with the health, cleanliness, and comfort of the inhabitants.

Bye-laws to regulate—

CLXXXV. The Justices may, in the manner hereinafter provided, make bye-laws—

The use of water.

For regulating all or any matters and things whatsoever connected with the water to be supplied by them, and the use of such water for any of the purposes mentioned in this Act;

Bathing places.

And for regulating the time and places of bathing for persons of each sex in the places provided or appointed by them for the purpose of bathing, in such manner as shall appear to the Justices necessary, making due allowance for the habits and customs of the country.

Power to fill up unwholesome tanks, &c., on private premises.

CLXXXVI. When any private tank or low marshy ground, or any waste or stagnant water, being within any private enclosure, appears to the Justices to be injurious to health, or to be offensive to the neighbourhood, it shall be lawful for the Justices to require, by notice in writing, the owner of the said premises to cleanse or fill up such tank or marshy ground, or to drain off or remove such stagnant water; and if he shall refuse or neglect to comply with such requisition during eight days from the service thereof, the Justices, their Officers, and workmen, may enter into the said premises, and do all necessary acts for all or any of the purposes aforesaid, as they shall think fit; and the expense incurred thereby shall be paid by the owner of such premises, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Power to drain off and cleanse stagnant pools in open places.

Justices in executing works, to provide roads, &c., where existing ones are injured.

CLXXXVIII. The Justices, in executing any works directed or authorized by this Act to be made, shall provide and make, at their own expense, a sufficient number of convenient ways, watercourses, drains, and channels in the place of such as may be interrupted, injured, or rendered useless by reason of the execution of such works; and, in case of any difference arising between the Justices respectively and the persons affected thereby, such difference shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses.

Justices breaking up street to restore the same with all convenient speed.

Situation of gas and water-pipes to be altered at the expense of the Justices.

CXC. If the Justices deem it necessary for the purposes of this Act to raise, sink, or otherwise alter, the situation of any water-pipe or gas-pipe, or other water-works, or gas-works, laid in any of the streets, they may, from time to time, by notice in writing, require the person to whom any such pipes or works belong or under whose control they may be, to cause forthwith, or as soon as conveniently may be, any such pipes or works to be raised, sunk, or otherwise altered in position, in such manner as the Justices direct; provided that such alteration be not such as permanently to injure such works, or to prevent the water or gas from flowing as freely and conveniently as before; and the expenses attending such raising, sinking, or altering, and full compensation for the damage done thereby, shall be paid by the Justices, as well to the persons to whom such pipes or works belong, as to all other persons. And if any dispute shall arise touching the amount or apportionment of such compensation, the same shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses.

If owner, &c., neglect to make alterations, the Justices may cause the same to be made.

CXCI. If the person to whom any such pipes or works belong or under whose control they may be, do not proceed forthwith, or as soon as conveniently may be after the receipt of such notice, to cause the same to be raised, sunk, or altered, in such manner as the Justices require, the Justices may themselves cause such pipes or works to be raised, sunk, or altered, as they may think fit, provided that such works be not permanently injured thereby or the water or gas prevented from flowing as freely and conveniently as before.

CXCII. Every person intending to build or take down any building, or to alter or repair the outward part of any building, where any street or footway will be obstructed or rendered inconvenient by means of such work, shall, before beginning the same, and having first obtained a license in writing from the Justices so to do, cause sufficient hoards or fences to be put up, in order to separate the building, where such works are being carried on, from the street or footway, and shall continue such hoard or fence standing and in good condition, to the satisfaction of the Justices, during such time as the public safety or convenience requires, and shall cause the same to be sufficiently lighted during the night; and every such person who begins to build, or to take down, or alter, or repair, any building contrary to the provisions of this Section, or who, without license, erects or sets up any hoards, scaffolding, or fence whatsoever, or who, being licensed, fails to put up such fence or hoard, or to continue the same standing and in good condition as aforesaid during the time aforesaid, or who does not, while the said hoards or fences are standing, keep the same sufficiently lighted during the night, or who does not remove the same when directed by the Justices within eight days, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees, and a further penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for every day while the offence is continued, after twenty-four hours' notice from the said Justices.

Hoards to be set up during repairs.

CXCIII. The Justices shall, during the construction or repair by them of any of the streets, sewers, or drains vested in them, take proper precaution for guarding against accident, by shoring up and protecting the adjoining houses, and shall cause such bars, chains, or posts to be fixed across or in any of the streets, to prevent the passage of carriages, carts, or other vehicles, cattle or horses, while such works are carried on, as to them shall seem proper; and the Justices shall cause any sewer or drain or other works in streets, during the construction or repair thereof by them, to be sufficiently lighted and guarded during the night; and whoever takes down, alters, or removes, any of the said bars, chains, or posts, or extinguishes any light, without the authority or consent of the Justices, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Bars to be erected across streets during repairs, and lights placed at night.

CXCIV. No persons shall deposit any building materials, or make a hole in any street, without the permission of the Justices; and when such permission is granted to any person, he shall, at his own expense, cause such materials, or such hole, to be sufficiently fenced and enclosed until the materials are removed, or the hole is filled up or otherwise made secure; and shall cause the same to be sufficiently lighted during the night; and whoever deposits materials or makes a hole without such permission, or fails to fence or enclose and light such materials or hole, or does not remove such materials or fill up such hole when the permission has been withdrawn, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees, and a further penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for every day while the offence is continued, after twenty-four hours' notice from the Justices.

Penalty for not lighting deposits of building materials or excavations.

CXCV. If any building, tank, well, or hole, or other place, be, for want of sufficient repair, protection, or enclosure, dangerous to passengers, the Justices shall cause the same to be repaired, protected, or enclosed, so as to prevent danger therefrom; and the expenses of such repair, protection, or enclosure shall be paid to the Justices by the owner of the property so repaired, protected, or enclosed, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Dangerous places near streets to be repaired or enclosed.

CXCVI. No place shall be used as a slaughter-house within the Town, unless a license in writing for the use thereof as a slaughter-house has been obtained from the Justices, who are hereby empowered, at their discretion, from time to time, to grant such licenses; and whoever, without such license, uses as a slaughter-house any place within the Town, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees, and to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for every day after the conviction for such offence, during which the said offence is continued.

No place shall be used as a slaughter-house without a license from the Justices.

CXCVII. The Justices may, from time to time, if they shall think fit, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, provide places for the purpose of being used as slaughter-houses, and they may, in the manner hereinafter provided, make bye-laws for and with respect to the management, regulation, and charges for the use of such places.

Justices to provide places for slaughter-houses.

CXCVIII. Every owner or occupier or farmer of any market for the sale of butcher's meat, poultry, fish, or vegetables, or of any slaughter-house, within the Town, shall cause such drains to be made therein as shall be considered sufficient by the Justices, and (if required so to do by the Justices) shall cause all the floors and drains to be paved with stone or burnt brick, and shall also cause a supply of water to be provided sufficient for keeping such market or slaughter-house in a clean and wholesome state; and if such owner, occupier, or farmer, after notice in writing given to him by the Justices that such market or slaughter-house is defective in any of the said particulars, and requiring him to remedy the defect specified within not less than thirty days, makes default therein, he shall be liable to a penalty, not exceeding fifty Rupees, for every day during which such default is continued.

Markets, slaughter-houses, &c., to be properly drained.

CXCIX. The Justices may, in manner hereinafter provided, make bye-laws for the inspection of all such markets and of all slaughter-houses within the Town, and for the management and conduct of the business therein, and for keeping the same in a cleanly and proper state, and for removing filth at least once every twenty-four hours.

Justices may make bye-laws for the inspection of slaughter-houses.

CC. It shall be lawful for any Justice of the Peace, on the application of the Justices or any of their Officers, setting forth that there is just cause to believe that any article, which has been rendered or has become noxious or unfit for use as food or drink for man, is in the possession of any person for the purpose of being sold or offered or exposed for sale within the Town as food or drink for man, to grant a warrant to enter upon the premises of such person, and to search for and seize such article, and if it appear to the said Justice, upon the evidence of a competent person, that the same is noxious or unfit for such use, he shall order such article to be forfeited and disposed of in such way as to him shall seem proper.

Sale of unwholesome food or drink.

Power to Justices to enter and inspect slaughter-houses, shops, &c., and to seize unwholesome articles exposed for sale.

CCI. The Justices, or any person appointed by them for that purpose, may at all reasonable times, with or without assistants, enter into and inspect any market, building, shop, stall, or place used for the sale of butcher's meat, poultry, fish, or vegetables, or as a slaughter-house, and may examine any animal, carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, or vegetables which may be therein; and in case any animal, carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, or vegetables appear to be intended for the food of man and to be unfit for such food, may seize the same; and if it appear to a Justice of the Peace, upon the evidence of a competent person, that such animal, carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, or vegetables is unfit for the food of man, he shall order the same to be destroyed, or to be so disposed of as to prevent its being exposed for sale or used for such food, and the owner thereof, or the person in whose possession the same is found, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Suspension or revocation of license, &c.

CCII. The Justice of the Peace, before whom any person is convicted of an offence contrary to the provisions of this Act relating to slaughter-houses, or of the non-observance of any of the bye-laws relating thereto made by virtue of this Act, in addition to the penalty imposed on such person under the authority of this Act, may suspend, for any period not exceeding two months, the license granted to such person under this Act; and the said Justice, upon the conviction of any person for a second or other subsequent like offence, in addition to the penalty imposed under the authority of this Act, may declare the license granted under this Act revoked.

Penalty for using slaughter-houses during suspension or revocation of license.

CCIII. Whoever, during the period for which any such license is suspended, or after the same is revoked as aforesaid, slaughters cattle, or allows cattle to be slaughtered in the slaughter-house to which such license relates, shall be liable to a penalty, not exceeding one hundred Rupees, for every day, after the conviction for such offence, during which the said offence is continued.

Certain offensive and dangerous trades carried on within the Town, to be registered.

Penalty for establishing such trades without license.

CCV. No place shall be newly used within the Town for any of the purposes mentioned in the last preceding Section, except under a license from the Justices, who are hereby empowered, at their discretion, from time to time, to grant such licenses; and whoever, without a license, uses any such place for such purpose, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five hundred Rupees, and a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for every day after the conviction for such offence, during which the said offence is continued.

Justices to make rules for licensing, registering, &c., places used for such trades.

CCVI. The Justices may, in the manner hereinafter provided, make bye-laws for the inspection of every place within the Town used for any of the purposes mentioned in Section CCIV, and for the management and conduct of such business, whether the same be newly established or not, in such manner as they may think necessary and proper, in order to prevent or diminish the noxious or injurious or offensive effect thereof.

Justices may, in certain cases, order the use of slaughter-houses and the carrying on of dangerous and offensive trades, to be discontinued.

Burial and burning grounds to be registered.

CCVIII. The Justices may, if they think fit, cause a survey and measurement to be made of every burial ground and every place used as such; and every such place, and every burning ground, existing at the time this Act comes into operation, shall, within one month after this Act shall have come into operation, be registered by the owner or the person having the control thereof, or, if there be no owner or person authorised to control the same, by order of the Justices, in a book to be kept by them for that purpose; and whoever, after the expiration of the said time, knowingly buries or burns, or causes, procures, or suffers to be buried or burned, any corpse in or on any ground not so registered as a burial or burning ground, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

No vault or burial or burning place henceforth to be constructed without leave of the Justices.

CCIX. No vault or grave shall be made within the walls of, or underneath, any church or chapel or other place of public worship built after this Act comes into operation, and no burial or burning ground, whether public or private, shall be opened, made, or formed after this Act comes into operation, otherwise than by or under the authority of the Government of Bengal, without a license, describing the extent and boundaries thereof, first obtained from the Justices, who are hereby empowered, at their discretion, from time to time, to grant such licenses; and whoever shall bury or burn, or cause, permit, or suffer to be buried or burned, any corpse in any vault, grave, or burial or burning ground, opened, made, or formed without such license or contrary to the terms thereof, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five hundred Rupees.

Justices to issue certificates prohibiting the use of improper burial and burning places.

CCX. If, upon the evidence of competent persons, the Justices, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, shall certify, in manner hereinafter provided, that any burial ground or place of burial, or any place used for the burning of corpses, is in such a state as to be dangerous to the health of persons living in the neighbourhood thereof, or that any church or other place of public worship is dangerous to the health of persons frequenting the same, by reason of the state of the vaults or graves within the walls of, or underneath, the same, or in any church-yard or burial ground adjacent thereto, and shall also certify that a fitting place for interment or burning (as the case may be) exists within a convenient distance and is available, it shall not be lawful, after a time (not less than two months) to be named in such certificate, to bury or burn, or permit or suffer to be buried or burned, any corpses in, upon, within, or under the ground, church, or place of worship to which the certificate relates, except in so far as may be allowed by such certificate; and whoever, after due publication of such certificate as hereinafter provided, buries or burns, or causes, permits, or suffers to be buried or burned, any corpse contrary to this enactment, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees. Provided always that every such certificate shall be published in the Government Gazette, and that a translation thereof in Bengalee shall, in the case of a burial or burning ground, be affixed conspicuously on some part of the said ground.

Proviso.

Justices may, in certain cases, permit interment in churches, &c.

Justices may provide places to be used as burial or burning grounds.

CCXII. The Justices may, from time to time, out of the Municipal Fund, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, provide fitting places to be used as burial or burning grounds.

Justices to make bye-laws for regulation of burial and burning grounds.

CCXIII. The Justices may, in manner hereinafter provided, make bye-laws for the inspection and regulation of burial and burning grounds, and may thereby prescribe rules as to the depth of graves and places of interment, and generally as to all matters connected with the good order of burial and burning grounds, due regard being had to the religious usages of the several classes of the community.

Power to enter upon lands for the purposes of this Act.

CCXIV. The Justices shall, for the purposes of this Act, have power, by themselves or their Officers, between sunrise and sunset, to enter into and upon any building or land, as well for the purpose of making any survey or inspection which they may be entitled to make, as for the purpose of executing any work authorized by this Act to be executed by them, without being liable to any legal proceedings or molestation whatsoever on account of such entry or of any thing done in any part of such building or land in pursuance of this Act. Provided that, except when herein otherwise provided, the Justices or their Officers shall not enter upon any building or land which may be occupied at the time, unless with the consent of the occupier thereof, without previously giving the said occupier twenty-four hours' notice of his or their intention to do so.

Proviso.

Power to Justices to enter on lands adjacent to works.

CCXV. The Justices, or their Officers or servants, may enter upon the land of any person adjoining to, or being within the distance of one hundred yards of, any works by this Act authorized to be made, for the purpose of depositing upon such land, any soil, gravel, sand, lime, brick, stone, or other materials, or for any other purposes connected with the formation of the said works, without making any previous payment, tender, or deposit, doing as little damage as may be in the exercise of the several powers hereby granted to them, and making compensation for such temporary occupation or temporary damage of the said land to the owner and occupier thereof, from time to time, and as often as any such temporary occupation shall be taken or such temporary damage done, and making compensation to the owner also for the permanent injury (if any) to such land; and if any dispute shall arise touching the amount or apportionment of such compensation, the same shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses. Provided that, before the Justices make any such temporary use as aforesaid of the land adjoining or lying near to the said works, they shall give fourteen days' notice of such their intention to the owners and occupiers of such land, and shall set apart, by sufficient fences, so much of the land as shall be required to be used as aforesaid, from the other land adjoining thereto.

Proviso.

Penalty for obstructing persons employed by the Justices in their duty.

CCXVI. Whoever at any time obstructs or molests any person employed by the Justices, or any person with whom they may have contracted under the provisions of this Act, in the performance and execution of their or his duty, or of any thing which they are respectively empowered or required to do by virtue or in consequence of this Act; or removes any mark set up for the purpose of indicating any level or direction necessary to the execution of works authorized by this Act, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees, or, in the discretion of the Justice of the Peace before whom he is convicted, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding two months.

Powers to be exercised by the Justices, when constructing drains and aqueducts without the Town.

CCXVII. For the purposes of laying pipes or constructing aqueducts for bringing water into the Town from any place without the limits thereof, or for the purpose of making sewers or drains to communicate with, or empty themselves into, any public sewer, lake, stream, canal, or water-course without the said limits, it shall be lawful, whenever a plan for laying any such pipes or constructing any such aqueduct, sewer, or drain shall have been approved by the Government of Bengal, for the Justices and their Officers, with such assistants as they may require, to exercise, in the laying of such pipes and construction of such aqueduct, sewer, or drain, throughout the line of country through which the said pipes, aqueduct, sewer, or drain are to run, all the powers which by this Act it is lawful for them to exercise within the Town, and which may be necessary for the laying of such pipes or the construction of such aqueduct, sewer, or drain, without being subject to any action or molestation whatever for so doing; and it shall also be lawful for any Magistrate of any district, through which the said pipes, aqueduct, sewer, or drain are to run, to exercise, in respect thereof, the like powers and jurisdiction within the limits of his own district, as it is, by this Act, lawful for a Justice of the Peace to exercise in respect of any work to be executed by the Justices within the Town.

Justices empowered to make bye-laws.

CCXVIII. It shall be lawful for the Justices, from time to time, to make bye-laws, and to repeal, alter, and amend the same, subject to the confirmation hereinafter mentioned, for the several purposes for which bye-laws are authorised by this Act to be made; and also to make bye-laws, and to repeal, alter, and amend the same, subject to such confirmation, for the guidance and control of persons employed by them and for preserving order and cleanliness in the Town, and for carrying out any of the purposes of this Act. Provided that no such bye-law shall be repugnant to any law in force, and that no penalty for any one infringement of such bye-law shall exceed twenty Rupees, and that, in the case of a continuing infringement, no penalty shall exceed ten Rupees for each day after notice from the Justices of such infringement.

Bye-laws to be confirmed.

CCXIX. No bye-law, or alteration of a bye-law, shall have effect until the same is confirmed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

Notice of confirmation.

CCXX. No bye-law, or alteration of a bye-law, shall be confirmed until the same has been published in the Government Gazette in English and in Bengalee at least seven times, nor till the space of one month has elapsed since the date of the first publication, during which period a copy of such proposed bye-law shall be kept at the Office of the Justices; and all persons may, at any time between ten o'clock in the morning and five o'clock in the afternoon, inspect such copy without fee or reward.

Publication of bye-laws.

CCXXI. Such bye-laws, when confirmed, shall be published in the Government Gazette in English and in Bengalee, and a copy thereof, in English and in Bengalee, shall be painted or placed on boards, which shall be hung up in some conspicuous part of the Office of the Justices.

Bye-laws to be judicially noticed.

CCXXII. All Courts and Magistrates shall take judicial notice of such bye-laws, when the same shall have been confirmed and published as aforesaid.

Publication of penalties.

CCXXIII. The Justices shall publish short particulars of the several offences for which any penalty is imposed by this Act, or by any bye-law made under this Act, and of the amount of every such penalty, and shall cause such particulars, in English, Bengalee, and Oordoo, to be painted or placed on boards, which shall be hung up in some conspicuous part of the Office of the Justices.

Justices may direct prosecutions.

CCXXIV. The Justices may direct any prosecution for any public nuisance whatsoever, and may order proceedings to be taken for the recovery of any penalties and for the punishment of any persons offending against the provisions of this Act, and may order the expenses of such prosecution or other proceedings to be paid out of the Municipal Fund. But nothing in this Section shall be held to hinder any person from prosecuting any other person for any nuisance.

Act not to affect nuisances at common law.

CCXXV. Nothing in this Act shall be construed to render lawful any act or omission on the part of any person, which is, or but for this Act would be deemed to be, a nuisance at common law, nor to exempt any person, guilty of a nuisance at common law, from prosecution or action in respect thereof.

No action to be brought against Justices or their Officers until after one month's notice of cause of action.

CCXXVI. No action shall be brought against the Justices, or any of their Officers, or any person acting under the direction of the Justices, for any thing done or intended to be done under the powers of this Act, until the expiration of one month next after notice in writing shall have been delivered or left at the Office of the Justices, or at the place of abode of such person, explicitly stating the cause of action, and the name and place of abode of the intended plaintiff, and of his attorney or agent in the cause; and upon the trial of any such action the plaintiff shall not be permitted to go into evidence of any cause of action, except such as is stated in the notice so delivered; and unless such notice be proved, the Court shall find for the defendant; and every such action shall be commenced within three months next after the accrual of the cause of action, and not afterwards; and if any person to whom any such notice of action is given shall, before action brought, tender sufficient amends to the plaintiff, such plaintiff shall not recover in any such action when brought; and if no such tender shall have been made, it shall be lawful for the defendant in such action, by leave of the Court where such action shall be pending, at any time before issue joined, to pay into Court such sum of money as he shall think fit, and thereupon such proceedings shall be had as in other cases where defendants are allowed to pay money into Court.

Power to make compensation out of the Municipal Fund.

CCXXVII. The Justices may make compensation, out of the Municipal Fund, to all persons sustaining any damage by reason of the exercise of any of the powers vested in the Justices, their Officers, or servants, under and by virtue of this Act.

Fees for licenses.

CCXXVIII. When any license is granted under the provisions of Sections *CLXVIII or CXCVI of this Act, authorizing the use of any place for any of the purposes therein described, and when permission is given under Section CXXV for making any temporary erection, or under Section CXLI for putting up any projection, the Justices may charge a fee for such license or permission; and the rates of the fees to be so charged shall be from time to time adjusted by the Justices with the sanction of the Government, provided that no such fee shall exceed the sum of one hundred Rupees. When permission or license is given for the temporary occupation of any ground belonging to the Justices under the provisions of Section CXCII or Section CXCIV, the Justices may charge rent for such ground, according to the time the occupation may continue, at such rates as may, from time to time, be sanctioned by the Government of Bengal.

Damages and expenses how to be determined.

CCXXIX. In all cases where any damages, costs, or expenses are by this Act directed to be paid, the amount of the same, in case of dispute, shall be ascertained and determined by a Judge of the Calcutta Court of Small Causes.

Method of proceeding before a Judge of the Court of Small Causes.

CCXXX. In any case referred to a Judge of a Court of Small Causes under this Act, it shall be lawful for the said Judge, on the application of either party, to summon the other party to appear before him, at a time and place to be named in such summons, and every such summons shall be served by delivering the original, or a copy thereof, to the person summoned, or by leaving the same at his usual or last known place of abode, with some adult male member or servant of his family. Upon the appearance of the parties, or, in the absence of any of them, upon proof of due service of the summons, it shall be lawful for such Judge to hear and determine such question, and, for that purpose, to examine such parties or any of them, and their witnesses, on oath; and the costs of every such enquiry shall be in the discretion of such Judge, who shall determine the amount thereof.

Recovery of damages by distress.

CCXXXI. If the amount of damages, costs, or expenses, ascertained in the manner above described, be not paid by the party liable to pay the same within seven days after demand, such amount may be recovered, under a warrant of the said Judge, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of such party; and the overplus arising from the sale thereof, after satisfying such amount and the costs of the distress and sale, shall be returned on demand to the party whose goods shall have been distrained.

Justices may sue in any competent Court instead of realizing by, or on failure of, distress.

CCXXXII. Instead of proceeding by distress or sale, and in case of failure to realize by distress the whole or any part of any expenses, charges, or damages awarded under the provisions of this Act, the Justices may sue the person liable to pay the same, in any Court of competent jurisdiction.

Recovery of fines and penalties.

CCXXXIII. Clause 1.—Every prosecution under this Act may be instituted before any Justice of the Peace, except in cases otherwise provided for, and every fine or penalty imposed under or by virtue of this Act or any bye-law made in pursuance thereof, may be recovered by a summary proceeding before a Justice of the Peace, upon information exhibited by order of the Justices, and, in default of payment of such fine or penalty, the same may be levied, under the warrant of such Justice of the Peace, by distress and sale of the goods of such offender, with all such powers for the issuing of such warrant and upon the return thereof, as are exercised by a Magistrate of Police under Act XIII of 1856 (for regulating the Police of the Towns of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay) and Act XLVIII of 1860 (to amend Act XIII of 1856*)*, or any other Act for regulating the Police of the Town of Calcutta in force for the time being.

Proviso.

Clause 2.—Every prosecution under Clause 2 of Section XVII of this Act shall be instituted in such manner as a prosecution under Section CLXI of the Indian Penal Code would be instituted, and before such Magistrate or Court as shall have authority to entertain charges and prosecutions in reference to the said last mentioned Section, and not otherwise.

How fines and penalties are to be applied.

CCXXXIV. The Justice of the Peace by whom any fine or penalty is imposed by virtue of this Act, may award any portion, not being more than one-half thereof, to the informer, and shall order the remainder—or, if he makes no award to the informer, the whole of such fine or penalty,—to be paid to the Justices, to be by them applied to the purposes of this Act.

No person liable to fine or penalty unless complaint be made within two months after offence committed.

CCXXXV. No person shall be liable to any fine or penalty under this Act, for any offence made cognizable before a Justice of the Peace, unless the complaint respecting such offence shall have been made before a Justice of the Peace within two months next after the commission of such offence.

Damage to the Justices' property to be made good in addition to penalty.

CCXXXVI. If, through any act, neglect, or default, on account whereof any person shall have incurred any penalty imposed by this Act, any damage to the property of the Justices shall have been committed by such person, he shall be liable to make good such damage, as well as to pay such penalty; and the amount of such damage shall, in case of dispute, be determined by the Justice of the Peace by whom the party incurring such penalty shall have been convicted; and on non-payment of such damage on demand, the same shall be levied by distress, and such Justice of the Peace shall issue his warrant accordingly.

CCXXXVII. It shall be the duty of all Police Officers to give immediate information to the Justices, of any offence committed contrary to the provisions of this Act. Any Police Officer may arrest any person committing in his view any offence against any of the provisions of this Act, if the name and address of such person be unknown to him, or if such person decline to give his name and address, or if the Police Officer in question shall have reason to doubt the accuracy of such name and address, if given; and such person may be detained at the Station House until his name and address shall be correctly ascertained.

Police Officers to report offences to Justices and to arrest unknown offenders.

CCXXXVIII. If the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall have determined that any portion of the environs of the Town shall be included in the system of sewerage and drainage authorized by this Act, and if the said Lieutenant-Governor shall have declared the boundaries thereof by Notification in the Calcutta Gazette, then Sections CL to CLXVI, both inclusive, of this Act, shall have effect within the boundaries so declared; and all such expenses and compensation as, under the said Sections and by the provisions of this Act, may be determined by a Judge of the Calcutta Court of Small Causes, may be ascertained and determined by the Judge of the Court of Small Causes having jurisdiction within such boundaries; and all penalties payable under the said Sections and under the provisions of this Act, shall be enforced in the manner prescribed by Section LXI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, before the Magistrate having jurisdiction within such boundaries.

Certain provisions of this Act extended.

Recovery of expense on account of improvements to private property.

CCXL. This Act shall commence and take effect on and from the first day of July 1863.

Commencement of Act.

FORM OF DEBENTURE.

THE Justices of the Peace for the Town of Calcutta.

Calcutta, the 186 .

No.

By virtue of the Act No. VI of 1863 of the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal for making Laws and Regulations, we, the Justices of the Peace for the Town of Calcutta incorporated under the said Act, in consideration of the sum of Rupees paid to us by A. Fort William, the 17*th June* 1863.

Notifications.—In supersession of the Rules issued on the 17th February 1834, the following Rules are published for the information and guidance of Chaplains at Military Stations:—

I. When the Troops are marched to Church the Commanding Officer, in concurrence with the Chaplain, will fix the hour of Divine Service.

II. When a Chaplain proposes to quit his principal Station for the purpose of visiting any of his smaller Stations, or when he intends to apply for temporary leave of absence, he must give timely notice to the chief Military and Civil Resident Authorities, in order that if there be any cogent reasons against the absence of the Chaplain they may be submitted to the Government.

III. The Chaplain will visit the European Hospitals at least twice in every week, and oftener when his presence is called for.

IV. The religious instruction of children of the Church of England, and of all Protestant children where no other arrangement is made by Government, is specially entrusted to the Chaplain, who will carefully carry out Article 38 of the Army School Regulations, as those Regulations are applied to India in a Circular dated Darjeeling, August 27th, 1862, issued by the Bishop of Calcutta at the request of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief.

V. The Chaplain will enter carefully all the Baptisms, Marriages, and Burials of Soldiers and their children in the Register of the Station. He will also affix his signature to the entries of these religious ordinances (when performed by him) which are made in the Regimental Register Book.

NOTICE.

AN Extraordinary General Meeting of Shareholders will be held at noon on Tuesday, the 25th of August next, when the substitution of the following Clauses, in lieu of those bearing the like numbers in the present Articles of Association, will be proposed, viz.,— Clause 10. It shall be lawful for the Directors from time to time to borrow on loan for the purposes of the Company in such manner as they may think fit, provided that the aggregate amount so borrowed shall not at any one time exceed in amount one-fourth of the paid-up Capital.

Clause 24. The future management of the Company shall be by a Board of Directors composed of not more than seven nor less than five Directors, each of whom shall always be the registered proprietor of not less than twenty shares in the Company; and three Directors shall form a quorum, and all acts and proceedings of such quorum shall be considered to be the acts and proceedings of the Directors or Board of Directors, and shall be binding on the Company and on every individual Shareholder. In the event of an even number of Directors being present at any Board Meeting, and the votes on any question before such Meeting being equal, the Chairman shall be entitled to give a casting vote in addition to his own vote as a Director.

Clause 38. Not less than ten days' notice of every Half-yearly Ordinary General Meeting, and one calendar month's notice of every Extraordinary General Meeting, shall be given in one or more of the daily Calcutta Newspapers, and every notice for convening any Meeting of the Company shall be published on four several days at least in such papers.

Clause 39. Every Shareholder shall have one vote for every share up to ten. He shall have an additional vote for every two shares beyond the first ten shares up to one hundred, and an additional vote for every five shares held by him beyond the first hundred shares. In the event of an even number of Shareholders being present at any General Meeting, and the votes on any question before such Meeting being equal, the Chairman shall be entitled to give a casting vote in addition to his own vote as a Shareholder.

Clause 47. Twice in every year the Directors shall lay before the Company in General Meeting a Statement of the Income and Expenditure for the half-year made up to the 31st day of October and 30th day of April in each year, a Balance Sheet shewing the Assets and Liabilities, and a Statement of Profit and Loss.

Report on the Experimental Cotton Cultivation in British Burmah for 1862-63.

THE locality was the same this year as last near the Village of Nyoungneebin on the banks of the Boben Stream.

Four acres of ground were cleared of elephant grass in May 1862. The soil was twice dug and then thrown up into drills 6 inches high and 6 feet apart; 3½ acres were sown with seed of the New Orleans and Egyptian varieties (which, however, was most unfortunately mixed); and ½ an acre with Sea Island seed. The seed was all the produce of last year's cultivation. The sowings took place as follows.—

1½ acres of New Orleans and Egyptian mixed on 21st June.

½ acre of Sea Island, 21st June.

1 acre of New Orleans and Egyptian mixed on 11th July.

1 acre of New Orleans and Egyptian mixed on 24th July.

The Sea Island failed entirely, and in no instance has it succeeded here.

The pods of the other kinds ripened in October, and as the rains had not ceased every care was taken to pick the Cotton immediately the pods burst so as to keep it from damp. An European Overseer was sent to live on the spot at this time to superintend the picking, which continued up to the end of November. The first crop from the 3½ acres sown with Egyptian and New Orleans seed yielded 675 lbs. of Cotton with seed; a small second crop was picked in March 1863, when 150 lbs. more were collected, making a total of 825 lbs. for the year.

After ginning 204 lbs. of cleaned Cotton were obtained, thus the proportion of seed to Cotton is about 2 lbs. of the former to one of the latter.

It was found that the seed first sown in June did not produce as much as that sown in July. This may be accounted for in several ways, partly because it began to ripen too early when the rains were still heavy, partly because the ground was not so well prepared, and partly because the second sowing was superintended by an Overseer who knew something of the Cotton plant and its treatment from a residence in the Southern States of America. Incessant rain had prevented his superintending the first preparation of the ground and sowing.

The Cotton is considered better this season than it was last year; this may probably be owing to the European superintendence it received.

The cleaning of the Cotton, except 40 lbs. of it, was done by means of a Cotton gin supplied from Calcutta, which was found to work very well.

The cost of the experiment this year has been (exclusive of the Overseer's pay, as he was only casually taken off his other duties when required for the Cotton garden) Rupees 535-8

The experiment has thus far proved that Cotton will grow, but it is still very incomplete, as failures arise from accident, such as bad seed and want of proper superintendence, if the localities chosen for the seat of the experiment are distant and difficult of access.

It is proposed next year to try experiments to test whether it can be grown for profit, and whether later sowing, so as to insure the heavy rains being ended before the picking begins, will not give more fruitful results. The former locality near Nyoungneebin, which is seven miles distant from Myodwin, will not be chosen again, as it is too far off and difficult of access. Some seed has been given to an Overseer who works in the Forests, and who is anxious to try an experiment of his own on a larger scale, to see whether the plant will thrive with a minimum amount of labor spent upon it and thus be made remunerative.

Fresh seed has been written for from Calcutta, as our seed, though plentiful and good, is all mixed as above stated, and thus the produce will not receive that attention from examiners of it as it would have received had the varieties been kept distinct.

Tea Gardens in Upper Assam.

From Major W. Agnew, Officiating Commissioner of Assam, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 12, dated the 2nd April 1863.)

Sir,—At the request of Mr. J. W. Masters late Extra Assistant Commissioner at Golaghat, I have the honor to submit, herewith, copy of a Journal kept by him during a tour he made towards the end of last year through the principal Tea Gardens in Upper Assam, which he begs to be allowed to present to Government, together with dried specimens of the different varieties of the Tea plant he met with, and of the soil it thrives in.

If His Honor approves of the suggestion Mr. Masters thinks the Journal might be sent to the Horticulture Society of India in view to such portions of it as the Committee of Papers consider interesting being published in the Society's transactions, and that the specimens* of plants and soils might be deposited in the Society's Museum for the benefit of those interested in the growth of Tea.

* Forwarded per Steamer Agra.

In addressing Government on this subject I beg to take the liberty of bringing Mr. Masters' services to the very favorable notice of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor. At a time of life when little energy remains to most men, indeed, that is, even attained by but few in this country, and under circumstances when, ordinarily speaking, the desire to please Government or to attract their favorable notice ceases, Mr. Masters having taken his pension, he undertook a most laborious journey at the worst season of the year, purely in the interest of science, and to enable him to collect information for the use of Government. I venture to hope, therefore, that his exertions may be acknowledged, and that a sum say of Rupees 500 may be presented to him as travelling allowance during his journey.

I know no one in Assam better deserving the favor of Government than this gentleman, for he was in a position where he might, by simply disregarding their orders as so many others did, have made a vast fortune; but he leaves the Province little richer than when he entered it, living, as he did, content with his bare salary, having resisted temptations few men could have withstood, the richest lands in Assam being within his reach, and men everywhere around him creating for themselves, at little or no cost, estates of the greatest value.

I need hardly say that Mr. Masters has neither directly or indirectly hinted that he expects any remuneration for his labors, and I believe that the hearty thanks of Government would be as high a reward as he looks for; but his journey must have put him to considerable expense, and Government probably would wish that re-paid.

JOURNAL of a TOUR through some of the TEA GARDENS of ASSAM

by J. W. MASTERS.

1862, September.—Golaghat.

20*th, Saturday, sunrise.*—Rain.

Received the following letter, dated the 12th instant, from Major J. C. Haughton, Officiating Commissioner of Assam:—

"Sir,—I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter No. 2 of the 8th instant. I shall have much pleasure in affording you all the assistance in my power in the prosecution of the enquiry you are about to undertake, and shall thankfully receive any communications you may favor me with. These may be sent either franked or bearing postage. I forward herewith copy of a Circular this day addressed to the Deputy Commissioners in Assam and the Cossyah Hills, which will, I trust, ensure the facilities you desire. In conclusion I have only to observe that no permission from me is required to enable you to visit all parts of the Province, though, with reference to private properties, it will be necessary for you to obtain permission of the owners to view them.

I have, &c.,

(Sd.) J. C. Haughton, Offg. Commissioner."

Addressed the following Circular No. 1 to Tea Planters and Superintendents of Tea Companies:—

My Dear Sir,—Having resigned the service of Government I am anxious, before leaving the Province of Assam, to visit the Tea localities for the purpose of collecting all the information I can regarding the Tea plant. I wish to consult all the Meteorological Registers that have been kept in the Province during the last twenty years; to ascertain what effect cultivation has had upon the Tea plant; to determine which are the best varieties to cultivate for the manufacture of Tea; the kind of soil which best suits the Tea plant generally; the peculiar kind of soil which is best adapted to any particular variety of the Tea plant; the best method of cultivating the plant; and the most approved practice of manipulating the leaves. With this view I solicit the favor of your granting me permission to visit all the Gardens under your control.

I beg leave to assure you that I am not going into the Tea Factories as a spy. I am in no manner whatever connected with any Tea Planter or Tea Company, and care not who are the proprietors, nor what are the profits.

I am, My Dear Sir,
Sincerely Yours,

(Sd.) W. Masters.

Thunder and heavy rain in the night.

22*nd, Monday, sunrise.*—Cloudy, 79°.

Examined sundry Tea soils; arranged and put by recent and fossil shells for Professor Oldham.

23*rd, Tuesday, sunrise.*—Overcast, temperature 80°.

Visited the Golaghat Tea Garden (J. M. Paul's), situated on the right bank of the Dhunsiri River, twenty-three miles from the Brahmapooter, 710 miles from Calcutta. This Garden was commenced in 1860, contains 250 acres, and ground to the extent of about 150 acres is now under Tea; the plants for the most part look remarkably well, and appear to like the soil. Some were sown at once in rows, where they now remain, but many were transplanted, the ground having been previously well dug; they are all single plants. "The large leaved China" and the dark lanceolate leaved Assam are the most thriving plants,—see specimens No. 1—a, b, c, d. The soil is a somewhat friable, yellowish or reddish clay, containing 77 per cent of very fine sand of almost impalpable powder, and 19 per cent of Alumina; near the surface vegetable moulds predominates, lower down Oxide of Iron; specific gravity 2·038. This grant was chiefly forest land, and the leading indigenous trees were Gordonia integrifolia, Artocarpus chaplasha, Gmelina arborea, Lagerstræmia reginæ, Cedrela species, Castanea species, and Garcinia pidmeculata. Among the Tea plants come up Torenia pians, Commelina nudiflora, with several species of Panicum.

24*th, Wednesday, sunrise.*—Thick fog, temperature 80°.

Visited Bengena Khua Garden (George Williamson, Senior), commenced in 1857, situated on the right bank of the Dhunsiri, two miles south of Golaghat; area 400 acres, about 180 acres are now under Tea. The sub-soil is a stiffish, yellowish clay, containing 84 per cent of very fine sand in a state of impalpable powder, with 12 per cent of Alumina; specific gravity 1·96—2. The surface soil is lighter, more friable, contains much vegetable matter, such as decayed roots, rotten wood, and leaf mould. Now nearly all the large trees are removed; the ground will be greatly improved by deep hoeing. The site of this Garden was, for the most part, covered with dense forest, which was, in the first instance, partially cleared away, the scrub jungle, creepers, and leafy trees removed, the ground hard, seed sown, and when the plants appear to be established the remaining trees were removed by degrees; comparatively few large trees are now standing, and the most thriving, the most healthy looking plants are fully exposed to the influence of the sun. "The large leaved China" plant and the "dark Assam" appear to thrive in this soil. The specimen No. $\frac{1}{A}$ appears to be the best variety of the Assam plant in this Garden; it was taken from a handsome bush four feet high, three feet in diameter; the leaves have been regularly picked for manufacture during the last three years: young shoots colored, leaves dark, smooth, of uniform texture, ovate, lanceolate, or oblong lanceolate, serrate, emarginate, sprinkled distinctly with pellucid dots of unequal size. The Tea leaf is not originally emarginate: when it first expands it has a sharp point, like the serratures, which soon falls off, and then the leaf becomes emarginate. The China plant No. $\frac{1}{A}$ thrives equally well in this soil; it has a smaller leaf, dark colored, of uniform texture, and copiously sprinkled with pellucid dots: the thin, pale, waved Assam plant does not thrive in this soil. The leading indigenous trees here are Gordonia integrifolia, Castanea species, Artocarpus chaplasha, with Melastoma malabathricum, Osbeckia angustifolia, Osbeckia Wightiana, Exacum tetragona, Torenia pians, Imperata cylindrica, Tapalum, Poa, and of Panicum several species.

25*th, Thursday, sunrise.*—Foggy, misty, temperature 78°.

Visited Ooting Garden (Jorehaut Tea Company), situated six miles south of Golaghat, on the right bank of the Dyung River, which runs into the Dhunsiri, four miles above Golaghat. This Garden was commenced by G. Williamson, Senior, in 1857, and contains 400 acres, of which 130 acres are now under Tea: soil, a reddish yellowish clay below, containing 78 per cent of fine sand and 18 per cent of Alumina; specific gravity 2·1; the surface is light and friable. In this the Tea plant thrives: the indigenous plants the same as at Bengena Khua, with the addition of Aquilaria agallocha, Mesua ferrua, Torenia racemosa, Triumfetta, Desmodium, Alysicarpus, Hymenthastachys, and Aeopicurus.

This kind of analysis is not very satisfactory. J. W. M.

In January and February 1860 about ten acres of grass land was cleared, the ground trenched, the turf turned downwards. In March and April of the same year Tea seed was brought from Numalighur and sown in rows six feet apart, and two feet distant from each other in the rows; almost every seed vegetated: subsequently every other plant was taken up and transplanted elsewhere. The Tea plants in this grass land, this Oolloni, Baroltoni, are now standing six feet by four, have never had the least shade; the leaves have been plucked for the manufacture of Tea the last two seasons, and the plants are now looking remarkably well: in a few instances two seeds were put into one hole; these have not succeeded so well as the single plants; these bushes are composed of two halves of distinct plants, and sometimes they are of different varieties. Sunset, showery, 78°.

26*th, Friday, sunrise.*—Overcast, 74°.

About four miles east of Ooting there is another Tea Garden, situated on the right bank of the Ghillaidharry River, containing 244 acres, commenced four years ago by G. Williamson, Senior. I visited the locality in March last, when the young plants were looking healthy and strong, and appeared to like the soil: being called away suddenly in the night, I was unable to make any minute investigation: a space of ground to the extent of 200 acres is now under Tea. Noon, fair, 76°.

About four miles east of the Ghillaidharry Garden is Nungletope (belonging to Robert Spears). This Garden is situated on the right bank of the Kakadanga River, and near to the foot of the Hills. I visited Nungletope on the 13th February last, when I noted that "the Tea tree appears to thrive in this soil, and the plants are in a very healthy state; the ground clear and in good order; the oldest plants are two years of age. The seed was sown six feet by three feet: eighty acres are now under Tea, and 100 acres in course of being cleared and sown: brought away specimens of the Tea plant, embracing eight varieties, differing from each other in the size, shape, and texture of the leaves, and the number, arrangement, and conspicuity of the pellucid dots."

Sunset.—Fair, 75°.

27*th, Saturday, sunrise.*—Cloudy, 74°.

The soil of the grass lands in the vicinity of Golaghat is a stiffish, yellowish clay, containing very little, if any, vegetable matter, besides the roots of existing grasses. The Silex, Alumina, and Oxide of Iron are in a state of impalpable powder, and so intimately commixed as to be inseparable from each other by simple washing in water. The individual particles are singly invisible to the naked eye, and scarcely appreciable to the touch. The sub-soil in Gardens and Forests is of a similar description, and is capable of holding 20 per cent of moisture without appearing to be wet. Of two specimens examined to-day 400 grains taken three inches below the surface, and exposed to the sun for two hours, lost seventy-eight grains: another specimen, under similar circumstances, lost fifty grains: lower down the Oxide of Iron increases, and at the depth of fifteen or twenty feet the ore or iron sand is separable by simple washing. Twenty years ago this ore was smelted for pig iron, but now very little attention is paid to it: below this we have a dark colored potter's clay, overlying white potter's clay, passing into ——— which at some points is composed of equal quantities of Silex and Alumina: these strata are continually changing, undulating, rising to within a few feet of the surface, then dropping down ten, fifteen, twenty, and even twenty-four feet below, with occasional stripes of pure sand varying from half an inch to three feet in thickness. Four hundred grains of the partially dried soil yielded fine sand 310 grains, Alumina 75 grains = sand 77·5, Alumina 1875 per cent; specific gravity 2. The leading tree is Gordonia integrifolia Roxb., Nagabhet belonging to the same natural family as the Tea plant: the leading shrub, Melastomæ malabathricum, Poot Koola of the Natives: the leading flower Exacum tetragonum: the leading grass, Imperata cylindrica, Oolloo, with another large course grass called Barota: the leading fern Hymenthostachys dulies. All these, like the Tea, flourish here in full sun-light. The Melastomæ appear to be particularly at home; M. malabathricum, or one much like it, spouts considerably, bearing on the self same plant flowers with 5, 6, or 7 lobes to the calix: 5, 6, or 7 petals: 10, 12, or 14 tamens: and 5, 6, or 7 cells to the aviarism. With these, Osbeckia Wightiana and Angustifolia, where they can find room, the following genera are also common, Musænda, Hedyotis, Randia, Styrax, Tabernæmontana, Panicum, Paspalum, Poa, Hypericum, Torenia, Vandillia Gratiola, Hypoxis, and Burmannia.

4 P. M.—Cloudy, 83°.

28th, Sunday, sunrise.—Overcast, 78°.

29th, Monday, sunrise.—Fair air.

Visited Sokyting Tea Garden (G. Williamson, Senior), situated on the left bank of the Kakadanga, half a mile north of the Dhodur Allee, containing 218 acres; about 100 acres are now under Tea; taken up in 1861; originally dense forest; the soil reddish and friable; the component parts in a state of impalpable powder; at the surface a considerable proportion of vegetable matter; in this soil the Tea plant grows luxuriantly. The low brushwood, creepers, and leafy trees were first removed, the ground well dug, and the seed sown in rows four feet distant from each other; nearly all vegetated, and have produced regular, handsome, bushy plants, all of the best kinds: collected specimens of the different varieties, No. 5: the indigenous plants found growing in this locality were trees Gordonia, Castenea, Aquilaria, Lawras Goondsoroi, Artocarpus, Bignonia, Paroli, Cordia, Jambosa, Mesua, Michelia, and Lagerstræmia; Shrubs, Melastomæ, Osbeckia, Clerodendrum, and Urtica, Surat; now come up, Banspattia bon Torenia pians, Urena, Hedyotis, Spermacon Imperata, Panicum, and Lygodium; ground undulating.

About two or three miles east of Sokyting is situated Duphlating Tea Garden, belonging to the East India Tea Company, on the right bank of the Kakadanga, the Dhodur Allee running through the Garden; the soil similar to that of Sokyting; the ground of a similar undulating character, and was prepared in a similar manner. I visited Duphlating in the month of February last, when I made the following notes:—"About sixty acres now under Tea, and 130 acres in course of preparation: the one year old plants are looking generally well: collected specimens of five varieties, one real Assam plant, with leaves very minutely, very conspicuously dotted, and measuring ten inches in length and three and three-fourth inches in breadth: the workmen were employed in examining the seed which had been buried in the earth, nearly one-third of which have vegetated, and have radicals one to three inches in length: the shells of about the same proportion have cracked, and the seeds appear good: fully one-third are rotten and useless: they appear to have been gathered before they were ripe."

30th, Tuesday, sunrise.—Foggy, 78°.

Went over the remaining portion of dried specimens in my sixth collection of Assam plants, and tied them up in separate bundles, arranged in their natural families. The bulk of this sixth collection was forwarded to Government on the 18th of May 1860; the remainder includes specimens of plants belonging to 100 natural families, are tied up in 104 separate bundles, viz.,—

In addition to the above thirty bundles of Miscellaneæ and Duplicates, chiefly from the banks of the Nambur.

October 1st, Wednesday, sunrise.—Overcast, 77½°. At 7½ fair.

At the distance of four miles south-east of Golaghat a grant of land has been taken up by Tara Thakor (now joined by Ramlal Ooswal and other Kyah Merchants) for the purpose of Tea cultivation; the ground is undulating; the soil similar in character to the soil in this vicinity. The Akur Allee runs through the Garden. I visited the locality in March last, when the plants were looking healthy and flourishing. Yesterday the Thakor brought me a sample of Tea manufactured this season, and which appears to be of a very fair quality. The Thakor informs me that his grant of land is 400 acres in extent, with 100 acres now under Tea.

4 P. M.—Fair, temperature in perfect shade, 87°.

2nd, Thursday, sunrise.—Fair, scattered annuli, temperature 80°.

Looked over and arranged for despatch Geological specimens put in forty-six separate wrappers, viz.:—

No. 1.—The last deposit of the season thrown down by the Dhunsiri in October 1859.

No. 2.—Upper stratum of a section of the right bank of the Dhunsiri at Golaghat, containing iron ore: thickness continually varying.

3.—Stratum underlying No. 2, four feet thick.

4.—Stratum underlying No. 3, four feet thick.

5.—Strata like underlying No. 4, one foot thick.

6.—Bluish clay underlying No. 5, two and a half feet thick.

7.—Potter's clay underlying No. 6, eight feet thick. Below this the clay becomes nearly white. At this point in the bank the strata lie nearly horizontal, the lower stratum only differing slightly down the river. Within the last fifteen years a mass, containing not less than 80,000 cubic yards, has been carried away by the current, affecting about two furlongs in length. On the 3rd May 1855 I found a stratum of pure sand three inches thick, but that is not now visible.

8.—Sand from the hot spring in the Nambur, temperature 112° F.

9.—Upper stratum, left bank of the Dhunsiri at Bor Pathur, eight feet thick.

10.—Something like shale mixed with sand underlying No. 9, two feet thick.

11.—Potter's clay underlying No. 10, two feet thick.

12.—Sand twelve feet thick; the lower strata dip slightly down the river to the north. Within the last fifteen years more than 12,000 cubic yards in mass has been carried away from about half a furlong of the river bank.

13.—Streaks of red and white sand from the left bank near the Guard House, Bor Pathur, six feet thick.

14.—White sand underlying No. 13, six feet thick.

The specimens above enumerated give a general idea of the sub-soil, the foundation of the Tea Gardens in this vicinity.

15.—Fragments of fossil shells from the bed of the Nambur just below the first falls.

16.—Fragments of vegetable and other fossil remains found embedded in the right bank of the Heeriajan, left bank of the Dhunsiri.

17.—A silicified bi-valve shell (Pinna?) found embedded in the right bank of the Heeriajan, cased by No. 16.

18.—Fragments of silicified bi-valve shell found embedded in the right bank of the Heeriajan, and cased by No. 16.

19.—Fragments of silicified orbicular shells found embedded in the right bank of the Heeriajan, and cased by No. 16.

20.—An elliptic silicified shell found embedded in the right bank of the Heeriajan.

21.—Sundries from the bed of the Heeriajan.

22.—Shell marble from the bed of the Nambur.

23.—Soft imperfectly formed shell marble from the bed of the Nambur.

24.—Still softer than No. 23. Fragments of shells and earth from the bed of the Nambur.

25.—Impure limestone in strata, one foot thick, right bank of the Nambur.

26.—Limestone boulders from Soorpoora or "Suddya Lime."

27.—Granite? Gneiss? forming the falls of the Jumoona.

28.—Gneiss forming the falls of the Nambur.

29.—Gneiss from the Mikir Hills.

30.—Granite from the Mikir Hills.

31.—Granite from the Hulwah Tea Plantations.

32.—Granite from the Mikir Hills, Deo Purbut, Jorehaut Company's Tea Plantations.

33.—Granite from the Mikir Hills, Dering Purbut, Kazarunga Tea Plantations.

34.—Granite from the Mikir Hills, Boggori Purbut, near Hatukola Tea Plantations.

35.—Micacious Granite from the Mikir Hills.

36.—Pumice like rock from the right bank of the Diphloo, Banda Purbut Tea Plantations.

37.—Quartz from the right bank of the Diphloo Tea Plantations.

38.—Old red sandstone, Tarajan and Noriajan.

39.—Conglomerate from the Heeriajan.

40.—Indurated clay from the Jumoona falls.

41.—Fossil wood, petrified wood, from the Hill at the mouth of the Nambur, right bank.

42.—Sundry scoriae from the left bank of the Dhunsiri, mouth of the Rangajan.

43.—Red sand from the Jumoona, near the mouth of the Diphloo.

44.—Kaolin from the Nambur falls.

45.—Sundry petrifactions from Heeriajan.

46.—Recent and fossil shells for Professor Oldham.

2 P. M.—Fair, temperature, imperfect shade, 88°.

4½ P. M.—Fair, in air perfect shade, 90°.

In the full sun on the grass, 116°.

Ditto on a hard road 118°.

4th, Saturday, sunrise.—Fair, clear, 82°.

11½ A. M.—Left Golaghat by boat proceeding up the Dhunsiri. At 3 P. M. temperature at the air, 96°.

Passed the mouth of Tarajan; alluvium on both sides of the river; a yellowish, stiffish soil at the top, 8 to 10 feet thick; vegetation grass: Imperata, Barotata. 3¼ P. M., shock of an earthquake from west to east. Sunset fair, distant clouds, air 90°. A severe shock of an earthquake has passed off, a violent thunder storm, I expect, is coming on, and the Thermometer, with a breeze from the south-west blowing on it, stands at 90°.

A most violent thunder storm; a squall, with heavy rain in the early part of the night, and again rain just before daybreak.

5th, Sunday, sunrise.—Cloudy, squally air, 76°.

About 7 A. M. passed the mouth of the Dyung River; current of the Dhunsiri very fierce; at sunset passed Mr. Spear's Tea Gardens, and reached the hot spring at about 8 P. M.; the ground all round about covered with grass, mud, low shrubs, succulent herbaceous plants, and swarming with leeches: the air thronged with musquitoes. Calling out to the Khansama to bring the dinner he replies "Kene Kurim! Joot naikia." No one has taken the precaution to bring a flint and steel, and everything is so exceedingly damp here that we have all failed in endeavoring to procure fire by friction.

6th, Monday, sunrise.—Cloudy, temperature of the air 80°.

Water of the hot spring 112°.

Visited Mr. Spear's Tea Garden, situated on the left bank of the Dhunsiri, eight miles from Golaghat. The original grant 1,000 acres, forty acres now under Tea. A reddish sandy, friable soil; specific gravity 2·42. During two hours' exposure to the full sun 400 grains lost 60 grains = 15 per cent. After simple washing in water 400 grains yielded 350 grains of fine sand, and forty-six grains of Alumina = Silex 87·5 per cent, Alumina 11·5 per cent: this includes the Oxide of Iron; the Lime, if any, is very trifling. The leading indigenous plants are Mesua furrua, Aquilaria agallocha, Artocarpus chaplasha, Bignonia chelonoides, Cedrela toona, Dillenia Speciosa, Dipterocarpus laevis, Lagerstræmia reginæ, Laurus porrecta, Mangifera sylvatica, Nauclea cadamba, Parkia Roxburghia, Pierardia sapida, Terminalia paniculota, Clerodondrum nutans, Eranthemun pulchellum, Melica two species, and several species of ferns. Collected specimens of the most healthy looking plants, four varieties: returned to the hot spring and removed camp to the Balcepoong, a hot spring in a sandbank on the left bank of the Dhunsiri above the mouth of the Nambur, procured a few shells. Sunrise, overcast, air, 82°.

Water of the Dhunsiri 84°.

Water of the Sand Spring 94°.

7th, Tuesday, sunrise.—Showery, air, 78°.

Water of the Dhunsiri 84°.

Water of the Sand Spring 94°.

Procured a small bit of good coal from this sandbank, which has probably come down from above Bor Pathur; collected also a few more minute shells.

Sunset.—Fair, beautifully clear, air, 86°.

Water of the Dhunsiri 86°.

Water of the Sand Spring 96°.

In the dry season the temperature of this Spring is 112°.

8th, Wednesday, sunrise.—Overcast, air, 80°.

Water of the Dhunsiri 84°.

Water of Sand Spring 88°.

Dropped down the river towards Golaghat: in passing Mr. Spear's Tea Garden observed the very peculiar nature of the boundary line to the eastward owing to the circuitous course of the Dhunsiri. In the Orders issued by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, on the 30th of August last, regarding the sale of unassessed Waste Lands, it is enjoined (Rule 3) that "when the land touches a public road or a navigable river the length of the road or river frontage shall not exceed one-half the depth of the Lot." How can the Rule be advantageously or legally applied in this case? The original grant, which was taken up under the Rules issued in 1854, contains 1,000 acres, more or less, bounded to the eastward by the Dhunsiri River generally; the other three boundaries are straight lines having determined bearings. The public road leading from Golaghat to Bor Pathur runs right through the grant, a distance of about two miles: this gives four miles of road frontage, the serpentine river gives five miles: (2 × 2 = 4) + 5 = 9 miles of road and river frontage; the depth on the south western boundary touching the Government Reserve Forest, being (five and a half furlongs) or one thirteenth of the frontage; the frontage here is thirteen times the depth; if we reduce the length of the road to one mile, and take one mile of depth, the frontage will then be more than four times the depth: even were the length of road reduced to half a mile, and the depth increased to two miles, still the length of road and river frontage would exceed the depth. I have estimated the river frontage to be five miles, but fifty years hence it will certainly exceed six miles, unless the river cuts out a new channel forming an island, when the mouth of the old channel will soon become silted up and a new lake be formed, which, together with the new formed island, will be transferred to another District. This may be an extreme case, but similar cases must be very common wherever the land touches any of the smaller rivers of Assam. Nazerah, the principal Station of the Assam Company, is a case in point where the length of road and river frontage is more than four times the depth, and the boundary lines cannot possibly be altered without reducing the area.

Sunset.—Fair, Golaghat, air, 88°.

9th, Thursday, sunrise.—Horizontal clouds, air, 80°.

The Dhunsiri rises in the Angami Naga Hills, one hundred miles above Golaghat, amongst indigenous Tea, receiving in its serpentine course on the left the waters of several tributary streams from the Toka Phing, Rangma Naga, and Mikir Hills, on the right, the waters of the Dyung, which, rising in the Lotah Naga Hills, flows into the Dhunsiri five miles above Golaghat. These two rivers are continually burying heaps of drift wood and fallen timber trees in their newly formed sand banks, and continually cutting away their banks on both sides, exposing and tumbling down immense logs of lignite, relics of former forests, for the use of the brazier and the smith. The Dhunsiri is navigable for large boats from June to September, and for small boats all the year round. Above the junction of the two rivers the channel is much obstructed by snags, which increase in number as we near the Hills. No Steamer has hitherto attempted to stem the Dhunsiri.

During the past fortnight the weather has been very oppressive, very unhealthy, and I find that I went out too soon; in fact, I got a tremendous sunning on the 9th instant, from the ill effects of which I have not yet recovered. About fifty miles above Golaghat the Dibboo Panee flows into the Dhunsiri from the Angami Hills on the right, having washed the base of Rajapamah and Sumooguding, the site of indigenous Tea plants. Ten miles lower down the Heeriajan flows in from the Tokaphung Naga Hills on the left. The banks of this stream are composed of foliated sandstone, and contain numerous castes of Reptiliæ: twelve miles lower down, and eight miles above Bor Pathur the Deopanee enters the Dhunsiri from the Mikir Hills on the left: six miles below Bor Pathur, and ten miles above Golaghat, the Nambur also flows in from the left bank, having risen in the Rangma Naga Hills, flowed over three ridges of gneiss, forming three separate falls, wound its way through a line of hot springs, and laid bare the coal measures and the shell marble in its bed. Ten miles below Golaghat the Dooigurrung flows into the Dhunsiri; this stream rises in the Rangma Naga Hills also. Soon after leaving which it flows over two ridges of gneiss, and between these two ridges is situated a bed of coal: seventeen miles below Golaghat the Kolianee enters the Dhunsiri on the left, flowing from the Rangma Naga and Mikir Hills. The distances given above are the estimated distance from one point to another by land; the distance by the river is continually changing, generally increasing; from admeasurements and calculations carefully made is, I am induced to think, that by the Dhunsiri the distance from the post of Dhemapore is now two and a half miles greater than it was in 1845.

Despatched Geological and Botanical specimens, —see 30th September and 2nd October.

Addressed the following letter, No. 3, to Major J. C Haughton, Revenue Commissioner of Assam :—

SIR,—I HAVE the honor to advise the despatch per Golab Chand Kyah's Boat, Mussola Manjee, twelve packages to your address, viz.,—

Nos. 1 to 3, Geological specimens; in No. 3 is a tin case containing shells addressed to Professor Oldham.

Nos. 4 to 12 contain Botanical specimens, being the remaining portion of my sixth, collection of Assam plants, the bulk of which was forwarded to your Office on the 18th May 1860, and which is, I believe, together with my third collection, still at the Botanic Garden, Calcutta: if possible, it is my wish that a complete series of the dried specimens may be presented to the Agricultural and Horticultural Society of India.

I have, &c.,

I have been confined at home since the 9th ultimo on account of the unreasonable, unhealthy state of the weather, but now start for Nuzerah by boat. The Dhunsiri still unusually high; in fact, as high as it generally is in the month of July. No sandbanks exposed in this neighbourhood. Passed Rungajan Tea Plantations (H. S. Partridge), taken up in 1859, area 293 acres, about 110 acres under Tea. I visited this Garden on the 14th March last and collected specimens of the plants some of which appear to be of a superior variety. This Garden is situated on the left bank of a small stream four miles below Golaghat, and nearly a mile from the left bank of the Dhunsiri. Stopped my boat at the mouth of the Gurrungajan with intention of visiting Sheik Ameer's Tea Garden, on the right bank of the Dhunsiri, six miles below Golaghat; but I found the sandbank between the Garden and the river a complete quagmire. I had ordered my Elephants down by land, but the Mahout did not succeed in getting the Elephant across, so I returned to my boat. This small Garden was commenced in April 1861, and when I visited it at the commencement of the present year the plants were looking healthy. Sunset, fair, 82°.

2*nd, Sunday, sunrise.*—Fair, 67°.

Noon, Khoontai; the river still continues to cut away the right bank at a most tremendous rate, the water of the river also is still high; many places which I have never seen flooded have been completely under water within the last ten days. Looked in at the Littikoojan Plantations, on the left bank of the Dhunsiri, between the Doorgurrung and Kolianee Rivers (C. W. Stewart). This grant of 250 acres was taken up in 1859-60, about fifty acres now under Tea: brought away specimens of the plants, also of the soil, of which there is from 10 to 15 feet with occasional thin stripes of pure sand: underneath potter's clay: in the forest land there is 2 to 3 inches of vegetable soil, in the grass land none. Some of the plants are looking very healthy, but the large forest trees are not yet all removed, consequently the Tea plants have too much shade. The seed was sown in rows six feet by three feet. Sunset, fair, 82°.

3*rd, Monday, sunrise.*—68°.

Visited Numalighur and collected specimens of the soil from land which was formerly occupied by Ooloo, Imperata cylindrica, but the Tea plants now growing in it are looking remarkably healthy. This grant of land was taken up in 1851, and contains 1,020 acres, and belongs to the Jorehaut Company; about 250 acres now under Tea. Numalighur is situated on the left bank of the Dhunsiri, twenty miles from Golaghat. I visited this Garden in March last and found it in most excellent order, the plants looking extremely well, specimens of which I collected. The soil is of a higher color than that in the vicinity of Golaghat, and the silex more in the state of fine sand, which is occasionally appreciable to the touch, but still, like the specimens already noted, the component parts are exceedingly minute; specific gravity 1·9. Passed Punka Tea Garden (C. W. Stewart), situated on the right bank of the Kolianee, eighteen miles from Golaghat, and on the left bank of the Dhunsiri just at the foot of the Mikir Hills. This grant contains 296 acres, was taken up in 1856. I visited this Garden in March last, when the plants were looking well; about eighty acres under Tea. At the distance of about eight miles from Numalighur, on the right bank of the Diphloo River, is situated the Diphloo Tea Garden (George Williamson, Senior), which I visited in March last, and collected specimens of the plants and also of the soil. The ground is hilly and undulating; the base washed by a running stream of clear water. The grant embraces 453 acres, taken up in 1859: the soil friable, sandy, rocky, but very fertile; specific gravity 2·27, contains 77·25, Alumina 17 per cent. This includes the Oxide of Iron, which is inseparable by simple washing. This soil differs considerably from the clayey soils before examined, and will, I am induced to think, produce a superior kind of Tea. Proceeding along the foot of the Mikir Hills we arrive in succession at five more Tea Gardens, all taken up in 1859, all belonging to George Williamson, Senior, and all, more or less, of a similar character as regards soil and situation, viz.,— Desing, on the banks of a stream of that name, contains 264 acres.

Hulwah, 264 acres. The soil here is more rocky than at the Diphloo, and the silex in a state of course sand or fine gravel; the Tea plant appears to thrive in it; the public road forms one of the boundary lines.

Hattee Khoolee, 264 acres. The public road runs close by the Factory.

Harmoutee, 269 acres. The public road to Nowgong runs right through the Plantation.

Deopanee, situated on the right bank of a stream of that name, at the distance of fifty-eight miles from Golaghat, area 254 acres.

We have thus a line of eleven Tea Plantations on the first sixty miles of the road leading from Golaghat to Nowgong between Bengena Khua and Deopanee, and six other grants have been applied for between those two points.

Sunset—Fair, Mohona Mookh, 82°.

A violent squall, with heavy rain in the forepart of the night, but having no timepiece, as my watch was spoiled by the earthquake on the 4th ultimo, I am unable to state the exact time.

4*th, Tuesday, sunrise.*—Cloudy, air, 68°.

I was endeavoring to proceed up this channel to Niggriting Factory, but am now informed that the passage is stopped up by a land-slip, or a break in the bank, by which the water is running off in another direction. Besides this my boatmen are dreadfully alarmed on account of the Cholera at Deorgaon, and will probably leave me should I attempt to proceed, so I now return to the Dhunsiri. Reached the mouth of the Dhunsiri a little before noon, but do not recognise it. The side banks have been cut away or burst through, and new sandbanks have been formed where I have seen none before. Encamped on one of these.

Sunset—Fair, 74°. Rain during the night.

5*th, Wednesday, sunrise.*—Horizontal clouds, air, 68°.

Water of the Brahmapooter, 68°.

The smoke of a Steamer visible down stream, a sight which I have seen but once for more than twenty years; a strange expression for a man of Kent!

The following specimens of Tea soils have been collected up to date; those from Tea Gardens were at the depth of 4 to 6 inches below the surface, and near to the most healthy looking plants:—

No. 1, Golaghat; a fair specimen of the soil generally met with in localities completely above inundation and above the effects of the numerous water-courses, a stiffish, yellowish clay; specific gravity about 2.

No. 2. From Mr. Paul's Tea Garden at Golaghat, much like No. 1, but had, before cultivation was commenced, 2 to 3 inches of vegetable matter on the surface; specific gravity = 2·038.

No. 3. From Mr. Williamson's Garden at Bengena Khua, a little stiffer than the two former; specific gravity 1·96—2.

No. 4. From the Jorehaut Company's Tea Garden at Ooting, a reddish, yellowish clay lighter and more friable than the preceding three; specific gravity 2·1.

No. 5. From Mr. Spear's Garden near the Nambur, a reddish sandy, friable soil; specific gravity 2·42.

No. 6. From Mr. Stewart's Garden at Littikoojan, much like the five preceding specimens; specific gravity 1·78: 6 to 8 feet below the surface pure sand.

No. 7. From the Jorehaut Company's Plantations at Numalighur, of a reddish brown color, light and friable; specific gravity 1·9. All the seven preceding specimens are pretty much of the same character; in all the component parts are in a state of impalpable powder.

No. 8. From Mr. Williamson's Diphloo Plantation, sandy, friable, very fertile; specific gravity 2·27. None of the abovementioned specimens of soil contain any large proportion of carbonate of lime, but no considerable area can be entirely without lime, as the Molluscæ abound in Assam, as Ampullaria and Paludina at Golaghat, Cerithidhiae in the Heerinjan and the Diphloo, Achatina and Clausilia near the Nambur, and a minute species of Planorbis in tanks of still water near Niggriting.

Sunset.—Fair, air, 74°.

6*th, Thursday, sunrise.*—Fair, clear, air, 62°.

Here follows a list of specimens of the different varieties of the Tea plant gathered in the Gardens already visited:—

No. 1. Gathered in Mr. Paul's Garden at Golaghat.

a.—Assam Tea, a larger firm colored lanceolate or oblong leaf, minutely dotted and sprinkled with larger dots.

b.—Assam Tea, a large thin oblong leaf, distinctly dotted.

c.—China Tea, a coriaceous, lanceolate, or ovate leaf, copiously dotted.

e.—Tea, leaves waved, ovate, lanceolate, or abovate, copiously dotted.

d.—China Tea, a narrow, long lanceolate, coriaceous leaf, obscurely dotted.

No. 2. Gathered in Mr. Williamson's Garden at Bengena Khua.

a.—Assam Tea, a large firm colored lanceolate or oblong leaf, distinctly marked with minute pellucid dots, and sprinkled with larger dots.

b.—Assam Tea, a large thin oblong leaf or lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

c.—China Tea, a coriaceous lanceolate leaf distinctly dotted.

d.—Sundry Tea leaves, flowers, and fruit.

No. 3. Gathered in the Jorehaut Company's Garden at Ooting.

a.—Assam Tea, a firm colored lanceolate or oblong leaf, copiously dotted, and sprinkled with larger dots.

b.—Assam Tea, a large thin oblong or ovate leaf, distinctly dotted.

c.—China Tea, a coriaceous lanceolate leaf.

No. 4. Gathered in Mr. Spear's Garden at Nungletope.

a. Assam Tea, a large, firm, ovate, lanceolate or oblong leaf, copiously dotted and sprinkled with larger dots.

b.—Assam Tea, an ovate or lanceolate leaf, minutely, confusedly dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, a large, thin, ovate or lanceolate leaf, confusedly dotted.

d.—Assam Tea, a large lanceolate leaf, irregularly dotted.

e.—Assam Tea, a firm lanceolate leaf, minutely dotted.

f.—China Tea, a coriaceous, ovate, lanceolate leaf, distinctly and copiously dotted.

g.—China Tea, a long lanceolate, coriaceous leaf, not dotted, or dots very minute.

h.—China Tea, leaves crowded, small, lanceolate with a few inconspicuous dots.

No. 5. Gathered in Mr. Williamson's Sokeyting Garden.

a.—Assam Tea, an ovate, lanceolate leaf, very copiously dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, a thin ovate leaf, very copiously dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaf coriaceous, ovate, lanceolate, distinctly, but irregularly dotted.

d.—Assam Tea, leaf broadly ovate, obtuse, very copiously dotted.

e.—Assam Tea, leaf firm, long, lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

f.—China Tea, leaves somewhat crowded, coriaceous, ovate, lanceolate, distinctly and copiously dotted.

No. 6. Gathered at the East India Company's Garden at Deephluting.

a.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, thin, very large, ovate or oblong, lanceolate, very minutely, very copiously dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaf ovate or oblong, lanceolate, copiously dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaves ovate, tapering, minutely dotted.

d.—China Tea, leaves ovate or elliptic, coriaceous, distinctly and copiously dotted.

e.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, long lanceolate, copiously dotted.

No. 7. Gathered in Mr. Spear's Garden near the Nambur.

a.—Assam Tea, leaf ovate, waved, obtuse, minutely dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaf colored, ovate or distinctly but irregularly dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaves ovate or lanceolate, waved, very copiously dotted.

d.—China Tea, leaf coriaceous, lanceolate, small, distinctly but sparingly dotted.

No. 8. Gathered in Mr. Partridge's Garden at Beng-a-jan.

a.—Assam Tea, leaves firm, ovate or lanceolate, or elliptic, distinctly dotted.

No. 9. Gathered in Mr. Stewart's Garden at Littikoojan.

a.—Assam Tea, leaf colored, smooth, lanceolate, copiously dotted with larger and smaller dots, leaves distant.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves ovate or elliptic, smooth, minutely but copiously dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaf long, lanceolate, very distinctly dotted.

d.—Assam Tea, leaves broadly ovate, distinctly dotted.

e.—China Tea, leaves strictly lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

No. 10. Gathered in Mr. Stewart's Garden at Punka.

a.—Assam Tea, leaves ovate, lanceolate or elliptic, minutely but distinctly dotted.

No. 11. Gathered in the Jorehaut Company's Garden at Numalighur.

a.—Assam Tea, leaves ovate, lanceolate, or elliptic, waved, sprinkled with pellucid dots.

b.—Assam Tea, seed procured from Rajapama, in the Angami Naga Hills, and now growing on the Deo Purbut; leaves distant, thin, very large, ovate or oblong, lanceolate, acuminate or tapering, very minutely, very copiously dotted.

No. 12. Gathered in Mr. Williamson's Garden at Diphloo.

a.—Assam Tea, leaves ovate, lanceolate, or elliptic, copiously dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, large, thin, ovate lanceolate or oblong, tapering, copiously dotted.

I pass the Niggriting Plantations, which are distant several miles, and I can see no means of visiting the Factory from this part of the Great River without incurring great delay, so defer my visit till my return from Dibrooghur. Niggriting was taken up in 1850, and contains about 1,000 acres of land, which was originally for the most part tree forest, but without any indigenous Tea plants. There is now about 400 acres under Tea. The forest in this space has been completely cleared away, and the Tea plants enjoy the benefit of full sun light. I visited Niggriting in March last, and collected specimens of the different varieties of the Tea plant growing there. The Garden was then in most excellent condition, the plants looking healthy, the ground clean and fresh hoed, the China plant appears to thrive better than does the pale thin-leaved Assam plant.

No. 13. Gathered in Mr. Spear's Garden at Niggriting.

a.—Assam Tea, leaves firm, ovate, or lanceolate, veins devaricating, pellucid dots minute but copious.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves broadly lanceolate, copiously dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaves ovate or elliptic, obscurely dotted.

d.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, ovate or elliptic, obtuse, obscurely dotted.

e.—China Tea, leaves largely ovate, coriaceous, distinctly dotted.

f.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

Took the following bearings of elevated peaks visible from this point of the river:—

Naga Hills on the Seebsagor side, or south bank.

No. 1.—Meckelai Naga Purbut bears 145°.

No. 2.—Lakhoottee Naga Purbut bears 155°-3′.

No. 3.—Another peak, Sonarygaon, 176°-45′.

No. 4.—Most eastern point of Rangma Naga-ranage 199°-15′.

No. 5.—Most western point of Rangma Naga-ranage 235°-30′.

No. 6.—A snowy peak on the north bank 310°-30′.

No. 7.—The Bengalo Hill on the north bank 317°.

No. 8.—The Ridge immediately opposite the Station of Luckimpore 5° East.

No. 9.—The first conical peak towards the Soobhansiri 8°.

No. 10.—The second conical peak towards the Soobhansiri 11°.

No. 11.—The third conical peak towards the Soobhansiri 13°.

Passed Jorehaut, consequently Cinnamara Tea Garden, without visiting it till my return. On the 24th of February last I had the pleasure of going over all the Garden; it was then in fine condition; convenient roads had been made leading to all parts of the Garden; near to the buildings the walks had been mettled with pounded bricks; every part looked neat and clear of weeds, and the plants appear in a thriving condition. About 300 acres under Tea: collected the following specimens, viz.,— a.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, oblong or ovate, lanceolate, tapering, obscurely dotted with smaller and larger dots.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves lanceolate or obliquely lanceolate, tapering, obscurely dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaves thin, ovate, oblique, unequally divided by the midrib, minutely dotted.

d.—Assam Tea, leaves thin, ovate or lanceolate, slightly tapering, obscurely dotted.

e.—Assam Tea, leaves lanceolate, minutely dotted, sprinkled with larger dots.

f.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, smooth, firm, ovately lanceolate, often obtuse, minutely dotted with clusters of larger dots.

g.—China Tea, leaves broadly ovate, distinctly and copiously dotted.

h—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, broadly ovate, distinctly and most copiously dotted.

i.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, lanceolate, ovate or abovate, sometimes tapering, distinctly and copiously dotted.

l.—China Tea, leaves broadly lanceolate, obtuse, distinctly dotted.

m.—China Tea, coriaceous, long lanceolate, obtuse, distinctly dotted.

n.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, small lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

o.—China Tea, leaves lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

p.—China Tea, leaves lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

All the before enumerated specimens were gathered in new formed Gardens, and not from indigenous plants. My object in gathering them is to compare them with what I know to be indigenous plants when I reach the Assam Company's Gardens. I attach considerable importance to the pellucid dots in the leaves, believing that the quality of the Tea is affected thereby, and with regard to which the leaves of the different varieties differ greatly as respects number and size. The arrangement of the veins also is different.

This is what was called the mouth of the Dikhomi 1840, 1841, 1842, 1843; and at the very spot on which my tent is now pitched, ten feet above the water's level, the Steamer Assam, on her second voyage in September 1842, was safely riding in three fathoms of water, now all filled up with fine sand, which is covered over with reeds, grass, ferns, and Lantana Camara, for which last thanks to the late Dr. Wallich, who kindly sent me a plant in 1839. An immense sandbank has been formed here more than five miles in length and two in breadth, so that by the river, at this season of the year, the distance between Seebsagor and Debrooghur is ten miles greater than it was in 1842. This sand is of the finest possible description, and when dry capable of being lifted into the air by the slightest breeze; the depth varies from 15 to 13 feet: taking the average depth as 20 feet, we have 20 × 26,400 × 10,560 = 5,566,680,000 cubic feet, which divided by 27 gives 206,173,333⅓ cubic yards: taking the specific gravity at 2, we get 106,325,892 tons as the weight of sand and other matter deposited in the Great River at the mouth of the Dikhoo within the last twenty years; the earth is now accumulating, and is deposited by the highest floods only. So soon as a little earth is deposited plants begin to spring up, chiefly Graminiæ, such as the different species of Imperata, two or three species of ferns, and all along the south bank the before mentioned Lantana Camara. The above is the description of one sandbank, but several others have been formed during the same period on this side of the river. On the 9th instant I passed a tremendously large new sandbank immediately in front of Dinagong or Jorehaut, which bids fair to be a much greater obstruction to the Steamer, when on her passage between Dhunsiri Mookh and Debrooghur, than this at Dikho Mookh. At present Steamers are completely cut off from Dikho Mookh, Dinagong, and Dhunsiri Mookh, properly so called, though twenty years ago they could run down right abreast of those points. Twenty-seven sandbanks of the same extent as this one at the mouth of the Dikho would equal a cubic mile; and sand, debris or alluvium, to this enormous extent, is in constant motion between Gowalparah and the Brahmakoond: here the shining specks of Mica only are separately visible. Above Debrooghur the deposit becomes coarse sand; above Suddyah it becomes pebbles; above Soonpoora boulders; above the mouth of the Digaroo blocks of two to four feet cube; and between the Parghat and the Koond there are blocks of stone lying loose in the bed of the river measuring (400) four hundred cubic feet.

12*th*, Wednesday, sunrise.—Fair, horizontal clouds, air 58°.

Proceeded up the Dikho: a very uninviting place is this, deserted by everything but musquitoes; reeds and jungle on both sides; thus for these, mud and dirty water, we exchange the extended sandbanks, the clear water, and bracing air of the Brahmapooter. The Dikho is unusually high for November, and there is a narrow channel still open from the Great River, but it is rapidly drying up: villages less frequent than formerly. Just above the potters' village the left bank exhibits two feet of dark colored mixed soil, underlying which is six feet of a yellowish clay, then half an inch of red sand, then ten inches of dark potter's clay, then half an inch of red sand, then two feet of potter's clay: below this another narrow stripe of red sand and then potter's clay again. A mile or two higher up the river, on the right bank, there is six feet of the yellowish red clay. Collected specimen No. 9 from the left bank: reached the mouth of the Namdang at sunset, where there are shoals of the long snouted crocodile.

13*th*, Thursday, sunrise.—Thick fog, air 63°.

Sunset.—Fair, Bhoolinghat, air 80°.

14*th*, Friday, sunrise.—Thick fog, 60°.

Mr. Becket informs me that L. Camara is a common plant at Mungledye: continuing up the Dikho observe that at one place on the right bank there is four feet of red sand above the potter's clay: sunset, fair, Seebsagor.

15*th*, Saturday, sunrise.—Thick fog, air 66°.

The banks of the Dikho are about the same all the way up, 6 to 8 feet of the yellowish brown soil; then a thin streak of reddish sandstone becoming more and more indurated as we ascend the river, and when dug out having the appearance of broken tiles; underlying this, shale-like clay, then another streak of sand or sandstone, then potter's clay; sometimes one or two of the stripes of sandstone die out, and the Tea soil and potter's clay only remain: the strata are for the most part horizontal, but occasionally deep at an angle of 15° to 20°, when sandstone becomes firmer. The current is continually cutting away the bank on both sides all the way from the mouth of the river up to Nazerah, first on one side, and then on the other, and making the line of channel more and more circuitous; and has scooped out, thrown down, carried away, and re-deposited more than 300,000 cubic yards of Tea soil and potter's clay within the last twenty years, besides having brought down much sand from above Suntook Mookh. L. Camara continues on both sides either as a single plant, a bush, a clump of bushes, a hedge, or a long line of matted jungle, and is the most common plant between Nazerah and the Great River. The Dikho rises far in among the Naga Hills to the eastward, and after receiving the waters of several tributaries in the shape of streams, cascades, and rushes, flows sluggishly down through the alluvial plain passing Nazerah on the left bank and Seebsagor on the right, receiving the waters of the Suntook, Dija Kana, Darika, and Naga Jan on the right, and of the Namdang on the left; over this last, at a short distance from the mouth, there is a very valuable substantial bridge.

Sunset.—Fair, temperature 68°.

16*th*, Sunday, sunrise.—Temperature 60°.

This is a very busy place now, and upwards of 800 persons of both sexes and of all ages are moving quickly about in every direction, although just twenty-three years ago I was encamped here in the midst of dense jungle, while my own servants and boatmen ran away to the next village through fear of the tigers, leaving me all alone in my tent, which, bye the bye, was blown down in the night by a storm.

Sunset.—Fair, temperature 68°.

17*th*, Monday, sunrise.—Slight fog, 60°.

Witnessed the trial of a new winnowing or Tea sorting machine, of which I must see more before I dare hazard an opinion on its merits: went over the whole of the Factory with Mr. Gibson, the Superintendent, and am so much astonished at the late improvements, and the whole progress made since the 1st of July 1843, that I must remain here a few days before I shall be able to particularize anything. Endeavored to ascertain the quantity of earth that has been removed by the river during the last twenty years immediately in front of the Factory, cut away from one side and deposited on the other, and find that not less than 22,222 cubic yards in mass has been cut away from the left bank, and at a short distance above this point there has been a deposit of 27,777 cubic yards, an equal or greater quantity having been cut away from the right banks; but I think the Factory safe at present. Such, however, is the nature of the soil that no point can be considered permanently safe on either bank of the Dhunsiri, Dikho, or Booreedehing Rivers. Between the Dhodar Allee at Nazerah and the mouth of the Dikho the current has been cutting away the banks at 150 points in the same way as at Nazerah, and at each point some 30,000 cubic yards in mass = 4,500,000 cubic yards.

Sunset.—Fair, 76°.

18*th*, Tuesday, sunrise.—Partial cloud, air, 60°.

Gathered the following specimens of Tea plants:—

No. 15.—Assam Company's Garden at Nazerah.

a.—Assam Tea, leaves obscurely dotted, dots very minute.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves obscurely dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaves copiously and regularly dotted.

d.—Assam Tea, leaves very minutely dotted.

e.—China Tea, leaves very copiously and distinctly dotted.

f.—China Tea, dots not visible.

g.—China Tea, Bohea leaves, cluster dotted; this is the variety that was introduced by Mr. Gondon in 1834-35.

Sunset.—Fair, 76°.

19*th*, Wednesday, sunrise.—Foggy, air, 38°.

Accompanied Dr. Simons to the Hospital, and visited and examined the Bengalee Coolies' huts: a new and very good Hospital has been erected, and there is an ample supply of medicine for the sick: examined the Meteorological Register for the years 1860, 1861, and 1862, and find the fall of rain for the year—Ending the 31st October 1860 ...= 90·36 Inches.

„ „ 31st „ 1861 ...= 67·57 „
„ „ 31st „ 1862 ...= 83·31 „

Procured a considerable number of land shells from the old Palace of Gurgaun.

Went over to Ligripookhurie Factory, leading to which there is an excellent road, which passes through Mazenga, Kachareepookhurie, and Hattiputty, kept up at the expense of the Assam Company, whose operations and money appear to put life into this part of the Province. The Tea plants at Ligreepookhurie, for the most part, look remarkably well; they were recovered from the forest in 1840, have yielded leaves for the manufacture of Tea during a period of twenty years, and I see no reason to suppose that they will not continue to yield leaves for twenty years more with judicious treatment: collected a few specimens.

No. 16.—Assam Company's Garden, Ligripookhurie.

a.—Wild indigenous Assam Tea, headed down in 1840, leaves very minutely dotted.

b.—Wild indigenous Assam, headed down in 1840, leaves minutely dotted, with a few larger dots.

c.—Wild indigenous Assam Tea, headed down in 1840, dots obscure.

d.—China Tea, introduced in 1840, leaves very copiously dotted.

e.—China Tea, introduced in 1840, obscure dots.

f.—China Tea, introduced in 1840, leaves distinctly but irregularly dotted.

g.—China Tea, introduced in 1840, dots crowded, but irregular, various.

h.—China Tea, introduced in 1840, Wallich? Milner? dots obscure.

The terms Wallich? Milner? intimate that the plants were raised from seed in the Botanic Garden, Calcutta, and were sent up to me by him under the charge of Robert Milner in 1840-41.

Proceeded up the river in my boat to examine the left bank as far as the Nazerah Station extends, but see no reason to apprehend any serious danger from the run of the current.

Sunset.—Fair, 76°.

Walked over to the Mazenga Tea Garden by the road alluded to yesterday; when I traversed this road twenty-three years ago I had to thread my way through dense jungle with a Kumptee Daun in my hand; to-day I have had to thread my way through gangs of Kacharees bringing in Tea from the Ligripookhurie and Mazenga Factories, and on my return through gangs of Coolies bringing Tea seed from Dewpany, where twenty-three years ago there was not a single Tea plant growing. The Tea plants in the Mazenga Garden are looking remarkably healthy, and are in good condition, as well the indigenous wild plants as those subsequently growing, and equally well, the Assam plant and the China plant; the remarks applied to the Ligripookhurie plants yesterday are equally applicable here. The indigenous wild plants were headed down in 1840, have yielded leaves for the manufacture of Tea during twenty years, and the self same indigenous wild plants are still the most productive plants in the Gardens. Gathered the following specimens:—

No. 17. Assam Company's Garden, Mazenga.

a.—Wild indigenous Assam Tea, headed down in 1840, leaves minutely but very copiously dotted.

b.—Wild indigenous Assam Tea, headed down in 1840, leaves minutely dotted.

c.—Wild indigenous Assam Tea, headed down in 1840, leaves obscurely dotted.

d.—Wild indigenous Assam Tea, headed down in 1840, dots obscure.

e.—Wild indigenous Assam Tea, headed down in 1840, leaves minutely and very copiously dotted.

f.—Wild indigenous Assam Tea, headed down in 1840, leaves minutely dotted.

g.—Assam Tea, leaves most copiously dotted with smaller and larger dots.

h.—China Tea, introduced in 1840, leaves very copiously dotted.

No. 18. Assam Company's Garden, Mazenga; plants raised from seed received from Kumaon.

a.—China Tea, leaves broadly ovate, coriaceous, obtuse, obscurely dotted.

b.—Leaves coriaceous, ovate, lanceolate, or elliptic, obscurely dotted.

c.—Leaves coriaceous, lanceolate, oblique, dots obscure.

d.—Leaves coriaceous, and of every variety of form on the same branch, lanceolate, elliptic, arbicular, rotund, ovate, and obovate, dots obscure.

e.—Leaves very smooth, long lanceolate, oblique, slightly tapering, often unequally divided by the midrib, dots obscure.

f.—Leaves obliquely lanceolate, dots obscure.

g.—Leaves smooth, oblong, or ovate, lanceolate, obtuse, largely anergenatis, dots obscure.

h.—Leaves coriaceous, smooth, elliptic, or ovate, dots obscure.

i.—Leaves smooth, coriaceous, obliquely ovate, dots obscure.

Thus from a very small patch of ground, some half an acre, have I collected what appear to be (9) nine varieties of China Tea plants, and might have collected several more. These plants were produced by seed procured from Kumaon, which seed was undoubtedly produced by the plants (20,000) which, under orders from Dr. Wallich, I dispatched from the Botanic Garden in 1835, and may be styled China Tea Plants Garden, Wallich's, which signifies that the seed was originally procured in China by Mr. Gondon, sown under the Pimenta trees by the late Dr. Wallich, and by his orders sent to Kumaon. This little patch of plants may be kept up as a curiosity, and should enjoy the same cultivation as the other Tea plants. We know not what may be the ultimate result; in their present state not one of them is worth cultivating in Assam for the manufacture of Tea, the indigenous Assam plant being much superior. These plants must not be confounded with those produced from seed subsequently procured by Mr. Gondon, which are of a far superior kind, some of which were sent me by Dr. Wallich in 1840-41; sunset, cloudy, 75°.

22nd, Saturday, sunrise.—Thick fog, air 63°.

Visited again Ligripookhurie, Mazenga, Hattiputty, Mackipore, and Kucharcepookhurie, or all the Tea Gardens in the Satsocah forest, and find that in all the plants are looking extremely healthy; there are on the outskirts of some of the Factories (Gardens) a few scrubby plants which will improve if headed down; a few also of the old plants on the embankment at Ligripookhurie have suffered by heavy rain having washed the earth from their roots; with these two exceptions all the plants are in a most thriving condition, and now have a flush of leaf upon them; sunset, cloudy, 76°.

23rd, Sunday, sunrise.—Cloudy, 64°.

Passed again through all the Gardens in Satsocah; sunset, Hattiputty, cloudy.

24th, Monday, sunrise.—Heavy rain.

Visited the Tea Plantations at Deopany, where about 360 acres are under Tea, and all the plants are in the most thriving condition possible; the soil here, No. 17, is of a superior kind, and in it the Tea plant thrives most luxuriously. The leading indigenous tree is Gordonia integrifolia, with a species of Camellia: this Garden was commenced in 1840, it had no indigenous Tea plants on the ground; sunset, cloudy, Nazerah.

25th, Tuesday, sunrise.—Thick fog, air 64°.

Visited the Tea Plantations at Cheraideo, all of which look extremely well; procured specimens of the plants and of the soil; collected a few shells; wrote brief Memoranda for the Directors of the Assam Company; sunset, cloudy, Nazerah, 74°.

26th, Wednesday, sunrise.—Thick fog, 66°.

Wrote Chairman of the Assam Company, forwarding Memoranda; sunset, cloudy, 76°.

27th, Thursday, sunrise.—Foggy, 62°.

Went over the Station again; the sifting machine alluded to on the 17th instant appears to be a complete failure in its present state, and is not worth any further place or notice; sunset, cloudy, 72°.

28th, Friday, sunrise.—Thick fog, 63°.

Proceeded to Seebsagor, looking at the old Palace of Gargong which continues in nearly the same condition as in 1842; procured a few shells here; passed several small clearances on the way apparently intended for Tea cultivation; sunset, cloudy, 76°.

29th, Saturday, sunrise.—Thick fog, Seebsagor.

Visited Mr. Thornton's Tea Garden at the Morudikho, and collected specimens of what is usually called Hybrid Tea, No. 23, leaves dark colored, lanceolate; the plants from which these were gathered are from ten and fifteen years old.

30th, Sunday, sunrise.—Cloudy, 61°.

Gathered specimens of the tree Maidenfairfern from the walls of the Temple; here also grows.

Received from the Medical Officer in charge an abstract of the Meteorological Register kept at the Jail Hospital of Seebsagor from the year 1859 to 1862.

d.—Assam Tea, leaves minutely but very distinctly dotted.

e.—China Tea, leaves cluster dotted.

f.—China Tea, leaves cluster dotted.

No. 22. Assam Company's Garden, Cheraidan.

a.—Assam Tea, with large and small dots.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves irregularly dotted.

c.—Tea, leaves very minutely dotted.

d.—Assam Tea, leaves cluster dotted.

e.—Assam Tea, leaves copiously dotted.

g.—China Tea, leaves very copiously, very irregularly dotted.

h.—China Tea, leaves copiously dotted.

i.—China Tea, leaves with many large dots.

k.—China Tea, dots not seen.

Sunset.—Cloudy, 72°.

Rain during the night.

December, Seebsagor.

1*st, Monday, sunrise.*—Cloudy, 68°.

Left Seebsagor by boat for Debrooghur: wrote Mr. McIntosh soliciting information regarding the manufacture of Tea, and asking for his opinion relative to shading the Tea plant.

Sunset, Bholiaghat.—Cloudy, 66°.

2*nd, Tuesday, Dikho Mookh.*—Fair, 70°.

3*rd, Wednesday, sunrise.*—Thick fog, air 57°.

Water of the Brahmapooter 63°.

The temperature of the air at sunrise has been unusually high during the last two months, but is lower this morning with a slight rise in the Great River, which enables me to pass up the narrow channel alluded to on the 12th ultimo; as the current is cutting away the sandbank it is likely to keep this channel open, and will probably form a bar at the old mouth of the Dikho. The water runs very fiercely along under the left bank between the Dikho and the Booreedehing, cutting into the alluvium at a fearful rate, exposing the sub-soil; Tea soil, a yellowish or reddish yellow clay, all the component and parts of which are in a state of impalpable powder, and indistinguishable one from the other, specimen No. 18: collected about 100 fluviatile shells, twenty-three varieties.

4*th, Thursday, sunrise.*—Thick fog, 57°.

Brahmapooter water 62°.

Passed on to the mouth of the Booreedehing, above which I encamped at sunset, fair, air 68°. This portion of the Great River is much changed since I last saw it; large sandbanks have been cleared away, and new ones have been formed where none existed twenty years ago; these operations are continually going on; collected a few minute shells.

5*th, Friday, sunrise.*—Slight fog, air 57°.

Water of the Great River 66°; current sluggish.

Went over my specimens of Tea plants, adding to—

No. 23. Mr. Thornton's Moridikho Garden.

b.—Assam Tea, a broadly ovate, then undulate leaf, minutely dotted.

c.—China Tea, coriaceous, lanceolate leaf.

No. 24. Wild Tea from the left bank of the Suffry River, a lanceolate tapering leaf distinctly dotted with smaller and longer dots.

No. 25. Tea leaves of various shape and texture, and variously sprinkled with pellucid dots.

Collected a few more shells among them, two species of Planorbis a cerithideæ and Cydatus rupestre.

6*th, Saturday, sunrise.*—A shifting fog, air 56°.

Water of the Great River, current sluggish, 62°.

The sun bears 165°, say 11 A. M. Below Dibroo Mookh the Tea soil continues immediately under the surface, a little higher colored than below the Dikho, though of the same finely comminuted character, and resting generally on the potter's clay. All the southern bank from the Dhunsiri to the Dehing is one alluvial plain, not a pebble to be found within twenty miles of the Great River, save an occasional solitary stone in the root or hollow trunk of a buried tree. In ascending the smaller rivers we meet with pebbles sooner in the Jhanjy and the Desang than in the other tributaries; and also on the left bank of the Dhunsiri, washed down by the Koliony, Doorgrogoong, and Nambur. Were the surface soil the vegetable, the silt removed, the whole space would exhibit an assemblage of rounded hillocks of various extent and elevation, rising from five feet to fifty feet above the water level, all composed of this Tea soil interstratified with stripes of sand varying in color from blood red to pure white, and in thickness from one-eighth of an inch to four feet. As at the mouth of the Dikho, so here also are tremendous sandbanks.

Sunset.—Cloudy to the northward, air 67°.

7*th, Sunday, sunrise.*—Thick fog, air 58°.

Water of the Great River 64°.

Sunset, Dibrooghur.—Fair, light clouds.

8*th, Monday, sunrise.*—Fair, fog gathering, air 58°.

Visited the late Colonel Hannay's Tea Garden (Dibrooghur) (200 Poorahs), 264 acres, about forty acres of the Assam plant, and 240 acres of China plants; all planted regularly in rows five feet distant from each other, thus occupying twenty-five square feet, and giving 1,742 to the acre.

The land was originally chiefly occupied by grass, Imperata cylindrica, Linn. Ooloo; the soil is not of the best description, has at some former period been flooded by the Brahmapooter, as is shewn by numerous minute particles of Mica. This Garden was in the first instance very judiciously laid out, the ground properly prepared, very judiciously planted, and the plants have been kept judiciously pruned, and are for the most part looking extremely healthy. The China plant thrives in this soil better than does the Assam plant, still the Assam plants have yielded six maunds, 480 pounds, of manufactured Tea per acre in one season and the China plants 240 pounds.

Gathered a specimen of what is called "Hybrid."

a, b.—No. 26, with dark firm lanceolate leaves, which are distinctly marked with minute pellucid dots.

c.—China sprinkled with larger dots, which sometime appear in clusters; sunset, fair, 66.°

9*th, Tuesday, sunrise.*—Scattered clouds.

Visited Messrs. Millany and Company's Garden at Bor Pathur, about fifty-three acres under Tea, chiefly of the China plant, all of which for the most part are looking remarkably well; the soil is not of the best kind, and was originally overrun with course grass and scattered trees, such as Imperata sanparum, Anthistiria; Alstonia scholoris, Emblica, Bombax, Premna, Lagerstræmia curcanna, &c. But the ground appears to have had good cultivation; the first instance was well dug, properly lined out, and the seed or plants arranged in rows four and half feet distant from each other: this gives about 2,141 to the acre, each plant occupying 20½ feet of surface; the plants are now five to seven years old, and shew what may be done by good culture on indifferent soil: gathered a few specimens.

No. 27. Messrs. Millany and Company's Garden, Bor Pathur.

a.—An ovate (Hybrid), lanceolate, waved, distinctly dotted and sprinkled with larger dots, clusters.

b.—Assam Tea, an ovate, lanceolate, minutely dotted.

c.—China Tea, a lanceolate leaf, dots obscure. In the Tea house I observed Pooley's Patent Weighing Machine, a valuable and necessary instrument, the first I have seen.

Soils continued from the 19th to 25th ultimo.

No. 11.—Tea soil from the Mazenga Garden.

No. 12.—Ditto ditto from the Kumaon Seed Garden.

No. 13.—Ditto ditto from the Hattiputty Garden.

No. 14.—Ditto ditto from Hyher Ground.

No. 15.—Ditto ditto from Cheradeo Garden.

No. 16.—Ditto ditto from Deopurbat.

No. 17.—Ditto ditto from Deopany Garden, Assam Company.

No. 18.—Ditto ditto from the left bank of the Brahmapooter and between the Dikho and Jhangy River; sunset, light cloud, 66°.

10th, Wednesday, sunrise.—Cloudy, air 60°.

Inspected and made extracts from a Meteorological Register kept at Dibrooghur by the Reverend E. H. Higgs. This Register is very full, and appears to have been kept with great care. The following is the average monthly rain-fall for twelve years from 1850 to 1862:—

		Inches.		Days.
January	...	1·65	on	6
February	...	2·60	„	9
March	...	4·57	„	12
April	...	9·27	„	17
May	...	13·12	„	17
June	...	17·39	„	21
July	...	18·47	„	22
August	...	17·48	„	22
September	...	13·18	„	16
October	...	6·94	„	11
November	...	1·37	„	4
December	...	0 97	„	3

This gives 160 as the average number of rainy days in a year, and 107 inches as the average annual rain-fall.

Sunset.—Fair, 65°.

11th, Thursday, sunrise—Thick fog, air 56°.

Visited the Rhoah Tea Garden, belonging to the Reverend E. H. Higgs, in which there is at present to the extent of about 110 acres under Tea, chiefly of the China plant, which appears to thrive in this soil; the ground here shews signs of previous occupation, either as a Garden or Village; several trees are growing in at, such as Mangoes, Bamboos, Jack, Peaches, and a species Curcuma: collected a specimen of the soil No. 19; sunset, fair 68.°

12th, Friday, sunrise.—Foggy, air 56°.

Proceeded to visit three other patches of cultivation belonging to the Reverend E. H. Higgs towards the Sessa River, passed the Behea Garden, visited yesterday; then through Colonel Reid's Garden, which appears to have been completely overrun with Oolloo grass during the rains. Where I could see the plants they appeared to have been sown regularly in rows four feet apart, and considering the state of the ground are looking healthy; but this suddenly clearing away the grass, and a compositious plant, Ageritum cordifolium, by which they are now shaded from the sun, is likely to injure them if rain does not quickly follow. Leaving Colonel Reid's Garden I entered Mr. Higgs' Mankatta Garden, which is in much better condition, and the plants, chiefly China, are looking well; the soil is like that in the Behea Garden, and in the other Gardens in immediate vicinity of Dibrooghur, and in which I am surprised to see the Tea plant thrive so well as it does. The sub-soil like that of all the south bank is Tea soil, but generally there is a slight deposit of an inferior description, and the ground is too low. Of several patches which I have examined there are some on which an average crop of rice is now growing, while on others China Tea plants are flourishing; although I can perceive no difference in the level on the right bank of the Sessa at Kumrikur, there is a fresh clearance now going on where the soil is of far superior quality (specimen No. 20.) This site is all tree forest, in which the leading indigenous plants are Mesua ferrua, Aquilaria agallocha, Laurusa porrecta, Castanea, Cedrela, Chickrassia, Melastoma, Urtica, Polygonum, Lygodium, &c. On the left bank of the River is the Sessa Garden, in which the plants are one to three years old and are looking well. This was also originally tree forest, and here are the same indigenous plants as at Kumrikur. The soil, too, similar though not quite so much elevated, nor so high colored, No. 21; sunset, fair, 68°.

13th, Saturday, sunrise.—Thick fog.

Visited again Colonel Hannay's Dibroo Garden, passing on through Mr. Morgan's Myan Garden and Colonel Hannay's Garden, thence to Mr. Waggentrieber's Nagagoola Garden, where I collected specimens of the soil No. 22 and of the Tea plants No. 29.

a.—Asmouth, broadly lanceolate, leaf distinctly dotted with large and small pellucid dots; the seeds from which this plant was procured were from Sessoopal Nuggur, Mishmi Hills.

b.—Assam Tea, an ovate on already lanceolate leaf, minutely dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, Hybrid, a smooth lanceolate, tapering leaf.

d.—China Tea a smooth, elliptic on lanceolate leaf, minutely dotted.

The site of this Garden was originally partly grass and partly tree forest; the grass land was conveniently laid out, well dug, and ploughed in; seed sown in rows in the first instance, where they were intended to remain, and they appear to have succeeded remarkably well, and all without shade, except a few scattered trees. The Tea plants here are from three to five years' old; those in the forest land from one to three years old, where the scrub jungle was cut down and cleared away, and the latter trees left for partial shade till the Tea plant has established itself; the indigenous plants are Castanea species, Artocarpus chaplasha, et integrifolia, Cedrela toona, Chickrassia tabularis, Premna species, Diospyros species, and Garcinia pedmiculota. This plant is an indicator of a suitable site for the Tea plant. I found it in 1840 thriving at Kacharcepookhurie, Mazenga, and Hattiputty, growing in the midst of the most healthy indigenous Tea plants. The extent of land under Tea at Nagagooly, including the Rangagorah Garden is about 700 acres. Mr. Morgan's Plantations also, which are of a very similar character, are of about the same extent, and so are the four Plantations belonging to the Reverend E. H. Higgs = 700 acres.

14*th*, Sunday, sunrise.—Thick fog, air 50°.

Attended Divine Service at the very pretty Church at Dibrooghur, the first time I have had the opportunity of seeing the inside of a Church for upwards of twenty-three years; sunset, fair, air 64°.

15*th*, Monday, sunrise.—Foggy, 54°.

Collected a few shells; sunset, fair.

16*th*, Tuesday, sunrise.—Foggy, air 49°.

Visited Mr. James Jenkins' Tea Garden at Chaulkhooah, where, together with it (* *) Chubwa, there is about 200 acres of Tea cultivation. The greater portion of this grant consists of dense forest, containing some very fine timber trees, of which the leading trees are Mesua ferrua, Artocarpus integrifolia, A. chaplasha, Deospyros sapota, Lagerstræmia reginæ, Premna species, Pierardia sapida, very common, Michelia, two species, very large, Cedrela toona, Chickrassia tabularis, Maisaki, Bignonia chelonoides. These trees indicate a soil suitable to Tea cultivation, and this soil is superior to that in the immediate vicinity of Dibrooghur.

Specimen No. 23; collected the following specimen of the Tea plant No. 31:—

a.—Assam Tea, leaves large, pale, thin, waved, oblique, somewhat tapering, rounded at the base, minutely dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves large, dark green, smooth, waved, lanceolate, tapering, minutely dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaves large, smooth, waved, ovate, lanceolate, tapering, pellucid dots, obscure or copious.

d.—Assam Tea, leaves firm, smoothly oblique, oblong, ovate or elliptic, emarginate, usually rounded at the leaf, minutely dotted, and sprinkled with larger dots.

e.—Assam Tea, leaves thin, smooth, ovate or lanceolate, slightly tapering, minutely dotted.

f.—Assam Tea, leaves firm, smooth, usually ovate, blunt, copiously sprinkled with pellucid dots.

g.—Assam Tea, leaves firm, smooth, ovate or elliptic, copiously sprinkled with pellucid dots.

h.—Assam Tea, leaves dark green, firm, smooth, ovate or oblong, sprinkled with smaller and larger pellucid dots.

i.—Tea leaves from several different trees varying in size, form, and texture, and ovariously sprinkled with pellucid dots.

Received much valuable information from Mr. Jenkins relative to the cultivation of the Tea plants and manufacture of Tea.

17*th*, Wednesday, sunrise.—Foggy, air 50°.

Collected the following specimens of Tea from Captain Comber's Flower Garden at Dibrooghur; these plants were, I believe, originally raised by Colonel Vetch; No. 32—a.—Assam Tea, leaves thin, smooth, waved, oblong or lanceolate, tapering to a blunt point somewhat rounded at the base, minutely dotted, the lower leaves sprinkled with larger dots.

b.—Assam Tea, "Hybrid," leaves dark green, smooth, firm, oblong, lanceolate, variously dotted.

c.—China Tea, leaves oblong or lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

Sunset.—Fair, 64°.

18*th*, Thursday, sunrise.—Thick fog, air 48°.

Received the following Memoranda regarding the manufacture of Tea from Mr. James Jenkins:—"As far as practicable all the leaves should be gathered before 11 A. M., as up to that hour the young are brittle from the leading branches; but after that time the young shoots become tough owing to the influence of the sun, and it often occurs that the leaf-pluckers tear off the whole branch with the leaves. As soon as the leaves are brought into the Tea house they should be withered in the sun or in the withering house; the latter method I much prefer. To ascertain when the leaves are sufficiently withered you have only to take a few leaves in your hand and if they will bear pressure without snapping, they are sufficiently withered; the stalk of the leaf must be pliable, and admit of being bent double without breaking. Care should be taken to allow the leaves to cool before manipulation. The process of manipulation should be performed by the Tea-makers at the Tea tables; each man should have about four pounds of the green leaves in a Dallah to prevent the small Pekoe buds from being lost, which they are likely to be, and often are, when Challanas are used. The leaves should be well beaten with the hands, and also rolled, to give them a slight twist and to press out the sap; as soon as this has been effected the leaves should be put into deep trays or large deep Dallahs to the depth of eight or nine inches, and covered over with a cloth, in order to promote the heating of the leaves, and to secure them; when the leaves have become quite warm, and have turned to a red color, they should at once be put into a good bright red pan, and be briskly moved forward and backward, tossed up and again let fall into the pan. As the leaves become hot sticks should be used to move them about, and not till the leaves steam well should they be taken out of the pan. When taken out the leaves should be well rolled, and during the rolling should be frequently shaken and separated to prevent their balling; this should be done three times at least, the well twisted leaves should then be put away till several maunds have collected in a heap, when a second firing should be given in a cooler pan which will not require the use of sticks, and the leaves should again be rolled; this being done the leaves should at once be put over the charcoal fire in Dhools, the fires should have a few ashes sprinkled over them; about four pounds of leaves may be put into each Dhool; here the leaves should be well watched and turned till perfectly dry; it is now Tea, and should at once be put into chests in Storebins to secure the orma. In gathering the leaves should be separated thus, as by so doing a new shoot soon starts up from where the end of the leaf is left."

Dibroo Mookh, sunset, fair, 66°.

19*th*, Friday, sunrise.—Foggy, air 27°.

Sunset.—Fair, Sessa Mookh in the Booreedehing, 60°.

20*th*, Saturday, sunrise.—Cloudy, air 50°.

Sunset.—Cloudy, 64°.

21*st*, Sunday, sunrise.—Rain, air 58°.

Sunset.—Fair, clouds to the westward, 58°.

22*nd*, Monday, sunrise.—Cloudy, 53.°

The Booreedehing exhibits the same features as the Dhunsiri and the Dikho: a similar yellowish or brownish yellow or reddish yellow clay, an inferior Tea soil, is visible on both sides with occasional thin seams of sand; and here also is the same cutting away of the bank first on one side and then on the other, followed by ultimate deposits of sand. I am now encamped on an immense sand, which has been formed since I passed up the river in July 1839, and a corresponding space, half a mile in length and 400 yards in breadth, has been completely carried away from the forest on the left bank; the same wear and tear going on at numerous other points; the bed of the river is become much silted up, and the channel has greatly increased in width; sunset, fair, 62°.

23*rd, Tuesday, sunrise.*—Foggy, air 49°.

Sunset.—Fair, 60°.

24*th, Wednesday, sunrise.*—Thick fog, air 48°.

Water of the Dehing 64°.

Reached Tengrai Mookh, Head-Quarters of the Assam Company, which has a somewhat diminished appearance, though actually of far greater importance to the Company now than it ever has been, owing to the valuable indigenous Tea Gardens belonging to it.

Sunset.—Fair.

25*th, Thursday, sunrise.*—Slight fog, air 49°.

Visited and examined the Tea Garden at this post, about eighteen acres under Tea, consisting of Assam and China plants sown about twenty years ago, and a few China plants, the produce of seed received from Kumaon about five years ago; the soil is not good, there being too much of a new deposit above the sub-soil, or inferior Tea soil, besides which the site is subject to inundation, owing to the silting of the river bed; the ground requires an extra hoeing this year, the weeds having become very rank on account of the late rains.

Gathered the following specimens:—

No. 33. Assam Company's Garden, Tengrai Mookh.

a.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, smooth, firm, oblong, ovate, or broadly lanceolate, slightly tapering to a blunt point, sometimes emarginate, variously dotted, about twenty years old.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, smooth, thin, undulate, broadly ovate, slightly tapering, minutely dotted, twenty years old.

c.—China Tea, leaves somewhat distant, smooth, firm, shape various, oblong, lanceolate, or obovate, copiously dotted, twenty years old.

d.—Assam Tea, five years old, leaves thin, pale, undulate, broadly ovate, obscurely dotted.

f.—China Tea, five years old, leaves smooth, firm, oblong, lanceolate or obovate, distinctly or obscurely dotted.

No. 34. Assam Company's Garden, Tengrai Mookh; China plants raised from seed received from Kumaon on the 11th March 1856, about five years old.

a.—Leaves smooth, firm, lanceolate or elliptic, distinctly dotted.

b.—Leaves coriaceous, smooth, ovate, lanceolate or elliptic, variously dotted.

b.—Leaves small, approximating coriaceous, usually elliptic, obscurely dotted.

c.—Leaves crowded, small, oblong or line or lanceolate, variously dotted.

e.—Leaves approximating coriaceous, various in shape, ovate, lanceolate, elliptic, orbicular, rotund or obovate, minutely dotted.

f.—Leaves somewhat distant, smooth, firm, waved, lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

g.—Leaves coriaceous, margins irregular, recurved, shape various, lanceolate, elliptic, orbicular, irregularly dotted.

Sunset.—Fair, 67°.

26*th, Friday, sunrise.*—Fog, 49°.

Visited the Gardens belonging to the Hoogreejan Factory, Ballijan; a small Garden of about nine acres, soil not very good; there are some indigenous plants in it, which were headed down more than twenty years ago, are in still in good condition, but require better cultivation than they have had of late years owing to the great difficulty of procuring laborers; gathered specimen No. 35A., crossed a grass plain about a square mile in extent, where the soil appears to be of a better description than at Ballijan, and the ground higher; the leading trees are Bignonia chelonoides, Castanea, Callicarpa two species, Clerodendrum, with Lua, Flemingia, Plectranthes, Rubus rosæfolius, Thunbergia coccinea, Megolla, Melastoma, &c.

No. 1, Hoogreejan Garden, consisting of about twelve acres, a very fine piece of Tea cultivation, the soil good, and the plants looking well; gathered specimen No. 35B., indigenous Assam Tea.

Kulae Baree, about fifteen acres under Tea, the plants thriving and looking generally well; gathered specimen D. from indigenous plants which have not been headed down; collected also specimen of the soil No. 24, from the left bank of the Tengrai River.

No 2, Hoogreejan, about thirty-three acres under Tea; plants generally looking well, but the leaves like some of the other gardens are very pale, which I attribute to their want of better cultivation or more shade: the Tea plant under proper cultivation in a good soil will bear any want of sunlight, but where the young leaves are continually picked up from plants in a poor soil, or under bad cultivation, the plants require more shade. Gathered specimen 35C.; the seed from which this plant was raised was brought from Tippam, where I saw the parent plant growing in 1840; it is undoubtedly indigenous. Bordhoober, about thirty acres under Tea, the plants looking generally well: the Jotoolu Liquidambur begins to shew itself as a leading tree in the forest indicating a good Tea soil; the whole of these five gardens might be connected and form one continued garden if labor was procurable. The specimens gathered in the Hoogreejan Factory are No. 35:—

a.—Indigenous Assam Tea, headed down in 1840, leaves firm, oblong or ovately lanceolate, minutely dotted.

b.—Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves oblong or ovate, lanceolate, slightly tapering, minutely dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, seed brought from Tippam Garden by Mr. Voqulin, the produce of trees which were many years old when I saw them in 1840, leaves smooth, firm, lanceolate, tapering, variously dotted.

d.—Indigenous Assam Tea, from old plants, leaves oblong or lanceolate, tapering, obscurely dotted.

e.—Assam Tea, leaves smooth, firm, lanceolate, minutely dotted.

f.—Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves smooth, firm, lanceolate, variously dotted.

g.—Indigenous Assam Tea, more than twenty-three years old, leaves smooth, firm, ovate, lanceolate, tapering, copiously dotted.

h.—Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves smooth, firm, broadly lanceolate, tapering, variously dotted; the plants have suffered from the bad effects of exposure and inferior cultivation: sunset, cloudy, 27th, Saturday, sunrise.—Cloudy, air 54°.

Visited the old Chubwah and Deanjay Gardens, and collected specimens from the indgenous Assam plants, which are more than twenty-seven years old, and still continue to yield Leaves for manufacture.

No. 36. From the old Government Garden.

a.—Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves large, smooth, firm, undulate, ovate, lanceolate, tapering slightly, copiously dotted; the plants have suffered from too much exposure and bad cultivation.

b.—China Tea, leaves various in size, form, and texture, variously sprinkled with pellucid dots; these plants were originally reared under the Pimenta trees at the Botanic Garden, Calcutta, from seed procured by Mr. Gondon, and sent up to Suddya in 1835, where a few only still remain, and subsequently removed to Chubwah or Deanjay. Passed through Mr. Warren's Tea Plantations at Chubwah, where there is a large breadth of ground under cultivation, a large proportion is of the China plant, all of which appear healthy, but have not, I think, enough room. The Liquidambur and other indigenous forest trees indicate a suitable Tea soil omitted on the 26th.

It should be particularly borne in mind that the indigenous Assam plants from which the above-named specimens were gathered in the Hoogreejan Factory are all seedling plants where the seed fell, more than thirty years ago, there it grew, there the plants now stand, and are still in their prime. Although they have never had good culture, it may still be said that they are in a thriving state; all that is required is a common pruning, the mere cutting away the yellow points of the young shoots and the straggling branches, and the proper cultivation of the ground.

28th, Sunday, sunrise.—Rain, air 56°.

Sunset.—Cloudy, 60°.

29th, Monday, sunrise.—Cloudy, air 54°.

Started at 11 A. M. and reached Kahung at 3 P. M.; Gardens scattered; about fifty-five acres under Tea, soil generally good, but low inferior soil between the patches of Tea. These Gardens might be extended, but could not be made to form one continued Garden as might be done with Hoogreejan and its dependencies. Here are many fine old indigenous Tea plants, and they have never had good culture, still they appear to be thriving, the terminal leaves are pale. Gathered the following specimens:—

No. 37. Assam Company's Garden, Kahung.

a.—Assam Tea, seven years old, leaves smooth, firm, waved, ovate, or broadly lanceolate, tapering, copiously dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, thirty years old, indigenous, leaves distant, smooth, firm, oblong, or ovate lanceolate, tapering, minutely dotted.

c.—Indigenous Assam Tea, thirty years old, leaves distant, smooth, firm, various in shape, minutely dotted.

d.—Assam Tea, twenty years old, leaves smooth, firm, lanceolate, minutely dotted.

e.—Wild indigenous Assam Tea, leaves smooth, firm, various in shape, minutely dotted.

f.—Indigenous Assam Tea, thirty years old, leaves distant, smooth, firm, waved, broadly lanceolate, minutely dotted.

The leading plants in the forest, indicating a good Tea soil, are Liquidambur, Bignonia chelonoides, Cedrela toona, Andrachnæ trifoliata, Artocarpus chaplasha, Emblica officinalis, Callicarpa three species, Clerodendrum two species, Lua species, Rubus rosaifolius, Thunbergia coccinea, Saccharum two species, (Oligolla and Barota,) Panicum, a straggling species, probably Roxburgh's P. corymbosum; Melica refracta, and Lygodium microphylla. There are no China Tea plants in these Gardens, never have been any, all are undoubtedly indigenous Assam, and of one uniform, excellent variety. Collected a specimen of the soil No. 25.

Sunset.—Fair.

30th, Tuesday, sunrise.—Foggy, air 48°.

Proceeded to Naholiah Factory, where about eighty acres of land is under Tea, consisting of Assam plants only, no China; gathered specimens from the indigenous plants, No. 38.

a.—Indigenous Assam Tea, thirty years old, leaves smooth, firm, long, lanceolate, variously dotted; plants exposed to the full sun and under bad cultivation.

b.—Indigenous Assam Tea, found growing wild in the forest: the same as specimen a. with larger leaves. All the Tea plants at Naholiah appear to be of one unform variety, and are all of the best kind of Assam Tea; in fact, the very same, the identical variety, that is, such a great favorite in all the new Gardens, under the several names of virida, hybrid, dark Assam, large leaved China, &c. This plant varies much in the shape of its leaves in a suitable soil and under good cultivation; the leaves are usually dark colored, smooth, firm, lanceolate, ovate lanceolate, or oblong lanceolate, and tapering to a fine or blunt, or emarginate point, variously dotted. The true character of this variety is that the leaves are copiously sprinkled with pellucid dots, usually minutely dotted over the whole surface, and sprinkled with larger dots; the larger dots are sometimes in clusters, sometimes solitary. The leading plants in the Naholiah forests are much the same as at Kahung; Liquidambur greatly predominates; here is also Urtica crenulata, Melastomeæ, Bidun species, and Æsculus species; sunset, fair, light clouds.

31st, Wednesday, sunrise.—Foggy, air 43°.

Started for Kato Factory, and arrived at 3 P. M. Visited the several Gardens; about eighty acres under Tea, the ground very much overrun with Oollo and Barota; the trees have suffered much for want of proper cultivation, and now look stunted; they have just been pruned, and were the ground well dug and kept clear from weeds the plants would undoubtedly recover and yield a good crop of leaves. The plants, like those at Naholiah, are of the best kind; collected specimen of the soil No. 27, and plants No. 39.

a.—Indigenous Assam Tea, thirty years old, leaves somewhat distant, smooth, firm, lanceolate, tapering, ultimately becoming emarginate, variously dotted.

The indigenous forest plants are much the same as those mentioned at Kahung and Naholiah; Liquidambur scarce; Mesua ferrua common, Thunbergia coccinea abundant; sunset, fair.

1863, January, Kato.

1st, Thursday, sunrise.—Slight fog, air, 46°.

Gathered a few more specimens of this beautiful variety of indigenous Tea, all from old plants; there are no China plants in any of these Gardens, never have been any, and the plants from which my specimens have been gathered were several years old "when the deputation" visited Assam in 1835-36, at which time the first consignment of China Tea plants were sent to Suddyah.

Started for Tippam; passed through the late Colonel Hannay's Tea Garden called Bozalong. The soil is excellent, and the plants are of the best indigenous kind, but have been injured by too much shade, and would according to botanical phraseology be called large leaved China; reached Tippam at 4½ P. M.; dense forest through and all the way from Tengrai Mookh, vid Kahung, Naholiah, and Kato to Tippam, not a village, not a cleared or cultivated spot. Here at Tippam is a fine patch of Tea, about forty acres, but not properly cultivated; gathered a few specimens No. 40.

a.—Indigenous Assam Tea, thirty years old, leaves distant, smooth, firm, lanceolate, tapering, variously dotted.

b.—Indigenous Assam Tea, thirty years old, growing in shade, leaves green, smooth, firm, largely waved, ovate or broadly lanceolate, minutely dotted.

c.—Indigenous Assam Tea, stunted, growing in full sunlight, with bad cultivation, thirty years old, leaves pale, yellowish, smooth, firm, largely waved, ovate, minutely dotted.

d.—China Tea, twenty years old, leaves smooth, firm, variously shaped, oblong, lanceolate, elliptic, distinctly and copiously dotted.

e.—China Tea, twenty years old, leaves crowded, smooth, firm, often coriaceous, variously shaped, obscurely dotted, sometimes distinctly dotted; sunset, fair.

2nd, Friday, sunrise.—Thick fog.

Crossed the Dehing to Jeypore, and returned to Tengrai Mookh; the bed of the Dehing has become very much silted up since I last saw it, and the current has cut away the banks on both sides at a tremendous rate several hundred feet on the Jeypore side; and on the right bank at Tengrai Mookh 400 feet in breadth has been carried away, and a sandbank of equal dimensions formed on the left bank.

Sunset.—Fair, Tengrai Mookh.

3rd, Saturday, sunrise.—Thick fog.

Sunset.—Fair.

4th, Sunday, sunrise.—Thick fog.

Sunset.—Fair. A man has just come in from Hookanjury and Towrak, bringing specimens of the Tea plants and soil.

5th, Monday, sunrise.—Thick fog, air 50°.

No. 41. Assam Company's Garden, Hookanjury.

a.—Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves oblong or lanceolate, variously dotted.

b.—China Tea, leaves lanceolate, obscurely dotted.

Collected specimens of the soil at Tengrai Mookh.

No. 31. Just below the surface.

No. 32. Five feet below the surface.

No. 33. Few feet below the surface all sand, below this potter's clay with a quantity of indurated sandstone like that found in the Dikho banks, near the mouth of the Darika.

No. 34. Hookanjury Tea Garden.

No. 35. Towrak Tea Garden.

Sunset.—Fair, air 66°.

6th, Tuesday, sunrise.—Thick fog, air 52°.

11 A. M. dropped down the river, abroad again; how much the bed is silting up, how much the current is cutting away the banks, and what an enormous number of snags there is in the bed of the stream, and this state of things must continue till the banks are cleared: there is not a properly cleared spot of ground on the river bank from the mouth of the river to Tippam.

Sunset.—Fair.

7th, Wednesday, sunrise.—Thick fog, air 58°.

Visited Mr. Will's Tea Garden at Hooloogoori or Bahmun Pookuri, about eighty acres under Tea. This grant is conveniently bounded on the east by the Hooloogoori Allee: the plants, which are now nine to eleven months old, are looking well: they are standing in rows six feet by three feet, were very regularly sown, and scarcely any appear to have missed. The soil is generally good; the indigenous forest trees are Aquilaria, Liquidambur, Cedrela toona, Aralia, Cinnamonum, Mesua, Clerodendrum, Premna, Samlemus, Melostomæ, Osbeckia, Urtica crenulata, and Anthesteria arrendemanie. Visited Mr. H. Jenkins' Tea Garden at Khooang, about 130 acres under Tea: plants standing six feet by three feet, very regular in the rows, and are looking of a lively green color; have lately been pruned; the leading forests trees are of much the same kinds as those at Bahmun Pookuri; more Mesua and less Liquidambur, with the addition of Lagerstræmia, Andrachnæ, Mimosa, Michelia, Bouhinia, Bignonia chelonoides, and a species of Gyrocarpus; sunset, fair.

8th, Thursday, sunrise.—Thick fog.

Dropped down stream, wrote General Jenkins; sunset, fair.

9th, Friday, sunrise.—Thick fog, air 47°.

Sunset.—Brahmapooter sandbank, fair.

10th, Saturday, sunrise.—Thick fog, air 50°.

Water of the Great River 58°.

Sunset.—Fair, 64°.

11th, Sunday, sunrise.—Thick fog, 52°.

Sunset.—Fair, 64°.

12th, Monday, sunrise.—Thick fog, 48°.

Sunset.—Fair.

13th, Tuesday, sunrise.—Cloudy, 56°.

Sunset.—Dhunsiri, above Numalighur, cloudy, rain in the night.

14th, Wednesday, sunrise.—Overcast, air 58°.

Sunset.—Khoontai, overcast.

15th, Thursday, sunrise.—Thick fog, air 56°.

Observed, on passing Littikoojan yesterday, that the yellow Tea soil rises up to the surface, where it is three to six feet deep, below that there is three to six feet of pure sand; observed also, as I passed Numalighur, that the high bank at that point is rapidly wearing away, although it appeared to remain stationary for several years. Looked in at Anna Bapary's Tea Garden, Gurrungajan, fourteen acres under Tea; seed sown in 1861, plants looking extremely well. I recognise them as the same variety as the indigenous plants in the neighbourhood of Gabroopurbut; about five acres of ground was sown with Tea in March last, and more ground is now in preparation. This man holds a rent paying Pottah for fourteen Poorahs.

Sunset.—Morning, fair.

16th, Friday, sunrise.—Foggy, air 45°.

Sunset.—Golaghat, cloudy.

17th, Saturday, sunrise.—Overcast, 56°.

2 P. M.—Rain, showery in the night.

18th, Sunday, sunrise.—Overcast, 59°.

1 P. M.—Rain; sunset, overcast.

19th, Monday, sunrise.—Overcast, 54°.

Wrote the Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Assam Company, submitting Memoranda on the state of the Tea Gardens, with a series of dried specimens of the different varieties of Tea plants found in the Company's Gardens; sunset, partial clouds.

20th, Tuesday, sunrise.—Overcast, 57°.
Sunset.—Overcast, 64°.
21st, Wednesday, sunrise.—Overcast, 57°.
Sunset.—Cloudy.
22nd, Thursday, sunrise.—Thick fog.

Arranged and put up in separate packets thirty-five specimens of soil to be forwarded to the Horticultural Society of India; No. 1, a fair specimen of the soil generally met with in localities completely above inundation in the vicinity of Golaghat.

No. 2. From Mr. J. M. Paul's Garden at Golaghat; the Tea plant grows freely in this soil.

No. 3. Mr. George Williamson's at Bengena Khua; Tea grows freely in it.

No. 4. The Jorehaut Company's Garden at Oating; Tea thrives in it.

No. 5. Mr. R. Spear's Garden near the Nambur; Tea grows freely in it.

No. 6. Mr. C. W. Stewart's Garden at Littikoojan; Tea is likely to thrive in this soil.

No. 7. The Jorehaut Company's Garden at Numalighur; Tea has succeeded well in this soil.

No. 8. Mr. George Williamson's Garden on the right bank of the Diphloo; Tea appears to thrive in this; the substratrine is a soft mouldering rock.

No. 9. Soil from the left bank of the Dikho near Darika Mookh.

No. 10. Assam Company's Tea Garden at Nazerah.

No. 11. Ditto in the Satrocah Forest, Mazenga.

No. 12. Ditto ditto among Kumaon plants.

No. 13. Ditto ditto, Hattiputty.

No. 14. Ditto ditto on elevated ground: in these last four Tea thrives and was found indigenous.

No. 15. Cheriedeo Tea Garden
No. 16. Ditto Deo Purbut
} Here Tea thrives and was found indigenous.

No. 17. Deopany Tea Garden; ground elevated, consisting of low hills; Tea flourishes in this soil.

No. 18. From the left bank of the Brahmapooter, similar to No. 9.

No. 19. Mr. Higg's Rheah Garden; Tea grows in it.

No. 20. Ditto Kumikur, a new clearance; Tea will probably thrive in this soil.

No. 21. Rev. E. H. Higg's Garden, left bank of the Sessa; Tea grows freely in it.

No. 22. Mr. Wagentrieber's Garden, Nagagooli; Tea grows freely in this soil.

No. 23. The old Government Tea Garden Chubwah, from among indigenous Tea plants, now more that thirty years old.

No. 24. Assam Company's Garden, Hoogreejan; Tea flourishes, indigenous.

No 25. Ditto Kahung; indigenous Tea flourishes in this.

No. 26. Ditto Naholiah; indigenous Tea flourishes in this.

No. 27. Ditto Kato; indigenous Tea flourishes in this.

No. 28. Ditto Tippam on the slope ...
No. 29. Ditto ditto on the summit ..
} Indigenous Tea flourishes here.

No. 30. Ditto ditto the rock; old red sandstone.

No. 31. Ditto Tingri Mookh surface soil; Tea has grown in it for twenty years.

No. 32. Ditto five feet below the surface,

No. 33. Ditto ten feet below the surface sand, below this potter's clay, striped with sandstone.

No. 34. Assam Company's Garden, Hookanjury, a considerable Hill; indigenous Tea flourishes.

No. 35. Assam Company's Garden, Towrak, a low Hill; indigenous Tea flourishes here.

Arranged and put up in forty-two separate wrappers specimens of the different varieties of Tea plants observed in the several Gardens visited, commencing at Golaghat.

No. 1. Gathered in Mr. J. M. Paul's Garden at Golaghat.—

a.—Assam Tea, leaves somewhat distant, colored, large, firm, lanceolate or oblong, scarcely tapering to an emarginate point, minutely dotted, and sprinkled with larger dots.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves large, thin, oblong or lanceolate, somewhat sharply serrated, distinctly dotted.

c.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, lanceolate, elliptic or ovate, copiously dotted.

d.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, narrow lanceolate, obscurely dotted.

No. 2. Gathered in Mr. G. Williamson's Garden at Bengena Khua.—

a.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, colored, large, firm, lanceolate or oblong, distinctly marked with minute pellucid dots and sprinkled with larger dots.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, large, thin, oblong or lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

c.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

d.—Sundry Tea leaves varying in size and form and variously dotted.

No. 3. Gathered in the Jorehaut Company's Garden at Oating.

a.—Assam Tea, leaves colored, firm, lanceolate or oblong, copiously dotted, and sprinkled with larger dots.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves large, thin, oblong, ovate, distinctly dotted.

c.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, lanceolate, pellucid dots not seen.

No. 4. Gathered in Mr. R. Spear's Garden, Nungletope.—

a.—Assam Tea, leaves large, firm, ovate, lanceolate or oblong, copiously dotted, and sprinkled with larger dots.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves various in shape, ovate or lanceolate, minutely and confusedly dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaves large, thin, ovate, lanceolate or oblong, confusedly dotted.

d.—Assam Tea, leaves large, lanceolate or elliptic, irregularly dotted.

e.—Assam Tea, leaves firm, lanceolate, minutely dotted.

f.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, ovate or lanceolate, distinctly and copiously dotted.

g.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, lanceolate, dots not seen.

h.—China Tea, leaves somewhat crowded, small, lanceolate, a few inconspicuous dots.

Sunset.—Cloudy.

24th, Saturday, sunrise.—Overcast, air 57°.

No. 5. Gathered in Mr. G. Williamson's Garden, Sokeyting.—

a.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, ovate, lanceolate, copiously dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves thin, ovate or oblong, copiously dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaves somewhat coriaceous, ovate or broadly lanceolate, irregularly dotted.

d.—Assam Tea, leaves broadly ovate or elliptic, obtuse, copiously dotted.

e.—Assam Tea, leaves firm, lanceolate, obtuse, emarginate, distinctly dotted.

f.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, ovate or lanceolate, copiously dotted.

No. 6. Gathered in the East India Company's Garden, Duphlating.

a.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, thin, ovate or oblong, lanceolate, conspicuously serrated, tapering, ultimately becoming emarginate, very minutely, very copiously dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves ovate or oblong, lanceolate, copiously dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaves ovate or elliptic, tapering, emarginate, minutely dotted.

d.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, ovate or elliptic, obtuse or emarginate, copiously dotted.

e.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, lanceolate or oblong, copiously dotted.

No. 7. Gathered in Mr. R. Spear's Garden near the Nambur.

a.—Assam Tea, leaves ovate, waved, obtuse or emarginate, minutely dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves colored, ovate, elliptic, corneate or obovate, copiously dotted.

c.—Tea, leaves waved, ovate, lanceolate or obovate, copiously dotted.

d.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, lanceolate, distinctly but sparingly dotted.

No. 8. Gathered in Mr. H. S. Partridge's Garden at Bengajan—a.—Assam Tea, leaves firm, ovate, lanceolate or elliptic, distinctly dotted.

No. 9. Gathered in Mr. C. W. Stewart's Garden at Littikoojan—a.—Assam Tea, leaves colored, smooth, firm, lanceolate or elliptic, copiously dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, colored, smooth, firm, ovate or elliptic, copiously dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, colored, ovate, lanceolate or elliptic, somewhat stem-clasping, distinctly dotted.

d.—Assam Tea, leaves somewhat crowded, broadly ovate or elliptic, distinctly dotted.

e.—China Tea, leaves lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

No. 10. Gathered in Mr. C. W. Stewart's Garden at Punlsa—

a.—Assam Tea, leaves ovate, lanceolate or elliptic, minutely but distinctly dotted.

No. 11. Gathered in the Jorehaut Company's Garden at Nunmalighur—a.—Assam Tea, leaves ovate, lanceolate or elliptic, sprinkled with pellucid dots.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, large, thin, ovate or oblong, lanceolate, tapering, very minutely, very copiously dotted; seed from Rajapamah in the Angami Naga Hills.

No. 12. Gathered in Mr. G. Williamson's Garden at Diphloo.

a.—Assam Tea, leaves somewhat crowded, firm, ovate, lanceolate or elliptic, copiously dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, waved, thin, ovate, lanceolate or oblong, copiously dotted.

No. 13. Gathered at Mr. R. Spear's Garden at Niggriting—a.—Assam Tea, leaves firm, ovate, oblong or broadly lanceolate, copiously dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves firm, broadly lanceolate, copiously dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaves firm, ovate or elliptic, obscurely dotted.

d.—China Tea, leaves somewhat stem-clasping coriaceous, ovate or elliptic, obtuse, conspicuously serrated, obscurely dotted.

e.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, ovately lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

f.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, lanceolate or elliptic, distinctly dotted.

No. 14. Gathered in the Jorehaut Company's Garden at Cinnamara.

a.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, oblong or ovately lanceolate, minutely dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves lanceolate or obliquely lanceolate, tapering, variously dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaves oblique, ovate or lanceolate, unequally divided by the midrib, minutely dotted.

d.—Assam Tea, leaves thin, ovate or lanceolate, slightly tapering, obscurely dotted.

e.—Assam Tea, leaves lanceolate, minutely dotted, sprinkled with larger dots.

f.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, smooth, firm, ovately lanceolate, often obtuse, minutely dotted and sprinkled with larger dots.

g.—Tea, leaves oblique, broadly ovate or elliptic, distinctly and copiously dotted.

h.—Tea, leaves coriaceous, broadly ovate, distinctly and copiously dotted.

i.—Tea, leaves coriaceous, lanceolate, ovate or orbicular, sometimes tapering, distinctly and copiously dotted.

l.—China Tea, leaves broadly lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

m.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

n.—China Tea, leaves lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

o.—China Tea, leaves lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

p.—China Tea, leaves lanceolate, broadly lanceolate or elliptic, distinctly dotted.

No. 15. Gathered in the Assam Company's Garden at Nazerah.

a.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, broadly lanceolate, obscurely or variously dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves obliquely lanceolate, obscurely or variously dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaves colored, lanceolate, copiously dotted.

d.—Assam Tea, leaves ovate or elliptic, minutely dotted.

e.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, colored, firm, smooth, lanceolate, variously dotted.

f.—China Tea, leaves somewhat stem-clasping, lanceolate or elliptic, variously dotted.

g.—China Tea, leaves various in shape, lanceolate, ovate, elliptic, orbicular or rotund, minutely dotted, and sprinkled with larger dots, which sometimes appear in clusters.

No. 16. Gathered in the Assam Company's Garden at Ligripookhurie—a.—Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves ovate, oblong or lanceolate, minutely dotted.

b.—Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves colored, somewhat distant, broadly lanceolate, often oblique, minutely dotted, and sprinkled with larger dots.

c.—Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves ovate, oblong or elliptic, minutely dotted.

f.—China Tea, leaves small, crowded, lanceolate, variously dotted.

h.—China Tea, leaves somewhat stem-clasping, lanceolate or elliptic, dots obscure.

No. 17. Gathered in the Assam Company's Garden at Mazenga.—

a.—Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves broadly lanceolate, copiously dotted.

b.—Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves oblique, oblong or broadly lanceolate, minutely dotted.

c.—Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves ovate or broadly lanceolate, obscurely dotted.

d.—Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves usually ovate, obscurely dotted.

e.—Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves broadly lanceolate, largely tapering, copiously dotted.

f.—Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves lanceolate, minutely dotted.

g.—Assam Tea, leaves often oblique, broadly lanceolate, copiously dotted with smaller and larger dots.

h.—China Tea, leaves lanceolate or elliptic, very copiously dotted.

No. 18. Gathered in the Assam Company's Garden at Mazenga: all China Tea: reared from seed received from Kumaon—a.—Leaves crowded, coriaceous, broadly ovate or elliptic, obtuse, obscurely dotted.

b.—Leaves coriaceous, somewhat stem-clasping, ovate, lanceolate or elliptic, obscurely dotted.

c.—Leaves coriaceous, crowded, oblique, lanceolate, obscurely dotted.

d.—Leaves coriaceous, ovate, lanceolate, elliptic, orbicular, rotund or obovate, obscurely dotted.

e.—Leaves smooth, oblique, lanceolate, slightly tapering, often unequally divided by the midrib, dots obscure.

f.—Leaves crowded, oblique, lanceolate, dots obscure.

g.—Leaves smooth, oblong or ovate, lanceolate, obtuse, emarginate, dots obscure.

h.—Leaves coriaceous, smooth, elliptic or ovate, dots obscure.

i.—Leaves coriaceous, smooth, oblique, ovate, dots obscure.

No. 19. Gathered in the Assam Company's Garden at Hattiputty.

a.—Assam Tea, leaves thin, broadly lanceolate, minutely dotted.

No. 20. Gathered in the Assam Company's Garden at Kacharipookhurie.

a.—Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves ovate, lanceolate or elliptic, minutely dotted.

b.—Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves distant, smooth, broadly lanceolate, copiously dotted; Satsocah.

No. 21.—Gathered in the Assam Company's Garden at Deopany—a.—Assam Tea, leaves usually lanceolate, often oblique, minutely dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves colored, somewhat distant, lanceolate, minutely dotted c.—Assam Tea, leaves thin, lanceolate, tapering, minutely dotted.

d.—Assam Tea, leaves lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

e.—China Tea, leaves small, ovate or lanceolate, sprinkled with pellucid dots, cluster dots.

f.—China Tea, leaves oblique, lanceolate, cluster dotted.

No. 22. Gathered in the Assam Company's Garden at Chereideo—a.—Assam Tea, leaves smooth, firm, often oblique, lanceolate, emarginate, sprinkled with large and small pellucid dots.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves large, oblong or broadly lanceolate, tapering, irregularly dotted.

c.—Tea, leaves firm, oblong or lanceolate, minutely dotted.

d.—Assam Tea, leaves broadly lanceolate, cluster dotted.

e.—Assam Tea, leaves lanceolate, copiously dotted and sprinkled with larger dots.

f.—China Tea, leaves usually lanceolate, copiously dotted.

g.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, ovate, elliptic or obovate, very copiously very irregularly dotted.

h.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, lanceolate, copiously dotted.

i.—China Tea, leaves usually lanceolate, sprinkled with many large dots.

k.—China Tea, leaves crowded, coriaceous, pellucid dots not seen.

No. 23. Gathered in Mr. J. Thornton's Garden at Seebsagor—a.—Assam Tea, leaves colored, somewhat distant, lanceolate, tapering, variously dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves thin, waved, broadly ovate, oblong or lanceolate, minutely dotted.

c.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, lanceolate, dots not seen.

No. 24. Gathered on the left bank of the Suffry River—a.—Wild Indigenous Assam Tea, leaves smooth, firm, lanceolate, tapering, distinctly dotted with smaller and larger dots.

No. 25. Gathered in various Gardens—a.—Assam Tea, leaves of various size, shape, and texture, and variously sprinkled with pellucid dots.

b.—China Tea, leaves of various size and texture, dots obscure or distinct.

No. 26. Gathered in the late Colonel Hannay's Garden at Dibrooghur—a.—Assam Tea, leaves somewhat distant, colored, firm, ovate, broadly lanceolate or elliptic, distinctly marked with minute pellucid dots and sprinkled with larger dots.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves large, smooth, firm, ovate, oblong or lanceolate, slightly tapering, distinctly dotted; the larger dots in clusters.

c.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, lanceolate or elliptic, copiously dotted.

No. 27. Gathered in Messrs. Milancy's Garden at Bor Pathur, Dibroo—a.—Assam Tea, leaves ovate, lanceolate or elliptic, copiously and variously dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves ovate or lanceolate, minutely dotted.

c.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, lanceolate, dots obscure.

No. 28. Gathered in the Reverend E. H. Higg's Garden at Dibrooghur—a.—Assam Tea, leaves ovate, elliptic or obovate, variously dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves somewhat crowded, ovate, oblong or broadly lanceolate, very copiously dotted.

c.—China Tea, leaves coriaceous, lanceolate, oblong or elliptic, copiously dotted.

No. 29. Gathered in Mr. Wagentrieber's Garden at Nagagooli—a.—Mishmi Tea; the seed from which this plant was reared was procured from Sessoopal Nugger on the Mishmi Hills, leaves somewhat colored, somewhat distant, usually lanceolate, slightly tapering, distinctly dotted with larger and smaller dots.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves somewhat colored, ovate or broadly lanceolate, tapering to a blunt point, minutely dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaves somewhat colored, smooth, firm, lanceolate, tapering, variously dotted.

d.—China Tea, leaves smooth or coriaceous, elliptic or lanceolate, sometimes obovate, minutely dotted.

No. 30. Gathered in Sundry Gardens at Dibrooghur—a.—Assam Tea, leaves various in size, shape, and texture, variously dotted.

No. 31. Gathered in Mr. J. Jenkins' Garden at Chubwah—a.—Assam Tea, leaves large, pale, thin, waved, ovate or lanceolate, often oblique, sometimes rounded at the base, minutely dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves colored, large, smooth, waved, broadly lanceolate, tapering, minutely dotted.

c.—Assam Tea, leaves smooth, waved, ovate or broadly lanceolate, tapering often oblique, obscurely or copiously dotted.

d.—Assam Tea, leaves colored, distant, smooth, firm, oblong, ovate, lanceolate or elliptic, often oblique, minutely dotted and sprinkled with larger dots.

e.—Assam Tea, leaves thin, smooth, colored, ovate or lanceolate, minutely dotted.

f.—Assam Tea, leaves firm, lanceolate, ovate or obovate, copiously sprinkled with pellucid dots.

g.—Assam Tea, leaves firm, waved, oblong, ovate or lanceolate, tapering, copiously dotted.

h.—Assam Tea, leaves dark green, firm, ovate, broadly lanceolate or elliptic, variously dotted.

i.—Tea, leaves from several different trees, varying in size, form, and texture, variously sprinkled with pellucid dots.

No. 32. Gathered in Captain Comber's Garden at Dibrooghur—a.—Assam Tea, leaves distant, very large, broadly lanceolate, tapering, variously dotted.

b.—Assam Tea, leaves colored, smooth, firm, oblong, lanceolate or ovate, variously dotted.

c.—China Tea, leaves lanceolate, distinctly dotted.

Vaccination in Bengal.

From Dr. J. McClelland, Officiating Principal Inspector-General, Medical Department, to the Hon'ble A. Eden, Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 15, dated the 4th May 1863.)

Sir,—I have the honor, herewith, to transmit the Annual General Return of Vaccination for the Presidency of Bengal for the year 1862, and am happy to be able to point to a very considerable increase in the number of successful operations at the Presidency, as well as in the Dacca and Dinapore Circles. There is a decrease in the Barrackpore Circle, and mainly in the Midnapore District. I believe, however, that the amount of bonâ fide vaccination performed there has not been less, only the care exercised to secure accuracy in the Returns has been greater.

2. The Presidency Returns may be most strictly relied upon; and there appears to be a growing demand for vaccination on the part of the Natives of all classes in the immediate neighbourhood of Calcutta, which promises to be attended with a still further and large increase in the numbers operated upon.

3. The Superintendent of Vaccination in a Return and Report just received from him states the number of successful cases of vaccination performed during the six months ending 31st March last to have been as high as 24,362; and under the new arrangements which he has proposed, and which I hope in a few days to submit for favorable consideration of the Lieutenant-Governor, there is good reason to hope that the benefits of vaccination may, with ordinary precautions in the ensuing season, become very widely extended in Lower Bengal.

Stowing of Grain for Prisoners.

Circular from the Inspector-General of Jails, Lower Provinces, to the Magistrate of————(dated Darjeeling, the 15th May 1863.)

SIR,—THE purchase of food grains in bulk and storing them having now been tried for three years with complete success, both in reducing cost and improving the quality of the Prison dietary, I have been directed by the Government to issue instructions for the adoption of the plan in every District of my jurisdiction to which it is applicable.

2. The replies of the Officers consulted shew that the most suitable plan in each Zillah is that adopted by the grain merchants of the place, which unites economy and efficiency with the due preservation of the grain. Should you not already have grain golahs attached to your Prison I shall feel obliged by your sending me a rough Plan and Estimate of such as you require—upon the model of those in general use in the District.

3. Great care must be taken to see that the grain is sound when stored—and to expose it to the air and sun from time to time should it exhibit any signs of decay, or of being attacked by insects. By these means the chance of loss is reduced to a minimum.

4. In the construction of the golahs the chief points requiring attention are to raise them sufficiently from the ground to protect the grain from damp and rats—and to be careful that, while perfectly water-tight, they are well ventilated.

5. The grain should be purchased when the crops are cut, or at the cheapest season of the year, and should be stored without husking. The rice should be kept for six months before issue, it being usually deemed unwholesome to use newer rice for human consumption.

6. All grains purchased for store should be carefully examined and passed by the Civil Surgeon—both as a security for its quality at the time and to prevent its subsequent rejection on the plea of unwholesomeness as has occurred in two or three instances. The finest qualities of pulses and food grains are not required. It is a fallacy to suppose that the prisoner needs a more expensive and luxurious dietary in confinement than when at large. The most wholesome food for him is that to which he has been accustomed from his childhood, and, provided it be good and sound of its kind, sufficient in quantity, properly husked and prepared, and cooked with ordinary care, there will be no need to introduce luxuries to which the poorer classes are unaccustomed on the erroneous plea of their being necessary for health.

7. The next indication to bear in mind is to secure as great a variety of the food grains of your own or neighbouring Districts as you possibly can. The incessant use, without change or variety, of the same articles of food, however good in themselves, is more productive of disease than the use of the coarser kinds of grain when changed as often as is practicable. But as the different food grains of India vary considerably in their nutritious properties, they require to be combined in different proportions to secure a really wholesome dietary, in which the elementary principles needed are properly represented. To enable you to accomplish this all-important object, in consultation with the Civil Surgeon, I append to this Circular a Table of the nutritious value of the food grains of India representing the proportion of carbonaceous to nitrogenous ingredients, and the mixture necessary of pulses rich in nitrogen to be added to substances deficient or poor in that constituent. For this Table I am indebted to the kindness of Dr. Forbes Watson. It has been prepared with the greatest care, and its results may be relied upon.

8. Within the gross quantity of the scale fixed you are not only at liberty to vary the food of the Prisoners as much as the resources of your District will admit of, but I particularly enjoin you to do so; and I am confident that the Civil Surgeon will afford you every aid in regulating the dietary, limited as above noted, so as to secure the highest attainable standard of health with the greatest economy. With the condiments and fresh vegetables which ought to be furnished by your garden the cost of the dietary is susceptible of considerable reduction in cost, while its wholesomeness and nutritious value will be increased by the adoption of the measures recommended above.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 24, 1863.

Government of Bengal.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

THE following Act of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council received the assent of His Honor on the 18th May 1863, and having been assented to by His Excellency the Governor-General on the 12th June 1863, is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. VI OF 1863.

An Act to vest the property of the Town of Calcutta, and the management of its Municipal affairs, in a Corporation, and to make better provision for the Conservancy and Improvement of the Town, and for the levying of rates and taxes therein.

WHEREAS it is expedient to vest the property of the Town of Calcutta, and the management of its Municipal affairs, in a Corporation, and to make better provision for the Conservancy and Improvement of the Town, and for the levying of rates and taxes therein : It is enacted as follows :

Preamble.

I. Act XIV of 1856 (for the Conservancy and Improvement of the Towns of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay), and Act XXV of 1856 (to comprise in one Act the provisions necessary for the assessment and collection of Municipal rates and taxes in the Towns of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay), so far as they relate to the Town of Calcutta ; and Act XXVIII of 1856 (for appointing Municipal Commissioners, and for levying rates and taxes in the town of Calcutta)—are hereby repealed respectively, except so far as they repeal the whole, or any part of, any other Act, and except as to any assessment which shall have been made, or to any act or offence which shall have been done or committed, or to any fine or penalty which shall have been incurred, or to any money which shall have become due, or to any proceedings which shall have been commenced, before this Act shall come into operation. Any sum of money due, or which may become due, under any or either of the said Acts, may be levied and recovered by the Justices under the provisions of this Act.

Laws repealed.

II. The following words and expressions in this Act shall have the meanings hereby assigned to them, unless there be something in the subject or context repugnant to such construction :—

Interpretation.

The word "Town" shall include all places within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of Her Majesty's High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal

"Town."

"The Justices."

The word "Street" shall mean any road, street, square, court, alley, or passage, whether a thoroughfare or not, over which the public have a right of way, and also the roadway over any public bridge or causeway, within the Town.

"Street."

The word "Land" shall include messuages, buildings, tenements, and hereditaments, of any tenure.

"Land."

"Month."

The word "month" shall mean calendar month.

The word "oath" shall include any affirmation or declaration lawfully substituted for an oath.

"Oath."

The word "Owner" shall mean the person for the time being receiving the rent of the land or premises in connection with which the word is used, whether on his own account, or as agent, or trustee, for any other person, or who would so receive the same if such land or premises were let to a tenant. Provided that no person receiving the rent of land or premises as agent for another person, shall be liable to do any thing by this Act required to be done by the owner of such land or premises, unless he have sufficient funds of the owner to pay for the same ; nor shall he be subject to any penalty for omitting to do such act, if he can prove that the default was occasioned by reason of his not having funds of the owner sufficient to defray the expense of doing the act required.

"Owner."

"Person." The word "person" shall include any association or body of persons, whether incorporated or not.

Number. Words importing the singular number shall include the plural number; and words importing the plural number shall include the singular number.

Gender. Words importing the masculine gender shall include the feminine.

The Justices of the Peace for the time being in Calcutta, to be a Corporation for the purposes of this Act.

III. All Justices of the Peace for Bengal, Behar, and Orissa, resident in the Town of Calcutta, and all Justices of the Peace for the Town of Calcutta, shall, by the name of "The Justices of the Peace for the Town of Calcutta," be a body corporate and have perpetual succession and a common seal, and by such name shall sue and be sued.

All the property and rights of action of the Municipal Commissioners vested in the Justices.

IV. All lands, buildings, works, and hereditaments, utensils, materials, books, plans, maps, papers, effects, monies, securities, and other property, moveable and immoveable, of what nature or kind soever, and all interest therein, whether vested, contingent, or in remainder, which shall, on the 1st day of July 1863, be vested in, or held in trust for, the Municipal Commissioners appointed under the said Act XXVIII of 1856, or which would have been vested in, or held in trust for, such Municipal Commissioners but for the passing of this Act, and all such estate and interest of and in the same respectively, as shall then be or would have been in, or in trust for, the said Municipal Commissioners or any of them, with all rights of way and other rights and easements now used and enjoyed by the said Municipal Commissioners, shall, on and from the date when this Act comes into operation, be vested in the Justices: and all persons who shall then owe any money to the said Municipal Commissioners, or to any person on behalf of the Municipal Commissioners, shall pay the same to the Justices or as they shall direct: and all monies which shall be then due and owing by, or recoverable from, the Municipal Commissioners, shall be paid by, or recoverable from, the Justices: and all contracts, agreements, mortgages, bonds, covenants, and securities, made or entered into before this Act comes into operation, to, with, or in favor of, or by or for, the said Municipal Commissioners, or any previous Municipal Commissioners for the Town of Calcutta, or any of them, or any person on behalf of such Municipal Commissioners, respectively, and all rights of action and suit arising out of contract or otherwise, shall take effect, and may be proceeded on and enforced, as near as circumstances will admit, in favor of, by, against, and with reference to, the Justices, in such manner as the same would have taken effect, and might have been proceeded on and enforced, in favor of, by, against, and with reference to, the said Municipal Commissioners respectively, or any of them, if this Act had not been passed.

Actions, &c., by or against Municipal Commissioners not to abate, &c.

V. No action, suit, prosecution, or other proceeding whatsoever, commenced or carried on either by or against the said Municipal Commissioners previously to the coming of this Act into operation, shall abate or be discontinued or prejudicially affected by this Act, but shall continue and take effect both in favor of and against the Justices, in the same manner in all respects as the same would have continued and taken effect in relation to the said Municipal Commissioners, or any of them, if this Act had not been passed: and all decrees and orders made, and all fines and penalties imposed and incurred, respectively, previously to the coming into operation of this Act, shall and may be enforced, levied, recovered, and proceeded for, and all administrative proceedings, commenced previously to the coming into operation of this Act, shall and may be continued, proceeded with, and completed, in such or the like manner as if this Act had not been passed, the Justices being, in reference to the matters aforesaid, in all respects substituted in the place of the said Municipal Commissioners.

What shall constitute the Municipal Fund.

Appointment and removal of Chairman of the Justices.

VII. The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall, from time to time, appoint one of the said Justices of the Peace to be Chairman of the Justices. Such Chairman shall be removeable from Office by the Lieutenant-Governor, if his removal be recommended by a Resolution in favor of which not less than two-thirds of the Justices of the Peace present at a Special General Meeting of the Justices shall have voted, but not otherwise.

Nomination and appointment of Vice-Chairman.

VIII. The Justices at a Special General Meeting, to be held within fifteen days from the date of the first appointment of a Chairman, shall nominate a proper person to be Vice-Chairman of the Justices. Such nomination shall be subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal; but when such approval shall have been duly notified to the Justices, the appointment shall be made by them. In the event of any nomination made by the Justices not being approved of by the Lieutenant-Governor, or of any vacancy occurring in the Office of Vice-Chairman, the Justices shall forthwith proceed, at a Special General Meeting, to make a fresh nomination and appointment, subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and so on from time to time. Provided that no person shall be appointed to the office of Vice-Chairman, who is not at the time of appointment a Justice of the Peace.

Appointment of Secretary, Engineer, Surveyor, Health Officer, Collector of Taxes, and Assessor.

IX. It shall be lawful for the Justices at a Special General Meeting, from time to time, to appoint proper persons to the several offices of Secretary, of Engineer, of Surveyor, of Health Officer, of Collector of Taxes, and of Assessor, for the Town of Calcutta. Every person so appointed, and the Vice-Chairman, shall be in all things under the immediate orders of the Chairman, and shall perform such duties as shall be assigned by him, and shall be removeable by the Justices by a Resolution in favor of which not less than two-thirds of the Justices of the Peace present at a Special General Meeting shall have voted.

Chairman and Vice-Chairman to reside in Calcutta and not to engage in any other profession or trade.

X. The Chairman and Vice-Chairman shall respectively reside within the Town of Calcutta, and shall devote his whole time to the duties of his office; and no Chairman or Vice-Chairman shall have or engage in any other profession, trade, or business whatsoever: Provided that nothing in this Act shall be deemed to prevent any Civil or Military Officer in the service of Government, from holding the office of Chairman or Vice-Chairman, so long as such Officer shall fill no other appointment: Provided further that it shall be lawful for any Chairman to hold also the office of Commissioner of Police for the Town of Calcutta, if he shall be appointed to such office by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

Proviso.

Allowances of Chairman and Vice-Chairman.

XI. The Chairman and the Vice-Chairman, respectively, may receive such allowances out of the Municipal Fund as shall be from time to time fixed by the Justices at a Special General Meeting. Provided that such allowance for any Chairman shall not exceed the rate of three thousand Rupees a month (exclusive of house rent, which may or may not, at the discretion of the Justices, be also allowed): and provided that such allowance for any Vice-Chairman shall not exceed the rate of twelve hundred Rupees a month.

Salaries of Secretary, Engineer, &c.

XII. Every Secretary, Engineer, Surveyor, Health Officer, Collector of Taxes, and Assessor, appointed as hereinbefore provided, may receive such allowance out of the Municipal Fund, as shall be from time to time fixed by the Justices at a Special General Meeting.

Appointment and remuneration of Overseers, Clerks, and Subordinate Officers.

XIII. The Chairman may from time to time appoint all such Overseers, Clerks, and Subordinate Officers, and servants, as he shall think necessary and proper to assist in the execution of this Act, and may, from time to time, remove any of such persons and appoint others in their place; and out of the Municipal Fund he may, with the sanction of the Justices at a Special General Meeting, pay such allowances to the said persons respectively, or in case of absence on leave such portion thereof, as he shall think reasonable. Provided that no person shall be appointed to, or removed from, any office the monthly salary of which exceeds two hundred Rupees, without the sanction of the Justices at a Meeting.

Proviso.

Officers under Municipal Commissioners to continue until removed.

XIV. Every Overseer, Clerk, and other Officer appointed by, or acting under, the authority of the Municipal Commissioners under Act XXVIII of 1856, and not acting contrary to the provisions of this Act, shall hold and enjoy his office and employment, together with the salary or emolument thereunto annexed, until he shall be removed therefrom by the Chairman or by the Justices at a Meeting. Every such Overseer, Clerk, and Officer shall have the like power and authority for the purposes of this Act, and for carrying the same into execution, and shall be subject and liable to the like pains and penalties, and to the like power of removal, in all respects as if he had been appointed by virtue of this Act.

Justices to grant leave of absence, &c., with sanction of Government.

XV. It shall be lawful for the Justices at a Special Meeting, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, to grant such leave of absence to any Chairman or any Officer appointed under Sections VIII and IX of this Act, and, in the case of any Officer appointed under either of those Sections, to make such arrangements for the carrying on the duties of his office during his absence on leave, as shall to them seem proper. In any case in which leave of absence shall be granted to the Chairman, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall appoint one of the Justices of the Peace to act as Chairman in his place, or shall make such other arrangements for carrying on the duties of the office as shall to him seem proper. Any person appointed under this Section to act for the Chairman or any other Officer, shall, while so acting, have all the powers and be liable to all the restrictions, limitations, and provisions, which the Chairman or other Officer for whom he may be appointed to act, would, under this Act, have or be liable to.

Allowances during absence on leave.

XVI. In any case in which leave of absence shall be granted under the last preceding Section, the Justices may at a Special Meeting, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, out of the Municipal Fund, pay to any Chairman or other Officer aforesaid, such allowance, during absence on leave, as shall to them seem proper. Provided that no greater expenditure from the Municipal Fund shall be in any case incurred in the whole, by reason of any such allowance, or of any allowance paid under Section XIII, than would have been incurred had no leave been granted.

Proviso.

Penalty on Officers, &c, being interested in contracts &c.

XVII. Clause 1.—No Chairman or Vice-Chairman, or other Officer, or servant, of the Justices, shall be in any wise concerned, or interested, in any contract or work, made with, or executed for, the Justices; and if any such Chairman or Vice-Chairman, or other Officer or servant, be so concerned or interested, he shall be incapable of afterwards holding or continuing in any office or employment under the Justices, and shall forfeit and pay the sum of five hundred Rupees, which may be recovered by suit, by any person, with full costs of suit. Provided that no person, being a shareholder of any Joint Stock Company established by, or under the provisions of, any Act of Parliament, or of the Government of India, or by Charter, shall be prevented from being employed as a Chairman, Vice-Chairman, or other Officer or servant, by reason of any contract between such Company and the Justices, or of any work executed by such Company.

Penalty on Officers, &c, for taking unauthorized fees.

Clause 2.—If any person employed under this Act, not being a public servant within the meaning of Section 21 of

Justices to provide an Office and keep a book for entry of complaints.

Time for holding Quarterly and Ordinary Meetings.

XIX. There shall be four Quarterly Meetings in every year, and two Ordinary Meetings in every month, at which the Justices shall meet for the transaction of general business: and it shall not be necessary to give any notice of the business to be transacted at such Meetings. The Quarterly Meetings shall be held at noon, on the first Monday in the months of January, April, July, and October, and the Ordinary Meetings at noon on the first and third Monday of every month respectively, or if any such Monday shall happen to be a holiday allowed by Government, then on the next succeeding day which shall not be such a holiday.

Special, and Special General, Meetings may be called.

What business to be transacted at Special, and Special General, Meetings.

XXI. No business shall be brought before or transacted at any Special, or Special General, Meeting, other than the business specified in the notice given under the last preceding Section: Provided always that any Justice of the Peace may submit to a Special, or Special General, Meeting, any Resolution, beyond the matters mentioned in the notice given of such Meeting, if he shall have given not less than three days' previous notice of his intention so to do, by leaving a copy of the Resolution at the Office of the Justices.

All questions to be decided at Meetings by majority of votes.

XXII. All acts authorized or required to be done by the Justices, and all questions which may come before them for decision, shall, save as is herein otherwise provided, be done, and decided by, a majority of the Justices of the Peace present at any Ordinary or Quarterly Meeting, before which the matter may be brought.

Who to preside at Meetings of the Justices.

XXIII. The Chairman and Vice-Chairman shall attend all Meetings of the Justices held under this Act, unless prevented by sickness or other reasonable cause; and the Chairman, or, in his absence, the Vice-Chairman, shall preside at every such Meeting, and shall have a second, or casting, vote in all cases of equality of votes. In the absence of both the Chairman and Vice-Chairman, the Justices of the Peace present at any Meeting shall choose some one of their number to preside. The President of any Meeting at which a quorum of the Justices of the Peace shall be present, may, with the consent of the Meeting, adjourn the Meeting from time to time and from place to place; but no business shall be transacted at any adjourned Meeting other than the business left unfinished at the Meeting from which such adjournment took place.

What shall constitute a Quorum.

XXIV. No business shall be transacted at any Meeting unless a quorum of Justices of the Peace be present; that is to say, at an Ordinary Meeting unless at least three Justices of the Peace be present, at a Special Meeting unless at least seven Justices of the Peace be present, and at a Special General, or Quarterly, Meeting unless at least twenty-five Justices of the Peace be present; Provided always that, if at any Meeting of the Justices there shall not be a sufficient number of Justices of the Peace present to form a quorum, the President (whether he be the Chairman, or not) shall adjourn the Meeting to such convenient time and place as he shall think fit; and the business which would have been brought before the original Meeting had there been a quorum present, shall be brought before, and disposed of by, the adjourned Meeting in the usual manner, whether there be a quorum of Justices of the Peace present at such adjourned Meeting or not.

Minutes of Proceedings of Justices to be kept, and to be open for inspection.

XXV. Minutes of the Proceedings of all Meetings of the Justices shall be drawn up, and fairly entered in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall be signed by the President after each Meeting; and the said Minutes shall, at all reasonable times, be open at the Office of the Justices to the inspection of any Justice of the Peace without charge, and of any other person on payment of a fee of eight annas.

Declaration of President that a Resolution has been carried sufficient, unless poll be demanded.

XXVI. At any Special General, or Quarterly, Meeting, unless a poll be demanded by at least five Justices of the Peace, and at any Special, or Ordinary, Meeting, unless a poll be demanded by at least three Justices of the Peace, a declaration by the President that a Resolution has been carried, and an entry to that effect in the book of Proceedings of the Justices, shall be sufficient evidence of the fact, without proof of the number or proportion of the votes recorded in favor of, or against, such Resolution.

XXVII. If a poll be demanded as in the last preceding Section mentioned, or be taken at any Meeting of what kind soever, the votes of the Justices of the Peace present shall be taken by the President, each being called on to vote in order of seniority on the roll of the Justices of the Peace, and the result of such poll shall be deemed to be the Resolution of the Justices at such Meeting.

Poll how to be taken.

XXVIII. The Chairman or Vice-Chairman shall, except upon such holidays as shall be allowed by Government, attend daily at the Office of the Justices for the transaction of business connected with or arising under this Act, and, when so attending, shall have all the powers vested by this Act in the Justices; and they may, respectively, exercise the like powers at all times in carrying out the orders of the Justices, or in executing any works sanctioned by them, and generally in the management of the business aforesaid. Provided that it shall not be lawful for the Chairman or Vice-Chairman to act in opposition to, or contravention of, any order of the Justices, or to exercise any power which it is by this Act expressly declared shall be exercised only by the Justices at a Meeting.

Chairman or Vice-Chairman to attend daily for the transaction of business, and to exercise the powers of the Justices.

XXIX. The Justices may enter into all such contracts as may be necessary for carrying this Act into execution. The Chairman or the Vice-Chairman may, for and on behalf of the Justices, enter into any such contract whereof the value or amount shall not exceed five hundred Rupees: but every such contract, whereof the value or amount shall exceed five hundred Rupees, shall be in writing and signed by the Chairman, or in his absence by the Vice-Chairman, and two other Justices of the Peace, and shall be sealed with the seal of the Justices. Every contract so entered into as aforesaid, and duly executed by the other parties thereto, shall be binding on the Justices and their successors, and upon all other parties thereto, and their executors, administrators, successors, or assigns, to all intents and purposes. Provided always that the Justices may compound with any contractor or other person in respect of any penalty incurred by reason of the non-performance of any contract entered into as aforesaid, whether such penalty be mentioned in any such contract or in any bond, or otherwise, for such sums of money or other recompense as to the Justices may seem proper.

Mode of contracting by, and on behalf of, the Justices.

Proviso.

Justices may appoint Committees.

Proviso.

XXXI. At a Special General Meeting to be held under this Act on the second Monday in the month of July 1863, or as soon after as conveniently may be, the Chairman shall lay before the Justices a Budget or Estimate, prepared by him, of the expenditure and income of the Municipality from the date on which this Act shall come into operation up to the first subsequent day of January: and at the Quarterly Meeting to be held in the month of October in each year, the Chairman shall lay before the Justices a Budget or Estimate, prepared by him, of the expenditure and income of the Municipality for the year commencing on the 1st of January then next succeeding, in such detail and form as the Justices shall from time to time, by order passed at a Quarterly, or Special General, Meeting, direct. Provided always that such Budget shall be completed and printed, and a copy thereof sent by post or otherwise to each of the Justices of the Peace, resident within twenty miles of Government House, at least seven days prior to the Meeting before which the Budget is to be laid.

A Budget or Estimate of Income and Expenditure to be submitted annually to the Justices.

XXXII. The Budget shall shew what expenditure it is proposed to incur during the period to which it relates, and the manner in which it is proposed to meet such expenditure.

Budget of Expenditure.

XXXIII. It shall be in the discretion of the Justices to pass, or to reject, or to modify, the estimates of all or any sums entered in the Budget. No new work or series of works, the entire estimated cost of which as shewn in the Budget shall exceed fifty thousand Rupees, shall be commenced without the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor having been previously obtained.

Revision and passing of Estimates.

No new work, the estimated cost of which exceeds 50,000 Rupees, to be commenced without the sanction of Government.

XXXIV. The accounts of the receipts and expenditure of the Justices shall be audited and examined once in every year, at the least, at such time and by such Auditors as shall from time to time be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. For the purposes of any audit and examination of accounts under this Act, the Auditors may, by summons in writing, require the production before them of all books, deeds, contracts, accounts, vouchers, and all other documents and papers which they may deem necessary, and may require any person, holding or accountable for any such books, deeds, contracts, accounts, vouchers, documents, or papers, to appear before them at any such audit and examination, or adjournment thereof, and to make and sign a declaration with respect to the same: and if any such person neglect or refuse so to do, or to produce any such books, deeds, contracts, accounts, vouchers, documents, or papers, or to make or sign such declaration, he shall be liable for every neglect or refusal to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees. All Auditors acting under this Act shall, in respect of each audit, be paid out of the Municipal Fund such reasonable remuneration as the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall from time to time determine: Provided always that, before each audit and examination of accounts under this Act, the Chairman shall give ten days' notice of the time and place at which the same will be made, by Accounts to be audited and examined.

Proviso.

advertisement in the English and Bengallee Government Gazettes, and in at least two of the daily English Newspapers, and in two Vernacular Newspapers, published in Calcutta; and a copy of the accounts to be audited and examined shall be deposited in the Office of the Justices, and be open during office hours thereat, to the inspection of all persons interested, for seven days before the audit and examination, and all such persons shall be at liberty to take copies of, or extracts from, the same, without the payment of any fee; and within fourteen days after the audit and examination shall have been completed, the Auditors shall report upon the accounts audited and examined, and shall deliver such report to the Justices at a Meeting, who shall cause the same to be deposited in the Office of the Justices, and to be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and in some one or more of the said newspapers.

All rates to become due under the last assessments and payable to the Justices.

XXXV. Whereas the assessments last made under the said Acts XXV and XXVIII of 1856, include the months of July, August, September, October, November, and December 1863, and power is given by this Act to impose and levy rates upon the owners and occupiers of the same houses, buildings, and lands, which were subject before the passing of this Act to the said assessments, for a period including the same months, it is hereby enacted that any sum of money, which would have become due from any owner or occupier in respect of the said assessments for the several months aforesaid, may be levied and recovered by the Justices in like manner as the same might have been levied and recovered if this Act had not been passed, unless the Justices shall impose and levy any other rate under the provisions of this Act.

Mode of fixing the rate at which taxes shall be levied under this Act.

XXXVI. At the Special General Meeting to be held on the second Monday in the month of July 1863 as aforesaid, or as soon after as conveniently may be, the Justices shall fix the rates at which such taxes as are leviable under this Act shall be levied, from the date on which this Act shall come into operation, till the first day of January next ensuing: and at the Quarterly Meeting to be held in the month of October in each year, the Justices shall fix the rates at which such taxes as are leviable under this Act, shall be levied for the year commencing on the first day of January then next ensuing.

Such rate not to be altered except at a Special General Meeting.

The rates so fixed shall not be altered before the Quarterly Meeting held in the next succeeding month of October, except by a Resolution passed by the Justices at a Special General Meeting.

Tax on carriages, horses, &c.

Owners of carriages, &c., to take out license.

XXXVIII. The owner of every carriage, horse, pony, or mule, kept within the Town, shall before the 1st day of October 1863, and shall, on or before the 1st day of January and the first day of July in each year, forward to the Office of the Justices a statement in writing, signed by him, containing a description of the vehicles and animals liable to the tax, for which he desires to take out a license. The owner shall at the same time pay to the Justices such sum as shall be payable by him, for the half year commencing on the first day of July 1863, or on such subsequent first day of January or of July (as the case may be), for the vehicles and animals specified in in such statement, according to the rates given in the said Schedule. Any person becoming possessed, between the first day of January, and the first day of July, or between the first day of July and the first day of January, of a carriage, horse, pony, or mule so kept, shall, within a week of becoming so possessed, send to the Office of the Justices a similar statement, together with the full amount payable for the then current half year according to the said Schedule, unless he shall be able to prove, to the satisfaction of the Justices, that the tax for the half year has previously been paid.

On payment of the tax, the Justices to give a license.

XXXIX. On receiving the amount of the tax as aforesaid, the Justices, or some person duly authorized by them in that behalf, shall give to the person paying the same, a license for each of the vehicles and animals for the period in respect of which the money is received. The owner of every carriage, horse, pony, or mule, who shall have received a license for the same, shall, at all reasonable times during the said period, be bound to produce such license, when called upon to do so by the Justices, or any person duly authorized in writing by them to demand its production.

Penalty for keeping a carriage, &c., without having a license.

XL. If the owner of any carriage, horse, pony, or mule, so kept as aforesaid, shall not have duly taken out a license under the last preceding Section, he shall, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, be liable to a fine not exceeding three times the amount of the tax which would have been payable by such person, supposing him to have duly paid the same as soon as it became due. Provided that no proceeding shall be taken, before the first day of October 1863, to enforce such penalty against any person who shall not have duly taken out such license for the half year commencing on the first day of July in the year aforesaid.

Proviso.

Justices may compound for carriages with livery stable-keepers and others.

XLI. The Justices, at their discretion, may compound, for any period not exceeding one year, with livery stable-keepers, and other persons keeping carriages for hire, for a certain sum to be paid for the carriages so kept by such persons, in lieu of the taxes specified in the Schedule (A). And if any person, having so compounded, shall refuse to pay the sum compounded for on the demand of the Justices, he shall, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, be liable to a fine not exceeding three times the amount so payable.

XLII. The Justices shall, from time to time, cause to be prepared and entered in distinct columns, in a book to be kept at the Office of the Justices, and to be open to the inspection of any person who shall apply for leave to inspect the same, a list of the persons who during the then current period of six months shall have received a license under Section XXXIX of this Act, and of the vehicles and animals in respect of which they may have paid.

List of persons licensed under Section XXXIX, to be entered in a book.

XLIII. It shall be lawful for the Justices, or any person or persons appointed by them for that purpose, at any time between sunrise and sunset, to enter and inspect any stable or coach-house, or any place wherein they may have reason to believe that there is any vehicle or animal liable to taxation under Section XXXVII of this Act, for which a license has not been duly taken out; and the Justices may summon any person, whom they have reason to believe to be liable to the payment of any tax under the last mentioned Section, or any servant of such person, and may examine such person or servant as to the number and description of the horses and carriages in respect of which such person is liable to be taxed. Whoever being so summoned shall, without lawful excuse, fail to appear in pursuance of the summons, and whoever hinders or obstructs the Justices or any person appointed by them as aforesaid, from or in entering or inspecting any such stable, coach-house, or place, shall be liable, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Power to inspect stable, &c., and to summon persons liable to the payment of the tax.

Registry and numbering of Hackeries &c.

XLV. The registration of carts, hackeries, and other vehicles under the last preceding Section, shall be made and the numbers assigned half-yearly, on or before the first day of January and the first day of July in each year, upon such days as the Justices shall appoint, and a fee of four Rupees shall be paid for each registration. Any person becoming possessed, between the first day of January and the first day of July, or between the first day of July and the first day of January, of any such cart, hackery, or other vehicle, which has not been registered for the then current half-year, shall, within a week of becoming so possessed, register the same, and the Justices shall grant registration in any such case, on payment of a fee for the unexpired portion of the current half-year, calculated at the rate of four Rupees aforesaid. When any registered cart, hackery, or other vehicle is transferred within any half-year, it shall be registered anew in the name of the person to whom it has been transferred; and a fee of four annas shall be paid for every such last mentioned registration.

Fee for registration.

XLVI. Whoever owns or keeps any cart, hackery, or other wheeled vehicle not on springs, required by this Act to be registered, without having caused the same to be registered under the last preceding Section, shall, on and after the first day of October 1863, be liable, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, to a fine not exceeding three times the usual registration fee: and the Justices, or any Officer duly authorized by them, may seize or cause to be seized any such cart, hackery, or other vehicle, (provided the same be not employed at the time of seizure in the conveyance of any passengers or goods,) together with the horses, bullocks, or other animals drawing the same, and may detain them: and all Police Officers are hereby required, on the application of the Justices or their Officers as aforesaid, to seize and detain the same. If the person owning or keeping such cart, hackery, or other vehicle, shall be convicted before a Justice of the Peace under this Section, and ordered to pay a fine, and if the vehicle seized be not claimed, and and the fine be not paid within ten days, such vehicle, together with the animals seized with it (if any), may be sold by auction by order of a Justice of the Peace, and the proceeds applied to the payment of the fine, and to the costs and charges incurred on account of the seizure, detention, and sale; and the surplus (if any), if not claimed by the owner or the person keeping such cart, hackery, or other vehicle within a further period of twenty days, shall be paid to the Justices.

Penalty for not registering a cart or hackery.

XLVII. On and after the first day of July 1863 every person who shall within the Town exercise any of the professions, trades, or callings specified in Schedule (B) to this Act annexed, shall take out a license and shall pay for the same such annual sum as is in the said Schedule (B) mentioned: provided that for any such license which shall be granted before the first day of January 1864, there shall be paid only one half of the said annual sum.

Persons exercising certain professions trades and callings in the Town, to take out a license.

XLVIII. Every license under Section XLVII shall be granted by the Justices or by some person duly authorized by them in that behalf, and shall specify the date of the grant thereof, the true name of the person to whom the license is granted, and the sum paid for such license.

License to be granted by Justices and to specify particulars.

XLIX. Every license shall have effect and continue in force from the day of the date thereof until the day hereinafter appointed for the expiration thereof; and every such license which shall be granted before the 1st day of January 1864 shall expire on that day, and every such license which shall be granted upon or at any time after that day, shall expire on the 31st day of December next after the day of the granting thereof.

License to be in force how long.

Licenses to be renewed on expiring.

L. Every person to whom any such license shall be granted and who shall be desirous of continuing to exercise his profession, trade, or calling after the expiration thereof, shall take out a fresh license for that purpose for the following year, to expire on the day appointed in the last preceding Section, and shall renew the same from year to year, so long as he shall desire to continue such profession, trade, or calling.

Chairman to classify all persons required by this Act to be licensed.

LI. The Chairman shall determine under which of the classes mentioned in the Schedule (B) to this Act annexed, every person to whom a license may be granted shall be assessed. The Justices at a Meeting shall from time to time declare what are to be considered, Bazars, Hauts, or Public Markets, within the meaning of this Act.

Chairman to prepare a list of all persons required by this Act to be licensed.

LII. As soon as may be after the first day of January in every year, the Chairman shall prepare a list of the persons licensed under this Act, which list shall state the profession, trade, or calling of each of the persons therein named, the class under which he is assessed, and the sum paid by him in respect of his license, and such list shall be filed in the Office of the said Chairman, and be open to public inspection at all reasonable times.

Penalty for not taking out a license.

LIII. If, after the first day of October 1863, any person within the said limits shall exercise his profession, trade, or calling without having duly taken out a license as required by Section XLVII, he shall be liable, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, to a penalty not exceeding three times the amount which in the judgment of such Justice of the Peace would have been payable by such person in respect of a license duly taken out as aforesaid.

Penalty for not producing license when called on to do so by an Officer of the Justices, &c.

LIV. Any person required by Section XLVII to take out a license, who shall, without reasonable excuse, neglect or refuse to produce and show his license, when required so to do by an Officer duly empowered in writing by the Chairman to make such requisition, shall, on conviction before a Justice of the peace, be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Rate on all houses, buildings, and lands in the Town.

LV. An annual rate, not exceeding ten per centum of their annual value, may be imposed by the Justices upon all houses, buildings, and lands, in the Town, and shall be assessed in the manner hereinafter described: Provided that it shall be at the option of the Justices, in lieu of such rate, to levy upon any lands unappropriated to any building or premises, or upon any native huts with their appurtenances, a fixed annual rate not exceeding four Rupees for every cottah occupied by them, respectively. Any rate levied under this Section shall be payable by the owners of the said houses, buildings, lands, and huts, respectively, by quarterly instalments.

Proviso.

Exemption of Fort William and of buildings on its esplanade, and buildings used for public worship.

LVI. Houses, buildings, and lands situate in Fort William, on the esplanade of the Fort, and in Cooly Bazar, and buildings used exclusively as places of public worship, shall not be liable to any rate under the last preceding Section.

If assessment be made at a higher annual value than the amount paid by the tenant, owner may recover difference from him.

LVII. If the annual value or fixed rate referred to in Section LV, shall in any case exceed the amount of rent payable by the lessee or tenant to the owner, the owner may in such case recover from the lessee or tenant the difference between the sum assessed upon him, and the sum at which he would have been assessed had he been rated only upon the amount of rent actually payable to him, and such difference shall be added to the rent payable by such lessee or tenant, and shall be recoverable by the owner from him, by such means and in like manner in all respects as such rent is recoverable.

Remission on account of vacant houses.

LVIII. When any house shall have been vacant for sixty consecutive days during any year, the Justices shall remit so much, not exceeding one-half, of the rate for that year, as may be proportionate to the number of days the said house may have remained unoccupied: provided that the owner of such house, or his agent, shall have given to the Justices notice in writing of the vacancy thereof, and that the amount of rate to be remitted shall be calculated from the date of the delivery of such notice.

Lighting-rate.

LIX. To provide for the lighting of the public streets of the Town, an annual Lighting-rate, not exceeding two per centum of their annual value, may be imposed by the Justices upon all houses, buildings, and lands in the Town, and shall be assessed in the manner hereinafter described. Provided that it shall be at the option of the Justices, in lieu of such rate, to levy upon any lands unappropriated to any building or premises, or upon any native huts with their appurtenances, a fixed annual rate, not exceeding twelve annas and ten pies, for every cottah occupied by such last mentioned lands, or huts with their appurtenances. Any rate levied under this Section, or under Section LXI, shall be payable by the occupiers of the said houses, buildings, lands, and huts, respectively, by quarterly instalments.

Proviso.

Gross proceeds of Lighting-rate to be applied for purposes of lighting.

LX. The Justices shall cause the public streets of the Town to be sufficiently lighted: and the sum applicable annually to the current expenses of lighting the said streets, shall be the gross proceeds of the said Lighting-rate and no more; but the Justices may expend, out of the Municipal Fund, such further sums as may from time to time be requisite for the purchase, setting up, and maintaining of lamps, lamp-posts, pipes, and other necessary apparatus.

Water-rate.

LXI. The Justices shall carry out a complete system for the supply of water within the Town, and shall for that purpose cause such pipes to be laid and such tanks, reservoirs, and other works to be made and constructed as shall be necessary. Such supply shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, to be complete within the Town, or within any divi-

Occupier liable to the rate for time of occupation.

LXII. Every occupier shall be liable to the Lighting-rate and to the Water-rate for the time of his occupation; and when any person shall have been an occupier for a part only of any quarter, the Justices shall charge him with only so much of the rate for that quarter, as may be proportionate to the number of days during which he shall have continued to be an occupier. No such rate shall be chargeable to any person on account of any unoccupied house for the time during which it may remain unoccupied. Provided always that, when any person ceases to be the occupier of any premises liable to the rate, he shall give the Justices notice thereof, or, if he fail to give such notice, he shall be liable to the rate assessed on the said premises for the whole quarter, although they may have been occupied for a part only of such quarter.

Proviso.

Owner when liable.

LXIII. When any house or building, or any land, is let by the owner in apartments, flats, or portions, the owner shall be liable to pay the Lighting-rate and the Water-rate, instead of the occupier or occupiers.

Occupiers subletting to be liable.

LXIV. When any person, who rents from the owner any house or building, or any land, sublets the same in apartments or portions, such person, for the purposes of the Lighting-rate and of the Water-rate, shall be held to be the occupier.

Any person liable to any rate, leaving the Town during a quarter, may be made at once to pay such rate up to date.

Annual value of houses, buildings, and lands, how to be ascertained.

LXVI. The estimated gross annual rent at which the houses, buildings, and lands, liable to the rate or rates imposed under this Act upon houses, buildings, and lands according to the annual value thereof, might reasonably be expected to let from year to year, shall, for the purposes of the rates leviable under this Act, be held and deemed to be the annual value of such houses, buildings, and lands. The value of a house or building so estimated shall not include the value of any machinery contained therein.

Annual value to be assessed by the Justices: assessment to remain in force for three years.

LXVII. The annual value at which any lands, houses, buildings, or huts with their appurtenances, are to be assessed, or the area on which they are to be rated under this Act, shall be fixed by the Justices, and such lands, houses, buildings, and huts with their appurtenances, shall be assessed or rated, upon the value or the area so fixed, for three years from the date on which it is so fixed, and on no other value or area. Provided that, if during the currency of the said period of three years any new building shall be erected on any land, or any substantial alteration and improvement shall be made in any premises, it shall be lawful for the Justices to cause such land or premises to be again assessed, even though the three years shall not have expired, and such last mentioned assessment shall be in force, and the rate shall be levied according to it, until the expiration of the said three years.

Proviso.

Value assessed, or measurement, to be entered in a book, &c.

LXVIII. The annual value assessed, or the area fixed, by the Justices as hereinbefore provided, shall be entered in a book to be kept at the Office of the Justices, wherein shall also be written in distinct columns the name of the owner of the property; or, if the occupier, and not the owner, is the person liable to pay the rate, the name of the occupier; a designation of the property, either by name or number, sufficient to identify the same, together with the name of the street or district in which such property is situate, and the amount of the rate assessed or fixed thereon.

New valuation or measurement to be made.

LXIX. The Justices shall, immediately after this Act comes into operation, proceed without delay to make a valuation or measurement of all lands, houses, tenements, and premises within the Town, and for such purpose shall divide the Town into such and so many districts as they many think fit, and proceed to make a separate valuation or measurement district by district, and shall enter the same in the said book. The valuation which, at the date of this Act coming into operation, shall stand entered in the book kept at the Office of the Municipal Commissioners under Section V of Act XXV of 1856, shall be taken to be the first valuation made under this Act, Valuation now standing in the book of the Municipal Commissioners, to be taken as the first under this Act, till new one be made.

until such time as the Justices shall have caused a new valuation or a measurement to be made.

Owner or occupier how to be designated, if his name be unknown.

LXX. When the name of the owner or occupier is not known, it shall be sufficient to designate him in the said book, and also in any notice or other proceeding under this Act, as "the owner" or "the occupier" of the property on which the rate is assessed, without further description.

Returns may be required for purpose of valuation.

LXXI. In order to enable the Justices to arrive at a fair valuation or measurement of any houses, buildings, or lands liable to the rate, it shall be lawful for the Justices to require the owner or occupier of such houses, buildings, or lands to furnish them with returns of the measurements and of the rent or annual value thereof; and for the like purpose, it shall be lawful for the Justices, or any person or persons appointed by them for that purpose, at any time between sunrise and sunset, to enter and inspect and measure such houses, buildings, or lands, after having given forty-eight hours' previous notice of such their intention to the occupier thereof; and whoever refuses or fails to furnish any such return for the space of one week from the day on which he shall have been required so to do, or knowingly makes a false or incorrect return, and whoever hinders, obstructs, or prevents any Justice of the Peace, or any person appointed by the Justices as aforesaid, from entering or inspecting or measuring any such houses, buildings, or lands, shall be liable, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees.

Power to enter houses, &c.

Public notice of valuation and measurement to be given.

Notice of time of revising assessment.

After revision, the assessment book to be authenticated by seal of Justices.

Rate assessed to be deemed the rate for three years.

Alteration or amendment of assessment.

LXXV. Provided always that the Chairman or Vice-Chairman may at any time amend the said book, by inserting therein the name of any person whose name ought to be so inserted, or by inserting any property liable to the rate, after giving notice to such person as may be interested in the making of the amendment, of a day, not being less than fifteen days from the date of the service of such notice, when such amendment is to be made; or by striking out the name of any person or any property not liable to the rate, or reducing the amount of the rate, without notice: and if any amendment shall be made, in cases where notice is required, the same shall be deemed to have been made on the expiration of fifteen days after service of the said notice; and any person interested in such amendment may appeal, by application in writing to the Justices left at their Office three days before the day fixed in the said notice for such amendment.

New assessment book need not be prepared every three years.

LXXVI. It shall not be necessary to prepare a new book every three years, but the Justices may adopt the valuation or measurement and assessment contained in the book for any period of three years, with such alterations as may, in particular cases, be deemed necessary, as the valuation or measurement and assessment for the three years next following. Provided always that public notice of such valuation or measurement and assessment shall be given, in the manner prescribed in Section LXXII of this Act; and the provisions of that and the three following Sections shall be applicable to the said valuation or measurement and assessment, and to the book or books in which it is contained.

Proviso.

Hearing of appeals.

LXXVII. Appeals against any rate assessed or demanded by the Justices under the provisions of this Act, shall be heard and determined by not less than three Justices of the Peace. But no such appeal shall be heard unless the amount of the rate has been deposited with the Justices.

Assessment by Justices when to be final.

LXXVIII. The assessment by the Justices of any rate, when no appeal therefrom is made as hereinbefore provided, and the adjudication of any appeal under the preceding Section, shall be final and conclusive.

Bills to be presented.

LXXIX. When any rate is due, the Justices shall cause to be presented, to the person liable to the payment thereof, a bill for the sum due, which shall also contain a statement of the period, and a description of the property or thing, for which the rate is charged.

Notice of demand.

LXXX. If the bill is not paid, by the person liable to pay the same, within seven days from the presentation thereof, the Justices may cause to be served upon such person a notice of demand, in the form contained in the Schedule (C) to this Act annexed, or to the like effect; and if he shall not, within seven days from the service of such notice of demand, pay the sum due, or show sufficient cause, to the satisfaction of the Justices, for non-payment of the same, such sum, with all costs, may be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the defaulter, or if the defaulter be the occupier of any house, building, or land in respect of which a rate is due, by distress and sale of any goods and chattels found on the premises, under a warrant in the form contained in the Schedule (D) to this Act annexed, or to the like effect, to be issued for that purpose by the Justices. For every notice of demand under this Section which the Justices shall cause to be served upon any person, a fee not exceeding one Rupee, the amount of which shall be in each case fixed by the Justices, shall be paid by such person. Such fee shall be added to the amount of the rate in respect of which the notice is given, and, if not duly paid, shall be levied in the same manner as such rate may be levied.

Distress.

Inventory—notice of distress.

LXXXI. The Officer charged with the execution of a warrant of distress under the last preceding Section, shall make an inventory of the goods and chattels seized under any such warrant, and shall at the same time give a notice in writing, in the form contained in the Schedule (E) to this Act annexed, to the person in possession thereof at the time of the seizure, that the said goods and chattels will be sold as therein mentioned.

Sale.

LXXXII. If the warrant is not in the meantime discharged or suspended by the Justices, the goods and chattels seized shall be sold under the orders of the Justices, who shall apply the proceeds, or such part thereof as may be necessary, in discharge of the said arrears and costs; and the surplus, if any, shall be returned, on demand, to the person in possession of the goods and chattels at the time of the seizure. Fees shall be payable upon distraints under this Act, according to the rates set forth in the Table of Fees in the said Schedule.

Fees.

Goods of defaulter, wherever found, may be distrained.

Rate due from owner may be recovered from occupier and deducted by him from his rent.

LXXXIV. If the sum due on account of any rate from the owner of any house, building, or land remains unpaid, after notice of demand has been duly served, the Justices may demand the amount from the occupier for the time being of such house, building, or land, and, on non-payment thereof, may recover the same by distress and sale of any goods and chattels found on the premises; and in such case, the occupier may deduct, from the next and following payments of his rent, the amount which may be so paid by or recovered from him. Provided that no arrear of rate which has remained due from the owner of any house, building, or land for more than one year, shall be so recovered from the occupier thereof.

Distress not unlawful for want of form.

LXXXV. No distress levied by virtue of this Act shall be deemed unlawful, nor shall any party making the same be deemed a trespasser, on account of any defect or want of form in the notice, schedule, summons, notice of demand, warrant of distress, inventory, or other proceeding relating thereto, nor shall such party be deemed a trespasser ab initio, on account of any irregularity afterwards committed by him; but all persons aggrieved by such irregularity may recover full satisfaction for any special damage sustained by them, in any Court of competent jurisdiction.

Justices may sue, instead of proceeding by distress.

LXXXVI. Instead of proceeding by distress and sale, or in case of failure to realize by distress the whole or any part of the sum due in respect of any rate, the Justices may sue the person liable to pay the same, in any Court of competent jurisdiction.

Service of notices.

LXXXVII. Every notice, schedule, summons, or notice of demand, regarding any assessment, rate, or tax, or any money due in respect of the same, may be served personally upon the person to whom the same is addressed, or be left at his usual place of abode with some adult male member or servant of his family, or, if it cannot be so served, may be put up on some conspicuous part of such place of abode, and shall thereby be deemed to be duly served. Provided that, if the place of abode of the owner of any house, building, or land, in respect of which a rate is assessed, be unknown, or if the owner of any such house, building, or land be not resident within the limits of the Town, every such notice, summons, or notice of demand shall be deemed to be duly served, if put up on some conspicuous part of the house, building, or land in respect of which the rate is assessed.

Proviso.

Assessment not to be impeached, if the directions of the Act are in substance complied with.

LXXXVIII. No assessment, and no charge or demand of a rate or tax, made under the authority of this Act, shall be impeached or affected by reason of any mistake in the name of any person liable to pay the rate or tax, or in the description of any property or thing liable to the rate or tax, or any mistake in the amount of assessment, provided the directions of this Act be in substance and effect complied with; and no proceedings under this Act shall, for want of form, be quashed or set aside in any Court of Justice.

Drainage.

LXXXIX. The Justices shall carry out such a complete system of sewerage and drainage within the Town as they may think desirable, subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and subject to such alterations as may from time to time be ordered by him.

Drainage rate on houses in the environs of the Town.

XC. The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal may determine what portions, if any, of the environs of the Town shall be included in the said system of sewerage and drainage, and may declare the boundaries thereof by notification in the Government Gazette. An annual rate, to be fixed from time to time by the said Lieutenant-Governor, not exceeding two and a half per centum of their annual value, may be imposed upon all houses, buildings, and lands situated within the boundaries so notified, and the same shall be payable by the owners thereof in quarterly instalments. For the purposes of the said rate, the houses, buildings, and lands situated within such boundaries as aforesaid, shall be held to be a part of the Town; and all the provisions of this Act which relate to the assessment and collection of rates payable by owners, shall have effect in respect to such rates.

Justices may erect wharves &c., on river and canal banks, and levy fees for goods landed thereon.

XCI. It shall be lawful for the Justices, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, to erect wharves, jetties, or quays, in any river or canal bordering upon lands which may belong to the Justices. And it shall be lawful for the Justices to levy, upon all goods shipped or landed at any such quays, wharves, or jetties, erected as aforesaid, wharfage, porterage, and other fees, according to a scale to be laid down from time to time by the Justices with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

Goods landed on wharves, &c., may be detained until fees are paid.

XCII. It shall be lawful for the Officers, appointed by the Justices to superintend the landing and shipment of goods from any quays, wharves, and jetties erected under the provisions of the last preceding Section, to detain any such goods until the wharfage, porterage, and other charges due thereon shall have been paid.

Mortgage of rates.

XCIII. Clause 1.—For the construction of works of a permanent nature under this Act, the Justices may, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, from time to time, borrow by way of debenture, on the security of the rates, taxes, and dues imposed and levied on account of the Municipal Fund under this or any Act passed in that behalf, or of a portion of them, and at such rate of interest and upon such terms as to the time of re-payment and otherwise as the said Lieutenant-Governor may approve, any sums of money the Justices may require for the objects aforesaid.

Form of security.

Clause 2.—All the debentures aforesaid, issued under the authority of this Act, shall be in the form contained in the Schedule (F) to this Act, and shall be transferable by endorsement, and the right to sue in respect of the monies secured by any of such debentures, shall be vested in the holders thereof for the time being, without any preference by reason of some of such debentures being prior in date to others.

Payment of debentures by fresh mortgage of rates.

Clause 3.—The Justices may at any time, with such consent as aforesaid, raise, by the issue of new debentures, any money that may be required to pay any monies for the time being due on any debentures issued in pursuance of this Act.

Justices may keep a Register of births and deaths, and appoint Registrars.

XCIV. It shall be lawful for the Justices to keep in their Office a Register of all births and deaths in the Town, and for this purpose they shall divide the Town into such and so many Districts as they shall think fit, and for every such District they shall appoint a person to be Registrar of births and deaths within such District.

Every Registrar to live in his District; list of Registrars to be published, &c.

XCV. Every Registrar shall dwell within the District of which he is Registrar, and shall cause his name, with the addition of Registrar for the District for which he shall be so appointed, to be placed in some conspicuous place on or near the outer door of his own dwelling-house; and the Justices shall cause to be printed and published a list, containing the name and place of abode of every Registrar in the Town.

Justices to have Register books prepared and numbered.

XCVI. The Justices shall cause to be prepared and printed a sufficient number of Register Books for making entries of all births and deaths which may take place in the Town, according to the forms prescribed in Schedules (G) and (H) to this Act annexed: and the pages of such book shall be numbered progressively from the beginning to the end.

Registrar to inform himself of, and register, births and deaths.

Information of births to be given within one month.

XCVIII. The father or mother of every child born in the Town, or in case of the death, illness, absence, or inability of the father and mother, the occupier of the house or tenement in which such child shall have been born, shall, within one month next after the day of every such birth, give information to the Registrar of the District, according to the best of his or her knowledge and belief, of the several particulars hereby required to be known and registered touching the birth of such child. Any person whose duty it shall be to give information to a Registrar under this Section, who shall refuse or neglect to give such information, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Information of death to be given.

XCIX. Some one of the persons present at the death, or in attendance during the last illness, of every person dying in the Town, or, in case of the death, illness, inability, or default of all such persons, the occupier of the house or tenement, or if the occupier be the person who shall have died, some inmate of the house or tenement in which such death shall have happened, shall, within eight days next after the day of such death, give information to the Registrar of the District, according to the best of his or her knowledge and belief, of the several particulars hereby required to be known and registered touching the death of such person. Any person who shall refuse or neglect to give any information which it is his duty to give under this Section, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Person giving information, to sign the Register.

C. Every person by whom the information contained in any Register of births or deaths under this Act shall have been given, shall sign in the Register his name, description, and place of abode; and no such registration shall be deemed to be complete or of any effect until such person shall have so signed it.

Account of population to be taken.

CI. At such times and in such manner as shall be directed from time to time by the Justices, an account shall be taken of the number of persons who, at the time of taking such account, shall be within the Town, and the persons employed in taking such account shall set down the several particulars respecting the same which are hereinafter prescribed.

Chairman to superintend the taking an account of the population.

CII. The Chairman shall superintend the taking of such account, and shall cause to be prepared and issued, for the use of the persons to be employed, such forms and instructions as he shall, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor, deem necessary, and all the expenses incurred shall be defrayed out of the Municipal Fund.

Enumeration Districts.

CIII. Each Police division of the Town shall be formed into one or more Enumeration Districts.

At the appointed time occupiers of houses shall give the required information.

CIV. At such times as shall be appointed under Section CI of this Act, and as shall be notified in the Official Gazette by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, every occupier of a dwelling house or of any part of a dwelling-house distinctly occupied, and every person to whom a Schedule, as hereinafter provided, may have been delivered, shall afford such information, in regard to all persons who were abiding in his house, or in the place under his charge, on the night immediately preceding, and in such manner, as may, under this Act, be lawfully required of them.

Persons to be employed as enumerators.

CV. The Chairman shall select a sufficient number of competent persons to act as enumerators; and every such enumerator, under the direction of the Chairman, shall visit every house within his District, except as hereinafter provided, and shall take an account in writing of the name, sex, age, caste, nationality, and occupation, of every living person who shall abide therein on the night immediately preceding the day appointed as aforesaid, and shall also take an account of the occupied houses and the houses then being built and therefore uninhabited, and also of all other uninhabited houses within his District, and in all respects conform to, and obey, the instructions which may be issued to him by the Chairman in this behalf. Provided always that, in the case of females, no account shall be taken either of their name or age.

Schedules.

CVI. The Chairman, when he may deem such a course to be advisable, may cause a Schedule, in such form as shall be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor, to be delivered to any occupier of any dwelling-house who he shall have ascertained to be able to write, and such occupier shall fill in all the particulars required in the form on the day to be appointed, and shall deliver the same to such persons as may be duly authorized to demand the same.

Military and Naval Officers and certain others, if required, to act as enumerators.

CVII. Any Military or Naval Officers in command of bodies of Military or Naval men, or of Vessels of War, or any Master of a Merchant Vessel, or Nacodah or Tindal of a vessel or boat, or any person in charge of a Lunatic Asylum, Hospital, or Prison, or of any public or private charitable or scholastic institution, or any keepers of Hotels or Lodging-houses, shall, if required, act as enumerators for the purpose of taking account of persons under their command or charge, or abiding in their houses, on the night immediately preceding the day to be appointed; every person so required to act as an enumerator shall receive and conform to all instructions in writing which may be issued to him by the Chairman in that behalf.

Returns of houseless persons.

CVIII. The Chairman shall obtain, by such ways and means as shall appear to him best adapted for the purpose and as shall be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor, returns of the particulars required by this Act with respect to all houseless persons, and all persons who, during the said night preceding the day to be appointed, were on out-door night duty, or for any other reason were not abiding in any house of which account is to be taken by the enumerators.

Streets vested in the Justices.

CIX. All public streets in the Town (not being the property and kept under the control of the Government), existing at the time this Act comes into operation, or which shall afterwards be made, and the pavements, stones, and other materials thereof, and also all erections, materials, implements, and other things provided for such streets, shall vest in and belong to the Justices.

Power to make and improve streets.

CX. The Justices, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, may lay out and make new streets, and may build and construct bridges and tunnels; and may turn, divert, discontinue, or stop up, any public street, and may widen, open, enlarge, or otherwise improve, any such street; making due compensation to the owners and occupiers of any land, houses, or buildings which may be required for any such purposes.

Power to take land adjoining new streets, for building purposes.

CXI. In laying out or making any new street or in turning, diverting, widening, opening, enlarging, or otherwise improving any public street, in addition to the land required for the carriage-ways and foot-ways thereof, the Justices may purchase also the land necessary for the houses and buildings to form the said street, and may sell and dispose of the same, with such stipulations and conditions as to the class and description of houses or buildings to be erected thereon, as they shall think fit. Provided that, if any land be taken under the provisions of this Act, compensation shall be made to the owners for any direct or immediate damage which may be done thereby to any adjoining land or buildings of such owner.

Compensation for damage to adjoining land.

Power to agree for purchase of land for improving streets or for other Municipal purposes.

CXII. The Justices may agree with the owners of any land or building for the absolute purchase thereof for the purpose of laying out and making new streets, or of widening, enlarging, or otherwise improving any of the public streets, or for any other purpose whatever connected with the conservancy or general improvement of the Town.

Mode of ascertaining compensation for land, &c.

Power to sell lands or buildings.

CXIV. The Justices may sell any lands or buildings vested in them by virtue of this Act, or acquired by them for the purposes thereof, either together or in parcels as they may find most convenient and advantageous, and the proceeds of such sale shall be applied to the purposes of this Act; and for carrying such sale into effect, the Justices may execute a conveyance of the lands sold to the purchaser, and such conveyance shall be under the common seal of the Justices, and shall be executed in all respects in the manner hereinbefore provided for the execution of contracts, the value or amount of which exceeds five hundred Rupees.

Power to sell old streets.

CXV. Whenever any street hereby vested in the Justices shall be discontinued and stopped up under the provisions of Section CX of this Act, the Justices may sell the lands, or such part thereof as shall not be required for the purposes of this Act.

Maintenance and repair of streets.

Footways.

Cleansing streets.

CXVII. The Justices shall cause the streets, including the foot-ways thereof, to be regularly swept and cleansed; and the dust, dirt, ashes, rubbish, and filth of every sort found thereon, to be collected and removed.

Dust Boxes in streets.

Depositing dirt on streets, &c.

Allowing sewerage to flow on streets.

CXX. Whoever causes or allows the water of any sink or sewer, or any other offensive liquid matter belonging to him or being on his land, to run, drain, or be thrown or put upon any street, or causes or allows any offensive matter from any sewer or privy to run, drain, or be thrown into a surface drain in any street, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten Rupees for each offence.

Removal of night-soil.

CXXI. The Justices from time to time may fix the hours within which only it shall be lawful to remove any night-soil or other such offensive matter. When the Justices have fixed such hours and given public notice thereof, whoever removes or causes to be removed along any street any such offensive matter at any time, except within the hours so fixed, and also whoever, at any time, whether such hours have been fixed by the Justices or not, uses for any such purpose any cart, carriage, or other receptacle or vessel not having a covering proper for preventing the escape of the contents thereof or of the stench therefrom, or who slops or spills any such offensive matter in the removal thereof, or who does not carefully sweep and clean every place in which any such offensive matter has been slopped or spilled, or who places or sets down in any public place any vessel containing such offensive matter, or who drives or takes or causes to be driven or taken any cart, carriage, receptacle, or vessel used for any such purpose as aforesaid, through any street or by any route other than such as shall from time to time be by public notice appointed for that purpose by the Justices, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty Rupees for each offence.

Places of deposit for filth.

CXXII. The Justices, from time to time, shall appoint or provide places convenient for the deposit of the night-soil, dung, and other filth, and the dust, dirt, ashes, and rubbish collected and removed under the authority of this Act; and for keeping all cattle, carts, implements, and other things required for the above or any of the purposes of this Act; and, for any of such purposes, the Justices may purchase or take on lease any land or buildings by them considered necessary, or may cause any new building to be made upon any land to be purchased or hired by them.

All rubbish, &c., collected, to be the property of the Justices.

CXXIII. All dirt, dust, ashes, rubbish, sewerage, soil, dung, and filth, collected from the streets, houses, privies, sewers, and cess-pools, shall be the property of the Justices, who shall have power to sell or dispose of the same as they may think proper, and the money arising from the sale thereof, shall be applied to the purposes of this Act.

Watering streets.

CXXIV. The Justices, so far as the funds at their disposal will admit, and so far as they may deem requisite for the public convenience, shall cause the public streets to be watered; and for that purpose may provide such works and engines as they may think necessary.

Future obstructions in streets.

CXXV. Whoever builds any wall, or erects or sets up any fence, rail, post, or other obstruction or encroachment, in any public street or in or over any open drain, sewer, or aqueduct along the side of any such street after this Act comes into operation, shall be liable, to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees; and

Power to remove.

the Justices shall have power to remove any such obstruction or encroachment; and the expense of such removal shall be paid by the person erecting the same, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided. Nothing herein

Temporary obstruction on occasions of festivals, &c.

contained shall prevent the Justices from allowing any temporary erections in any public street on occasions of festivals and ceremonies.

Taking up pavements.

CXXVI. Whoever displaces, takes up, or makes any alteration in the pavement, flags, or other materials, or in the fences or posts of any public street, without the consent in writing of the Justices, or without other lawful authority, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Private persons laying out new streets.

CXXVII. Every person who wishes to make or lay out any new street, shall give notice in writing thereof to the Justices, shewing the intended level and width of such street; and the level and width of every such street shall be fixed or approved by the Justices; and whoever lays out, makes, or builds upon, any such street, otherwise than in accordance with the level and width so fixed or approved, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five hundred Rupees; and the Justices may, if they think fit, cause any such street, laid out or made at a level or width otherwise than in accordance with the level or width so fixed or approved as aforesaid, to be altered; or may cause any building, erected in any such street otherwise than in accordance with such level and width, to be altered, or if necessary removed, and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid to them by the offender, and be recoverable as hereinafter provided. If no such level or width be

Erection of new huts to be under the control of the Justices.

CXXVIII. It shall not be lawful for any person to erect, within the Town, any hut or any range or block of huts, on any plot or parcel of ground on which no huts are standing, without previous notice to the Justices; and the Justices may require such hut or huts to be built so that they may stand in regular lines, with a free passage or way in front of each line, of such width as the Justices may think proper for salutary ventilation, and to facilitate scavengering, and at such a level as will admit of sufficient drainage. And if any such hut or huts be built without giving such notice to the Justices, or otherwise than as required by the Justices, the Justices may give notice to the builder or builders thereof to take down and remove the same within one month, and if such hut or huts be not taken down or removed according to such notice, the Justices may cause the same to be taken down and removed, and the expense incurred in doing so shall be paid by the said builder or builders, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Power of Justices as to existing huts.

CXXIX. Whenever the Justices are satisfied, from inspection or by report of competent persons, that any existing block of huts in the Town, is, by reason of the manner in which the huts are crowded together, or of the want of drainage and the impracticability of scavengering, attended with risk of disease to the inhabitants or the neighbourhood, they may, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, cause a notice to be fixed to some conspicuous part of such block of huts, requiring the owners or occupiers thereof, or, at the option of the Justices, the owner of the land on which such huts are built, within a reasonable time to be fixed by the Justices for that purpose, to execute such operations as the Justices with such sanction as aforesaid may deem necessary for the avoidance of such risk. And in case such owners or occupiers, or the owner of the land, shall refuse or neglect to execute such operations within the time appointed, the Justices may cause the said huts to be taken down, or such operations to be performed in respect of such huts, as the Justices may deem necessary to prevent such risk. If such huts be pulled down, the Justices shall cause the materials of each hut to be sold separately, if such sale can be effected; and the proceeds shall be paid to the owner of the hut, or if the owner be unknown, or the title disputed, shall be held in deposit by the Justices, until the person interested therein shall obtain the order of a competent Court for the payment of the same. The Calcutta Court of Small Causes shall be deemed a competent Court for that purpose.

Paving, &c., of private streets.

CXXX. If any street (not being a public street), or any part thereof, be not levelled, paved, metalled, flagged, channelled, and sewered to the satisfaction of the Justices, they may, by notice in writing to the respective owners or occupiers of the premises fronting, adjoining, or abutting upon, such parts thereof as may need to be levelled, paved, metalled, flagged, channelled, and sewered, require them to level, metal, pave, flag, channel, and sewer the same within a time to be specified in such notice, and upon non-compliance the Justices may, if they think fit, execute the works mentioned or referred to therein: and the expenses incurred by them in so doing shall be paid by the owners in default according to the frontage of their respective premises, and in such proportion as shall be settled by the Justices, or, in case of dispute, as shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses; and such expense shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Proviso.

Provided always that, after such streets shall have been so levelled, paved, metalled, flagged, channelled, and sewered, on the requisition of the Justices, or by the Justices as aforesaid, at the expense of the owners, such owners shall have a right to require that the street shall be declared a public street, to be from time to time repaired by the Justices out of the Municipal Fund.

Certain streets to be deemed public and repaired by the Justices.

CXXXI. If any street (not being a public street, but being a street over or through which the public have or may hereafter have a right of way) be levelled, paved, metalled, flagged channelled, and sewered to the satisfaction of the Justices, they may, if they think fit, by notice in writing put up in any part of such street, declare the same to be a public street, and thereupon the same shall become a public street, and be from time to time repaired by them out of the Municipal Fund.

Houses may be set forward for improving line of streets.

CXXXII. The Justices may, upon such terms as they shall think fit, allow any house or building to be set forward for improving the line of any public street in which such house or building is situated.

Houses projecting beyond line of street, when taken down, to be set back.

CXXXIII. When any house or building, any part of which projects beyond the regular line of a public street, or beyond the front of the house or building on either side thereof, has been taken down in order to be re-built or altered, the Justices may require the same to be set back to or towards the line of the street or the line of the adjoining houses or buildings.

Proviso.

Provided always that the Justices shall make full compensation to the owner of any such house or building for any damage he may thereby sustain, and if any dispute shall arise touching the amount of such compensation, the same shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses.

Names of streets.

CXXXIV. The Justices shall, from time to time, cause to be put up or painted on a conspicuous part of some house, building, wall, or place at or near each end, corner, or entrance of every street, the name by which such street is to be known; and whoever destroys, pulls down, or defaces any such name, or puts up any name different from that put up by order of the Justices, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty Rupees.

Numbers on houses.

CXXXV. The Justices may, from time to time, fix a number in a conspicuous place on the outer side of any house or building, or at the entrance of the enclosure thereof fronting the street; and whoever destroys, pulls down, or defaces any such number, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty Rupees.

Doors not to open outwards.

Doors opening outwards to be altered.

CXXXVII. If any door, gate, bar, or ground-floor window, put up before this Act comes into operation, is hung or placed so as to open outwards upon any public street and cause obstruction, the Justices may alter the same, so that no part thereof, when open, shall cause an obstruction, and the expense thereof shall be paid by the owners and be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Troughs and pipes to be fixed to houses.

CXXXVIII. The owner of every house or building in any public street shall, within fifteen days after notice from the Justices to that effect, put up and keep in good condition proper troughs and pipes for catching and carrying the water from the roof and other parts of such house or building, and for discharging the same in such manner as the Justices shall direct, and in default of compliance with such notice within the period aforesaid, such owner shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten Rupees for every day that he shall so make default.

Projections erected in future from houses, to be removed.

CXXXIX. The Justices may give notice in writing to the owner or occupier of any house or building, to remove or alter any projection, encroachment, or obstruction, which, after this Act comes into operation, shall be erected or placed against or in front of such house or building, and such owner or occupier shall, within fifteen days after the service of such notice upon him, remove such projection, encroachment, or obstruction, or alter the same in such manner as shall have been directed by the Justices, and in default thereof shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees; and the Justices in such case may remove such projection, encroachment, or obstruction; and the expense of such removal shall be paid by the owner or occupier so making default, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Proviso.

Provided that, when the expense shall have been paid by the occupier, except in the case in which such projections, encroachments, or obstructions were made or put up by him, such occupier shall be entitled to deduct the expense of removing or altering the same, from the rent payable by him to the owner of the house or building.

Removal of existing projections from houses.

Notice of removal.

Compensation when to be made.

CXLI. The Justices may give permission in writing to the owners or occupiers of houses or buildings in public streets, to put up verandahs, balconies, sun-shades, weather-frames, and the like, to project from any upper-story thereof over the street, to an extent not exceeding five feet from the foundation.

Justices may allow certain projections from houses.

CXLII. The external roofs and walls of huts or other buildings erected or renewed within the Town, after this Act comes into operation, shall not be made of grass, leaves, mats, or other such inflammable materials; and it shall not be lawful for the owner of any hut or other building, in or near any street, now having an external roof or wall made of any such material, and which is contiguous to or adjoining to any other building, to suffer such roof or wall to remain after this Act comes into operation, unless with the consent in writing of the Justices; and whoever makes any external roof or wall of such materials, or suffers any roof or wall made of such materials to continue contrary to the provisions herein contained, and who shall not remove or alter the same within one month after notice given to him for that purpose by the Justices, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten Rupees for every day that such roof or wall shall continue. Any person may give information and institute a prosecution under this Section.

Roofs and external walls of huts not to be made of inflammable materials.

CXLIII. If, in any street, any house, building, or wall, or any thing affixed thereon, be deemed by the Justices to be in a ruinous state, or likely to fall, or in any way dangerous to the inhabitants of such house or building, or to the neighbouring houses or buildings, or to the occupiers thereof, or to passengers, they shall immediately, if it appears to them to be necessary, cause a proper hoard or fence to be put up for the protection of passengers, and shall cause notice in writing to be given to the owner, if he be known and resident within the limits of their jurisdiction, and shall also cause such notice to be put on the door or other conspicuous part of the said premises or otherwise to be given to the occupier thereof (if any), requiring such owner or occupier forthwith to take down, secure, or repair such house, building, wall, or thing affixed thereon, as the case shall require; and if such owner or occupier do not begin to repair, take down, or secure the same within three days after such notice, and complete such work with due diligence, the Justices shall cause all or so much of such house, building, wall, or thing as they shall think necessary, to be taken down, repaired, or otherwise secured; and all the expenses incurred by the Justices shall be paid by the owner of the premises, and shall be recoverable from him as hereinafter provided.

Houses in a ruinous and dangerous state.

Sale of materials of ruinous houses.

Power to shut up and secure deserted houses.

CXLVI. Whoever, being the occupier of a house within the Town, keeps or allows to be kept for more than twenty-four hours, or otherwise than in some proper receptacle, any dirt, dung, bones, ashes, night-soil, filth, or any noxious or offensive matter, in or upon the roof of such house, or in any out-house, yard, or ground attached to and occupied with such house, or suffers such receptacle to be in a filthy or noxious state, or neglects to employ proper means to remove the filth therefrom and to cleanse and purify the same, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for each offence.

Penalty on occupier of a house not removing filth.

CXLVII. Whoever, being the owner or occupier of any house, building, or land, within the Town, whether tenantable or otherwise, suffers the same to be in a filthy and unwholesome state, or overgrown with vegetation, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees, and to a penalty not exceeding ten Rupees for every day after conviction for such offence during which the offence is continued.

Filthy houses, &c.

Power to trim hedges and trees bordering roads.

CXLIX. Whoever within the Town shall keep any pig-stye to the front of any street, not being shut out therefrom by a sufficient wall or fence, and whoever shall within the Town, without the permission of the Justices, keep more than ten swine or more than twenty sheep or goats, or ten horned cattle, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Keeping swine or cattle, &c.

CL. All public sewers and drains, and all sewers, drains, tunnels, and culverts in, alongside, or under the streets, existing at the time this Act comes into operation or afterwards made, and whether made at the cost of the Justices or otherwise, and all works, materials, and things appertaining thereto, shall be vested in and belong to the Justices.

Sewers, drains, &c., vested in the Justices.

Powers of Justices in making public sewers.

CLII. The Justices shall maintain, and from time to time repair, and as they see fit, enlarge, alter, arch-over, or otherwise improve, all or any of the sewers and drains vested in them by this Act: and may discontinue, close up, or destroy such of them as they may deem useless or unnecessary. Provided that if, by reason of any thing done under this Section, any person is deprived of the lawful use of any sewer or drain, the Justices shall, at a place within one hundred feet of the sewer or drain of the use of which he is deprived, provide the means of drainage into some public sewer, tidal river, or other place into which the Justices are empowered to empty their sewers, and thereupon the owner shall make a drain leading thereunto, of such materials, of such size, at such level, and with such fall, as the Justices shall direct; and if he neglect to do so within a reasonable time, the Justices may cause the same to be done, and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the owner, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Justices to repair and alter and close sewers.

Proviso.

Cleansing and emptying sewers.

CLIV. When the contents of any sewer or drain, or any other flow or filth or refuse, are discharged into any river or stream, in the bed or channel of which the quantity of water at any season of the year is so much diminished by natural or artificial causes as to be insufficient to keep such channel clean or clear, the Justices, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, so far as the funds at their disposal will admit, shall make such alteration in the bed of such river or stream as may prevent such sewer and drain-water from spreading over the surface of such bed, or from accumulating and stagnating in parts thereof to the injury of health or the annoyance of the surrounding population.

Bed of stream receiving sewerage to be cleared.

CLV. Whoever, without the written consent of the Justices first obtained, makes or causes to be made any drain into any of the sewers or drains vested in the Justices by this Act, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees; and the Justices may cause such branch-drain to be demolished, altered, re-made, or otherwise dealt with as they shall think fit; and all the expense incurred thereby shall be paid by the person making such branch-drain, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Penalty for making unauthorized drains into public sewers.

CLVI. No building shall be newly erected over any sewer or drain vested in the Justices by this Act, without their written consent; and if any building be so erected, the Justices may cause such building to be pulled down, or otherwise dealt with as they may think fit; and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the person offending and be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Building over sewers, &c., not to be erected without consent of the Justices.

Justices empowered to make drains from houses which are not properly drained.

think necessary for the draining of such house or building; and the expenses incurred by the Justices in respect thereof, if not forthwith paid by the owner, shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Level of houses hereafter built within the Town.

CLVIII. No house or building shall be hereafter built within the Town upon a lower level than will allow of the drainage of such house or building being led into some public sewer either then existing or projected, or into some tidal river or other place into which the Justices are empowered to empty their sewers.

Houses hereafter built to have drains constructed under the orders of the Justices.

CLIX. If any house or building, newly erected or re-built within the Town after this Act comes into operation, have such means of drainage, as in the last preceding Section mentioned, existing within one hundred feet thereof, the owner shall make a drain leading thereunto from the site of such house or building, of such materials, of such size, at such level, and with such fall, as the Justices may direct; and if he neglect to do so within a reasonable time, the Justices may cause the same to be done, and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the owner and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Notice of new buildings to be given to the Justices.

CLX. Before beginning, within the town, to build or re-build any house, the person intending to build or re-build such house shall give to the Justices notice thereof in writing, and shall accompany such notice with a plan, shewing the levels at which the foundation and lowest floor of such house are proposed to be laid, by reference to some level ascertained under the direction of the Justices.

Justices to signify disapproval within fourteen days.

CLXI. Within fourteen days after receiving such notice, the Justices shall signify their approval of the proposed levels, or, if they disapprove thereof, they shall fix other levels in lieu thereof within the same time.

Houses built without notice, or contrary to provisions of this Act, may be altered by the Justices.

CLXII. If such building be begun or made without sending such notice and plan, or at any levels different from those fixed by the Justices within the said fourteen days, or in any other respect contrary to the provisions of this Act, the Justices may, if necessary, cause such building to be altered or demolished as the case may require; and the expense thereby incurred shall be paid by the person failing to comply with the provisions aforesaid, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

If Justices fail to signify approval, &c., within fourteen days, parties may proceed without.

CLXIII. If the Justices fail to signify in writing their approval or disapproval of the levels shewn on such plan as aforesaid, and to fix other levels within fourteen days after receiving such notice and plan as aforesaid, the person giving such notice may, notwithstanding any thing hereinbefore contained, proceed to build or re-build the house therein referred to according to the levels shewn on such plan, provided that such building or re-building be otherwise in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

Sewers in streets to be covered with traps, &c.

CLXIV. All sewers and drains in streets, whether public or private, shall be provided by the Justices, or by the persons to whom they severally belong, with proper traps or other coverings or means of ventilation so as to prevent stench. If the owner of any private sewer or drain shall, for ten days after notice given to him by the Justices, neglect or delay to provide proper traps or coverings or means of ventilation as aforesaid, the Justices may forthwith provide and apply the same; and the expense incurred thereby shall be paid by the owner of such sewer or drain, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Power of Justices to erect or affix to building pipes for ventilation of sewers.

CLXV. The Justices may erect on or fix to any house or building such pipes as they may deem necessary for the proper ventilation of the sewers belonging to them, and such pipes shall be carried to a height of not less than six feet above the highest part of the house or building, and erected so as not to occasion any nuisance or inconvenience to any house or building in the neighbourhood.

Throwing rubbish into sewers.

CLXVI. Whoever throws or puts, or permits his servants to throw or put, any earth, dirt, ashes; garden, kitchen, or stable refuse; or any broken glass or earthen-ware, or other rubbish, or, until suitable sewers shall be provided, any night-soil, into any sewer or drain belonging to any of the Justices, or into any drain communicating therewith, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for each offence.

Common necessaries.

CLXVII. The Justices may provide and maintain in proper and convenient situations, so as not to create a nuisance, common necessaries and urinals, and shall cause the same, when provided, to be kept in proper order and to be daily cleansed.

Licensing of public necessaries, and tola Mehter's depôts.

Neglecting to enclose private privy.

CLXIX. The owner or occupier of any house or building having a privy on his premises, shall have such privy shut out by a

Branch drains, privies, &c., to be under the control of the Justices, and to be kept in good order by owners.

CLXX. All branch-drains, as well within as without the lands or buildings to which they belong, and all privies and cess-pools within the Town, shall be under the survey and control of the Justices, and shall be altered, repaired, and kept in proper order at the costs and charges of the owners of the lands and buildings to which the same belong, or for the use of which they are constructed or continued; and if the owner of any land or buildings to which any such drain, privy, or cess-pool belongs, neglect, during eight days after notice in writing for that purpose, to alter, repair, and put the same into good order in the manner required by the Justices, the Justices may cause such drain, privy, or cess-pool to be altered, repaired, and put in good order, and the expense incurred by the Justices in respect thereof, shall be paid by the owner, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

If owners neglect, Justices may cause the same to be done and charge the owners with the expense.

Penalty for persons making or altering drains, &c., contrary to the orders of the Justices.

Inspection of drains, privies, and cess-pools.

CLXXII. The Justices, or any Officer appointed by them for the purpose, may inspect any such drain, privy, or cess-pool, and for that purpose, at any time between sunrise and sunset, after one hour's notice in writing to the occupier of the premises to which such drain, privy, or cess-pool is attached, may enter upon any lands and buildings, with such assistants and workmen as are necessary, and cause the ground to be opened where they or he may think fit, doing as little damage as may be; and if, upon such inspection, it appears that the drain, privy, or cess-pool is not in good order and condition, or that it has been constructed after this Act comes into operation contrary to the provisions thereof, the expenses of such inspection shall be paid by the person to whom such drain, privy, or cess-pool may belong, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided; but if the drain, privy, or cess-pool be found to be in proper order and condition, and not to have been constructed in violation of the provisions of this Act, the Justices or Officer as aforesaid shall cause the ground to be closed and made good as soon as may be; and the expenses of opening, closing, and making good, such drain, privy, or cess-pool, shall, in that case, be defrayed by the Justices. Provided always that nothing hereinbefore contained shall authorize an entry into the zenanas or private apartments appropriated to the females of Hindoo and Mussulman families, for the purpose of such inspection, except by the agency of women.

Proviso.

Service of notice on owners and occupiers of buildings and lands.

CLXXIII. Where any notice is required by this Act to be given to the owner or occupier, of any building or land, such notice, addressed to the owner or occupier, as the case may require, may be served on the occupier of such building or land, or left with some adult male member or servant of his family, or, if the notice cannot be so served, or if there be no occupier, may be put up on some conspicuous part of such building or land, and it shall not be necessary in any such notice to name the occupier or the owner. Provided always that, when the owner and his residence are known to the Justices, it shall be their duty, if such owner be residing within the limits of their authority, to cause every notice, required to be given to the owner of any building or land, to be served on such owner or left with some adult male member or servant of his family; and, if the owner be not resident within such limits, they shall send every such notice by post addressed to his residence, and proof of delivery of the notice at the Post Office shall be held to be due service of the same.

Justices, in default of owner or occupier, may execute works and recover expenses.

CLXXIV. Whenever, under the provisions of this Act, any work is required to be executed by the owner or occupier of any building or land, and default is made in the execution of such works, the Justices, whether any penalty is or is not provided for such default, may cause such work to be executed; and the expense thereby incurred shall be paid to them by the person by whom such work ought to have been executed, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Power to levy charges on occupier, who may deduct the same from his rent.

CLXXVI. No occupier of any building or land shall be liable to pay more money, in respect of any expenses charged by this Act on the owner thereof, than the amount of rent due from him, for the premises in respect of which such expenses are payable, at the time of the demand made upon him, or which at any time after such demand has accrued and become payable by him, unless he neglect or refuse, upon application made to him for that purpose by the Justices, truly to disclose the amount of his rent and the name and address of the person to whom such rent is payable; but the burden of proof that the sum demanded of any such occupier is greater than the rent which was due by him at the time of such demand or which has since accrued, shall lie upon such occupier; provided further that nothing herein contained shall be taken to affect any special contract, made between any such owner or occupier, respecting the payment of the expenses of any such works as aforesaid.

Occupier not to be liable for more than the amount of rent due.

CLXXVII. Whenever default is made by the owner of any building or land, in the execution of any work required to be executed by him, the occupier of such building or land may, with the approval of the Justices, cause such work to be executed, and the expense thereof shall be paid to him by the owner, or the amount may be deducted out of the rent from time to time becoming due from him to such owner.

Occupier, in default of owner, may execute works and deduct expenses from his rent.

CLXXVIII. If the occupier of any building or land prevent the owner thereof from carrying into effect, in respect of such building or land, any of the provisions of this Act, after notice of his intention so to do has been given by the owner to such occupier, any Justice of the Peace, upon proof thereof, may give an order in writing, requiring such occupier to permit the owner to execute all such works, with respect to such building or land, as may be necessary for carrying into effect the provisions of this Act; and if, after the expiration of eight days from the date of the order, such occupier continue to refuse to permit such owner to execute such works, such occupier shall, for every day during which he so continues to refuse, be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees; and every such owner, during the continuance of such refusal, shall be discharged from any penalties to which he might otherwise have become liable by reason of his default in executing such works.

Proceedings in case of tenants opposing the execution of this Act.

CLXXIX. All public tanks, reservoirs, cisterns, wells, aqueducts, conduits, tunnels, pipes, pumps, and other water-works, existing at the time this Act comes into operation or afterwards made, laid, or erected, and whether made, laid, or erected at the cost of the Justices or otherwise, and all bridges, buildings, engines, works, materials, and things, connected therewith or appertaining thereto, and also any adjacent land (not being private property) appertaining to any public tank, shall be vested in and belong to the Justices.

Tanks, &c., vested in the Justices.

CLXXX. The Justices shall cause all existing public tanks, reservoirs, cisterns, wells, aqueducts, conduits, tunnels, pipes, pumps, and other water-works used for the supply of water to the inhabitants or for the other purposes mentioned in this Act, to be continued, maintained, and supplied with water; or they shall substitute other such works, and shall cause them to be maintained and supplied with water; and the Justices may, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, from time to time, construct aqueducts and lay pipes for bringing water into the Town, and may provide any number of new tanks, reservoirs, cisterns, wells, and other such water-works for the purpose aforesaid.

Construction and maintenance of works for supply of water.

CLXXXI. Whoever, except as permitted by the Justices under Section CLXXXIV, bathes in any stream, tank, reservoir, well, cistern, conduit, or aqueduct belonging to the Justices, or washes or causes to be washed therein, any horse, dog, or other animal, or any wool, cloth, or wearing apparel, or any utensils for cooking or other purposes, or leather, or the skin of any animal, or other foul or offensive thing; or throws, puts, or casts, or causes to enter therein, any animal, or any gravel, stone, dust, or rubbish, or any dirt, filth, or other noisome or offensive matter or thing; or causes or suffers to run, drain, or be brought thereinto, the water of any sink, sewer, drain, engine, or boiler, or any other unwholesome or offensive liquid matter or thing belonging to him or flowing from any house or building or from any ground occupied by him; or does any thing whatsoever whereby any such water shall be in any degree fouled or corrupted—shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for each offence.

Fouling water by—Bathing.

Washing animals or things, &c.

Throwing rubbish, &c.

Allowing drains, &c., to flow into.

Water fouled by offensive trades.

occasioned by the examination, shall be paid by the Justices.

Injuring water-works or diverting or wasting water.

CLXXXIII. Whoever wilfully or carelessly injures any water-works belonging to the Justices, or unlawfully draws off, diverts, or takes water from any such water-works, or from any water or streams, belonging to the Justices, by which such water-works are supplied, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Justices may set apart bathing places, &c.

CLXXXIV. The Justices may, at their discretion, set apart any public ghaut or place, or any part of the strand of any river (not being private property), for the purpose of being used as a bathing place; and may also provide or set apart a sufficient number of convenient tanks or runs of water for the inhabitants to bathe in, and may also set apart tanks or reservoirs, or runs of water, for washing animals or clothes, or for any other purpose connected with the health, cleanliness, and comfort of the inhabitants.

Bye-laws to regulate—

CLXXXV. The Justices may, in the manner hereinafter provided, make bye-laws—

The use of water.

For regulating all or any matters and things whatsoever connected with the water to be supplied by them, and the use of such water for any of the purposes mentioned in this Act;

Bathing places.

And for regulating the time and places of bathing for persons of each sex in the places provided or appointed by them for the purpose of bathing, in such manner as shall appear to the Justices necessary, making due allowance for the habits and customs of the country.

Power to fill up unwholesome tanks, &c., on private premises.

Power to drain off and cleanse stagnant pools in open places.

Justices in executing works, to provide roads, &c., where existing ones are injured.

CLXXXVIII. The Justices, in executing any works directed or authorized by this Act to be made, shall provide and make, at their own expense, a sufficient number of convenient ways, watercourses, drains, and channels in the place of such as may be interrupted, injured, or rendered useless by reason of the execution of such works; and, in case of any difference arising between the Justices respectively and the persons affected thereby, such difference shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses.

Justices breaking up street to restore the same with all convenient speed.

Situation of gas and water-pipes to be altered at the expense of the Justices.

CXC. If the Justices deem it necessary for the purposes of this Act to raise, sink, or otherwise alter, the situation of any water-pipe or gas-pipe, or other water-works, or gas-works, laid in any of the streets, they may, from time to time, by notice in writing, require the person to whom any such pipes or works belong or under whose control they may be, to cause forthwith, or as soon as conveniently may be, any such pipes or works to be raised, sunk, or otherwise altered in position, in such manner as the Justices direct; provided that such alteration be not such as permanently to injure such works, or to prevent the water or gas from flowing as freely and conveniently as before; and the expenses attending such raising, sinking, or altering, and full compensation for the damage done thereby, shall be paid by the Justices, as well to the persons to whom such pipes or works belong, as to all other persons. And if any dispute shall arise touching the amount or apportionment of such compensation, the same shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses.

If owner, &c., neglect to make alterations, the Justices may cause the same to be made.

CXCI. If the person to whom any such pipes or works belong or under whose control they may be, do not proceed forthwith, or as soon as conveniently may be after the receipt of such notice, to cause the same to be raised, sunk, or altered, in such manner as the Justices require, the Justices may themselves cause such pipes or works to be raised, sunk, or altered, as they may think fit, provided that such works be not permanently injured thereby or the water or gas prevented from flowing as freely and conveniently as before.

CXCII. Every person intending to build or take down any building, or to alter or repair the outward part of any building, where any street or footway will be obstructed or rendered inconvenient by means of such work, shall, before beginning the same, and having first obtained a license in writing from the Justices so to do, cause sufficient hoards or fences to be put up, in order to separate the building, where such works are being carried on, from the street or footway, and shall continue such hoard or fence standing and in good condition, to the satisfaction of the Justices, during such time as the public safety or convenience requires, and shall cause the same to be sufficiently lighted during the night; and every such person who begins to build, or to take down, or alter, or repair, any building contrary to the provisions of this Section, or who, without license, erects or sets up any hoards, scaffolding, or fence whatsoever, or who, being licensed, fails to put up such fence or hoard, or to continue the same standing and in good condition as aforesaid during the time aforesaid, or who does not, while the said hoards or fences are standing, keep the same sufficiently lighted during the night, or who does not remove the same when directed by the Justices within eight days, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees, and a further penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for every day while the offence is continued, after twenty-four hours' notice from the said Justices.

Hoards to be set up during repairs.

CXCIII. The Justices shall, during the construction or repair by them of any of the streets, sewers, or drains vested in them, take proper precaution for guarding against accident, by shoring up and protecting the adjoining houses, and shall cause such bars, chains, or posts to be fixed across or in any of the streets, to prevent the passage of carriages, carts, or other vehicles, cattle or horses, while such works are carried on, as to them shall seem proper; and the Justices shall cause any sewer or drain or other works in streets, during the construction or repair thereof by them, to be sufficiently lighted and guarded during the night; and whoever takes down, alters, or removes, any of the said bars, chains, or posts, or extinguishes any light, without the authority or consent of the Justices, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Bars to be erected across streets during repairs, and lights placed at night.

CXCIV. No persons shall deposit any building materials, or make a hole in any street, without the permission of the Justices; and when such permission is granted to any person, he shall, at his own expense, cause such materials, or such hole, to be sufficiently fenced and enclosed until the materials are removed, or the hole is filled up or otherwise made secure; and shall cause the same to be sufficiently lighted during the night; and whoever deposits materials or makes a hole without such permission, or fails to fence or enclose and light such materials or hole, or does not remove such materials or fill up such hole when the permission has been withdrawn, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees, and a further penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for every day while the offence is continued, after twenty-four hours' notice from the Justices.

Penalty for not lighting deposits of building materials or excavations.

CXCV. If any building, tank, well, or hole, or other place, be, for want of sufficient repair, protection, or enclosure, dangerous to passengers, the Justices shall cause the same to be repaired, protected, or enclosed, so as to prevent danger therefrom; and the expenses of such repair, protection, or enclosure shall be paid to the Justices by the owner of the property so repaired, protected, or enclosed, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Dangerous places near streets to be repaired or enclosed.

CXCVI. No place shall be used as a slaughter-house within the Town, unless a license in writing for the use thereof as a slaughter-house has been obtained from the Justices, who are hereby empowered, at their discretion, from time to time, to grant such licenses; and whoever, without such license, uses as a slaughter-house any place within the Town, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees, and to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for every day after the conviction for such offence, during which the said offence is continued.

No place shall be used as a slaughter-house without a license from the Justices.

CXCVII. The Justices may, from time to time, if they shall think fit, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, provide places for the purpose of being used as slaughter-houses, and they may, in the manner hereinafter provided, make bye-laws for and with respect to the management, regulation, and charges for the use of such places.

Justices to provide places for slaughter-houses.

Markets, slaughter-houses, &c., to be properly drained.

CXCIX. The Justices may, in manner hereinafter provided, make bye-laws for the inspection of all such markets and of all slaughter-houses within the Town, and for the management and conduct of the business therein, and for keeping the same in a cleanly and proper state, and for removing filth at least once every twenty-four hours.

Justices may make bye-laws for the inspection of slaughter-houses.

CC. It shall be lawful for any Justice of the Peace, on the application of the Justices or any of their Officers, setting forth that there is just cause to believe that any article, which has been rendered or has become noxious or unfit for use as food or drink for man, is in the possession of any person for the purpose of being sold or offered or exposed for sale within the Town as food or drink for man, to grant a warrant to enter upon the premises of such person, and to search for and seize such article, and if it appear to the said Justice, upon the evidence of a competent person, that the same is noxious or unfit for such use, he shall order such article to be forfeited and disposed of in such way as to him shall seem proper.

Sale of unwholesome food or drink.

Power to Justices to enter and inspect slaughter-houses, shops, &c., and to seize unwholesome articles exposed for sale.

CCI. The Justices, or any person appointed by them for that purpose, may at all reasonable times, with or without assistants, enter into and inspect any market, building, shop, stall, or place used for the sale of butcher's meat, poultry, fish, or vegetables, or as a slaughter-house, and may examine any animal, carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, or vegetables which may be therein; and in case any animal, carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, or vegetables appear to be intended for the food of man and to be unfit for such food, may seize the same; and if it appear to a Justice of the Peace, upon the evidence of a competent person, that such animal, carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, or vegetables is unfit for the food of man, he shall order the same to be destroyed, or to be so disposed of as to prevent its being exposed for sale or used for such food, and the owner thereof, or the person in whose possession the same is found, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Suspension or revocation of license, &c.

CCII. The Justice of the Peace, before whom any person is convicted of an offence contrary to the provisions of this Act relating to slaughter-houses, or of the non-observance of any of the bye-laws relating thereto made by virtue of this Act, in addition to the penalty imposed on such person under the authority of this Act, may suspend, for any period not exceeding two months, the license granted to such person under this Act; and the said Justice, upon the conviction of any person for a second or other subsequent like offence, in addition to the penalty imposed under the authority of this Act, may declare the license granted under this Act revoked.

Penalty for using slaughter-houses during suspension or revocation of license.

CCIII. Whoever, during the period for which any such license is suspended, or after the same is revoked as aforesaid, slaughters cattle, or allows cattle to be slaughtered in the slaughter-house to which such license relates, shall be liable to a penalty, not exceeding one hundred Rupees, for every day, after the conviction for such offence, during which the said offence is continued.

Certain offensive and dangerous trades carried on within the Town, to be registered.

CCIV. The owner or occupier of every place within the Town, used at the time this Act comes into operation for any of the following purposes, namely, for melting tallow—or for boiling offal or blood—or as a soap-house—oil-boiling house—dyeing house—tannery—brick, pottery, or lime-kiln—sago manufactory—or other manufactory or place of business from which offensive or unwholesome smells arise—or as a yard or depôt for hay, straw, wood, or coal—shall, within three months after this Act comes into operation, register the same at the Office of the Justices, in a book to be kept by them for that purpose; and whoever, after the expiration of the said three months and after eight days' notice from the Justices, uses any such place without the same being registered, shall be liable to a penalty, not exceeding one hundred Rupees, for every day during which the offence is continued.

Penalty for establishing such trades without license.

CCV. No place shall be newly used within the Town for any of the purposes mentioned in the last preceding Section, except under a license from the Justices, who are hereby empowered, at their discretion, from time to time, to grant such licenses; and whoever, without a license, uses any such place for such purpose, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five hundred Rupees, and a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for every day after the conviction for such offence, during which the said offence is continued.

Justices to make rules for licensing, registering, &c., places used for such trades.

CCVI. The Justices may, in the manner hereinafter provided, make bye-laws for the inspection of every place within the Town used for any of the purposes mentioned in Section CCIV, and for the management and conduct of such business, whether the same be newly established or not, in such manner as they may think necessary and proper, in order to prevent or diminish the noxious or injurious or offensive effect thereof.

Justices may, in certain cases, order the use of slaughter-houses and the carrying on of dangerous and offensive trades, to be discontinued.

Burial and burning grounds to be registered.

CCVIII. The Justices may, if they think fit, cause a survey and measurement to be made of every burial ground and every place used as such; and every such place, and every burning ground, existing at the time this Act comes into operation, shall, within one month after this Act shall have come into operation, be registered by the owner or the person having the control thereof, or, if there be no owner or person authorised to control the same, by order of the Justices, in a book to be kept by them for that purpose; and whoever, after the expiration of the said time, knowingly buries or burns, or causes, procures, or suffers to be buried or burned, any corpse in or on any ground not so registered as a burial or burning ground, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

No vault or burial or burning place henceforth to be constructed without leave of the Justices.

CCIX. No vault or grave shall be made within the walls of, or underneath, any church or chapel or other place of public worship built after this Act comes into operation, and no burial or burning ground, whether public or private, shall be opened, made, or formed after this Act comes into operation, otherwise than by or under the authority of the Government of Bengal, without a license, describing the extent and boundaries thereof, first obtained from the Justices, who are hereby empowered, at their discretion, from time to time, to grant such licenses; and whoever shall bury or burn, or cause, permit, or suffer to be buried or burned, any corpse in any vault, grave, or burial or burning ground, opened, made, or formed without such license or contrary to the terms thereof, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five hundred Rupees.

Justices to issue certificates prohibiting the use of improper burial and burning places.

CCX. If, upon the evidence of competent persons, the Justices, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, shall certify, in manner hereinafter provided, that any burial ground or place of burial, or any place used for the burning of corpses, is in such a state as to be dangerous to the health of persons living in the neighbourhood thereof, or that any church or other place of public worship is dangerous to the health of persons frequenting the same, by reason of the state of the vaults or graves within the walls of, or underneath, the same, or in any church-yard or burial ground adjacent thereto, and shall also certify that a fitting place for interment or burning (as the case may be) exists within a convenient distance and is available, it shall not be lawful, after a time (not less than two months) to be named in such certificate, to bury or burn, or permit or suffer to be buried or burned, any corpses in, upon, within, or under the ground, church, or place of worship to which the certificate relates, except in so far as may be allowed by such certificate; and whoever, after due publication of such certificate as hereinafter provided, buries or burns, or causes, permits, or suffers to be buried or burned, any corpse contrary to this enactment, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees. Provided always that every such certificate shall be published in the Government Gazette, and that a translation thereof in Bengalee shall, in the case of a burial or burning ground, be affixed conspicuously on some part of the said ground.

Proviso.

Justices may, in certain cases, permit interment in churches, &c.

CCXI. Notwithstanding any such certificate as in the preceding Section mentioned, where by usage or otherwise there is at the time this Act comes into operation any right of interment in or under any church or chapel, or in any vault of such church or chapel, or of any church-yard, burial ground, or place of burial affected by such certificate, or where any exclusive right of interment, or any exclusive right to ground for the purpose of interment, has been purchased or acquired before this Act comes into operation, it shall be lawful for the Justices, if, on application made to them, they are satisfied that the exercise of such right or the use of such ground will not be injurious to health, to grant a license for such exercise or use, during such time and subject to such conditions and restrictions as they may think fit.

Justices may provide places to be used as burial or burning grounds.

CCXII. The Justices may, from time to time, out of the Municipal Fund, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, provide fitting places to be used as burial or burning grounds.

Justices to make bye-laws for regulation of burial and burning grounds.

CCXIII. The Justices may, in manner hereinafter provided, make bye-laws for the inspection and regulation of burial and burning grounds, and may thereby prescribe rules as to the depth of graves and places of interment, and generally as to all matters connected with the good order of burial and burning grounds, due regard being had to the religious usages of the several classes of the community.

Power to enter upon lands for the purposes of this Act.

CCXIV. The Justices shall, for the purposes of this Act, have power, by themselves or their Officers, between sunrise and sunset, to enter into and upon any building or land, as well for the purpose of making any survey or inspection which they may be entitled to make, as for the purpose of executing any work authorized by this Act to be executed by them, without being liable to any legal proceedings or molestation whatsoever on account of such entry or of any thing done in any part of such building or land in pursuance of this Act. Provided that, except when herein otherwise provided, the Justices or their Officers shall not enter upon any building or land which may be occupied at the time, unless with the consent of the occupier thereof, without previously giving the said occupier twenty-four hours' notice of his or their intention to do so.

Proviso.

Power to Justices to enter on lands adjacent to works.

CCXV. The Justices, or their Officers or servants, may enter upon the land of any person adjoining to, or being within the distance of one hundred yards of, any works by this Act authorized to be made, for the purpose of depositing upon such land, any soil, gravel, sand, lime, brick, stone, or other materials, or for any other purposes connected with the formation of the said works, without making any previous payment, tender, or deposit, doing as little damage as may be in the exercise of the several powers hereby granted to them, and making compensation for such temporary occupation or temporary damage of the said land to the owner and occupier thereof, from time to time, and as often as any such temporary occupation shall be taken or such temporary damage done, and making compensation to the owner also for the permanent injury (if any) to such land; and if any dispute shall arise touching the amount or apportionment of such compensation, the same shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses. Provided that, before the Justices make any such temporary use as aforesaid of the land adjoining or lying near to the said works, they shall give fourteen days' notice of such their intention to the owners and occupiers of such land, and shall set apart, by sufficient fences, so much of the land as shall be required to be used as aforesaid, from the other land adjoining thereto.

Proviso.

Penalty for obstructing persons employed by the Justices in their duty.

CCXVI. Whoever at any time obstructs or molests any person employed by the Justices, or any person with whom they may have contracted under the provisions of this Act, in the performance and execution of their or his duty, or of any thing which they are respectively empowered or required to do by virtue or in consequence of this Act; or removes any mark set up for the purpose of indicating any level or direction necessary to the execution of works authorized by this Act, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees, or, in the discretion of the Justice of the Peace before whom he is convicted, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding two months.

Powers to be exercised by the Justices, when constructing drains and aqueducts without the Town.

CCXVII. For the purposes of laying pipes or constructing aqueducts for bringing water into the Town from any place without the limits thereof, or for the purpose of making sewers or drains to communicate with, or empty themselves into, any public sewer, lake, stream, canal, or water-course without the said limits, it shall be lawful, whenever a plan for laying any such pipes or constructing any such aqueduct, sewer, or drain shall have been approved by the Government of Bengal, for the Justices and their Officers, with such assistants as they may require, to exercise, in the laying of such pipes and construction of such aqueduct, sewer, or drain, throughout the line of country through which the said pipes, aqueduct, sewer, or drain are to run, all the powers which by this Act it is lawful for them to exercise within the Town, and which may be necessary for the laying of such pipes or the construction of such aqueduct, sewer, or drain, without being subject to any action or molestation whatever for so doing; and it shall also be lawful for any Magistrate of any district, through which the said pipes, aqueduct, sewer, or drain are to run, to exercise, in respect thereof, the like powers and jurisdiction within the limits of his own district, as it is, by this Act, lawful for a Justice of the Peace to exercise in respect of any work to be executed by the Justices within the Town.

Justices empowered to make bye-laws.

CCXVIII. It shall be lawful for the Justices, from time to time, to make bye-laws, and to repeal, alter, and amend the same, subject to the confirmation hereinafter mentioned, for the several purposes for which bye-laws are authorised by this Act to be made; and also to make bye-laws, and to repeal, alter, and amend the same, subject to such confirmation, for the guidance and control of persons employed by them and for preserving order and cleanliness in the Town, and for carrying out any of the purposes of this Act. Provided that no such bye-law shall be repugnant to any law in force, and that no penalty for any one infringement of such bye-law shall exceed twenty Rupees, and that, in the case of a continuing infringement, no penalty shall exceed ten Rupees for each day after notice from the Justices of such infringement.

Bye-laws to be confirmed.

CCXIX. No bye-law, or alteration of a bye-law, shall have effect until the same is confirmed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

Notice of confirmation.

CCXX. No bye-law, or alteration of a bye-law, shall be confirmed until the same has been published in the Government Gazette in English and in Bengalee at least seven times, nor till the space of one month has elapsed since the date of the first publication, during which period a copy of such proposed bye-law shall be kept at the Office of the Justices; and all persons may, at any time between ten o'clock in the morning and five o'clock in the afternoon, inspect such copy without fee or reward.

Publication of bye-laws.

CCXXI. Such bye-laws, when confirmed, shall be published in the Government Gazette in English and in Bengalee, and a copy thereof, in English and in Bengalee, shall be painted or placed on boards, which shall be hung up in some conspicuous part of the Office of the Justices.

Bye-laws to be judicially noticed.

CCXXII. All Courts and Magistrates shall take judicial notice of such bye-laws, when the same shall have been confirmed and published as aforesaid.

Publication of penalties.

CCXXIII. The Justices shall publish short particulars of the several offences for which any penalty is imposed by this Act, or by any bye-law made under this Act, and of the amount of every such penalty, and shall cause such particulars, in English, Bengalee, and Oordoo, to be painted or placed on boards, which shall be hung up in some conspicuous part of the Office of the Justices.

Justices may direct prosecutions.

CCXXIV. The Justices may direct any prosecution for any public nuisance whatsoever, and may order proceedings to be taken for the recovery of any penalties and for the punishment of any persons offending against the provisions of this Act, and may order the expenses of such prosecution or other proceedings to be paid out of the Municipal Fund. But nothing in this Section shall be held to hinder any person from prosecuting any other person for any nuisance.

Act not to affect nuisances at common law.

CCXXV. Nothing in this Act shall be construed to render lawful any act or omission on the part of any person, which is, or but for this Act would be deemed to be, a nuisance at common law, nor to exempt any person, guilty of a nuisance at common law, from prosecution or action in respect thereof.

No action to be brought against Justices or their Officers until after one month's notice of cause of action.

CCXXVI. No action shall be brought against the Justices, or any of their Officers, or any person acting under the direction of the Justices, for any thing done or intended to be done under the powers of this Act, until the expiration of one month next after notice in writing shall have been delivered or left at the Office of the Justices, or at the place of abode of such person, explicitly stating the cause of action, and the name and place of abode of the intended plaintiff, and of his attorney or agent in the cause; and upon the trial of any such action the plaintiff shall not be permitted to go into evidence of any cause of action, except such as is stated in the notice so delivered; and unless such notice be proved, the Court shall find for the defendant; and every such action shall be commenced within three months next after the accrual of the cause of action, and not afterwards; and if any person to whom any such notice of action is given shall, before action brought, tender sufficient amends to the plaintiff, such plaintiff shall not recover in any such action when brought; and if no such tender shall have been made, it shall be lawful for the defendant in such action, by leave of the Court where such action shall be pending, at any time before issue joined, to pay into Court such sum of money as he shall think fit, and thereupon such proceedings shall be had as in other cases where defendants are allowed to pay money into Court.

Power to make compensation out of the Municipal Fund.

CCXXVII. The Justices may make compensation, out of the Municipal Fund, to all persons sustaining any damage by reason of the exercise of any of the powers vested in the Justices, their Officers, or servants, under and by virtue of this Act.

Fees for licenses.

CCXXVIII. When any license is granted under the provisions of Sections CLXVIII or CXCVI of this Act, authorizing the use of any place for any of the purposes therein described, and when permission is given under Section CXXV for making any temporary erection, or under Section CXLI for putting up any projection, the Justices may charge a fee for such license or permission; and the rates of the fees to be so charged shall be from time to time adjusted by the Justices with the sanction of the Government, provided that no such fee shall exceed the sum of one hundred Rupees. When permission or license is given for the temporary occupation of any ground belonging to the Justices under the provisions of Section CXCII or Section CXCIV, the Justices may charge rent for such ground, according to the time the occupation may continue, at such rates as may, from time to time, be sanctioned by the Government of Bengal.

Damages and expenses how to be determined.

CCXXIX. In all cases where any damages, costs, or expenses are by this Act directed to be paid, the amount of the same, in case of dispute, shall be ascertained and determined by a Judge of the Calcutta Court of Small Causes.

Method of proceeding before a Judge of the Court of Small Causes.

CCXXX. In any case referred to a Judge of a Court of Small Causes under this Act, it shall be lawful for the said Judge, on the application of either party, to summon the other party to appear before him, at a time and place to be named in such summons, and every such summons shall be served by delivering the original, or a copy thereof, to the person summoned, or by leaving the same at his usual or last known place of abode, with some adult male member or servant of his family. Upon the appearance of the parties, or, in the absence of any of them, upon proof of due service of the summons, it shall be lawful for such Judge to hear and determine such question, and, for that purpose, to examine such parties or any of them, and their witnesses, on oath; and the costs of every such enquiry shall be in the discretion of such Judge, who shall determine the amount thereof.

Recovery of damages by distress.

CCXXXI. If the amount of damages, costs, or expenses, ascertained in the manner above described, be not paid by the party liable to pay the same, within seven days after demand, such amount may be recovered, under a warrant of the said Judge, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of such party; and the overplus arising from the sale thereof, after satisfying such amount and the costs of the distress and sale, shall be returned on demand to the party whose goods shall have been distrained.

Justices may sue in any competent Court instead of realizing by, or on failure of, distress.

CCXXXII. Instead of proceeding by distress or sale, and in case of failure to realize by distress the whole or any part of any expenses, charges, or damages awarded under the provisions of this Act, the Justices may sue the person liable to pay the same, in any Court of competent jurisdiction.

Recovery of fines and penalties.

CCXXXIII. Clause 1.—Every prosecution under this Act may be instituted before any Justice of the Peace, except in cases otherwise provided for, and every fine or penalty imposed under or by virtue of this Act or any bye-law made in pursuance thereof, may be recovered by a summary proceeding before a Justice of the Peace, upon information exhibited by order of the Justices, and, in default of payment of such fine or penalty, the same may be levied, under the warrant of such Justice of the Peace, by distress and sale of the goods of such offender, with all such powers for the issuing of such warrant and upon the return thereof, as are exercised by a Magistrate of Police under Act XIII of 1856 (for regulating the Police of the Towns of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay) and Act XLVIII of 1860 (to amend Act XIII of 1856*)*, or any other Act for regulating the Police of the Town of Calcutta in force for the time being.

Proviso.

Clause 2.—Every prosecution under Clause 2 of Section XVII of this Act shall be instituted in such manner as a prosecution under Section CLXI of the Indian Penal Code would be instituted, and before such Magistrate or Court as shall have authority to entertain charges and prosecutions in reference to the said last mentioned Section, and not otherwise.

How fines and penalties are to be applied.

CCXXXIV. The Justice of the Peace by whom any fine or penalty is imposed by virtue of this Act, may award any portion, not being more than one-half thereof, to the informer, and shall order the remainder—or, if he makes no award to the informer, the whole of such fine or penalty,—to be paid to the Justices, to be by them applied to the purposes of this Act.

No person liable to fine or penalty unless complaint be made within two months after offence committed.

CCXXXV. No person shall be liable to any fine or penalty under this Act, for any offence made cognizable before a Justice of the Peace, unless the complaint respecting such offence shall have been made before a Justice of the Peace within two months next after the commission of such offence.

Damage to the Justices' property to be made good in addition to penalty.

CCXXXVI. If, through any act, neglect, or default, on account whereof any person shall have incurred any penalty imposed by this Act, any damage to the property of the Justices shall have been committed by such person, he shall be liable to make good such damage, as well as to pay such penalty; and the amount of such damage shall, in case of dispute, be determined by the Justice of the Peace by whom the party incurring such penalty shall have been convicted; and on non-payment of such damage on demand, the same shall be levied by distress, and such Justice of the Peace shall issue his warrant accordingly.

CCXXXVII. It shall be the duty of all Police Officers to give immediate information to the Justices, of any offence committed contrary to the provisions of this Act. Any Police Officer may arrest any person committing in his view any offence against any of the provisions of this Act, if the name and address of such person be unknown to him, or if such person decline to give his name and address, or if the Police Officer in question shall have reason to doubt the accuracy of such name and address, if given; and such person may be detained at the Station House until his name and address shall be correctly ascertained.

Police Officers to report offences to Justices and to arrest unknown offenders.

CCXXXVIII. If the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall have determined that any portion of the environs of the Town shall be included in the system of sewerage and drainage authorized by this Act, and if the said Lieutenant-Governor shall have declared the boundaries thereof by Notification in the Calcutta Gazette, then Sections CL to CLXVI, both inclusive, of this Act, shall have effect within the boundaries so declared; and all such expenses and compensation as, under the said Sections and by the provisions of this Act, may be determined by a Judge of the Calcutta Court of Small Causes, may be ascertained and determined by the Judge of the Court of Small Causes having jurisdiction within such boundaries; and all penalties payable under the said Sections and under the provisions of this Act, shall be enforced in the manner prescribed by Section LXI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, before the Magistrate having jurisdiction within such boundaries.

Certain provisions of this Act extended.

Recovery of expense on account of improvements to private property.

CCXL. This Act shall commence and take effect on and from the first day of July 1863.

Commencement of Act.

India Office;

London, 9th May 1863.

Military.

No. 170.

To His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council,

My Lord,—With reference to your Military Letter No. 40, dated 22nd January 1863, I have to inform you that when the authorized number of Colonels' allowances fixed for the Staff Corps, viz., one to thirty Officers of all ranks, has been completed by the succession of Officers, who have served twelve years in the substantive rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, it is the intention of Her Majesty's Government that vacancies shall be filled up as they occur, according to seniority, without requiring a qualifying term of service.

2. You are correct in assuming that it was not intended by my Despatch of the 31st of July 1862 to set aside the provisions of my previous Despatch of the 31st December 1861.

No. 270.

No. 467.

3. The meaning of the passage quoted in your letter from my Despatch of 31st July 1862 would have been more fully expressed by the introduction of the words "at present"—"as at present in the Staff Corps."

I have, &c.,

No. 80A. of 1863.—In publishing for general information the following copy of a Despatch, No. 175 of the 16th ultimo, from the Right Hon'ble the Secretary of State, His Excellency the Governor General is pleased to call attention to the necessity for all applications from Colonels of Artillery and Engineers, who may be desirous of retiring with the Annuity now sanctioned, being sent in to the Office of the Adjutant-General of their respective Presidencies on or before the 31st August next:—

India Office;
London, 16th May 1863.

Military.

No. 175.

To His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor General of India in Council,

My Lord,—Para. 1. Representations have been at various times submitted to Her Majesty's Government by the Senior Officers of the late Indian Artillery relating to the reduction in the number of Colonels' allowances allotted to those Corps, and the alleged injury inflicted upon them by the consequent retardation of the period at which they may attain that allowance.

2. As regards the Officers of the Corps of Artillery and Engineers generally, Her Majesty's Government are satisfied that the changes that have been made in the organization of these Corps have been attended with advantage to the Officers at large, commensurate with the heavy expenditure which has been incurred for this purpose by the Government.

3. The changes made as regards the ranks of Colonel Commandant and Colonel, the abolition of the grades of Major and Second Lieutenant, and the introduction of that of Second Captain in 1858, were measures which gave great promotion to the Officers of Artillery and Engineers, but were attended with great expense.

4. The reduction in the number of Colonels with Colonels' allowances was the only feature in the re-organization which was calculated to affect injuriously the prospects of a certain limited class of Officers of long standing and high rank, who are so circumstanced that the mere promotion or immediate chance of promotion from Lieutenant-Colonel to Colonel does not fully compensate for the retardation of their prospects of attaining the Colonel's allowance.

5. It is unreasonable to expect that extensive changes, such as have been lately effected in the Indian Army, should be carried out without affecting to some extent individual prospects, but Her Majesty's Government have been desirous of removing, as far as possible, all just grounds of complaint, and therefore, with a view to meet the present case, it has been determined, with the concurrence of His Royal Highness the Field Marshal Commanding-in-Chief, to offer at once a limited number of increased retiring pensions to each Brigade of Royal (late Indian) Artillery, and Battalion of Royal (late Indian) Engineers, with a view to giving the means of immediate retirement to those of the older Officers who may wish to retire from the Service.

6. It appears to me that this measure will fairly meet the case of these Officers, and by still further accelerating the promotion in the Corps at large will remove all just grounds of complaint from the remaining Officers.

7. You are therefore authorized to offer an Annuity of £200 to one Regimental Colonel in each Brigade of Royal Artillery and Battalion of Royal Engineers above mentioned, in addition to the pension to which, by the Regulations of the Indian Service, he may be entitled.

8. These Annuities* will be allotted to applicants according to seniority in their respective Cadres, and in order to give to the whole of the Officers concerned the opportunity of expressing their intention of accepting the Annuity (if available for them) or otherwise, it will be necessary to name a prospective date up to which applications will be received; and with a view of giving sufficient time to all Officers concerned both in India and in England, I have resolved, with the concurrence of His Royal Highness the Field Marshal Commanding-in-Chief, to inform the Colonels of Artillery and Engineers now in England that their applications to retire under this arrangement must be received at the Office of the Adjutant-General of their respective Presidencies on or before the 31st of August next, that their claims to be considered to come within the operation of the order as Regimental Colonels will be determined by the rank they actually hold on the records of the Adjutant-General's Office on that day, and that the retirements under this order will date from the 1st September next.

Government of Bengal.

Reports on the Epidemic in the Hooghly District.

From A. V. PALMER, ESQ., Magistrate of Hooghly, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 307, dated the 30th May 1863.)

IN continuation of my letter No. 274 of the 11th instant, I have the honor to submit further Reports on the subject of the Epidemic.

2. During the first fortnight in May the riddance of the jungle has been considerably retarded by the wet weather, not a day scarcely occurring in which more or less rain did not fall.

3. This obviously impeded the burning of the up rooted jungle, and propagated the growth of fresh.

4. The jungle inland villages is not so dense as it is in villages on the borders of the River.

5. Mr. Maclean is engaged in "stimulating" the villagers. He has been successful in obtaining in the large affected villages promises of subscriptions, a portion of which has been paid up. These subscriptions, Mr. Maclean informs me, are made by the villagers under the advice and direction of their chief fellow villagers. Mr. Maclean, in consultation with them, points out what is necessary to be done, and the cost is estimated; but the amount of individual contributions which is settled entirely amongst themselves, he has nothing to do with, nor with its collection. Money so subscribed, with a percentage added from the funds placed at his disposal by Government, is expended in systematic sanitary improvements in the villages in which the money has been subscribed. The villagers apparently appreciate this arrangement, and in the condition of the larger villages on the east bank of the River there is a great improvement visible.

6. Mr. Maclean complains that the most indifferent and apathetic are the rich and influential Zemindars who are in a position to afford considerable pecuniary aid, and who from their position are morally bound to set an example to others. Many of these Native gentlemen reside themselves in Calcutta, and consequently neglect the moral obligations they are under. He prominently brings to notice * * * * *

7. As a contrast to this gentleman, he mentions favorably Baboo Gobind Chunder Sain, who has, he says, shewn more alacrity and proper spirit than the generality of the Zemindars.

8. I have directed Mr. Maclean to proceed to the northern portion of his jurisdiction, viz., Santipore, and to turn his attention to sanitary improvements in that quarter.

9. As noted in the ultimate paragraph of my former Report, Mr. Kelly has made his Head-Quarters at Bullagur, from which place he has been able to superintend those works which are being carried on in the north of the Hooghly District.

10. The jungle is being gradually but systematically reduced. I annex in the margin a list of the villages in that locality, all of which have been visited by Mr. Kelly, shewing the average amount of jungle cleared and up-rooted in each village up to date.

11. Village roads and drains are also in course of construction where required, and a great deal has been done to put these villages on a healthy footing.

12. Since submitting my last Report great progress has been made in clearing the jungle in the villages therein noted. Many of these are now, comparatively speaking, free from jungle, especially those near Hooghly itself.

13. The removal of the jungle after being cut, which I have steadily insisted on, is now being done without any apparent unwillingness.

14. The tanks and water holes in a Bengalee village are so numerous that it is impossible at this late season of the year to organize any systematic plan for their improvement. I have therefore confined myself to the cleansing of those which contain putrid and poisonous water, and which are in themselves the seat of disease.

15. In Shahagunge, Bansbaria, and Tribanneе, I have opened out five good village roads, cutting the jungle at right angles, and connecting thereby the open flat through which the East India Railway runs on the west, with the Hooghly River on the east. Some large general drains are also under construction, into which small feeders can be thrown when necessary.

16. In my former Report I informed you that I hoped to be able to arrange for a common Burial Ground at Pundooah. After placing myself in communication with the leading Mahomedan gentlemen of that place, and meeting them in the village, I found that the proposal must be dropped. I was satisfied that were a Burial Ground to be established, none would use it. The village is composed of innumerable small Ayma tenures. Each Aymadar is in the habit of buying his dead within his own land, and the consequence is that the village is covered in every direction with graves.

17. This practice of their fathers they appeared determined not to abandon, and argument was completely thrown away. In order to give the inhabitants good drinking water, I caused ten experimental wells to be sunk. These have been completed, and the water therein is clean and good. I shall, however, scarcely be credited when I state that the inhabitants adjoining whose houses these wells are sunk prefer drinking impure, stagnant, and discolored water from the holes, than what I have tasted and ascertained to be clean and wholesome from the wells.

18. They make no objections to the well water, which they admit is better and superior to what they use, but they say they are in the habit of drinking this water, and therefore they prefer it.

19. The village of Pundooah is now one of the cleanest in the District, every thing that can be done has been done. * * *

20. I anticipate that sickness this year at Pundooah will not be much diminished, for, if the people will not take the commonest precautions, nothing that I can do will be effective. I can give the people wholesome water to drink, but I cannot make them drink it.

21. Since submitting my last Report I have received a Deputation of the Hooghly Branch of the British Indian Association.

22. These gentlemen brought to my notice certain misconstructions of my orders which they alleged had occurred, and I promptly took measures to prevent a repetition.

23. The Deputation also brought to my notice that, as my order was a general one, it operated oppressively in exceptional cases where parties were too poor to incur the expense of Coolies.

24. They further brought to my notice that at the request of the Association in Calcutta, they were raising subscriptions for the prosecution of the sanitary measures adopted by me.

25. I informed them in reply that in all cases in which it had been brought to my notice that parties were truly indigent and were unable to clear their own jungles and dirt, I had directed it to be done at Government expense. At the same time I pointed out to them that I considered, as a general rule, that each individual was legally bound to remove the causes which have been certified to be dangerous to human health which existed in his immediate holding; but that, as the Association was engaged in raising subscriptions for this very important matter, and as the individual Members of the Association had better means and opportunities of ascertaining where these exceptional cases existed, I should be very happy to undertake the removal of these causes on their furnishing me with a list of the individuals whose indigency or physical inability prevented their carrying out the provisions of my general order, together with the amount necessary for the same which they were in a position to make over from the subscriptions they informed me they were collecting.

26. Hitherto, I have not been favored with a single case.

27. I yesterday requested the Association to inform me what amount they had succeeded in collecting. In reply, I have been this day informed that they are about to hold a public Meeting for the purposes of collection.

28. In conclusion, I have to express the obligations I am under for the very prompt manner in which the requirements I have solicited have been furnished by the Government of Bengal.

Government of Bengal, Public Works Department.

Road from Dabeepore Thannah to Fultah.

Memorial of the Inhabitants of Burda, Zillah 24-Pergunnahs, Thannah Dabeepore, to the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,—(dated the 31st December 1862.)

Most Humbly and Respectfully Sheweth,—That the countries inhabited by your Memorialists lie on the east of the River Hooghly, and on the west of the Grand Trunk Road which runs from Calcutta to Diamond Harbour. During the rainy season, that is from the month of May to that of January, the countries in which your Memorialists have the misfortune to live being extremely low are periodically inundated, and thus in the absence of any communicating channel from the Main Road to the interior of the countries become at once impassable.

That your Memorialists are all men of ordinary circumstances destitute of every county which opulence affords, and that there is not a single wealthy person amongst them whose liberality, munificence, and honesty of purpose can in the least contribute to the interest and well-being of the whole community at large. Under these grievously painful circumstances, the total absence of any extension from the Trunk Road is a crying want severely felt by your Memorialists.

That add to these common grievances the lower and the more indigent class of the community suffer an intolerable hardship. The small quantity of produce yielded by their soil, and which is the only scanty pittance of their subsistence, cannot be sold to advantage, owing chiefly to the inconvenience of inland communication occasioned by the want of regular and convenient roads. The ryots are thus obliged to dispose of their produce at their own houses at an unequal exchange much against their interest and will. Thus incalculable mischief is done to these poor persons which might have been effectually prevented had there existed any means which might have tended to facilitate the intercourse between distant villages and public bazars.

That owing to the worst and wretched condition of the countries the patrolling Guards of the Police cannot regularly keep up their nocturnal watch; besides, the local enquiries of the Police Authorities in the event of any unusual occurrence being stopped, and the regular and due operation of law cut short the most solemn and sacred rights of lives and properties of your Memorialists, are thus continually infringed and put into greatest jeopardy. The protection of law being thus tacitly inoperative, your Memorialists have the misfortune to be left helpless and bare to the mischievous intrigues of evil and designing persons.

That your Memorialists have no other remedy to their misfortunes except the favor of your Honor. With this view they earnestly pray that your Honor will be graciously pleased to sanction the construction of a line from Dabeepore Police Thannah to Fulta Beerushee, a distance of about six and a half British miles, as will be shewn by the accompanying Map.

In conclusion, your humble Memorialists most respectfully beg that should your Honor be graciously pleased to issue such orders as your Honor may deem meet for the completion of the object of their prayer, your Memorialists, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

From V. H. Schalch, Esq., Commissioner of the Nuddea Division, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal,—(No. 103, dated the 23rd May 1863.)

I have the honor to return the Petition of the Inhabitants of Burda, &c., received with your Endorsement No. 348 of the 15th January last, the reply to which has been delayed owing to the non-receipt from the Zemindars, through whose lands the road will pass, of replies to the requisitions of the Magistrate requiring to know on what terms they would give up the land.

2. From the accompanying copy of the Magistrate's letter, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will observe that the road is considered to be very much required, and that with my concurrence it has been included in the sketch Estimate already submitted to Government of works proposed to be undertaken during 1863-64.

3. With regard to the acquisition of the land, I would suggest that a remission of Revenue be allowed for all the land taken up for the road and compensation granted for any houses, &c., which may have to be removed, and I doubt not that on these terms the Zemindars will freely give up the land.

4. It is a most gratifying sign of the progress of general intelligence and education to find the people themselves coming forward to obtain the construction of roads. Hitherto they have invariably been averse to the opening out of the country under the impression that they would be more frequently laid open to the visit of Magisterial Officers and to the exactions of the Police. From this change of feeling we may fairly conclude that the Police are better kept in hand, and that benefit instead of injury is derived from the more frequent presence of the Public Officers, a result due, in a great measure, to the establishment of Sub-Divisions, which has led the people generally to appreciate the facilities they afford for the redress of wrong and the prevention of oppression.

From C. F. Montresor, Esq., Magistrate of the 24-Pergunnahs, to the Commissioner of the Nuddea Division, —(No. 265F., dated the 18th May 1863.)

With reference to your Office Docket without number, and bearing date 19th January last, I have the honor to report as follows:—

The line of proposed road from Dabeepore Thannah to Fultah as laid down in the Petition is one that is much required in the southern part of this District, and has been proposed by me in my sketch Estimate for the current year as the continuation of the Bankipore and Oostee Road vid Dabeepore to Fultah.

At present there is no line of road across the country from east to west, and the consequence is that communication for wheeled conveyances at all times and for foot passengers during the last six months of the year is not attainable though much needed.

On receipt of your orders I proceeded to that part of the country where the road is proposed, and placed myself in communication with the Petitioners, pointing out to them that they had omitted to seek the co-operation of the Zemindars through whose property the proposed line runs, and requesting them to procure their assistance. I also addressed a letter to the Petitioners with this effect, but received no answer to my communication for the space of two months, when I again brought the subject to their notice, and more over communicated with the landholders myself.

Annexed marginally are the names of the several proprietors and the amount of land that is required from each of them, with a note shewing the replies received to my enquiry

	Bs.	Cts.	Chs	K
Suddanund Roy Chowdry, of Barrcepore ...	194	13	4	6	Demands remission of Government Revenue and compensation for the Ryots.
Muthoornath Moonshee, of Takee ...	8	6	10	2	Consented to make a free gift of his lands
Romonee Dossee, of Bowally ..	8	6	10	2	Has not yet replied.
Shamapersaud Roy Chowdry, of Bhowanipore ...	110	2	2	3	Final answer not yet received.
Joykissen Mookerjee, of Cotterparah .	8	6	10	2	His son Huromohun has expressed his consent to make a free gift of his land
Ramcomul Mundul, of Bowally	13	17	12	0	Demands remission of Government Revenue.
Kosr Auporva Krishna Roy Bahadoor, of Shoba Bazar ...	30	5	4	3	Final answer not yet received.
Gungadhur Bannerjee, of Kidderpore	16	13	4	0	Consented.

Until all the Landholders are disposed to give up the land for the purpose, I do not see how the road can be constructed without considerable expense, which our annual allotment from Local Funds will be unable to meet; however, I do not despair of securing their general co-operation, and in such case would strongly urge the construction of the road which will form a complete artery across the southern portion of the District, and the cost of which I have as stated provided for in my Estimate of the current year.

The enclosures of your letter under acknowledgment are herewith returned, together with a sketch Map prepared by me, shewing the existing and proposed lines.

P. S.—The return of the Map when no longer required is solicited.

From Colonel E. L. Ommanney, R. E., Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, in the Public Works Department, to the Commissioner of the Nuddea Division,—(dated the 9th June 1863.)

I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 103, dated the 23rd ultimo, and in reply to state that the Lieutenant-Governor sanctions your accepting for the proposed road from Dabeepore Thannah to Fultah the land which the proprietors have offered to make over for that purpose without payment; but His Honor desires that so soon as the construction of the road has been definitely settled, and the land for it taken over, you will arrange for the remission of the Revenue of the whole of the land so taken, and for the payment of compensation for any huts and the like which may have to be removed.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor is gratified to observe the spirit with which the Zemindars have come forward to promote this work of public utility; the correspondence on the subject will be published in the Supplement to the Calcutta Gazette, and you are requested to communicate the contents of this letter to the several Zemindars referred to, and to advise the inhabitants of Burda who petitioned for the road in question of the measures taken thereupon.

Government of Bombay.

Topographical and Sanitary Report of Inspection visit to North Canara by Dr. A. H. Leith, dated 10th February 1863.

I landed at Sudasheogur on 25th December, and from thence went on by boat, touching at Anjidiva, visiting Tudree, Mirjan, Coompta, and Honore. I then went to Gairsopa by the Sheravuttee and by the ghat road to the falls of that river at Korkana, and onward by Sidapoor, Teeaglee, Sircy, Sonda, Yelapoor, Bagawuttee, Sumbranee, Hullial, and Juglepet to Soopa, and I left the Canara districts on 21st January to return to Belgaum.

The portion of Canara which is now annexed to the Bombay Presidency lies between N. Lat. 14° 3′ and 15° 31′, and E. Long. 74° and 75° 10′. At its north part it has a breadth of forty miles, which increases southward to sixty, but opposite to Honore it is indented by the Mysore territory, and suddenly diminishes in breadth, and from thence gradually narrows until at its south, it is but ten miles wide.

On its west it has a sea-coast of 76 miles from Alvagudda to Golamelly at the north, where the Portuguese territory begins; that territory occupies the strip of land, from twenty to twenty-five miles wide, that lies between the sea and the ghat line of the Soopa Talooka. Canara has the zillahs of Belgaum and Dharwar and the Mysore territory on its north, its east, and south-east borders. The area of this recently annexed district is about 3,800 square miles, of which 2,700 are high land, or balaghat, and 1,100 are paeenghat or low country, on the seaboard.

The surface of Canara is greatly diversified, and in its various aspects it is very beautiful. The sea-coast is much indented, and has in some parts a rugged shore, with rocky islands near, raised by the protrusion of igneous rocks, or of the older strata by them upheaved, while elsewhere there are sandy beaches with cocoanut plantations, and low hills beyond, with the characteristic even, nearly horizontal outline and scarped sides of the overlying laterite. Numerous estuaries and inlets give harbour to small vessels.

The tidal rivers and small backwaters are fringed with the usual salt marsh vegetation, among which the most abundant are the Rhizophora (Mangrove), Avicennia, and Ægiceras, and on the muddy banks the holly-leafed Dilivaria is abundant. Aquatic and wading birds are numerous, and now and then a crocodile is seen basking in the sun.

The level land of the Paeen-ghat is fully occupied with cocoanut palms and rice-fields, but the slopes are only partially cultivated, and are mostly very thickly studded with trees. The spurs of the high mountains are densely wooded, and the green forest is continued up to the serrate, or crenate crests of lofty ranges that rise to an altitude above the sea of full three thousand feet.

On ascending the Bala-ghat, an elevation of from fifteen hundred to two thousand feet is attained, and thick forest prevails, so that it is only here and there that a view can be had of anything beyond the trees around; and the roads now wind among small hills covered to their tops with wood. Some of these hills are steep, and have narrow ravines between, with little streams of water; it is in such that is found the soil fitted for the Baghshyes with their trinal cultivation of Areca, Cardamum, and Pepper. Others of the hills are more rounded, or are reduced to mere undulations of surface, and the broader vales between these are sown with rice. When a more distant view is at length obtained, the ranges of hills have still a crenate outline, or scarp and tail serratures indicate the upheaval of stratified rock; but these ranges have not an uniform direction, nor do they mark the general watersheds. The line of watershed between the Tudree River, which debouches at Rajamohun Droog, and the Wurda, which runs eastward to join the Tungboodra, is followed by the road leading from the falls of the Sherawuttee to Sircy; and the road from Sircy eastward to Palla is nearly in the line of watershed between the Wurda and Baidtee Nulla (the Gungawullee), and from Sircy, the road to Devunhullee is on the watershed between the Tudree River and the Baitee Nulla. Yelapoor is on the height between the Gungawullee and the Kallee Nuddee, while Hullial is near the banks of the Tutihal branch of the Kalee Nuddee, but where there is a nearer approach to a plain than was elsewhere seen. Soopa lies low in the trough of the valley of the Kalee Nuddee, where it is joined by the Oojulee Nuddee.

Below the ghats there is in general free access to the moist westerly sea breezes, although in some places these are intercepted by abrupt hills. On the other hand, the force of the dry N. E. monsoon winds is moderated by the overhanging mountains. Above the ghat it is only where there is comparatively open country that either monsoon is felt in much force. Sircy is one such spot, and there the wind at times blows with violence The denseness of the forests prevents free ventilation, and their tall branchless stems witness to the upward aspirations of the trees after fresh air, and their struggle to share in the genial sunbeams.

The rain-fall on the coast seems to approximate to that at Vingorla, which for the last twelve years had 113·53 inches. The record at Honore during eight years for the S. W. monsoon months gives 109 31 inches, but the fall in other months is not noted. In the Balaghat it varies greatly, not only according to distance from the sea, but also from the difference in the retardation of the flight of the clouds caused by obstructive ranges of hill; thus at Sircy, near which there are no high hills and the winds have freedom, the mean annual fall during the last ten years was 76·27 inches, while at Soopa, which is about the same distance from the brow of the ghats, and also from the sea, the mean annual rain-fall in five years was 121 inches, the difference being attributable to Soopa being at the foot and to the windward of a lofty and abrupt range of hills. The deep, wide, and bare rocky beds of the main rivers testify to how great the quantity and how rapid the flow of the South-west monsoon waters must be, and the numerous perennial springs and streams in the smaller valleys and dells show that it is but the superfluity that is carried off thus quickly. In the cold months the clouds at night and early morning hang low over the Balaghat or rest on the ground, enveloping all in mist, or if the sky is clear a soaking dew falls.

There are but meagre records of the meteorology of this district, and even the temperature does not appear to have been judiciously observed, for the tables bear evidence that the thermometers were wrongly placed. The mean temperatures shown in them probably approximate to the truth, and these give a difference of five degrees between the annual temperature of Sircy and that of the coast. No approximation to comparative diurnal range can be deduced from the data on record.

In the part of Canara passed over by me I found its geological structure in the south, south-west, west, and north-west to disclose hypogene schists (gneiss and micaceous schist) with a general dip eastward and inclination of about 30°, and a line of strike varying 40° or 50° from 0° to 310° or 320°. The upheaving agent seems to have been a rock, in appearance resembling a rather small-grained syenite, but which from the general absence of quartz is really a diorite. Granite appears to have been erupted subsequently to the diorite, and although it forms mountain masses, yet there is less general visible evidence of its presence: in a rock-cutting near Beitkul I found small pieces of diorite inclosed in granite. More recent than those two igneous rocks, there is a third—a trappean rock—resembling in lithological character the dolerite of the neighbourhood of Bombay and the Southern Konkun, and which has cut through both the more ancient igneous rocks and the schists in the form of dykes, and has spread out in surface beds, which extend over miles of area. Superposed on the schists, and hiding them, except here and there, where a protruding ridge is bare, or a watercourse discloses a section, there is quartz rock disintegrating into a red gravel, having in it masses of milky quartz of greater or less size, and sometimes in this quartzy layer there is found a seam or bed of red-clay-shale like that at Hooblee and Dharwar, and like it distorted and broken in appearance. This quartz rock is on the surface from Gairsopa up the ghat to the Falls, on to Sidapoor, Sircy, Sonda, Yelapoor, and to four or five miles beyond; then after a break which is occupied by the more recent trap rock and by the blue clay slate on which Hullial stands, it is again encountered on the west of the Birchee Nulla, and it is continued to Juglepet and Soopa; but at a few miles west of these places laterite is the surface rock. To the north of Asada, near Juglepet, trap spreads out. Over all the rocks which have now been enumerated laterite is found to be more or less extensively spread. In the coast it is the most prevalent surface rock, and along the crest of the ghats it is widely diffused, while in more inland localities it caps the hills in detached patches. In a spur descending to Soopa from the high ridge on which Juglepet stands, I found a rich ore of specular iron a Siderocriste. I learnt that at Kangora, and at Koolgee, about twelve miles from Soopa, and at Jan, near the top of the Devemuhnee Ghat, there is limestone that might be quarried, but I did not visit those spots.

The forest is rich in genera and species of trees and shrubs—too much so to admit of my enumerating them even were they more familiar to me than they are, but it may be described as of three kinds—the Ainee, the Sagwunee, and the Karwee, according to the predominance respectively of the Ain (Terminalia glubra), the Teak of Sagwun (Toctona grandis), or the Karwee bush (a Strobilanthus). The forest was always varied, and those parts of it called after the Ain, which is so highly valued for its wood, abound with bamboo and with other Terminaliæ, especially T. paniculata (Kinjul), T. chebula and T. nitida, and with Careya arborea, Lagerstrœmia parviflora, with Dalbergia, Acaciæ, Cesalpinæ, Pterocarpi, Phyllanthi, and other trees, but it was rarely that a Teak tree was seen in it. Nor was the Sagwun forest solely of Teak trees; bamboo was in it also a constant and sometimes a preponderating component, and the Terminalia were not absent from it, while the Bignomiæ, Dilleniæ, Erythrinæ, Bombax, and some Fici, were common to the more open parts of each, and the Butea frondosa, now in full blossom, beautified both. In the Teak forest betwen Yelapoor ane Bagawuttee there was for several miles, in place of underwood, the strong reed-like grass called Kussa, a stalk of which I found by measurement to be ten and a half feet high. In the Karwee jungle the Strobilanthus is not alone, but some Terminaliæ and other trees are found unchoked by it.

The changes in the dominant trees were found to accord with the changes in the surface rocks. Thus the presence of the common quartz rock and the quartzy gravel resulting from its disintegration, or of the micaceous schist, or gneiss, indicated the Ainee forest, or was in turn indicated by it. The Teak forest was found by me exclusively on trap-rock (apparently dolerite), or clay slate (I refer only to the ground passed over by myself), and the Karwee jungle was observed only where laterite was the surface rock. But although Karwee was not seen by me except on laterite, yet it was not the constant concomitant of that rock, for laterite without it was found copping gneiss and mica-schist and quartz. So invariably did the Teak indicate by its presence that the surface rock was trap or clay slate, and by its absence that it was micaceous schist, gneiss, or quartz, that at least for the portion of the district I examined, a geological map would be a guide to the forester, and a botanical map would be equally a guide to the geologist.

I have mentioned that it is mostly in the narrow steep ravines that the Areca (Sooparee) plantations are met with; the choice of such spots for them is not from the particular form of the little valleys, but because the micaceous schist broken and upheaved by the diorite determines that form, while it is from the disintegration of these rocks that there are furnished the ochrey and the white earths, called Kagardalee, the combination of which is thought to be essential to the success of the combined cultivation of Arecanut, Cardamums, and Pepper.

There is but a small portion of North Canara under cultivation, and above the ghats scarcely a tenth part is so. In the Sirey Talooka, with an area of about 1,000 square miles, there are 75,000 acres cultivated, and of these 40,000 are rice ground, 7,000 are slopes on which pulse and oil seeds are raised, and 8,000 are under Areca plantation. In the Soopa Talooka, with nearly the same area, there were but 47,546 acres cultivated last year. Regarding the smaller Talooka of Yelapoor, I have not obtained so exact information on this point. The villages are few in number, and to a traveller they seem still fewer, and they are so hidden in the forest that sometimes in the whole length of a day's journey not one has been seen. Neither are those that are called villages always worthy of the title, for some such consist merely of one or two huts on the side of a rice-field. Both the villages and towns in the Balaghat of Canara, are straggling, and are unprotected by walls or formidable fences such as are seen round villages in the Dekkun, testifying to former dangers from marauders. There are but few architectural remains of former days, and the absence of substantial or ornamental edifices for worship is in strong contrast to the profusion of such in the more northern districts of this Presidency.

The population is about eleven to a square mile, but it is very unequally distributed, the coast being more thickly peopled than the Balaghat. Hindoos of various castes predominate, but on the sea-coast there are many Native Christians and Moosulmans. Canarese is the universal language, but at the large towns Hindoostanee is understood by some, and many of the Native Christians speak the Goanese patois. There is not, I think, a school at present in the whole district at which Subordinates for the various Departments of the public service could be educated, except the two at Honore maintained by the German Evangelical Mission; yet the village Shonbows or Patels can read and write, having probably been taught in the family circle.

There are traders from other provinces settled at the sea-ports and some of the inland towns, and in the lines of their traffic there are many carriers. On the coast there are fishers and boatmen, but besides these nearly the whole of the inhabitants are agricultural. Although there is in many parts abundance of good pasturage the people keep but few cattle, and these are mostly buffaloes for their ploughs and carts, and a very few milch cows; sheep are never seen except at some of the largest towns.

The people, both rich and poor, live chiefly on rice grown in the Canara districts, and pulse (dal) of toor (cajanus indicus), or of Kooltee (dolichas uniflorus), that is in great part imported from the neighbouring zillahs; their acid condiments are the unripe mango and tamarinds; and the oleaginous ingredient of their food is, on the coast, the cocoanut, and in the Balaghat mostly oil of til (Sesamum orientale.) Another Cereal, Ragee of Nachnee (Eleusine coracana), is used by some, but it is said to have become scarce since the suppression of the Koomree cultivation. On the coast fish is eaten by many.

My notes of the sickness prevalent in this zillah I shall give in connection with the sketches of the particular places in which they were made.

Sudasheogur, in N. Lat. 14° 50,' E. Long. 74° 12,' stands on the north bank of the Kalee Nuddee where it falls into the bay that indents the shore between Lolien Point and Carwar Head. The place derives its name from Forts that once defended the entrance of the river, and of which the ruins are still seen. The two hills on which these ruins stand are respectively 160 and 220 feet high; they are of trap which has cut through granite, and they rise abruptly from the water's edge. The scene is picturesque, and a fine panorama is commanded from the summits. The Fort is in the centre of a circle formed by a chain of wooded hills of moderate size, extending from N. E. to N. W. with lofty mountains beyond; on the west there is the sea studded with rocky islands, on the two nearest of which are the remains of the Forts Deogurh and Coormagurh. From Carwar Head S. W. there crosses to the S. E. a dark high-wooded range of hill, in a gap of which lies Beitkul Cove, and that range in the distance is lost among lofty peaks and ridges ; while to eastward there is the Kalee Nuddee, disappearing among the palms and other trees on its banks.

The town of Sudasheogur, if such it may be called, consists of mean, thatched houses of mud, or of wattle and plaster, which are clustered on the ridge connecting the two fortified hills, and are irregularly placed in enclosures overshadowed with trees. At its north end are the Offices of the Mamlutdar and Foujdar. To the township, however, belong many other houses, scattered over the oval plain, at the south edge of which the Fort is placed. This plain is occupied mostly by rice-fields and cocoanut plantations, but some parts lie in salt marsh ; its long diameter is two and a quarter, and its short one is one and a half miles. It is bounded on the north by the semi-circle of wooded hills above mentioned, and is open to the westerly sea breeze, while on the south and east runs the Kalee Nuddee—an estuary or tidal river that at its mouth is a little more than quarter of a mile across, but widens to nearly a mile, and maintains an average width of about half a mile up to Cadra, a distance of about 17 miles. A sandbank runs across the river's mouth and nearly closes it at low water. The drinking water is obtained from wells, and is said to be good, and for natives Sudasheogur is considered to be a healthy place, and it was so in the experience of a small detachment of Madras troops that used formerly to be stationed there. Small Pox and Cholera are mentioned by those resident as the disease that have proved of greatest severity among them. For about a fortnight before my visit, easterly cold winds blew with unusual force, and from that time fever had been rather prevalent, but it was not of great severity. The ground on the two hills is very small in extent, and would not afford an area sufficient for any large body of men. The western hill is occupied by a private house or two, and these being high may prove tolerably healthy for individuals, but the low moist state of the flat makes it unfit for the location of European Troops.

The southern part of the crescentic line of Sudasheogur Bay is crossed by the much indented Promontory that terminates in Carwar Head. Along this Promontory there runs east and west the before mentioned range of hill, which on its north side, towards the bay, rises so close to the water as to leave but little footing, except what is reclaimed from the sea, or hewn in the rock, while on its south side towards the open sea there is a level plain of small extent. This range of granite hill, which from its western extremity, where it is 640 feet high, increases in elevation, until at Goodahally peak, four and a half miles east, it attains to 1,800 feet. Its continuity is interrupted at a mile and a quarter from its end by a gap in which is Beitkul Cove ; and again its ridge is notched at Bhingay Ghat, about a mile and a half farther east. At Beitkul trap-rock was seen on the face of the hill to the east of the Cove, and from thence downwards to the water's edge it had cut through the granite in the azimuth direction 20°, and this dyke coincided with that which had broken through the granite, and formed the small hills, three miles distant, on which the Fort of Sudasheogur was built. It is likely that the gap which now exists at Beitkul was partly formed by the disruptive force that ejected the trappean rock, and that since then it has become more perfect by the weathering and wasting of the more perishable trap that at one time had partially filled it. On examining the Island of Anjidiva, which lies three miles south of Beitkul, I found its southern end was of gneiss broken up, and injected with trap, and that its northern part was of trap rising abruptly like a wall from the sea. The north end of this island nearly coincided with the line uniting the dyke at Sudasheogur with that at Beitkul. At the depression in the ridge at the ghat between Conay and Bhingay I picked up mica-schist in the watercourse, and I observed that the spur of the hill descending between Conay and Aligudday was of trap, but I had not time to trace its course, or to determine whether this gap was like that at Beitkul, due to a trappean eruption. At Beitkul between the water of the Cove and the southern sandy beach, the wells are sunk in laterite, and in the low rice-fields which lie at the south base of the hill between Beitkul and Bhingay, the wells are dug in that same rock.

There is room for enquiry as to the relative time of the deposition of the laterite and the eruption of the trap, but if a note I made after hasty observation, that a piece of laterite was included in the mass of trap in the hill side cutting, be found correct, the priority of the laterite is proved. Then ought to follow the enquiry, whether the laterite of the hollow is in its original site, or is merely a conglomerate, consolidated from boulders fallen from the neighbouring heights.

On going eastward from Beitkul Cove, along the northern side of the hill, an indentation of the shore passed at Aligudday, where there is a sandy beach, and where by embankment some ground is being reclaimed ; then the spur of trap-rock before mentioned is crossed to the fishing village, Conay. The line of shore then turns northward, and a sandy beach extends two miles and a quarter to the mouth of the Kalee Nuddee. The ground on the south of the river for eight or nine miles is a plain of varying width, laid out in rice ground, cocoanut plantation, and salt pans, but it is indented by creeks, and one of these is at Shinkerree, two miles and a quarter up the river. The Beitkul range of hill between the Bhingay Ghat and Godhully peak sends an offshoot southward, which gives depth to the little bay at Bhingay, and also sends a short spur northward, which, together with the Shinkerree creek, forms the eastern boundary of a quadrangular plain that has the sea on its western side.

This plain is but little above the sea level and is mostly under rice cultivation, but on the bank of the river opposite Sudasheogur it is covered with cocoanut groves, in which is hidden the village Kooreebagh, inhabited by fishermen and boat-builders, and for about a third of the way from thence to Conay there are outlying scattered houses belonging to Kooreebagh, in enclosures shaded with Cashew-nut and Calophyllum Inophyllum trees. Along the sea beach there is a line of low sand hillocks, covered with coarse grasses, and the goat's foot Ipomœa From Conay eastward to the base of the spur of hill the plain is about one mile deep, and here I understand it is intended to lay out the ground for building.

There were watercourses for irrigation which were still flowing at the end of December, giving indication that the supply of water was abundant, and between Conay and Aligudday there was a stream running from the hill. At Beitkul there was a small spring, and there were several wells in the laterite yielding good water, but from the hardness of the granite of the heights on either hand, and the small extent of softer rock between, the supply must be expected to be limited; and from the conformation of the surface there is room for apprehension that unless there be a well-devised system of drainage, and the most careful attention to municipal and private conservancy, when the slopes are fully built upon, there will be contamination of the water by foul soakage and by surface washing in the rains. On the south shore of the Promontory from Beitkul to Bhingay there is plenty of water, said to be good, in the wells, and when I passed over the ground the irrigation streams were flowing freely from the hills.

The gorge at Beitkul is only two hundred and fifty yards wide, and although the south end of the gap is wider, yet there is but a small extent of building ground, and it is nearly cut off from the sea breezes, except during the S. W. monsoon, while from the direction of the opening in the hill, the N. E. wind might be expected to blow through it with some force. At Conay there is a frontage westward to the bay, so that it is open to the sea breezes, but the high hills that partially encircle the plain behind might be expected to diminish their strength.

The ground about Conay being so low there will be difficulty in carrying out so efficient a drainage as ought to be required in every town, and as this low ground is clayey, the evils of a retentive soil as sites for houses ought to be abated by filling in with a more absorbent material and building on high basements.

There are but scanty data from which to ascertain the comparative salubrity of Beitkul, but those at command show that while the neighbouring country has been visited by severe epidemic fever it has had great immunity.

The Dispensary Returns give no useful information on this point, as the many who apply there for treatment on account of fever and other diseases are mostly persons who have acquired their ailments elsewhere. But as the 3rd Company Sappers and Miners with a known strength were stationed at Beitkul from March last, its Hospital Returns may be considered to show, so far as they go, the effects of the climate of the locality. From these Returns there were in the four months, from August to November, sixteen admissions for fever, or four a month out of a strength of one hundred and four men, or in the ratio of 3 8 per cent. a month, which, although a larger proportion than is shown in the Native Infantry Hospitals at most other stations in this circle is smaller than in that at Kolhapoor during the same months.

Tudree. As seen from the sea, the land about Unkola is table-like, with hills far to the eastward, but that hilly range gradually approaches the sea, until at the entrance of the Tudree River or creek (Lat. 14° 31') it ends in precipitous cliffs, indented with a few nooks with sandy beaches, and in which are cocoanut groves and rice-fields. On the south of the entrance there is the somewhat isolated large mass of hill on which Rajamun Droog formerly stood. This hill is of hypogene schist, and at its northern base trap-rock is exposed, and there are boulders of laterite that have fallen from its summit. The entrance, which is obstructed by a sand bank, gradually narrows, and where it again opens out on the backwater Tudree is seen on the northern shore, on a narrow beach, close under a laterite hill. There are about forty or fifty stone and mud built thatched small houses in separate enclosures, overshadowed with cocoanut, jack, tamarind, and mango trees. The village is injudiciously placed, being altogether sheltered from the health-giving westerly breeze, and from its easterly aspect being exposed to the land winds. The inhabitants are partly Native Christian and partly Hindoo, and they gain a livelihood as fishermen and boatmen.

There are vacant warehouses on the shore, and on a neighbouring hill there is a bungalow which was the residence of a European Merchant, but it is now deserted and ruinous.

From the laterite hill about the village a view of the surrounding country was obtained; the nearer hills on the north and north-west were seen covered with dry grass, and thinly sprinkled with bushes, but a higher range on the east was thickly wooded. The backwater, about nine miles long, stretched northward and southward from Tudree, which stands near the middle of its western shore, it has many banks in it that are bare at low water, and on the flat beyond it there are salt pans and extensive rice-fields with cocoanut and other trees about the villages.

The account that was obtained of the health of Tudree was on the whole satisfactory: it was said there was usually but little sickness, and this was chiefly in the form of bowel complaint, and that the people had not suffered much from fever, and no increase of this disease had been observed in the last few years. For about a fortnight before my visit the easterly cold wind had blown with unusual severity, and since then three or four children had been laid up with fever.

The high ground to the westward of the village might possibly be found a healthy place of residence, but there might not be immunity even there from the hurtful influence of the night air blowing over so great an extent of water and moist ground as lies to the eastward.

Mirjan in Lat. 14° 29' Long. 74° 29' is at the south-east end of the estuary or backwater, and in direct line it is but four and a half miles from Tudree, but the channel by which it is approached is circuitous. The shores of the backwater are lined with mangrove and other bushes that hide the rice-fields from view, and on drawing near to Mirjan the wooded hills are less distant, and the water is narrower and so shallow that at low tide a man may wade across with the water, but breast high. The water was brackish, but in the rains the flow by the river is so great as to prevent altogether the influx of salt water so far as Mirjan.

Mirjan is on rather low ground where the Tudree River makes a bend, and several villages, or rather scattered hamlets, belonging to three separate townships, occupy the same angle of land with it. In the midst of these and about a third of a mile from the river there is the ruined Fort of Mirjan, built on the N. W. edge of a ridge of laterite, in which its deep ditch is excavated, and which gives it a position a little raised above the ground along the river bank. Its lofty, well built walls are so covered with bushes and climbing plants as to be but little observable among the surrounding verdure, and when near the masonry is seen to be encased and bound as regularly with a close network of peepul runners as if these had been trained by art. Along the rocky height there extends eastward as far as the Travellers' Bungalow, on the Unkola road, a large Moosulman Burial Ground which shews how much more populous and important Mirjan was in former days than now.

The present Mirjan, with its dependency Tareebagul, has about a hundred houses, and these are irregularly placed in separate enclosures near the Unkola high road that runs through their midst and is the only street. The houses are all low, built of mud or of stone and thatched, and are deeply shaded with trees as is usual in Canara.

The village is on sloping ground with a southern aspect, the soil being the gravel resulting from the disintegration of the subjacent laterite. At the foot of the slope there are rice-fields, which at the time of the visit where under irrigation for a second crop, and beyond these there is another undulation on the southern, declivity of which Tareebagul stretches downward to the stone-built wharf on the river's edge.

Besides the fields that have been mentioned there is extensive rice ground to the northward. On the east the surface near is of laterite, and is undulating and grassy with thinly scattered trees, but from the distance northward a high encircling chain of hill gradually approaches, until, on the south-east, its base is scarcely half a mile distant. These hills are thickly covered with wood to their summits, except where former Koomree has left patches now brown with dried up grass. On the South a yet more lofty range is seen on the west of the water, and extending south-westward towards Coompta, which is about four miles distant, there is seen an undulating partially wooded country.

On the same angle of land in the bend of the river along with Mirjan there are Korkana and Chatroo Kurwa, the former consisting of several hundred houses and built partly on a laterite elevation and partly on clayey rice ground, the latter being much smaller, and being built altogether on the rice ground and close to the river.

From the three Patels of these villages I learnt that for three years past there had been severe sickness and much mortality from fever; and that in Mirjan from thirty to thirty-five persons had died. It was said, however, that in Korkana the sickness was more severe, and the Patel, who himself was scarcely recovered from an attack, mentioned that a man was then lying dead of fever. In the eighteen houses of Chatroo Kurwa I ascertained that there were eight persons ill with fever.

Cholera frequently visits these villages in the hot season and the rains, and last year in Mirjan four or five persons died of it. Although very beautiful, Mirjan, which is so unhealthy to its own population, is very objectionable as a residence to strangers.

Coompta. Lat. 14° 25′ Long. 75° 28′ has a roadstead with a sandy beach, and the approach to the town is by a small creek, up which the tide runs about three miles. At the north side of the entrance of the creek there is a small conical hill, on which there are light-house and the remains of fortifications. This hill has at its base gneiss and mica-schist dipping in all directions from the hill; it is capped with laterite, and a trap dyke from the direction 200° cuts through its southern part; the trap-rock appears to have been the upheaving agent. Within the narrow entrance there is a marshy flat of about two or three furlongs in diameter, on which one of the Travellers' bungalows is placed, and beside this bungalow there is a large expanse of most offensive mud exposed at low water. On the further side of this marsh the town stands on a very gentle acclivity facing the west, the soil being the detritus of laterite rock. The streets are laid out with some regularity and run in a general direction W. S. W., and are crossed by others at right angles.

The houses are mostly in enclosures separated by low walls and thickly shaded with trees, but at several places for short distances they are contiguous. The last census gave the number of houses as 690, but it is probably greater now as building appears to have been going on with rapidity. Most of the houses are of mud and thatched, but the newer ones are of stone and tiled, and some of these are of two floors. There is provision made by side-gutters to the streets for monsoon drainage, and these lead into the creek. Drinking water of good quality is obtained from well sunk in the laterite.

There is another Travellers' bungalow on the rocky hill above the town, and from it a view is obtained of the surrounding country. The town below although within quarter of a mile is hardly seen owing to the profusion of cocoanut palms among which it is built. The rice-fields and the salt marsh are seen to be enclosed by a semi-circle of low hill, with a diameter for a mile or more. Mirjan Fort may be seen to the north, and the country in that direction and to eastward is undulating and covered with grass and some trees, with rice-fields in the hollows.

The surface rock for some miles round appeared to be laterite, but on the coast in the direction of Ravana Gundy there was a scarp and tail that indicated the upheaval of fractured strata at that point.

From the information I obtained from the native officials of the place, there seems to be no unusual amount of sickness among those resident at Coompta, and although there was among them during the last few weeks rather more fever than before that time, it was thought not to exceed what is usually present when the cold easterly winds of this season blow. Cholera was seldom or never present. There was, however, a large number ill with fever of those who had come from the country above the ghat, and it was said that in the low country away from the sea-side there were many at present suffering from it.

Should it be necessary to locate any body of men at Coompta, the high ground to the eastward of the town appears the best locality for the purpose, and as the water supply could only be obtained from the western slope, they could not be far removed from the town.

Honore. From the sea the low hills about Honore are tabular and scarped, as laterite hills usually are, and in the distance there are high ranges covered with green wood to their waved or crebate summits.

On the north bank of the Sheravutty or Gairsopa River where it falls into the sea, there is a flat-topped laterite hill probably 120 to 150 feet high, precipitous to the River on its south side, and sinuous and more or less scarped to the westward; the general line of the westward scarp is S. E. and E. E. On a lower level of about seventy or eighty feet high, a flat-topped spur runs nearly westward from the former, and parellel with the river to a length of about three quarters of a mile, and ends at the site of the former Fort which overlooked the entrance of the river, but of which there are now but few traces beyond a trench partially isolating the extreme point of the hill, on which there are some magnificent trees. This spur is precipitous on the south, but has a sloping descent to the north. On its summit are the houses of the few European Officers of Government, and it was the site of the small Cantonment of two Companies of Native Infantry at one time stationed there. Under the west point there is a stripe of level ground, which runs also under the south base of the hill along the river side, and on the north and north-west side the sloping descent is continued into a low flat that is bounded on the west by a small backwater.

The town consists of about 878 houses, and is divided into two parts, the smaller of which occupies the narrow belt along the south base of the spur; the houses standing in enclosures shaded by cocoanut, jack, mango, kokum, and other trees; the other and larger portion of the town lies on the other side of the spur, and consists of two long narrow streets crossing at right angles, and having directions nearly north and south, and east and west, respectively. The houses are more or less contiguous, are raised on high basements, some with an upper floor, and they are built mostly of stone and mud, but a few are of stone and lime mortar; most are thatched, but some are tiled. The streets are of laterite gravel and are in good repair, and they have side-drains for the monsoon waters. Beyond these streets the houses are detached in enclosures, and all are shaded with lofty trees. There is a large tank built on the west of this part of the town, and good water is obtained from wells, but it becomes rather scarce in the hot season. Under the west point there is the Dispensary, in which there are rooms for a few sick persons. The building was a private residence or warehouse, and since being rented for its present use a shed has been added to it, but it is very ill adapted for an Hospital. Near it, but more to the eastward, and shut out from the breeze, there is the old Jail so ill situated, badly constructed, overcrowded and filthy, that when one sees it, one can scarcely credit that its real state has ever come to the knowledge of those in authority. At the east end of the spur of hill, close under the western scarp of the higher table first mentioned, there is a new Jail nearly finished, and although in many respects its construction and site are objectionable, yet it is far superior to the old one.

The locality occupied by the European residents appears to be the best they could have chosen, and for a small detachment of Troops, the former Cantonment is good. If a wider area were required, the higher eastern plateau might be resorted to, but water would be far off.

From that elevation the town below is not seen, being entirely hidden by palm trees. On the north the bare slightly undulating surface of the laterite is seen extending far, and on the north-west and west there is the narrow stripe of backwater with sand hillocks and a sandy beach between it and the open sea. On the south side there is a large expanse of water dotted with small palm covered islets, the tidal river having here increased to a width of two miles before joining the sea, from which it is separated, except close to Honore, by a sandy spit bearing clumps of cocoanut trees. Wooded hills run eastward along the left bank of the river.

There has been but little recorded epidemic sickness among those resident at Honore. During the prevalence of Cholera last year, the disease was imported, and for a week or two it spread, but after having attacked about fourteen it ceased. Fever, which has prevailed so extensively at inland places during the last few years, has not in any very marked degree increased here, and there are no numerical data from which to find the actual ratios of fever and other sickness in the resident population; such can only be found where, out of a known number, all the sick come under cognizance. The Jail is the only institution that at Honore would afford these circumstances, but here it is in so exceptional a sanitary state as to render it unfit as a criterion of the salubrity of the station. The Returns of the Police Force have a certain strength given in them, but the men are distributed through the surrounding country, and apply at Honore for the treatment of ailments acquired elsewhere, and in the Dispensary Returns also there are included some cases of those who bring their diseases from other places, and in these Returns no strength is or can be given.

As an indication of the unhealthiness of the Honore Talooka, although not of the station, the Police Hospital Returns may be used, and from them it is seen that in the year 1862, in a total of 270 admissions, there were 161 cases of fever or about 60 per cent.

The Dispensary, Civil Hospital, and Police Returns, although not giving exact information regarding Honore separate from all other places, yet may be here quoted as giving some information as to the comparative prevalence of fever in different years among the same classes of applicants for medical aid:—

Year.	Total Admissions.	Admission for Fever.	Per Cent. Admission for Fever.
1854 ...	2,286	160	7·0
1855 ...	3,590	776	21·6
1856 ...	4,727	1,991	41·1
1857 ...	4,432	761	17·2
1858 ...	3,876	437	11·3
1859 ...	4,404	760	17·2
1860 ...	3,335	608	18·2
1861 ...	2,395	634	26·5
1862 ...	2,171	618	28·4
Nine years.	31,215	6,745	21·6

This table shows that in the last four years there has been a gradual increase in the ratio that fever bore to other ailments, but it shows also that prior to that time the fluctuations were great, and that although in 1862 the proportion was 28·4, yet it was greatly exceeded in 1856, when the percentage was 41·1.

During the same nine years the admissions for diarrhœa and dysentery were but 5·4 per cent. of the total admissions.

The Sheravuttee river maintains a large size up to Gairsopa, a distance of 17 miles, and this is due to the influence of the tide that reaches thus far. In the rains the fresh water maintains its freshness to within a short distance of Honore, but after the end of the S. W. monsoon the sea water comes higher and higher up. In December the water was salt in all the lower ten miles, and in March the water at Gairsopa usually is brackish. The shores are lined with mangrove and other salt water bushes, and the high banks above the influence of the salt water are thickly wooded, other trees being largely interspersed with bamboo, and not far from the left bank there rose wooded hills. From the river nothing but luxuriant trees were seen, but on ascending the bank and passing through a fringing belt of trees and bushes, hidden rice-fields were discovered: and thus it was at Gairsopa.

Gairsopa is on the left bank of the Sheravuttee, where it ceases to be navigable; it is now but a small village inhabited by husbandmen and a few traders who have an interest in the traffic that finds its way along the ghat that descends here from the Mysore country.

The few huts of which it consists are situated along the base of a thickly wooded range of hill, and between them and the river the ground, scarce a furlong wide, in terraced for rice cultivation. Watercourses and a road-cutting disclosed, the structure of the hill to be micaceous schist, with red-clay-shale, veined and seamed with quartz above it, and laterite was uppermost. About a mile from the village, and beyond a small tributary stream, there is the site of old Gairsopa. It is now a tangled jungle, in which are heaps of stone rubble—the ruins of houses built partly of mud; there were here and there some squared and dressed stones, the remains of temples. A small Jain temple of ornamentally cut granite was seen in perfect preservation, with four sitting images placed back to back in quadrangle in the middle chamber; these were carved out of trap-rock. In another building there was a much larger image carved in the same material. These two temples are visited occasionally by Jains, of whom there are two or three families in some village near. Besides these remains and such heaps of rubble as lay about, the Guide said there was nothing to be seen of the ancient city.

Fever was here very prevalent, and cholera too was present in Gairsopa and the neighbouring village called Nugree, and many had died of it both among the inhabitants and the carriers who come down the ghat from the Mysore territory, and who it is probable brought the disease with them from Mysore where it was said to be raging.

In the ascent from Gairsopa to the Falls, the hill-side road cuttings disclosed granite near the foot of the ghat, and higher up mica schist and quartz gravel; but passing along a winding road in a forest so gigantic, no comprehensive view of the structure of the hills could be obtained. The line of strike when observed was S. W. b. W., and near the top of the ghat a protruding mass of diorite in the anticlinal axis of mica-schist was noted, and when the ascent ceased, and the road passed as it were among the hill tops, quartz rock with its gravel of disintegration was the common surface rock, and at the Falls the stupendous chasm showed the substructure there to be gneiss, with a line of strike N. W. and S. E., and with an inclination of about 30° dipping to the N. E. Here the forest was Ainee.

Fever was more than usually prevalent, and more persistent than usual it was said, but yet it had not attained to such severity as at many other places. From the Patel of Korkana, which is the village near the Falls, I learnt that there were fifteen sick in forty houses.

On leaving the Falls the road to Keelar was winding and passed through Ainee forest, and the road cuttings showed the surface rock to be disintegrating gneiss. From Keelar the country was more or less open, there being low hills and undulations with rice flats of considerable extent among them. Many of the hills and rising grounds were grassy with scattered clumps of trees, but some were thickly wooded,; laterite over quartz was now the surface rock onwards to Sidapoor.

Sidapoor is in Lat. 14° 21' and Long. 74° 58', and it is within three miles of the Mysore territory, towards which the drainage of the neighbouring lands flows to join the Wurda River. The approach to Sidapoor from the south is through an avenue of magnificent large Dool or Bugoolee trees (Mimusops elengi), the flowers of which are offered by the Hindoos to their idols.

The town is on an eastern slope, at the top of which the Government Offices are situated. It has about three hundred houses, and these are more closely built where the bazar is, and the rest are in separate enclosures and groves; the term garden is seldom applicable to anything seen in Canara.

The bazar portion of the town is regularly laid out, there being clean gravelled streets running north and south, one of them broad, and other two crossing these at right angles, and there are side drains for the S. W. monsoon waters that fall into a very filthy nulla on the E. and S. E. of the town. The houses have mostly but a ground-floor; they are of mud and are thatched, and they have deep verandahs in front, of substantial wood, painted red, and each has mud built, neatly plastered benches in its verandah. There is a tank, but drinking water is obtained from numerous wells in the laterite rock. Beyond the filthy ditch to the eastward there are rice-fields, which at the time of the visit were being irrigated, as if for a second crop; on the north and the south of these there were among the forest Baghshyes in which Areca, Cardamums, and Pepper are together cultivated. The Areca plantations are laid out with regularity, the palms being planted rather closely in straight rows, and after every second row there being a trench for irrigation; each palm has a pepper wine twining round its stem, and Cardamum plants occupy the intervals. For the last two years there has been a blight among the Cardamum plants at Sidapoor, but this I did not find had affected other localities.

From the Mahalkuree, the Police Foujdar, and the Moonsiff I learnt that fever was unusually prevalent in the town and the neighbourhood—of twenty policemen, five were ill with it. The presence of cholera a short time before caused great fear among the inhabitants, which had not subsided, although no fresh case had occurred for the last seven days, and it had been confined to one house, and had apparently been imported from a distance. A man had travelled from Gairsopa in two days, and was ill on the day of his arrival at Sidapoor, and died of the disease; five others in the same house were attacked, and only two of them recovered; the survivors of the household were removed by their relations to a distance and the disease ceased.

After leaving Sidapoor the country through which the road passed was still undulating, and was mostly covered with wood more or less thick, and the trees were diversified, but were chiefly Terminalias. A gatherer of myrobolans was adding to his heap at the roadside, which he expected a trader from Honore to purchase at the rate of three Canara pice (about an anna) for twelve seers; those he had collected were of bad quality. There was still laterite on the surface as far as Koonjee, and here and there there were rice-fields.

From Koonjee to Nirguroo the soil was sandy, and after passing the latter place there was a slight ascent, and gneiss appeared, and laterite boulders lay on the surface. At Jargoloo granite masses protruded, and this rock continued at the surface as far as Tapal Katay. On approaching Teeaglee schist was again seen in the hill-side cuttings and in the watercourses, but laterite capped the hills or lay in boulders on them. From Nirguroo to Teeaglee there were no rice-fields seen, and the Annee forest was largely mingled with bamboo of several species (Mas kunuk and others), and several small streams were crossed.

Teeaglee is a small village situated in a narrow beautiful valley among steep, not high hills, covered with wood. It consists of thirty houses without reckoning outlying hamlets. The houses are of mud, thatched with Areca palm leaves, and mostly placed on the high road as it enters an extensive Areca plantation that follows the course of a deep, narrow cross valley. There is a considerable stream at the bottom of the valley, and each ravine sends its little tributary to join it; but although water is thus plentiful, every house has its well dug in the gravelley detritus of the schist or the laterite. The inhabitants are mostly Havek Brahmuns, who are the owners of the plantations and live on the produce; but here, as in all other such plantations, the owners are unable to gather the fruit themselves, and are dependent for this on the traders from Eekairee in Mysore, who, when they come to make their purchases, bring with them men whose caste and occupation it is to climb the trees.

I learnt for the last three years fever had been unusually prevalent; that in the first of those years it was severest, and that it lessened last year, but had now increased again considerably. The fever it was said was observed to increase at the beginning of the rains, to lessen during their continuance, and again to increase after their cessation. At my desire the Patel made inquiry at every house, and learnt that on the day of my stay there were among the thirty houses nineteen in which there were sufferers from fever, and in those nineteen houses there were thirty-one persons ill of it.

The fever here, as elsewhere, was found to be of the usual intermittent types, and often to be accompanied with enlargement of the spleen. Diarrhœa was said to be a frequent complication of the disease.

From Kansooroo the forest became less dense, and the hills grassy and less steep, but still mica-schist was seen protruding. Between three and four miles from Sircy quartz became the prevailing surface rock, but it was often overlaid with laterite. In a road-side cutting near Sircy red argillaceous shale like that at Hooblee was seen.

At Kansooroo I learnt that fever was very prevalent among the villagers, and I found that two of the four policemen stationed there suffering from it.

Sircy is in Lat. 14° 37′ Long. 71° 54′, and about 2,500 feet above the sea level. It is spread over an irregular area of uneven ground, about a mile and a half from east to west, and seven furlongs from north to south, but only a small part of this surface is occupied with houses.

In the middle of this area there is a low hill that slopes gently to the north, the east, and the south-east, and which at its south side, where it is highest, has short spurs, between which are precipitous ravines. The Coompta road enters Sircy by one of those spurs. The highest ground is occupied by the Station Hospital and the buildings that formerly belonged to a Detachment or Native Infantry, and along the middle of the north-east slope there is the principal street or bazar called Chunputun, and across it Chumarkeree and Shimpikeree run to join in Deveekeree which leads to the tank called Deveegeeree, on the northern outskirts of the town. On the southern slope of the high ground there is an irregular open space, on the west side of which there are the Revenue Offices and the Post Office, and on its north the Court-house and the Jail. To the eastward of this space are the ditch and nearly levelled ramparts of the Fort, and beyond the Fort there is an unfinished tank called Kotegeeree. Between Kotegeeree and Deveegeeree there lies Moosulman Gullee on the north boundary of the town. Parallel with the beginning of the Coompta road, and on its south, there is Rungapul Bazar, which is continued in a north-east direction into Mareegoodeepet, that ends at the Bunawassee Road.

Apart from the Native portion of the town and in a line extending west from the Hospital, there are the Collector's bungalow, the Burial Ground, and the Travellers' bungalow; and on high ground running in a northerly direction and making a right angle with the above there is a road leading past two bungalows of Europeans and the Engineer's stores, where the European Detachment was located during the mutiny. There is a grassy plain included in the angle thus formed, and at its north end Nuweepet stands, between the beginning of the Yelapoor road and Deveegeeree.

The ground on which Sircy stands is quartz and its gravel, over the highest points of which there is a bed of laterite and in the ravines on the western and northern sides there is micaceous schist broken through by diorite.

Rice-fields partially encircle the town on its north and east, and to the northward and north-east beyond there are low grassy hills, and beyond them on the east and south-east there are low-wooded hills and Areca plantations. Neither are there on the south or west any high hills very near; in the ravines close by there are Areca plantations.

At last census Sircy had 962 houses, which was fifty fewer than at the preceding enumeration. The town has a very mean appearance, the houses being small and badly built of mud and tiled or of plastered wattle and thatched.

The principal or bazar streets even are not clean, and the precincts of the houses on the outskirts, which are in separate enclosures, are very filthy, especially those along Moosulman Gullee. There are many houses becoming ruinous, and the whole aspect of the place is that of poverty and desertion; and although it is a great emporium of trade, those who visit it to make money seem to subject themselves to much misery and discomfort rather than spend money on a residence in which they have no intention of making a lengthened stay.

The monsoon drainage has been judiciously provided for, so as to prevent the accumulated filth of the town being carried into the tanks. The drainage of Chunputun and its vicinity passes by Moosulman Gullee clear of Kotegeeree (tank) to a watercourse on the east, called Sumgarhul; that of Mareegoodeepet and Rungapul Bazar is carried into Mooroodoo Nulla to the south-east of the town.

The two tanks on the margin of the rice ground to the north have already been mentioned; one of them is built round, but it has little depth, and in the hot weather its muddy bottom is in great part exposed. Koteegeeree (or the Fort tank) was being excavated by convicts when the zillah jail was removed to Honore, and since then the work has been relinquished; in its present state it is but an offensive muddy pool in the hot weather. Water of good quality and in abundance is obtained from wells in all part of the town, and here as in almost every part of Canara much trouble is taken to have a well to almost every house. At a Muth (or temple) near the highest part of the town, I examined a well which was sunk through laterite and quartzy graved to a depth of sixty-eight feet, and in it there were eight feet of water.

The public buildings, the Court-house, the Mamlutdar's Cutcherry, the Jail, and the Hospital are substantially built. The Jail is small, badly constructed and ill-ventilated, but now it has but few occupants, and they need never be overcrowded. The Hospital is most inconveniently small, and now that the demand for Hospital accommodation is great, the sick are overcrowded.

There is not much on record in the Hospital regarding the meteorology of the place. The S. W. monsoon breezes being between the first and second weeks in May, and the rains are preceded and followed by thunder showers. Between the first and second weeks in October the change to the N. E. monsoon takes place. In December and January the N. E. wind blows strongly, and about the last week in March it ceases, and variable winds and calms succeed.

The observations on temperature appear to have been made with the thermometer within the house, and are therefore of little use. The mean rainfall in ten years has already been mentioned as 76·27, this is taken from the register kept in the Mamlutdar's Office.

In former years Sircy does not appear to have been considered an unhealthy station, and the Hospital records of the small military detachment that extend from 1846 to 1850, and again from 1852 to 1859, bear out this impression. The strength was but small, being on an average but 154, and with this the percentage of yearly admissions from all causes was 88·2, which is not excessive when compared with that at some other stations. From tables of sickness at the several stations of the Southern Division of the Bombay Army, from 1840 to 1854, the ratio of admissions to strength among the Native Troops was 79·4, but among these at Kolhapoor the ratio was so high as 108·3 per cent. For fever the Sircy records show 32·9 as the ratio of admissions, while from the tables just mentioned, the ratio in the Southern Division was 31·3 and at the single station of Kolhapoor it was 60·1.

In March 1860, the Native Infantry Detachment was re-placed by Policemen, and in the month of May following there was a sudden increase in the admissions for fever, the ratio for that year was 195 per cent., for 1861 it was 200, and for 1862 it was 132 per cent., the admissions from this cause being therefore five times as great in the last three years, as they had been in the thirteen years' Returns of the Infantry. These Policemen were not all stationed at the town of Sircy; the majority of them were distributed over the Talooka, and were thus more exposed to malarious influences than the Infantry would have been, had the Detachment still been at Sircy, but no amount of exposure alone could have sent so many fever cases to Hospital, had the malaria not become greatly intensified.

This increase in the sickness at Sircy was, so far as I have learnt, contemporaneous with its increase throughout the interior of North Canara, and I have been unable to find that there were any changes in the circumstances connected with the sanitary state of the town, of so sudden a nature, or so great a magnitude, as to account for the rapid rise in its Hospital admissions. The sanitary state is indeed bad and calls for improvement. The epidemic fever has been so severe among the townspeople as to impede the transaction of business, and several native merchants, who had been resident for some years, are said to have left the place to escape from the sickness.

Cholera has not been often prevalent at Sircy. In 1854 it was epidemic, and again in 1861 it was present in the town for several months, but since September of that year no cases of the disease have been heard of.

The measures for the improvement of the sanitry condition of Sircy, which seem most immediately called for, are (1) the deepening of the Deveegeeree, and the completeing of the Koteegeeree (tanks). (2) The draining of the marshy pool that was formerly a tank, in a hollow between the Travellers' bungalow and the Christian Burial Ground. (3) The enforcing of the order, that carts and bullocks be prohibited from making the space before the Cutcherry, or any of the streets, a halting place, and that they be restricted to the appointed locality outside of the town. (4) The closing of the Moosulman Burial Ground, which occupies nearly the highest ground in middle of the town, between Shimpikeeree and Chunputun, and granting a Cemetery in lieu, beyond the precincts; this Burial Ground is in the most populous part of the town, and from its high position it is likely to contaminate the water of the neighbouring wells. (5) The thorough cleansing of the enclosures in Moosulman Gullee, and the pruning of the trees, and removal of the bushes in that foul and overshaded damp locality. (6) The careful and painstaking enforcement of cleanliness in the public streets and the premises of the inhabitants.

Sircy to Sonda the road passed through Ainee forest, more or less dense; the bottoms of the broader valley were laid out as rice-fields, and the narrower were planted with Areca palms. In one valley there was a plantation of the Bhirlee, (caryota urens). The rock was still the quartz gravel, with micaceous schist underneath, and in the rivulet at Targut masseas of diorite were exposed.

Sonda is about a mile to the left of the road on a low hill on the west side of the Soandee Nullah; it is approached by a ford at a little distance from the ruins of the old stone bridge. It is now an insignificant village of mud built thatched houses, and has no regular bazar. The Patel, who is a Havek Brahmun, has other two villages under his control, rice and sooparee nuts are the cultivated products of the neighbouring land.

The old Fort of Sonda stands on the south side of the river, on an elevation produced by a trappean eruption. It is totally ruinous and deserted, and its high walls are masked by trees and bushes. The remains of architecture that are seen indicate former magnificence. There are blocks of stone from fourteen to sixteen feet in length at the sides of the gateway, and in the inner quadrangle there are several tanks lined with large blocks of finely dressed stone; but the most remarkable object is a slab of trap rock, twelve feet square, and six inches thick, smoothed and levelled, and free from flaw. It rests on five little pillars about three feet high that are elaborately carved.

Sickness was much complained of by the people of this village, and there had been great mortality from fever during the last three years. Old and young were sufferers here, as elsewhere from the disease, and the splenic enlargement which is usual in protracted exposure to febrific miasm, was seen to an excessive degree in young children. From the Patel I obtained the present state of the villages under his care, ascertained by inquiry made at each house, and the result was that in two hundred and thirty-six houses, with twelve hundred and seventeen inhabitants, there were four hundred and twenty-one ill with fever or 34·5 per cent.

From Sonda the same rocks were met with as before, and the same kind of forest, and this was so dense that it was not until approaching to Munchkeree that any distant view was obtained, and it was the first since leaving Siroy. The country to the north-east was seen to be less mountainous, but still covered with wood. From Munchkeree onwards the road was through forest of large trees, but on approaching the wide rocky Baidtee Nullah, bamboo became predominant. On the north of this river the Terminaliæ were again the chief trees, until at Saweengirah the jungle became less dense and thence to Yelapoor consisted mostly of clumps of bamboo with grass on the ground between them.

Yelapoor in Lat. 14° 57' and Long. 74° 46' has an elevation of between 1700 and 1800 feet above the sea level. The township has two square miles, of which fifty acres are cultivated for rice chiefly; a portion is built on, but the greater part is jungle.

The last census gave 261 as the number of its houses, and its population 1529; the population is chiefly Hindoo, and except those in the Government Offices all are employed in agriculture, even the shopkeepers. Many of the proprietors being Shervy Brahamins have to engage labourers for their field, and these usually come from the Goa territory; but this year the dread of the epidemic sickness has seriously diminished the labourers, and much of the crop has not been gathered.

The town is irregular, and is built on two parallel ridges running nearly N. W. b. W. with adjoining hollows. The rock is quartz-gravel, through which diorite protrudes at the south end of the town, and over which at the north end there is layer of laterite. The principal street in which are the Cutcherry and the Court-house, and Bazar of from twenty-five to thirty shops is on one of the ridges, and parallel to it, in the hollow on the north-east there is a dirty lane called Pelkeree, of a few houses, and having a shallow dirty tank and rice-fields eastward of it.

On the other ridge are Hadee Bhawee, and beyond it, Maidan Gullee—a lane on broken ground and with a few poor thatched huts. Hadee Bhawee is more populous and has better houses. Between the two ridges there are houses in the hollow nearly hidden among trees. At the north-west end of these streets or lanes, and at right angles to them are Moosulman Gullee on low ground, among trees, and Brahmin Gullee, and Menkeree; all these, excepting the chief bazar, are filthy, and very offensive. The monsoon drainage is into a nullah that passes by Moosulman Gullee.

The houses are generally of mud with low walls, but raised on a plinth, with a deep verandah, sometimes enclosed with a bamboo screen, and they are mostly tiled; in the outskirts they are mere thatched wattle huts. The Court-house and the new Cutcherry are substantial buildings. Every house has its own well dug either in gravel or in laterite, and there is a public well at the end of Hadee Bhawee lane, excavated in diorite rock, the water of which is much esteemed. There are several small dirty tanks that are used for washing and for irrigation, and on the east of the town there is a large double tank formed by embankment, called Jortulao, and about a mile distant on the Arbyle road there is a tank fed by a spring. From the Jortulao there extend rice fields, encircling the north and north-east parts of the town. On the other sides there is jungle, chiefly of bamboo, but mixed with Careya, Randia, Phyllanthus, and a few Terminaliæ trees. About a mile and a half westward there are Areca plantations.

Cholera has carried off many in the Yelapoor Talooka in each of the last five years; fever has been very prevalent for three years, and many are said to have died of it; of the twenty-four Policemen stationed in the town of Yelapoor, however, there were but two ill with fever. There are Returns of deaths in the Office of the Mamlutdar of this and of some other Talookas, but as they are imperfect, they are of little use. They would be improved by having the total mortality added to them.

The road from Yelapoor was still over the same rocks and was through Ainee forest, until reaching the fifth mile stake, when, at the summit of an elevation, trap-rock protruded. Teak trees, which had been seldom or never seen, now became common, and they and the trap-rock continued onward for many miles.

Bagawuttee is a halting place, but it is an insignificant hamlet on the side of a flat, in the middle of which there is a shallow tank or marsh with pools, which is about half a mile long. The flat is partly rice ground, partly grassy, and it is surrounded with dense jungle. At the north-east of the tank a soft schist with a seam of quartz protrudes; trap is near it; and is exposed also at the east and the south of the tank.

The Patel said there had not been much sickness in the neighbourhood, and that among the inhabitants of the seven houses of which his hamlet consisted, there were but a man and a child at present ill of fever. Among four Policemen one was subject to fever, but was still at duty.

From Bagawuttee to Hullial the forest was mostly of teak and bamboo, but it was varied with other trees, and at the beginning of the road there was tall course grass. At Neelwunnee, cultivation was first seen, and at Sambranee it became more extensive, and was as usual of rice, the fields being still encompassed with teak and bamboo jungle. Three miles south of Hullial the Tatihal Nullah was crossed, it is here but small, its bed is rocky, blue clay slate being the rock.

Hullial is in Lat. 15° 20′ and Long. 74° 49′ is fifty-six miles from the sea and twenty-nine miles from the brow of the ghat. It is on what is an approach to a plain that extends ten or twelve miles north and south, with rice and pasture grounds, the latter thickly studded with trees. The Tatihal Nullah runs within a mile of the town, but there is but little drainage into it from the immediately surrounding land, which in the numerous hollows of its slight undulations has shallow unbuilt tanks or pools that gradually dry up during the hot months, and round these the ground is terraced for cultivation. On the west and north-west jungle of bamboo and other trees are within a distance of three or four miles and on the east there is a low range of bare hill of clay slate, on the lower part of the west slope of which part of the town of Hullial is built. In this west slope of the hill it is seen that the slate which dips eastward alternates with quartz rock, and that trap is in the situation of the upheaving agent. In the streets of the town the schist in some places crops out to the inconvenience of those in wheel vehicles.

The town stands on about a square mile of ground, which includes 449 acres of cultivation; it is built irregularly, and its houses are mean, mostly mud built, small, of one floor, with low walls and tiled roof, and with deep verandahs. Including the suburbs there are 1100 houses and these are partly in streets and partly in separate enclosures and shaded with trees.

The chief streets are the bazar, which from the Dharwar road is continued in a northerly direction into Bhoee Gullee and Kussie Gullee, and this line is crossed at the north side of the town by Dessaee, or Koombar Gullee, which runs nearly east and west. From the sides of the Cutcherry in Bhoee Gullee, two streets, Bomun and Settee Gullees run south-westward, and converge and meet with Dessaee Gullee near the ruined Fort. Goodepoor or Nuwee Bazar is built along a part of the Dharwar road, and Coomar Gullee is south of and parallel to the main bazar. There is a depression of the ground extending through the town in a westerly direction in its whole length, and this has an embankment at two places, forming the Lenguttee Tulao, and a little below it the Kala Tulao, the ground being marshy, and that below the Kala Tulao being irrigated by cultivation. Besides these, there are the Kempond or Tamra Tulao, and other smaller tanks and several wells affording good water, but most of them dry up in the hot season, and many then have recourse to the Naggeera, a perennial spring, about a mile and a half distant, and a little south of the Dharwar road. There is a well in the old Fort but at present it is unclean.

The roads are uneven, and are very dusty owing to the softness of the argillaceous schist over which they pass; the sides of the streets, the many unbuilt spaces, and the enclosures about the houses are all very filthy. Close by the Lenguttee tank, and over the marshy ground below it, there is a Burial Ground, and as during the rains the water flows hence to the Kala Tulao, it appears very desirable that another place should be resorted to, and it is objectionable that the marsh should remain, a drain might be cut along its middle, to carry downwards the water that now stagnates in the centre of the town.

Cholera has visited Hullial at intervals of a few years, and in 1862 it was present during part of the hot season. There have been severe epidemic visitations of small pox, and both in 1861 and 1862 the mortality from it was great in February, March and April. Guinea-worms seems to be endemic, and to make its appearance yearly in May and the following months.

Fever is said to have been always common, but neither fatal nor severe until 1860, but since then it has increased great in prevalence, and there has been great mortality from it throughout the Talooka. The Police Foujdar informed me that the mortality had been so great at Kalwar (a village of 99 houses on the Misreekot road) that the inhabitants had lately deserted it.

Hullial itself was too populous to allow of the exact amount of sickness in it being ascertained, but I got this information from the villages of Sambranee and Neelwunee through the exertions of the Mahalkuree and the Police. In Sambranee, with a population of four hundred and five, there were eighty-four sick, or 20·7 per cent. In Neelwunee with two hundred and seventy-one, there were twenty sick or 7·3 per cent.

From the Forest Department Overseer I learnt that from the great amount of sickness among the Wudurs the work in the forest was hindered.

The road towards Juglepet was through continuous thick forest, of which teak and bamboo formed the bulk. At the Birchee Nullah there were three Goanese men who had lived there for two years selling liquor to travellers, and from them I learnt that one of them had a little fever last year, but that since then all had been well. After passing Hureegalee the teak tress disappeared and the rock was now found to be quartz gravel, and at the next Nullah, quartz in mass was seen exposed. Further on micaceous schist was seen broken up, and imbedded in trap as breccia. There was considerable ascent in approaching to Juglepet.

Juglepet in Lat. 15° 20′ and Long. 74° 34′ is fifty miles from the sea and thirteen miles from the brow of the ghats. It is in a shallow valley, running east and west, that is formed by a line of low hill of quartz on its north side, and on the other side by the gentle northern slope of the summit of a lofty range of hill, that on its southern aspect, towards Soopa, is precipitous, and overlooks deep thickly wooded valleys on that side. The sloping sides of the valley are grassy, and its bottom is cultivated, and a small stream which flows along it serves for its irrigation. The tops of the surroundig eminences are wooded. The view towards the east of the valley is closed by high ground and hills beyond, westward there are no high hills to intercept the view. A few miles north-west of Juglepet there is Karwee jungle.

The village is at the lower part of the northern slope, its only short street running east and west. Round this, in various directions, the houses are clustered ; they are mostly constructed of bamboo and plaster, and thatched, but a few are built of mud and tiled. Except the few forming the street, they have enclosures and and are shaded among jack, mango, and tamarind trees and plantations. The inhabitants are mostly Coonbees, and they are all engaged in agriculture.

On the south or higher side of the valley, the Lines and Hospital of the Police Reserve stand on gently sloping ground, the soil being the detritus of the mica-schist, of which the summit of the hill is formed.

The houses or huts are of mud plastered bamboo and thatch, and the Hospital is a shed made of the same materials.

The usual health of the station is not known, as the Hospital Records extend back only to August 1860, and they include without distinction those admitted from outpost as well as those stationed at Juglepet.

With an average strength of one hundred and ninety-one in 1861, the admissions for fever were two hundred and ninety-three or 153 per cent. In 1862 with a strength of 174 the admissions were 118 per cent. During my visit I directed a careful enquiry from house to house to be made, and ascertained that in the village of Juglepet, in sixty-four houses, with three hundred and seventy-six inhabitants, there were fifty-nine ill with fever, or 15·7 per cent; since the close of last rains there had been three deaths, all children.

In like manner I obtained a census of twenty-one small villages and hamlets under the Patel of Shingargaon. These are spread over an area of seven miles square, and are partly in teak forest, partly in Ainee. There were two hundred and twenty-three houses with fifteen hundred and eleven inhabitants, and among those there were three hundred and forty-nine ill with fever or 23 per cent. Since the end of last rains fifty-seven had died or 3 per cent.

Soopa in Lat. 15° 16' and Long. 74° 34' is thirty-nine miles from the sea. The road from Juglepet is about five miles, with a continuous gentle descent, and it commands beautiful views of the deep valleys which it skirts, and of the Oojullee Nuddee where it joins the Kalee Nuddee. The road is cut in the side of the hill, and towards its lower part it is on the precipitous side of a spur running southward, the rock of which is the rich specular iron or (siderocriste), which is before mentioned. In the bed of the river at Soopa there is a felspathic and siliceous schist, in which particles of specular iron are disseminated, and which has a line of strike about north and south : it is cut through by a dyke of basalt in the direction 215°.

The situation of Soopa is very lovely ; it stands on the rather high south bank of the river, at the junction of Oŏjullee with the Kalee Nuddee. It has sixty-eight houses, or, including the hamlet in the fork of the two rivers and other suburbs, it has eighty-five houses with a population mostly Hindoo : there are a few Moosulmans. There are three shops for the sale of grain and groceries, and one of cloth, and with the exception of the keepers of these, and the Government servants connected with the Mamlutdars and Moonsiff's Offices and the Police, all are cultivators.

The Cutcherry is on the bank overlooking the river ; it is a mud built house, too small for the purpose, and a new one is being constructed on the opposite bank of the river. The village has two streets parelled with the river, crossed by others at right angles. The street lying nearest to the river is the chief one, and in it are the Police Station, the shops and the Cutcherry, and at its west end is the temple of Ramling. These roads are cut in the gravel of rolled pebbles, leaving most of the houses on higher ground. The houses generally are in dirty enclosures, and are shaded with mango and jack trees. There are fields behind the village, but within half a mile the jungle begins. There are some wells, but they dry up at the beginning of the hot season, and the people use river water.

I obtained a census of Kusba Soopa and of Dongarwada, which is five miles west of it, in Karwee jungle, and according to it there were on the day of my visit in the sixty-eight houses of Soopa, with their four hundred and seventy-eight inhabitants, two hundred and thirteen sick, or 44·5 per cent, and since the close of the rains nineteen had died or nearly 4 per cent.

In Dongarwada, with thirty-one houses and a hundred and ninety-nine persons, sixty-seven were sick, or 33·7 per cent, and eight had died since the rains, or 4 per cent.

Cholera and small pox are frequently epidemic in the Soopa Talooka, and in 1859, 1861, and 1862 cholera was so. In the last two years there were some deaths from small pox.

I found the fever to be mostly intermittent and of the usual types—quotidian, tertian, and quartan ; sometimes it was remittent but not frequently so. Many of those I saw in Hospital were relapse cases, and in such almost invariably there was enlargement of the spleen, and among the villagers splenic enlargement was very common. In some cases where there had been little or no fever, yet there was tumefaction of the spleen, and in several cases of children that came under notice the tumefaction was enormous. In protracted cases there was very great anæmia and not infrequently there was dropsy. The fever was occasionally complicated with diarrhœa. In all these points the disease resembled the malarious intermittent of most other places, nor did any symptoms come under my observation that gave any peculiarity to the disease now prevalent in North Canara. The fever is readily checked by treatment, but there is great tendency to relapse, which is to be expected while the person continues in the malarious locality.

There was some discrepancy in the statements made at different places as to the time when the endemic fever began to be unusually severe, but the most reliable informants agreed in saying it was three years ago, that is in the year 1860 ; and the only Hospital record which can be referred to for information on this point, that at Sirey shows that in May of that year there was a sudden large increase of admissions of fever cases. The epidemic is spoken of by the people as having been even more severe in 1860 than in 1861, but in the course of last year it again increased in severity.

The epidemic fever is very generally spread over the zillah, the only places exempted from it, or but comparatively little affected by it, being situated on the sea coast, such as Beitkul, Tudree, Coompta, Honore. The low country if removed from the full influence of the sea air does not appear to have exemption if I may generalize from my observations made at Mirjan and its neighbourhood and at Gairsopa. In the Balaghat of Canara no place seems to have immunity from the disease, and its severity is nearly equally diffused over all the Talookas. From the inquiries that I instituted at different points most of which I have mentioned above, I found that among a total of 4,481 persons there were at the time of enumeration 1,220 of them sick or 27·2 per cent. The percentage varied much as might be expected, as small numbers were dealt with; at Sonda it was 31·5, and at Soopa it was so high as 44·5. In grouping the observations made according to the geological character of the surface and the nature of the forest, it was found that on the micaceous schists and quartz, that is in the Ainee forest, the ratio of sick was 29·6; that on trappean rock or argillaceous schist bearing the Sagwunee forest, it was 14 9; and that on the laterite near the ghats, covered with Karwee, the ratio was 33·7. The observations regarding the last two of these were less extensive than those on the inhabitants of the Ainee, and it is highly probable that were more extended inquiries to be made in the teak forests the amount of sickness would be found to be in a higher ratio than is here given. My reason for thinking so is that the unhealthines to north-eastward of Yelapoor was spoken of as exceedingly great, and Kalwar, which I have mentioned as being deserted, is in the teak forest that prevails in that part of the country.

In obtaining the census of the villages where I halted, I in some cases had the deaths noted, but I restricted the questions on them to the time that had intervened from the end of the last rains, as in taking a short recent well-marked period, there was less likelihood of error than if I attempted to get information comprising a whole year. The result was that among 2,564 persons there had been 87 deaths or 3·4 per cent. in four months, which is equivalent to 10·2 per cent. in a year.

In passing through North Canara one sees on every side abundance of the circumstances favourable to the production of fever: dense forest, narrow valleys, rocky ravines, and rice land, and this left, between the crops, in a swampy state from the irrigating steams not being properly turned off but allowed to spread their waters unrestrained. It is matter for astonishment that with such strong favoring circumstances the endemic fever is ever otherwise than severe. But when enquiry is made as to the cause of so sudden an accession of intensity in the febrific poison, as took place in the early part of 1860, there is nothing tangible or visible as yet found on which to base an opinion. The forests were at the time in their usual condition, for I cannot imagine the diminution of the Koomree cultivation that up to that period had taken place, or that since there has been effected, to be sufficient in any perceptible degree to affect the constitution of the air. From the information I obtained at Sirey the extent of Koomree five years ago was one thousand acres, and this was year by year diminished until it ceased in 1860. The cultivation was at the ghats, or western border, and such influence as it had could not be expected to extend, for either good or ill, over the area of the Talooka, which is about a thousand square miles, or six hundred and forty thousand acres. In Koomree cultivation there are not always new portions of the forest cleared every year; the same fields may be cultivated in continuance; so that although Koomree has been stopped for a certain number of years in the Sirey Talooka it is not to be concluded that there are that number of thousands of acres more forest now than there would have been had the squatting not been forbidden.

In the Soopa Talooka the prohibition of Koomree does not appear to have been so soon enforced as in Sirey, as may be seen from this table which I obtained from the Mamlutdar. This Talooka also is of an area of about a thousand square miles:—

Koomree in the Soopa Talooka.

In the year	1855	there were	3,118 acres.
„	1856	„	4,627 „
„	1857	„	608 „
„	1858	„	2,255 „
„	1859	„	2,080 „
„	1860	„	2,590 „
„	1861	„	1,589 „
„	1862	„	502 „

From this it is seen that in the year when the epidemic severity of the fever began, there was a greater extent of Koomree than there had been for the three previous years.

As to the desirableness of all the ground that is now forest being brought under cultivation, I do not suppose there can be a doubt, and after the temporary increase in the malarious influence which is to be expected in new clearings, the healthiness of the district would most probably be greatly improved, but such measures as it may be expedient to adopt to bring about this cultivation can be but slow in operation and inapplicable to the removal of the present grievous evil. I regret that I see nothing worthy to be proposed for the present relief of the suffering population excepting the liberal distribution of febrifuge medicines which Government has so readily sanctioned. Analogies in other provinces of India favor the hope that the epidemic will soon subside.

It is very desirable that on the Public Works in Canara there should be provision made for hutting or other shelter for the hired labourers, as there is for the convicts and their guards, that they may not be exposed to the night air and its cold and heavy dew which all increase the liability to fever and to other sickness.

I may add that in returning by the road through Goonjee and Khanapoor I found the prevalence of fever ceased close to the boundary between the North Canara and Belgaum zillahs and at the spot where the rock changes to granite, although there is still much jungle. This affords a little support to the supposition that an intermitting telluric influence is now active in giving intensity to the fever miasm, and that the granite surface is not favorable to its transmission.

Resolution of the Government of Bombay, General Department,—(dated Bombay Castle, the 30th May 1863.)

Resolution.—The thanks of Government are due to Dr. Leith for his very able and valuable Report, which contains much useful information bearing on the subject of the epidemic sickness of North Canara, and is scientifically highly interesting.

2. Copies of the Report should be forwarded to the Secretary of State, the Government of India, the Government of Madras, and to the Medical and Physical Society, besides being placed in the Editor's room.

3. Copies should also be sent to the Revenue Commissioner, S. D., and to the Collector and Magistrate of North Canara.

4. Dr. Leith's Report shews that the statements which had reached Government relative to the extensive prevalence of an epidemic fever differing from the ordinary fever of the district, had not in any respect been exaggerated; indeed, the statements of Dr. Leith show that the evil is far more serious and difficult of cure than was at first supposed.

5. Dr. Leith's Report will be practically of great value, by defining the present limits and character of the epidemic, so that it may be possible hereafter to judge whether it is increasing or diminishing in severity or altering in type.

6. But as regards the cause of this mysterious visitation, the conclusions of Dr. Leith's Report are purely negative. They are not on that account without value, and the Governor in Council considers that high praise is due to Dr. Leith for resisting all temptation to hazard an hypothesis, which, however plausible, could not be relied on. His Excellency in Council trusts that Dr. Leith's observations may serve to direct the researches of other Inquirers, and thus pave the way to a discovery of the probable causes of the epidemic, and, perhaps, to their removal.

7. With regard to remedial measures, the practical suggestions are few, but they are all of a character which Government can sanction and would desire to see carried out.

8. The Revenue Commissioner has already on his own authority, and with the approval of Government, sanctioned a limited amount of "Koomree" cultivation in peculiar localities amoung the Ghauts, where it admits of being carried on without risk of injury to the timber forests. It is possible the extent of malarious jungle may thus be sensibly restricted without inflicting permanent injury on one of the great resources of the jungle population, and of the district generally. This is a point to which the special attention of the local Officers, both in the Land Revenue and Forest Department, should be directed.

9. Government has already done much to furnish medical aid and medicines, and it is clear they are valued by the people, and are useful, though far from being sufficient, to stop the spread of the fever. The Governor in Council trusts that Officers of all Departments feel assured that this kind of aid will be freely given wherever it is capable of being applied, and wherever it is asked for.

10. Attention should be specially drawn to the following points :—

Page 4.—In this page Dr. Leith states that he learnt that at Kangora and at Koolgee, about twelve miles from Soopah, and at Jan, near the top of the Devemunhee Ghaut, there is limestone that might be quarried. These localities His Excellency in Council would wish to be all carefully examined, with the view of ascertaining whether the limestone beds referred to can be profitably worked.

Page 8.—The attention of the Collector and Magistrate, and of the local Committee at Sudasheogur, should be specially drawn to the observations made in this page relative to the care and attention to be paid to the system of Drainage which may be adopted at Beitkul and its vicinity.

Page 21.—The measures here recommended for the improvement of the sanitary condition of the Town of Sircy should be carefully attended to.

Page 25.—As also the measures recommended for the same end in reference to the Town of Hullial.

Page 31.—And lastly, the suggestion made for hutting and clothing the hired labourers employed on the Public Works of the District is of much importance in a locality where the work-people are far removed from towns or villages, and must, unless shelter is provided for them, be exposed to the deleterious effects of such an insalubrious climate.

Government of Bengal.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Act of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council received the assent of His Honor on the 18th May 1863, and having been assented to by His Excellency the Governor-General on the 12th June 1863, is hereby promulgated for general information :—

Act No. VI of 1863.

An Act to vest the property of the Town of Calcutta, and the management of its Municipal affairs, in a Corporation, and to make better provision for the Conservancy and Improvement of the Town, and for the levying of rates and taxes therein.

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to vest the property of the Town of Calcutta, and the management of its Municipal affairs, in a Corporation, and to make better provision for the Conservancy and Improvement of the Town, and for the levying of rates and taxes therein : It is enacted as follows :

Laws repealed.

I. Act XIV of 1856 (for the Conservancy and Improvement of the Towns of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay), and Act XXV of 1856 (to comprise in one Act the provisions necessary for the assessment and collection of Municipal rates and taxes in the Towns of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay), so far as they relate to the Town of Calcutta ; and Act XXVIII of 1856 (for appointing Municipal Commissioners, and for levying rates and taxes in the town of Calcutta)—are hereby repealed respectively, except so far as they repeal the whole, or any part of, any other Act, and except as to any assessment which shall have been made, or to any act or offence which shall have been done or committed, or to any fine or penalty which shall have been incurred, or to any money which shall have become due, or to any proceedings which shall have been commenced, before this Act shall come into operation. Any sum of money due, or which may become due, under any or either of the said Acts, may be levied and recovered by the Justices under the provisions of this Act.

Interpretation.

II. The following words and expressions in this Act shall have the meanings hereby assigned to them, unless there be something in the subject or context repugnant to such construction :—

"Town."

The word "Town" shall include all places within the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of Her Majesty's High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

"The Justices."

The expression "The Justices" shall mean the Corporation of "The Justices of the Peace for the Town of Calcutta."

"Street."

The word "Street" shall mean any road, street, square, court, alley, or passage, whether a thoroughfare or not, over which the public have a right of way, and also the roadway over any public bridge or causeway, within the Town.

"Land."

The word "Land" shall include messuages, buildings, tenements, and hereditaments, of any tenure.

"Month."

The word "month" shall mean calendar month.

"Oath."

The word "oath" shall include any affirmation or declaration lawfully substituted for an oath.

"Owner."

The word "Owner" shall mean the person for the time being receiving the rent of the land or premises in connection with which the word is used, whether on his own account, or as agent, or trustee, for any other person, or who would so receive the same if such land or premises were let to a tenant. Provided that no person receiving the rent of land or premises as agent for another person, shall be liable to do any thing by this Act required to be done by the owner of such land or premises, unless he have sufficient funds of the owner to pay for the same ; nor shall he be subject to any penalty for omitting to do such act, if he can prove that the default was occasioned by reason of his not having funds of the owner sufficient to defray the expense of doing the "Person." The word "person" shall include any association or body of persons, whether incorporated or not.

Number. Words importing the singular number shall include the plural number; and words importing the plural number shall include the singular number.

Gender. Words importing the masculine gender shall include the feminine.

The Justices of the Peace for the time being in Calcutta, to be a Corporation for the purposes of this Act.

III. All Justices of the Peace for Bengal, Behar, and Orissa, resident in the Town of Calcutta, and all Justices of the Peace for the Town of Calcutta, shall, by the name of "The Justices of the Peace for the Town of Calcutta," be a body corporate and have perpetual succession and a common seal, and by such name shall sue and be sued.

All the property and rights of action of the Municipal Commissioners vested in the Justices.

IV. All lands, buildings, works, and hereditaments, utensils, materials, books, plans, maps, papers, effects, monies, securities, and other property, moveable and immoveable, of what nature or kind soever, and all interest therein, whether vested, contingent, or in remainder, which shall, on the 1st day of July 1863, be vested in, or held in trust for, the Municipal Commissioners appointed under the said Act XXVIII of 1856, or which would have been vested in, or held in trust for, such Municipal Commissioners but for the passing of this Act, and all such estate and interest of and in the same respectively, as shall then be or would have been in, or in trust for, the said Municipal Commissioners or any of them, with all rights of way and other rights and easements now used and enjoyed by the said Municipal Commissioners, shall, on and from the date when this Act comes into operation, be vested in the Justices: and all persons who shall then owe any money to the said Municipal Commissioners, or to any person on behalf of the Municipal Commissioners, shall pay the same to the Justices or as they shall direct: and all monies which shall be then due and owing by, or recoverable from, the Municipal Commissioners, shall be paid by, or recoverable from, the Justices: and all contracts, agreements, mortgages, bonds, covenants, and securities, made or entered into before this Act comes into operation, to, with, or in favor of, or by or for, the said Municipal Commissioners, or any previous Municipal Commissioners for the Town of Calcutta, or any of them, or any person on behalf of such Municipal Commissioners, respectively, and all rights of action and suit arising out of contract or otherwise, shall take effect, and may be proceeded on and enforced, as near as circumstances will admit, in favor of, by, against, and with reference to, the Justices, in such manner as the same would have taken effect, and might have been proceeded on and enforced, in favor of, by, against, and with reference to, the said Municipal Commissioners respectively, or any of them, if this Act had not been passed.

Actions, &c., by or against Municipal Commissioners not to abate, &c.

V. No action, suit, prosecution, or other proceeding whatsoever, commenced or carried on either by or against the said Municipal Commissioners previously to the coming of this Act into operation, shall abate or be discontinued or prejudicially affected by this Act, but shall continue and take effect both in favor of and against the Justices, in the same manner in all respects as the same would have continued and taken effect in relation to the said Municipal Commissioners, or any of them, if this Act had not been passed: and all decrees and orders made, and all fines and penalties imposed and incurred, respectively, previously to the coming into operation of this Act, shall and may be enforced, levied, recovered, and proceeded for, and all administrative proceedings, commenced previously to the coming into operation of this Act, shall and may be continued, proceeded with, and completed, in such or the like manner as if this Act had not been passed, the Justices being, in reference to the matters aforesaid, in all respects substituted in the place of the said Municipal Commissioners.

What shall constitute the Municipal Fund.

VI. All monies received by the Justices by virtue of this or any other Act, all fines, fees, and penalties, paid to or levied by them, under this Act, and all monies which may be assigned by Government for purposes of Conservancy or Improvement in the Town, shall constitute a fund, which shall be called the Municipal Fund of Calcutta, and shall, together with all property of what nature or kind soever which may become vested in the Justices, be under the direction, management, and control of the Justices, in the manner hereinafter provided, and shall be held and applied by them as Trustees for the purposes of this Act.

Appointment and removal of Chairman of the Justices.

VII. The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall, from time to time, appoint one of the said Justices of the Peace to be Chairman of the Justices. Such Chairman shall be removeable from Office by the Lieutenant-Governor, if his removal be recommended by a Resolution in favor of which not less than two-thirds of the Justices of the Peace present at a Special General Meeting of the Justices shall have voted, but not otherwise.

Nomination and appointment of Vice-Chairman.

VIII. The Justices at a Special General Meeting, to be held within fifteen days from the date of the first appointment of a Chairman, shall nominate a proper person to be Vice-Chairman of the Justices. Such nomination shall be subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal; but when such approval shall have been duly notified to the Justices, the appointment shall be made by them. In the event of any nomination made by the Justices not being approved of by the Lieutenant-Governor, or of any vacancy occurring in the Office of Vice-Chairman, the Justices shall forthwith proceed, at a Special General Meeting, to make a fresh nomination and appointment, subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and so on from time to time. Provided that no person shall be appointed to the office of Vice-Chairman, who is not at the time of appointment a Justice of the Peace.

Appointment of Secretary, Engineer, Surveyor, Health Officer, Collector of Taxes, and Assessor.

IX. It shall be lawful for the Justices at a Special General Meeting, from time to time, to appoint proper persons to the several offices of Secretary, of Engineer, of Surveyor, of Health Officer, of Collector of Taxes, and of Assessor, for the Town of Calcutta. Every person so appointed, and the Vice-Chairman, shall be in all things under the immediate orders of the Chairman, and shall perform such duties as shall be assigned by him, and shall be removeable by the Justices by a Resolution in favor of which not less than two-thirds of the Justices of the Peace present at a Special General Meeting shall have voted.

Chairman and Vice-Chairman to reside in Calcutta and not to engage in any other profession or trade.

X. The Chairman and Vice-Chairman shall respectively reside within the Town of Calcutta, and shall devote his whole time to the duties of his office; and no Chairman or Vice-Chairman shall have or engage in any other profession, trade, or business whatsoever: Provided that nothing in this Act shall be deemed to prevent any Civil or Military Officer in the service of Government, from holding the office of Chairman or Vice-Chairman, so long as such Officer shall fill no other appointment: Provided further that it shall be lawful for any Chairman to hold also the office of Commissioner of Police for the Town of Calcutta, if he shall be appointed to such office by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

Proviso.

Allowances of Chairman and Vice-Chairman.

XI. The Chairman and the Vice-Chairman, respectively, may receive such allowances out of the Municipal Fund as shall be from time to time fixed by the Justices at a Special General Meeting. Provided that such allowance for any Chairman shall not exceed the rate of three thousand Rupees a month (exclusive of house rent, which may or may not, at the discretion of the Justices, be also allowed): and provided that such allowance for any Vice-Chairman shall not exceed the rate of twelve hundred Rupees a month.

Salaries of Secretary, Engineer, &c.

XII. Every Secretary, Engineer, Surveyor, Health Officer, Collector of Taxes, and Assessor, appointed as hereinbefore provided, may receive such allowance out of the Municipal Fund, as shall be from time to time fixed by the Justices at a Special General Meeting.

Appointment and remuneration of Overseers, Clerks, and Subordinate Officers.

XIII. The Chairman may from time to time appoint all such Overseers, Clerks, and Subordinate Officers, and servants, as he shall think necessary and proper to assist in the execution of this Act, and may, from time to time, remove any of such persons and appoint others in their place; and out of the Municipal Fund he may, with the sanction of the Justices at a Special General Meeting, pay such allowances to the said persons respectively, or in case of absence on leave such portion thereof, as he shall think reasonable. Provided that no person shall be appointed to, or removed from, any office the monthly salary of which exceeds two hundred Rupees, without the sanction of the Justices at a Meeting.

Proviso.

Officers under Municipal Commissioners to continue until removed.

XIV. Every Overseer, Clerk, and other Officer appointed by, or acting under, the authority of the Municipal Commissioners under Act XXVIII of 1856, and not acting contrary to the provisions of this Act, shall hold and enjoy his office and employment, together with the salary or emolument thereunto annexed, until he shall be removed therefrom by the Chairman or by the Justices at a Meeting. Every such Overseer, Clerk, and Officer shall have the like power and authority for the purposes of this Act, and for carrying the same into execution, and shall be subject and liable to the like pains and penalties, and to the like power of removal, in all respects as if he had been appointed by virtue of this Act.

Justices to grant leave of absence, &c., with sanction of Government.

XV. It shall be lawful for the Justices at a Special Meeting, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, to grant such leave of absence to any Chairman or any Officer appointed under Sections VIII and IX of this Act, and, in the case of any Officer appointed under either of those Sections, to make such arrangements for the carrying on the duties of his office during his absence on leave, as shall to them seem proper. In any case in which leave of absence shall be granted to the Chairman, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall appoint one of the Justices of the Peace to act as Chairman in his place, or shall make such other arrangements for carrying on the duties of the office as shall to him seem proper. Any person appointed under this Section to act for the Chairman or any other Officer, shall, while so acting, have all the powers and be liable to all the restrictions, limitations, and provisions, which the Chairman or other Officer for whom he may be appointed to act, would, under this Act, have or be liable to.

Allowances during absence on leave.

XVI. In any case in which leave of absence shall be granted under the last preceding Section, the Justices may at a Special Meeting, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, out of the Municipal Fund, pay to any Chairman or other Officer aforesaid, such allowance, during absence on leave, as shall to them seem proper. Provided that no greater expenditure from the Municipal Fund shall be in any case incurred in the whole, by reason of any such allowance, or of any allowance paid under Section XIII, than would have been incurred had no leave been granted.

Proviso.

Penalty on Officers, &c, being interested in contracts &c.

XVII. Clause 1.—No Chairman or Vice-Chairman, or other Officer, or servant, of the Justices, shall be in any wise concerned, or interested, in any contract or work, made with, or executed for, the Justices; and if any such Chairman or Vice-Chairman, or other Officer or servant, be so concerned or interested, he shall be incapable of afterwards holding or continuing in any office or employment under the Justices, and shall forfeit and pay the sum of five hundred Rupees, which may be recovered by suit, by any person, with full costs of suit. Provided that no person, being a shareholder of any Joint Stock Company established by, or under the provisions of, any Act of Parliament, or of the Government of India, or by Charter, shall be prevented from being employed as a Chairman, Vice-Chairman, or other Officer or servant, by reason of any contract between such Company and the Justices, or of any work executed by such Company.

Penalty on Officers, &c., for taking unauthorized fees.

Clause 2.—If any person employed under this Act, not being a public servant within the meaning of Section 21 of

Justices to provide an Office and keep a book for entry of complaints

Time for holding Quarterly and Ordinary Meetings.

XIX. There shall be four Quarterly Meetings in every year, and two Ordinary Meetings in every month, at which the Justices shall meet for the transaction of general business: and it shall not be necessary to give any notice of the business to be transacted at such Meetings. The Quarterly Meetings shall be held at noon, on the first Monday in the months of January, April, July, and October, and the Ordinary Meetings at noon on the first and third Monday of every month respectively, or if any such Monday shall happen to be a holiday allowed by Government, then on the next succeeding day which shall not be such a holiday.

Special, and Special General, Meetings may be called.

XX. The Chairman, or, in his absence, the Vice-Chairman, may, whenever he thinks fit, and shall upon a requisition made in writing by any ten Justices of the Peace, call a Special, or Special General, Meeting of the Justices. Previous to any such Meeting being held, at least seven days' clear notice, specifying the time and place of such intended Meeting, and the purpose for which it is to be held, shall be given by advertisement in the English and Bengallee Government Gazettes, and in at least two of the daily English Newspapers, and in two Vernacular Newspapers, published in Calcutta.

What business to be transacted at Special, and Special General, Meetings.

XXI. No business shall be brought before or transacted at any Special, or Special General, Meeting, other than the business specified in the notice given under the last preceding Section: Provided always that any Justice of the Peace may submit to a Special, or Special General, Meeting, any Resolution, beyond the matters mentioned in the notice given of such Meeting, if he shall have given not less than three days' previous notice of his intention so to do, by leaving a copy of the Resolution at the Office of the Justices.

All questions to be decided at Meetings by majority of votes.

XXII. All acts authorized or required to be done by the Justices, and all questions which may come before them for decision, shall, save as is herein otherwise provided, be done, and decided by, a majority of the Justices of the Peace present at any Ordinary or Quarterly Meeting, before which the matter may be brought.

Who to preside at Meetings of the Justices.

XXIII. The Chairman and Vice-Chairman shall attend all Meetings of the Justices held under this Act, unless prevented by sickness or other reasonable cause; and the Chairman, or, in his absence, the Vice-Chairman, shall preside at every such Meeting, and shall have a second, or casting, vote in all cases of equality of votes. In the absence of both the Chairman and Vice-Chairman, the Justices of the Peace present at any Meeting shall choose some one of their number to preside. The President of any Meeting at which a quorum of the Justices of the Peace shall be present, may, with the consent of the Meeting, adjourn the Meeting from time to time and from place to place; but no business shall be transacted at any adjourned Meeting other than the business left unfinished at the Meeting from which such adjournment took place.

What shall constitute a Quorum.

XXIV. No business shall be transacted at any Meeting unless a quorum of Justices of the Peace be present; that is to say, at an Ordinary Meeting unless at least three Justices of the Peace be present, at a Special Meeting unless at least seven Justices of the Peace be present, and at a Special General, or Quarterly, Meeting unless at least twenty-five Justices of the Peace be present; Provided always that, if at any Meeting of the Justices there shall not be a sufficient number of Justices of the Peace present to form a quorum, the President (whether he be the Chairman, or not) shall adjourn the Meeting to such convenient time and place as he shall think fit; and the business which would have been brought before the original Meeting had there been a quorum present, shall be brought before, and disposed of by, the adjourned Meeting in the usual manner, whether there be a quorum of Justices of the Peace present at such adjourned Meeting or not.

Minutes of Proceedings of Justices to be kept, and to be open for inspection.

XXV. Minutes of the Proceedings of all Meetings of the Justices shall be drawn up, and fairly entered in a book to be kept for that purpose, and shall be signed by the President after each Meeting; and the said Minutes shall, at all reasonable times, be open at the Office of the Justices to the inspection of any Justice of the Peace without charge, and of any other person on payment of a fee of eight annas.

Declaration of President that a Resolution has been carried sufficient, unless poll be demanded

XXVI. At any Special General, or Quarterly, Meeting, unless a poll be demanded by at least five Justices of the Peace, and at any Special, or Ordinary, Meeting, unless a poll be demanded by at least three Justices of the Peace, a declaration by the President that a Resolution has been carried, and an entry to that effect in the book of Proceedings of the Justices, shall be sufficient evidence of the fact, without proof of the number or proportion of the votes recorded in favor of, or against, such Resolution.

XXVII. If a poll be demanded as in the last preceding Section mentioned, or be taken at any Meeting of what kind soever, the votes of the Justices of the Peace present shall be taken by the President, each being called on to vote in order of seniority on the roll of the Justices of the Peace, and the result of such poll shall be deemed to be the Resolution of the Justices at such Meeting.

Poll how to be taken.

XXVIII. The Chairman or Vice-Chairman shall, except upon such holidays as shall be allowed by Government, attend daily at the Office of the Justices for the transaction of business connected with or arising under this Act, and, when so attending, shall have all the powers vested by this Act in the Justices; and they may, respectively, exercise the like powers at all times in carrying out the orders of the Justices, or in executing any works sanctioned by them, and generally in the management of the business aforesaid. Provided that it shall not be lawful for the Chairman or Vice-Chairman to act in opposition to, or contravention of, any order of the Justices, or to exercise any power which it is by this Act expressly declared shall be exercised only by the Justices at a Meeting.

Chairman or Vice-Chairman to attend daily for the transaction of business, and to exercise the powers of the Justices.

XXIX. The Justices may enter into all such contracts as may be necessary for carrying this Act into execution. The Chairman or the Vice-Chairman may, for and on behalf of the Justices, enter into any such contract whereof the value or amount shall not exceed five hundred Rupees: but every such contract, whereof the value or amount shall exceed five hundred Rupees, shall be in writing and signed by the Chairman, or in his absence by the Vice-Chairman, and two other Justices of the Peace, and shall be sealed with the seal of the Justices. Every contract so entered into as aforesaid, and duly executed by the other parties thereto, shall be binding on the Justices and their successors, and upon all other parties thereto, and their executors, administrators, successors, or assigns, to all intents and purposes. Provided always that the Justices may compound with any contractor or other person in respect of any penalty incurred by reason of the non-performance of any contract entered into as aforesaid, whether such penalty be mentioned in any such contract or in any bond, or otherwise, for such sums of money or other recompense as to the Justices may seem proper.

Mode of contracting by, and on behalf of, the Justices.

Proviso.

XXX. It shall be lawful for the Justices at a Meeting, from time to time, to appoint from among the Justices of the Peace, such and so many Committees, either of a General, or of a Special, nature, and consisting of such number of persons as they may think fit, for the purpose of inquiring into and reporting upon any matter connected with the Conservancy or Improvement of the Town, or of advising and aiding the Chairman in the discharge of any portion of his executive duties, which in the discretion of the Justices would be better regulated or managed with the advice and aid of any such Committee: Provided that the Chairman or the Vice-Chairman shall be a Member of every such Committee, and that the Proceedings of every such Committee shall be submitted to the Justices at a Meeting.

Justices may appoint Committees.

Proviso.

XXXI. At a Special General Meeting to be held under this Act on the second Monday in the month of July 1863, or as soon after as conveniently may be, the Chairman shall lay before the Justices a Budget or Estimate, prepared by him, of the expenditure and income of the Municipality from the date on which this Act shall come into operation up to the first subsequent day of January: and at the Quarterly Meeting to be held in the month of October in each year, the Chairman shall lay before the Justices a Budget or Estimate, prepared by him, of the expenditure and income of the Municipality for the year commencing on the 1st of January then next succeeding, in such detail and form as the Justices shall from time to time, by order passed at a Quarterly, or Special General, Meeting, direct. Provided always that such Budget shall be completed and printed, and a copy thereof sent by post or otherwise to each of the Justices of the Peace, resident within twenty miles of Government House, at least seven days prior to the Meeting before which the Budget is to be laid.

A Budget or Estimate of Income and Expenditure to be submitted annually to the Justices.

XXXII. The Budget shall shew what expenditure it is proposed to incur during the period to which it relates, and the manner in which it is proposed to meet such expenditure.

Budget of Expenditure.

XXXIII. It shall be in the discretion of the Justices to pass, or to reject, or to modify, the estimates of all or any sums entered in the Budget. No new work or series of works, the entire estimated cost of which as shewn in the Budget shall exceed fifty thousand Rupees, shall be commenced without the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor having been previously obtained.

Revision and passing of Estimates.

No new work, the estimated cost of which exceeds 50,000 Rupees, to be commenced without the sanction of Government.

XXXIV. The accounts of the receipts and expenditure of the Justices shall be audited and examined once in every year, at the least, at such time and by such Auditors as shall from time to time be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal. For the purposes of any audit and examination of accounts under this Act, the Auditors may, by summons in writing, require the production before them of all books, deeds, contracts, accounts, vouchers, and all other documents and papers which they may deem necessary, and may require any person, holding or accountable for any such books, deeds, contracts, accounts, vouchers, documents, or papers, to appear before them at any such audit and examination, or adjournment thereof, and to make and sign a declaration with respect to the same: and if any such person neglect or refuse so to do, or to produce any such books, deeds, contracts, accounts, vouchers, documents, or papers, or to make or sign such declaration, he shall be liable for every neglect or refusal to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees. All Auditors acting under this Act shall, in respect of each audit, be paid out of the Municipal Fund such reasonable remuneration as the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall from time to time determine: Provided always that, before each audit and examination of accounts under this Act, the Chairman shall give ten days' notice of the time and place at which the same will be made, by Accounts to be audited and examined.

Proviso.

advertisement in the English and Bengallee Government Gazettes, and in at least two of the daily English Newspapers, and in two Vernacular Newspapers, published in Calcutta; and a copy of the accounts to be audited and examined shall be deposited in the Office of the Justices, and be open during office hours thereat, to the inspection of all persons interested, for seven days before the audit and examination, and all such persons shall be at liberty to take copies of, or extracts from, the same, without the payment of any fee; and within fourteen days after the audit and examination shall have been completed, the Auditors shall report upon the accounts audited and examined, and shall deliver such report to the Justices at a Meeting, who shall cause the same to be deposited in the Office of the Justices, and to be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and in some one or more of the said newspapers.

All rates to become due under the last assessments and payable to the Justices.

XXXV. Whereas the assessments last made under the said Acts XXV and XXVIII of 1856, include the months of July, August, September, October, November, and December 1863, and power is given by this Act to impose and levy rates upon the owners and occupiers of the same houses, buildings, and lands, which were subject before the passing of this Act to the said assessments, for a period including the same months, it is hereby enacted that any sum of money, which would have become due from any owner or occupier in respect of the said assessments for the several months aforesaid, may be levied and recovered by the Justices in like manner as the same might have been levied and recovered if this Act had not been passed, unless the Justices shall impose and levy any other rate under the provisions of this Act.

Mode of fixing the rate at which taxes shall be levied under this Act.

XXXVI. At the Special General Meeting to be held on the second Monday in the month of July 1863 as aforesaid, or as soon after as conveniently may be, the Justices shall fix the rates at which such taxes as are leviable under this Act shall be levied, from the date on which this Act shall come into operation, till the first day of January next ensuing: and at the Quarterly Meeting to be held in the month of October in each year, the Justices shall fix the rates at which such taxes as are leviable under this Act, shall be levied for the year commencing on the first day of January then next ensuing.

Such rate not to be altered except at a Special General Meeting.

The rates so fixed shall not be altered before the Quarterly Meeting held in the next succeeding month of October, except by a Resolution passed by the Justices at a Special General Meeting.

Tax on carriages, horses, &c.

XXXVII. A tax, at a rate not exceeding the rates specified in the Schedule (A) to this Act annexed, shall be imposed upon all carriages, horses, ponies, and mules, kept within the Town, and shall be payable in advance. Provided that this Section shall not apply to, or include,—Gun carriages, or Ordnance carts or wagons: Cavalry horses, or horses of the Mounted Police: Horses belonging to Officers doing Regimental duty at the Presidency, at the rate of one horse for each Officer: vehicles, horses, ponies, or mules belonging to the Government, or to the Justices: vehicles kept for sale, and not used for any other purpose, if kept by bonâ fide dealers in such vehicles.

Owners of carriages, &c., to take out license.

XXXVIII. The owner of every carriage, horse, pony, or mule, kept within the Town, shall before the 1st day of October 1863, and shall, on or before the 1st day of January and the first day of July in each year, forward to the Office of the Justices a statement in writing, signed by him, containing a description of the vehicles and animals liable to the tax, for which he desires to take out a license. The owner shall at the same time pay to the Justices such sum as shall be payable by him, for the half year commencing on the first day of July 1863, or on such subsequent first day of January or of July (as the case may be), for the vehicles and animals specified in in such statement, according to the rates given in the said Schedule. Any person becoming possessed, between the first day of January, and the first day of July, or between the first day of July and the first day of January, of a carriage, horse, pony, or mule so kept, shall, within a week of becoming so possessed, send to the Office of the Justices a similar statement, together with the full amount payable for the then current half year according to the said Schedule, unless he shall be able to prove, to the satisfaction of the Justices, that the tax for the half year has previously been paid.

On payment of the tax, the Justices to give a license.

XXXIX. On receiving the amount of the tax as aforesaid, the Justices, or some person duly authorized by them in that behalf, shall give to the person paying the same, a license for each of the vehicles and animals for the period in respect of which the money is received. The owner of every carriage, horse, pony, or mule, who shall have received a license for the same, shall, at all reasonable times during the said period, be bound to produce such license, when called upon to do so by the Justices, or any person duly authorized in writing by them to demand its production.

Penalty for keeping a carriage, &c., without having a license.

XL. If the owner of any carriage, horse, pony, or mule, so kept as aforesaid, shall not have duly taken out a license under the last preceding Section, he shall, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, be liable to a fine not exceeding three times the amount of the tax which would have been payable by such person, supposing him to have duly paid the same as soon as it became due. Provided that no proceeding shall be taken, before the first day of October 1863, to enforce such penalty against any person who shall not have duly taken out such license for the half year commencing on the first day of July in the year aforesaid.

Pro viso.

Justices may compound for carriages with livery stable-keepers and others.

XLI. The Justices, at their discretion, may compound, for any period not exceeding one year, with livery stable-keepers, and other persons keeping carriages for hire, for a certain sum to be paid for the carriages so kept by such persons, in lieu of the taxes specified in the Schedule (A). And if any person, having so compounded, shall refuse to pay the sum compounded for on the demand of the Justices, he shall on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, be liable to a fine not exceeding three times the amount so payable.

XLII. The Justices shall, from time to time, cause to be prepared and entered in distinct columns, in a book to be kept at the Office of the Justices, and to be open to the inspection of any person who shall apply for leave to inspect the same, a list of the persons who during the then current period of six months shall have received a license under Section XXXIX of this Act, and of the vehicles and animals in respect of which they may have paid.

List of persons licensed under Section XXXIX, to be entered in a book.

XLIII. It shall be lawful for the Justices, or any person or persons appointed by them for that purpose, at any time between sunrise and sunset, to enter and inspect any stable or coach-house, or any place wherein they may have reason to believe that there is any vehicle or animal liable to taxation under Section XXXVII of this Act, for which a license has not been duly taken out; and the Justices may summon any person, whom they have reason to believe to be liable to the payment of any tax under the last mentioned Section, or any servant of such person, and may examine such person or servant as to the number and description of the horses and carriages in respect of which such person is liable to be taxed. Whoever being so summoned shall, without lawful excuse, fail to appear in pursuance of the summons, and whoever hinders or obstructs the Justices or any person appointed by them as aforesaid, from or in entering or inspecting any such stable, coach-house, or place, shall be liable, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Power to inspect stable, &c., and to summon persons liable to the payment of the tax.

XLIV. Every cart, hackery, and other wheeled vehicle without springs kept and used within the Town, and every cart, hackery, and other such vehicle plying for hire within the Town, or let for hire within or without the Town and used within it, shall be registered in the Office of the Justices with the name and residence of the owner, and shall bear the number of such registration in such manner as the Justices shall direct. Provided that this Section shall not apply to, or include, carts, hackeries, or other such vehicles as aforesaid, kept at any place more than eight miles distant from Government House, and used only temporarily and casually in the Town; or to carts, hackeries, or other wheeled vehicles without springs, the property of Government; or to Conservancy carts, hackeries, or other such vehicles belonging to the Justices.

Registry and numbering of Hackeries &c.

XLV. The registration of carts, hackeries, and other vehicles under the last preceding Section, shall be made and the numbers assigned half-yearly, on or before the first day of January and the first day of July in each year, upon such days as the Justices shall appoint, and a fee of four Rupees shall be paid for each registration. Any person becoming possessed, between the first day of January and the first day of July, or between the first day of July and the first day of January, of any such cart, hackery, or other vehicle, which has not been registered for the then current half-year, shall, within a week of becoming so possessed, register the same, and the Justices shall grant registration in any such case, on payment of a fee for the unexpired portion of the current half-year, calculated at the rate of four Rupees aforesaid. When any registered cart, hackery, or other vehicle is transferred within any half-year, it shall be registered anew in the name of the person to whom it has been transferred; and a fee of four annas shall be paid for every such last mentioned registration.

Fee for registration.

XLVI. Whoever owns or keeps any cart, hackery, or other wheeled vehicle not on springs, required by this Act to be registered, without having caused the same to be registered under the last preceding Section, shall, on and after the first day of October 1863, be liable, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, to a fine not exceeding three times the usual registration fee: and the Justices, or any Officer duly authorized by them, may seize or cause to be seized any such cart, hackery, or other vehicle, (provided the same be not employed at the time of seizure in the conveyance of any passengers or goods,) together with the horses, bullocks, or other animals drawing the same, and may detain them: and all Police Officers are hereby required, on the application of the Justices or their Officers as aforesaid, to seize and detain the same. If the person owning or keeping such cart, hackery, or other vehicle, shall be convicted before a Justice of the Peace under this Section, and ordered to pay a fine, and if the vehicle seized be not claimed, and and the fine be not paid within ten days, such vehicle, together with the animals seized with it (if any), may be sold by auction by order of a Justice of the Peace, and the proceeds applied to the payment of the fine, and to the costs and charges incurred on account of the seizure, detention, and sale; and the surplus (if any), if not claimed by the owner or the person keeping such cart, hackery, or other vehicle within a further period of twenty days, shall be paid to the Justices.

Penalty for not registering a cart or hackery.

XLVII. On and after the first day of July 1863 every person who shall within the Town exercise any of the professions, trades, or callings specified in Schedule (B) to this Act annexed, shall take out a license and shall pay for the same such annual sum as is in the said Schedule (B) mentioned: provided that for any such license which shall be granted before the first day of January 1864, there shall be paid only one half of the said annual sum.

Persons exercising certain professions trades and callings in the Town, to take out a license.

XLVIII. Every license under Section XLVII shall be granted by the Justices or by some person duly authorized by them in that behalf, and shall specify the date of the grant thereof, the true name of the person to whom the license is granted, and the sum paid for such license.

License to be granted by Justices and to specify particulars.

XLIX. Every license shall have effect and continue in force from the day of the date thereof until the day hereinafter appointed for the expiration thereof; and every such license which shall be granted before the 1st day of January 1864 shall expire on that day, and every such license which shall be granted upon or at any time after that day, shall expire on the 31st day of December next after the day of the granting thereof.

License to be in force how long.

Licenses to be renewed on expiring.

L. Every person to whom any such license shall be granted and who shall be desirous of continuing to exercise his profession, trade, or calling after the expiration thereof, shall take out a fresh license for that purpose for the following year, to expire on the day appointed in the last preceding Section, and shall renew the same from year to year, so long as he shall desire to continue such profession, trade, or calling.

Chairman to classify all persons required by this Act to be licensed.

LI. The Chairman shall determine under which of the classes mentioned in the Schedule (B) to this Act annexed, every person to whom a license may be granted shall be assessed. The Justices at a Meeting shall from time to time declare what are to be considered, Bazars, Hauts, or Public Markets, within the meaning of this Act.

Chairman to prepare a list of all persons required by this Act to be licensed.

LII. As soon as may be after the first day of January in every year, the Chairman shall prepare a list of the persons licensed under this Act, which list shall state the profession, trade, or calling of each of the persons therein named, the class under which he is assessed, and the sum paid by him in respect of his license, and such list shall be filed in the Office of the said Chairman, and be open to public inspection at all reasonable times.

Penalty for not taking out a license.

LIII. If, after the first day of October 1863, any person within the said limits shall exercise his profession, trade, or calling without having duly taken out a license as required by Section XLVII, he shall be liable, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, to a penalty not exceeding three times the amount which in the judgment of such Justice of the Peace would have been payable by such person in respect of a license duly taken out as aforesaid.

Penalty for not producing license when called on to do so by an Officer of the Justices, &c

LIV. Any person required by Section XLVII to take out a license, who shall, without reasonable excuse, neglect or refuse to produce and show his license, when required so to do by an Officer duly empowered in writing by the Chairman to make such requisition, shall, on conviction before a Justice of the peace, be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Rate on all houses, buildings, and lands in the Town.

LV. An annual rate, not exceeding ten per centum of their annual value, may be imposed by the Justices upon all houses, buildings, and lands, in the Town, and shall be assessed in the manner hereinafter described: Provided that it shall be at the option of the Justices, in lieu of such rate, to levy upon any lands unappropriated to any building or premises, or upon any native huts with their appurtenances, a fixed annual rate not exceeding four Rupees for every cottah occupied by them, respectively. Any rate levied under this Section shall be payable by the owners of the said houses, buildings, lands, and huts, respectively, by quarterly instalments.

Proviso.

Exemption of Fort William and of buildings on its esplanade, and buildings used for public worship.

LVI. Houses, buildings, and lands situate in Fort William, on the esplanade of the Fort, and in Cooly Bazar, and buildings used exclusively as places of public worship, shall not be liable to any rate under the last preceding Section.

If assessment be made at a higher annual value than the amount paid by the tenant, owner may recover difference from him.

LVII. If the annual value or fixed rate referred to in Section LV, shall in any case exceed the amount of rent payable by the lessee or tenant to the owner, the owner may in such case recover from the lessee or tenant the difference between the sum assessed upon him, and the sum at which he would have been assessed had he been rated only upon the amount of rent actually payable to him, and such difference shall be added to the rent payable by such lessee or tenant, and shall be recoverable by the owner from him, by such means and in like manner in all respects as such rent is recoverable.

Remission on account of vacant houses.

LVIII. When any house shall have been vacant for sixty consecutive days during any year, the Justices shall remit so much, not exceeding one-half, of the rate for that year, as may be proportionate to the number of days the said house may have remained unoccupied: provided that the owner of such house, or his agent, shall have given to the Justices notice in writing of the vacancy thereof, and that the amount of rate to be remitted shall be calculated from the date of the delivery of such notice.

Lighting-rate.

LIX. To provide for the lighting of the public streets of the Town, an annual Lighting-rate, not exceeding two per centum of their annual value, may be imposed by the Justices upon all houses, buildings, and lands in the Town, and shall be assessed in the manner hereinafter described. Provided that it shall be at the option of the Justices, in lieu of such rate, to levy upon any lands unappropriated to any building or premises, or upon any native huts with their appurtenances, a fixed annual rate, not exceeding twelve annas and ten pies, for every cottah occupied by such last mentioned lands, or huts with their appurtenances. Any rate levied under this Section, or under Section LXI, shall be payable by the occupiers of the said houses, buildings, lands, and huts, respectively, by quarterly instalments.

Proviso.

Gross proceeds of Lighting-rate to be applied for purposes of lighting.

LX. The Justices shall cause the public streets of the Town to be sufficiently lighted: and the sum applicable annually to the current expenses of lighting the said streets, shall be the gross proceeds of the said Lighting-rate and no more; but the Justices may expend, out of the Municipal Fund, such further sums as may from time to time be requisite for the purchase, setting up, and maintaining of lamps, lamp-posts, pipes, and other necessary apparatus.

Water-rate.

LXI. The Justices shall carry out a complete system for the supply of water within the Town, and shall for that purpose cause such pipes to be laid and such tanks, reservoirs, and other works to be made and constructed as shall be necessary. Such supply shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, to be complete within the Town, or within any divi-

Occupier liable to the rate for time of occupation.

LXII. Every occupier shall be liable to the Lighting-rate and to the Water-rate for the time of his occupation; and when any person shall have been an occupier for a part only of any quarter, the Justices shall charge him with only so much of the rate for that quarter, as may be proportionate to the number of days during which he shall have continued to be an occupier. No such rate shall be chargeable to any person on account of any unoccupied house for the time during which it may remain unoccupied. Provided always that, when any person ceases to be the occupier of any premises liable to the rate, he shall give the Justices notice thereof, or, if he fail to give such notice, he shall be liable to the rate assessed on the said premises for the whole quarter, although they may have been occupied for a part only of such quarter.

Proviso.

Owner when liable.

LXIII. When any house or building, or any land, is let by the owner in apartments, flats, or portions, the owner shall be liable to pay the Lighting-rate and the Water-rate, instead of the occupier or occupiers.

Occupiers subletting to be liable.

LXIV. When any person, who rents from the owner any house or building, or any land, sublets the same in apartments or portions, such person, for the purposes of the Lighting-rate and of the Water-rate, shall be held to be the occupier.

Any person liable to any rate, leaving the Town during a quarter, may be made at once to pay such rate up to date.

Annual value of houses, buildings, and lands, how to be ascertained.

LXVI. The estimated gross annual rent at which the houses, buildings, and lands, liable to the rate or rates imposed under this Act upon houses, buildings, and lands according to the annual value thereof, might reasonably be expected to let from year to year, shall, for the purposes of the rates leviable under this Act, be held and deemed to be the annual value of such houses, buildings, and lands. The value of a house or building so estimated shall not include the value of any machinery contained therein.

Annual value to be assessed by the Justices: assessment to remain in force for three years.

LXVII. The annual value at which any lands, houses, buildings, or huts with their appurtenances, are to be assessed, or the area on which they are to be rated under this Act, shall be fixed by the Justices, and such lands, houses, buildings, and huts with their appurtenances, shall be assessed or rated, upon the value or the area so fixed, for three years from the date on which it is so fixed, and on no other value or area. Provided that, if during the currency of the said period of three years any new building shall be erected on any land, or any substantial alteration and improvement shall be made in any premises, it shall be lawful for the Justices to cause such land or premises to be again assessed, even though the three years shall not have expired, and such last mentioned assessment shall be in force, and the rate shall be levied according to it, until the expiration of the said three years.

Proviso.

Value assessed, or measurement, to be entered in a book, &c.

LXVIII. The annual value assessed, or the area fixed, by the Justices as hereinbefore provided, shall be entered in a book to be kept at the Office of the Justices, wherein shall also be written in distinct columns the name of the owner of the property; or, if the occupier, and not the owner, is the person liable to pay the rate, the name of the occupier; a designation of the property, either by name or number, sufficient to identify the same, together with the name of the street or district in which such property is situate, and the amount of the rate assessed or fixed thereon.

New valuation or measurement to be made.

LXIX. The Justices shall, immediately after this Act comes into operation, proceed without delay to make a valuation or measurement of all lands, houses, tenements, and premises within the Town, and for such purpose shall divide the Town into such and so many districts as they many think fit, and proceed to make a separate valuation or measurement district by district, and shall enter the same in the said book. The valuation which, at the date of this Act coming into operation, shall stand entered in the book kept at the Office of the Municipal Commissioners under Section V of Act XXV of 1856, shall be taken to be the first valuation made under this Act, Valuation now standing in the book of the Municipal Commissioners, to be taken as the first under this Act, till new one be made.

until such time as the Justices shall have caused a new valuation or a measurement to be made.

Owner or occupier how to be designated, if his name be unknown.

LXX. When the name of the owner or occupier is not known, it shall be sufficient to designate him in the said book, and also in any notice or other proceeding under this Act, as "the owner" or "the occupier" of the property on which the rate is assessed, without further description.

Returns may be required for purpose of valuation.

LXXI. In order to enable the Justices to arrive at a fair valuation or measurement of any houses, buildings, or lands liable to the rate, it shall be lawful for the Justices to require the owner or occupier of such houses, buildings, or lands to furnish them with returns of the measurements and of the rent or annual value thereof; and for the like purpose, it shall be lawful for the Justices, or any person or persons appointed by them for that purpose, at any time between sunrise and sunset, to enter and inspect and measure such houses, buildings, or lands, after having given forty-eight hours' previous notice of such their intention to the occupier thereof; and whoever refuses or fails to furnish any such return for the space of one week from the day on which he shall have been required so to do, or knowingly makes a false or incorrect return, and whoever hinders, obstructs, or prevents any Justice of the Peace, or any person appointed by the Justices as aforesaid, from entering or inspecting or measuring any such houses, buildings, or lands, shall be liable, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees.

Power to enter houses, &c.

Public notice of valuation and measurement to be given.

Notice of time of revising assessment.

LXXIII. The Justices shall, at the time and in the manner in the preceding Section mentioned, give public notice of a day, not being less than fifteen days from the publication of such notice, when they will proceed to revise the said valuation or measurement and assessment; and in all cases in which any property is for the first time assessed, or in which the valuation or measurement of any property previously assessed is increased, shall give special notice thereof to the owners or occupiers of such property. All appeals against such valuation or measurement and assessment shall be made to the Justices, by application in writing left at their Office three days before the day fixed in the said public notice for the revising of the said valuation or measurement and assessment, and upon hearing such appeals the Justices shall make such amendments, if any, in the said assessment and in the said book, as they shall think proper.

After revision, the assessment book to be authenticated by seal of Justices.

Rate assessed to be deemed the rate for three years.

Alteration or amendment of assessment.

LXXV. Provided always that the Chairman or Vice-Chairman may at any time amend the said book, by inserting therein the name of any person whose name ought to be so inserted, or by inserting any property liable to the rate, after giving notice to such person as may be interested in the making of the amendment, of a day, not being less than fifteen days from the date of the service of such notice, when such amendment is to be made; or by striking out the name of any person or any property not liable to the rate, or reducing the amount of the rate, without notice: and if any amendment shall be made, in cases where notice is required, the same shall be deemed to have been made on the expiration of fifteen days after service of the said notice; and any person interested in such amendment may appeal, by application in writing to the Justices left at their Office three days before the day fixed in the said notice for such amendment.

New assessment book need not be prepared every three years.

LXXVI. It shall not be necessary to prepare a new book every three years, but the Justices may adopt the valuation or measurement and assessment contained in the book for any period of three years, with such alterations as may, in particular cases, be deemed necessary, as the valuation or measurement and assessment for the three years next following. Provided always that public notice of such valuation or measurement and assessment shall be given, in the manner prescribed in Section LXXII of this Act; and the provisions of that and the three following Sections shall be applicable to the said valuation or measurement and assessment, and to the book or books in which it is contained.

Proviso.

Hearing of appeals.

LXXVII. Appeals against any rate assessed or demanded by the Justices under the provisions of this Act, shall be heard and determined by not less than three Justices of the Peace. But no such appeal shall be heard unless the amount of the rate has been deposited with the Justices.

Assessment by Justices when to be final.

LXXVIII. The assessment by the Justices of any rate, when no appeal therefrom is made as hereinbefore provided, and the adjudication of any appeal under the preceding Section, shall be final and conclusive.

Bills to be presented.

LXXIX. When any rate is due, the Justices shall cause to be presented, to the person liable to the payment thereof, a bill for the sum due, which shall also contain a statement of the period, and a description of the property or thing, for which the rate is charged.

Notice of demand.

LXXX. If the bill is not paid, by the person liable to pay the same, within seven days from the presentation thereof, the Justices may cause to be served upon such person a notice of demand, in the form contained in the Schedule (C) to this Act annexed, or to the like effect; and if he shall not, within seven days from the service of such notice of demand, pay the sum due, or show sufficient cause, to the satisfaction of the Justices, for non-payment of the same, such sum, with all costs, may be levied by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the defaulter, or if the defaulter be the occupier of any house, building, or land in respect of which a rate is due, by distress and sale of any goods and chattels found on the premises, under a warrant in the form contained in the Schedule (D) to this Act annexed, or to the like effect, to be issued for that purpose by the Justices. For every notice of demand under this Section which the Justices shall cause to be served upon any person, a fee not exceeding one Rupee, the amount of which shall be in each case fixed by the Justices, shall be paid by such person. Such fee shall be added to the amount of the rate in respect of which the notice is given, and, if not duly paid, shall be levied in the same manner as such rate may be levied.

Distress.

Inventory—notice of distress.

LXXXI. The Officer charged with the execution of a warrant of distress under the last preceding Section, shall make an inventory of the goods and chattels seized under any such warrant, and shall at the same time give a notice in writing, in the form contained in the Schedule (E) to this Act annexed, to the person in possession thereof at the time of the seizure, that the said goods and chattels will be sold as therein mentioned.

Sale.

LXXXII. If the warrant is not in the meantime discharged or suspended by the Justices, the goods and chattels seized shall be sold under the orders of the Justices, who shall apply the proceeds, or such part thereof as may be necessary, in discharge of the said arrears and costs; and the surplus, if any, shall be returned, on demand, to the person in possession of the goods and chattels at the time of the seizure. Fees shall be payable upon distraints under this Act, according to the rates set forth in the Table of Fees in the said Schedule.

Fees

Goods of defaulter, wherever found, may be distrained.

LXXXIII. The goods and chattels of any person from whom any rate is due, may be distrained, wherever the same may be found, for default in the payment of the money due from such person.

Rate due from owner may be recovered from occupier and deducted by him from his rent.

LXXXIV. If the sum due on account of any rate from the owner of any house, building, or land remains unpaid, after notice of demand has been duly served, the Justices may demand the amount from the occupier for the time being of such house, building, or land, and, on non-payment thereof, may recover the same by distress and sale of any goods and chattels found on the premises; and in such case, the occupier may deduct, from the next and following payments of his rent, the amount which may be so paid by or recovered from him. Provided that no arrear of rate which has remained due from the owner of any house, building, or land for more than one year, shall be so recovered from the occupier thereof.

Distress not unlawful for want of form.

LXXXV. No distress levied by virtue of this Act shall be deemed unlawful, nor shall any party making the same be deemed a trespasser, on account of any defect or want of form in the notice, schedule, summons, notice of demand, warrant of distress, inventory, or other proceeding relating thereto, nor shall such party be deemed a trespasser ab initio, on account of any irregularity afterwards committed by him; but all persons aggrieved by such irregularity may recover full satisfaction for any special damage sustained by them, in any Court of competent jurisdiction.

Justices may sue, instead of proceeding by distress.

LXXXVI. Instead of proceeding by distress and sale, or in case of failure to realize by distress the whole or any part of the sum due in respect of any rate, the Justices may sue the person liable to pay the same, in any Court of competent jurisdiction.

Service of notices.

LXXXVII. Every notice, schedule, summons, or notice of demand, regarding any assessment, rate, or tax, or any money due in respect of the same, may be served personally upon the person to whom the same is addressed, or be left at his usual place of abode with some adult male member or servant of his family, or, if it cannot be so served, may be put up on some conspicuous part of such place of abode, and shall thereby be deemed to be duly served. Provided that, if the place of abode of the owner of any house, building, or land, in respect of which a rate is assessed, be unknown, or if the owner of any such house, building, or land be not resident within the limits of the Town, every such notice, summons, or notice of demand shall be deemed to be duly served, if put up on some conspicuous part of the house, building, or land in respect of which the rate is assessed.

Assessment not to be impeached, if the directions of the Act are in substance complied with.

LXXXVIII. No assessment, and no charge or demand of a rate or tax, made under the authority of this Act, shall be impeached or affected by reason of any mistake in the name of any person liable to pay the rate or tax, or in the description of any property or thing liable to the rate or tax, or any mistake in the amount of assessment, provided the directions of this Act be in substance and effect complied with; and no proceedings under this Act shall, for want of form, be quashed or set aside in any Court of Justice.

Drainage.

LXXXIX. The Justices shall carry out such a complete system of sewerage and drainage within the Town as they may think desirable, subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and subject to such alterations as may from time to time be ordered by him.

Drainage rate on houses in the environs of the Town.

XC. The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal may determine what portions, if any, of the environs of the Town shall be included in the said system of sewerage and drainage, and may declare the boundaries thereof by notification in the Government Gazette. An annual rate, to be fixed from time to time by the said Lieutenant-Governor, not exceeding two and a half per centum of their annual value, may be imposed upon all houses, buildings, and lands situated within the boundaries so notified, and the same shall be payable by the owners thereof in quarterly instalments. For the purposes of the said rate, the houses, buildings, and lands situated within such boundaries as aforesaid, shall be held to be a part of the Town; and all the provisions of this Act which relate to the assessment and collection of rates payable by owners, shall have effect in respect to such rates.

Justices may erect wharves &c., on river and canal banks, and levy fees for goods landed thereon.

XCI. It shall be lawful for the Justices, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, to erect wharves, jetties, or quays, in any river or canal bordering upon lands which may belong to the Justices. And it shall be lawful for the Justices to levy, upon all goods shipped or landed at any such quays, wharves, or jetties, erected as aforesaid, wharfage, porterage, and other fees, according to a scale to be laid down from time to time by the Justices with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

Goods landed on wharves, &c., may be detained until fees are paid.

XCII. It shall be lawful for the Officers, appointed by the Justices to superintend the landing and shipment of goods from any quays, wharves, and jetties erected under the provisions of the last preceding Section, to detain any such goods until the wharfage, porterage, and other charges due thereon shall have been paid.

Mortgage of rates.

XCIII. Clause 1.—For the construction of works of a permanent nature under this Act, the Justices may, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, from time to time, borrow by way of debenture, on the security of the rates, taxes, and dues imposed and levied on account of the Municipal Fund under this or any Act passed in that behalf, or of a portion of them, and at such rate of interest and upon such terms as to the time of re-payment and otherwise as the said Lieutenant-Governor may approve, any sums of money the Justices may require for the objects aforesaid.

Form of security.

Clause 2.—All the debentures aforesaid, issued under the authority of this Act, shall be in the form contained in the Schedule (F) to this Act, and shall be transferable by endorsement, and the right to sue in respect of the monies secured by any of such debentures, shall be vested in the holders thereof for the time being, without any preference by reason of some of such debentures being prior in date to others.

Payment of debentures by fresh mortgage of rates.

Clause 3.—The Justices may at any time, with such consent as aforesaid, raise, by the issue of new debentures, any money that may be required to pay any monies for the time being due on any debentures issued in pursuance of this Act.

Justices may keep a Register of births and deaths, and appoint Registrars.

XCIV. It shall be lawful for the Justices to keep in their Office a Register of all births and deaths in the Town, and for this purpose they shall divide the Town into such and so many Districts as they shall think fit, and for every such District they shall appoint a person to be Registrar of births and deaths within such District.

Every Registrar to live in his District; list of Registrars to be published, &c.

XCV. Every Registrar shall dwell within the District of which he is Registrar, and shall cause his name, with the addition of Registrar for the District for which he shall be so appointed, to be placed in some conspicuous place on or near the outer door of his own dwelling-house; and the Justices shall cause to be printed and published a list, containing the name and place of abode of every Registrar in the Town.

Justices to have Register books prepared and numbered.

XCVI. The Justices shall cause to be prepared and printed a sufficient number of Register Books for making entries of all births and deaths which may take place in the Town, according to the forms prescribed in Schedules (G) and (H) to this Act annexed: and the pages of such book shall be numbered progressively from the beginning to the end.

Registrar to inform himself of, and register, births and deaths.

XCVII. Every Registrar shall inform himself carefully of every birth and of every death which shall happen in his District after the first day of July 1863, and shall learn and register, as soon as conveniently may be after the event, without fee or reward, the particulars required to be registered, according to the forms in the said Schedules (G) and (H), respectively, touching every such birth and every such death, as the case may be, which shall not have been already registered, every such entry being made in order from the beginning to the end of the book.

Information of births to be given within one month.

XCVIII. The father or mother of every child born in the Town, or in case of the death, illness, absence, or inability of the father and mother, the occupier of the house or tenement in which such child shall have been born, shall, within one month next after the day of every such birth, give information to the Registrar of the District, according to the best of his or her knowledge and belief, of the several particulars hereby required to be known and registered touching the birth of such child. Any person whose duty it shall be to give information to a Registrar under this Section, who shall refuse or neglect to give such information, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Information of death to be given.

XCIX. Some one of the persons present at the death, or in attendance during the last illness, of every person dying in the Town, or, in case of the death, illness, inability, or default of all such persons, the occupier of the house or tenement, or if the occupier be the person who shall have died, some inmate of the house or tenement in which such death shall have happened, shall, within eight days next after the day of such death, give information to the Registrar of the District, according to the best of his or her knowledge and belief, of the several particulars hereby required to be known and registered touching the death of such person. Any person who shall refuse or neglect to give any information which it is his duty to give under this Section, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Person giving information, to sign the Register.

C. Every person by whom the information contained in any Register of births or deaths under this Act shall have been given, shall sign in the Register his name, description, and place of abode; and no such registration shall be deemed to be complete or of any effect until such person shall have so signed it.

Account of population to be taken.

CI. At such times and in such manner as shall be directed from time to time by the Justices, an account shall be taken of the number of persons who, at the time of taking such account, shall be within the Town, and the persons employed in taking such account shall set down the several particulars respecting the same which are hereinafter prescribed.

Chairman to superintend the taking an account of the population.

CII. The Chairman shall superintend the taking of such account, and shall cause to be prepared and issued, for the use of the persons to be employed, such forms and instructions as he shall, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor, deem necessary, and all the expenses incurred shall be defrayed out of the Municipal Fund.

Enumeration Districts.

CIII. Each Police division of the Town shall be formed into one or more Enumeration Districts.

At the appointed time occupiers of houses shall give the required information.

CIV. At such times as shall be appointed under Section CI of this Act, and as shall be notified in the Official Gazette by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, every occupier of a dwelling house or of any part of a dwelling-house distinctly occupied, and every person to whom a Schedule, as hereinafter provided, may have been delivered, shall afford such information, in regard to all persons who were abiding in his house, or in the place under his charge, on the night immediately preceding, and in such manner, as may, under this Act, be lawfully required of them.

Persons to be employed as enumerators.

CV. The Chairman shall select a sufficient number of competent persons to act as enumerators; and every such enumerator, under the direction of the Chairman, shall visit every house within his District, except as hereinafter provided, and shall take an account in writing of the name, sex, age, caste, nationality, and occupation, of every living person who shall abide therein on the night immediately preceding the day appointed as aforesaid, and shall also take an account of the occupied houses and the houses then being built and therefore uninhabited, and also of all other uninhabited houses within his District, and in all respects conform to, and obey, the instructions which may be issued to him by the Chairman in this behalf. Provided always that, in the case of females, no account shall be taken either of their name or age.

Schedules.

CVI. The Chairman, when he may deem such a course to be advisable, may cause a Schedule, in such form as shall be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor, to be delivered to any occupier of any dwelling-house who he shall have ascertained to be able to write, and such occupier shall fill in all the particulars required in the form on the day to be appointed, and shall deliver the same to such persons as may be duly authorized to demand the same.

Military and Naval Officers and certain others, if required, to act as enumerators.

CVII. Any Military or Naval Officers in command of bodies of Military or Naval men, or of Vessels of War, or any Master of a Merchant Vessel, or Nacodah or Tindal of a vessel or boat, or any person in charge of a Lunatic Asylum, Hospital, or Prison, or of any public or private charitable or scholastic institution, or any keepers of Hotels or Lodging-houses, shall, if required, act as enumerators for the purpose of taking account of persons under their command or charge, or abiding in their houses, on the night immediately preceding the day to be appointed; every person so required to act as an enumerator shall receive and conform to all instructions in writing which may be issued to him by the Chairman in that behalf.

Returns of houseless persons.

CVIII. The Chairman shall obtain, by such ways and means as shall appear to him best adapted for the purpose and as shall be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor, returns of the particulars required by this Act with respect to all houseless persons, and all persons who, during the said night preceding the day to be appointed, were on out-door night duty, or for any other reason were not abiding in any house of which account is to be taken by the enumerators.

Streets vested in the Justices.

CIX. All public streets in the Town (not being the property and kept under the control of the Government), existing at the time this Act comes into operation, or which shall afterwards be made, and the pavements, stones, and other materials thereof, and also all erections, materials, implements, and other things provided for such streets, shall vest in and belong to the Justices.

Power to make and improve streets.

CX. The Justices, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, may lay out and make new streets, and may build and construct bridges and tunnels; and may turn, divert, discontinue, or stop up, any public street, and may widen, open, enlarge, or otherwise improve, any such street; making due compensation to the owners and occupiers of any land, houses, or buildings which may be required for any such purposes.

Power to take land adjoining new streets, for building purposes.

CXI. In laying out or making any new street or in turning, diverting, widening, opening, enlarging, or otherwise improving any public street, in addition to the land required for the carriage-ways and foot-ways thereof, the Justices may purchase also the land necessary for the houses and buildings to form the said street, and may sell and dispose of the same, with such stipulations and conditions as to the class and description of houses or buildings to be erected thereon, as they shall think fit. Provided that, if any land be taken under the provisions of this Act, compensation shall be made to the owners for any direct or immediate damage which may be done thereby to any adjoining land or buildings of such owner.

Compensation for damage to adjoining land.

Power to agree for purchase of land for improving streets or for other Municipal purposes.

CXII. The Justices may agree with the owners of any land or building for the absolute purchase thereof for the purpose of laying out and making new streets, or of widening, enlarging, or otherwise improving any of the public streets, or for any other purpose whatever connected with the conservancy or general improvement of the Town.

Mode of ascertaining compensation for land, &c.

CXIII. When there is any hinderance to the acquisition by purchase of any land or building required for the purposes of this Act, the Government of Bengal, upon the representation of the Justices and after such inquiry as may be thought proper, may declare that the land or building is needed for a public purpose, and may order proceedings for obtaining possession of the same for Government, and for determining the compensation to be paid to the parties interested, according to any laws now or hereafter to be in force for the acquisition of land for public purposes. And the Government of Bengal may vest such land or building in the Justices, on their paying the compensation awarded.

Power to sell lands or buildings.

CXIV. The Justices may sell any lands or buildings vested in them by virtue of this Act, or acquired by them for the purposes thereof, either together or in parcels as they may find most convenient and advantageous, and the proceeds of such sale shall be applied to the purposes of this Act; and for carrying such sale into effect, the Justices may execute a conveyance of the lands sold to the purchaser, and such conveyance shall be under the common seal of the Justices, and shall be executed in all respects in the manner hereinbefore provided for the execution of contracts, the value or amount of which exceeds five hundred Rupees.

Power to sell old streets.

CXV. Whenever any street hereby vested in the Justices shall be discontinued and stopped up under the provisions of Section CX of this Act, the Justices may sell the lands, or such part thereof as shall not be required for the purposes of this Act.

Maintenance and repair of streets.

Footways.

Cleansing streets.

CXVII. The Justices shall cause the streets, including the foot-ways thereof, to be regularly swept and cleansed; and the dust, dirt, ashes, rubbish, and filth of every sort found thereon, to be collected and removed.

Dust Boxes in streets.

Depositing dirt on streets, &c.

CXIX. Whoever deposits, or permits his servants to deposit, any dust, dirt, dung, ashes; garden, kitchen, or stable refuse; or filth of any kind, or any animal matter, or any broken glass or earthenware, or other rubbish, in any street or on any public quay, jetty, ghaut, or landing place, or on any part of a river-bank whether above or below high-water mark, except in such places and in such manner and at such hours as shall be fixed by the Justices, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten Rupees for each offence. The Justices may, in manner hereinafter provided, make Bye-Laws for regulating the making of such deposits, and for the removing and carrying away the same, and for charging the person making the deposit, with the expense of removing it or carrying it away.

Allowing sewerage to flow on streets.

CXX. Whoever causes or allows the water of any sink or sewer, or any other offensive liquid matter belonging to him or being on his land, to run, drain, or be thrown or put upon any street, or causes or allows any offensive matter from any sewer or privy to run, drain, or be thrown into a surface drain in any street, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten Rupees for each offence.

Removal of night-soil.

CXXI. The Justices from time to time may fix the hours within which only it shall be lawful to remove any night-soil or other such offensive matter. When the Justices have fixed such hours and given public notice thereof, whoever removes or causes to be removed along any street any such offensive matter at any time, except within the hours so fixed, and also whoever, at any time, whether such hours have been fixed by the Justices or not, uses for any such purpose any cart, carriage, or other receptacle or vessel not having a covering proper for preventing the escape of the contents thereof or of the stench therefrom, or who slops or spills any such offensive matter in the removal thereof, or who does not carefully sweep and clean every place in which any such offensive matter has been slopped or spilled, or who places or sets down in any public place any vessel containing such offensive matter, or who drives or takes or causes to be driven or taken any cart, carriage, receptacle, or vessel used for any such purpose as aforesaid, through any street or by any route other than such as shall from time to time be by public notice appointed for that purpose by the Justices, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty Rupees for each offence.

Places of deposit for filth.

CXXII. The Justices, from time to time, shall appoint or provide places convenient for the deposit of the night-soil, dung, and other filth, and the dust, dirt, ashes, and rubbish collected and removed under the authority of this Act; and for keeping all cattle, carts, implements, and other things required for the above or any of the purposes of this Act; and, for any of such purposes, the Justices may purchase or take on lease any land or buildings by them considered necessary, or may cause any new building to be made upon any land to be purchased or hired by them.

All rubbish, &c., collected, to be the property of the Justices.

CXXIII. All dirt, dust, ashes, rubbish, sewerage, soil, dung, and filth, collected from the streets, houses, privies, sewers, and cess-pools, shall be the property of the Justices, who shall have power to sell or dispose of the same as they may think proper, and the money arising from the sale thereof, shall be applied to the purposes of this Act.

Watering streets.

CXXIV. The Justices, so far as the funds at their disposal will admit, and so far as they may deem requisite for the public convenience, shall cause the public streets to be watered; and for that purpose may provide such works and engines as they may think necessary.

Future obstructions in streets.

CXXV. Whoever builds any wall, or erects or sets up any fence, rail, post, or other obstruction or encroachment, in any public street or in or over any open drain, sewer, or aqueduct along the side of any such street after this Act comes into operation, shall be liable, to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees; and

Power to remove.

the Justices shall have power to remove any such obstruction or encroachment; and the expense of such removal shall be paid by the person erecting the same, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Temporary obstruction on occasions of festivals, &c.

Nothing herein contained shall prevent the Justices from allowing any temporary erections in any public street on occasions of festivals and ceremonies.

Taking up pavements.

CXXVI. Whoever displaces, takes up, or makes any alteration in the pavement, flags, or other materials, or in the fences or posts of any public street, without the consent in writing of the Justices, or without other lawful authority, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Private persons laying out new streets.

CXXVII. Every person who wishes to make or lay out any new street, shall give notice in writing thereof to the Justices, shewing the intended level and width of such street; and the level and width of every such street shall be fixed or approved by the Justices; and whoever lays out, makes, or builds upon, any such street, otherwise than in accordance with the level and width so fixed or approved, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five hundred Rupees; and the Justices may, if they think fit, cause any such street, laid out or made at a level or width otherwise than in accordance with the level or width so fixed or approved as aforesaid, to be altered; or may cause any building, erected in any such street otherwise than in accordance with such level and width, to be altered, or if necessary removed, and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid to them by the offender, and be recoverable as hereinafter provided. If no such level or width be fixed, and no approval or disapproval of the level or width proposed be signified by the Justices within one month, the intended street may be laid out and made upon the level and of the width specified in the notice.

Erection of new huts to be under the control of the Justices.

CXXVIII. It shall not be lawful for any person to erect, within the Town, any hut or any range or block of huts, on any plot or parcel of ground on which no huts are standing, without previous notice to the Justices; and the Justices may require such hut or huts to be built so that they may stand in regular lines, with a free passage or way in front of each line, of such width as the Justices may think proper for salutary ventilation, and to facilitate scavengering, and at such a level as will admit of sufficient drainage. And if any such hut or huts be built without giving such notice to the Justices, or otherwise than as required by the Justices, the Justices may give notice to the builder or builders thereof to take down and remove the same within one month, and if such hut or huts be not taken down or removed according to such notice, the Justices may cause the same to be taken down and removed, and the expense incurred in doing so shall be paid by the said builder or builders, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Power of Justices as to existing huts.

CXXIX. Whenever the Justices are satisfied, from inspection or by report of competent persons, that any existing block of huts in the Town, is, by reason of the manner in which the huts are crowded together, or of the want of drainage and the impracticability of scavengering, attended with risk of disease to the inhabitants or the neighbourhood, they may, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, cause a notice to be fixed to some conspicuous part of such block of huts, requiring the owners or occupiers thereof, or, at the option of the Justices, the owner of the land on which such huts are built, within a reasonable time to be fixed by the Justices for that purpose, to execute such operations as the Justices with such sanction as aforesaid may deem necessary for the avoidance of such risk. And in case such owners or occupiers, or the owner of the land, shall refuse or neglect to execute such operations within the time appointed, the Justices may cause the said huts to be taken down, or such operations to be performed in respect of such huts, as the Justices may deem necessary to prevent such risk. If such huts be pulled down, the Justices shall cause the materials of each hut to be sold separately, if such sale can be effected; and the proceeds shall be paid to the owner of the hut, or if the owner be unknown, or the title disputed, shall be held in deposit by the Justices, until the person interested therein shall obtain the order of a competent Court for the payment of the same. The Calcutta Court of Small Causes shall be deemed a competent Court for that purpose.

Paving, &c., of private streets.

CXXX. If any street (not being a public street), or any part thereof, be not levelled, paved, metalled, flagged, channelled, and sewered to the satisfaction of the Justices, they may, by notice in writing to the respective owners or occupiers of the premises fronting, adjoining, or abutting upon, such parts thereof as may need to be levelled, paved, metalled, flagged, channelled, and sewered, require them to level, metal, pave, flag, channel, and sewer the same within a time to be specified in such notice, and upon non-compliance the Justices may, if they think fit, execute the works mentioned or referred to therein: and the expenses incurred by them in so doing shall be paid by the owners in default according to the frontage of their respective premises, and in such proportion as shall be settled by the Justices, or, in case of dispute, as shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses; and such expense shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Proviso.

Provided always that, after such streets shall have been so levelled, paved, metalled, flagged, channelled, and sewered, on the requisition of the Justices, or by the Justices as aforesaid, at the expense of the owners, such owners shall have a right to require that the street shall be declared a public street, to be from time to time repaired by the Justices out of the Municipal Fund.

Certain streets to be deemed public and repaired by the Justices.

CXXXI. If any street (not being a public street, but being a street over or through which the public have or may hereafter have a right of way) be levelled, paved, metalled, flagged channelled, and sewered to the satisfaction of the Justices, they may, if they think fit, by notice in writing put up in any part of such street, declare the same to be a public street, and thereupon the same shall become a public street, and be from time to time repaired by them out of the Municipal Fund.

Houses may be set forward for improving line of streets.

CXXXII. The Justices may, upon such terms as they shall think fit, allow any house or building to be set forward for improving the line of any public street in which such house or building is situated.

Houses projecting beyond line of street, when taken down, to be set back.

CXXXIII. When any house or building, any part of which projects beyond the regular line of a public street, or beyond the front of the house or building on either side thereof, has been taken down in order to be re-built or altered, the Justices may require the same to be set back to or towards the line of the street or the line of the adjoining houses or buildings.

Proviso.

Provided always that the Justices shall make full compensation to the owner of any such house or building for any damage he may thereby sustain, and if any dispute shall arise touching the amount of such compensation, the same shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses.

Names of streets.

CXXXIV. The Justices shall, from time to time, cause to be put up or painted on a conspicuous part of some house, building, wall, or place at or near each end, corner, or entrance of every street, the name by which such street is to be known; and whoever destroys, pulls down, or defaces any such name, or puts up any name different from that put up by order of the Justices, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty Rupees.

Numbers on houses.

CXXXV. The Justices may, from time to time, fix a number in a conspicuous place on the outer side of any house or building, or at the entrance of the enclosure thereof fronting the street; and whoever destroys, pulls down, or defaces any such number, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty Rupees.

Doors not to open outwards.

CXXXVI. All doors, gates, bars, and ground-floor windows put up after this Act comes into operation, which open upon any public street, shall be hung or placed so as not to open outwards and cause obstruction; and if any such door, gate, bar, or window be hung or placed so as to open outwards on any such street and cause obstruction, the owner of the premises to which the same is attached shall, within eight days after notice from the Justices to that effect, cause the same to be altered so as not to open outwards and cause obstruction, and in case he neglects so to do, the Justices may make such alteration, and the expense thereof shall be paid by such owners, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Doors opening outwards to be altered.

CXXXVII. If any door, gate, bar, or ground-floor window, put up before this Act comes into operation, is hung or placed so as to open outwards upon any public street and cause obstruction, the Justices may alter the same, so that no part thereof, when open, shall cause an obstruction, and the expense thereof shall be paid by the owners and be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Troughs and pipes to be fixed to houses.

CXXXVIII. The owner of every house or building in any public street shall, within fifteen days after notice from the Justices to that effect, put up and keep in good condition proper troughs and pipes for catching and carrying the water from the roof and other parts of such house or building, and for discharging the same in such manner as the Justices shall direct, and in default of compliance with such notice within the period aforesaid, such owner shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten Rupees for every day that he shall so make default.

Projections erected in future from houses, to be removed.

CXXXIX. The Justices may give notice in writing to the owner or occupier of any house or building, to remove or alter any projection, encroachment, or obstruction, which, after this Act comes into operation, shall be erected or placed against or in front of such house or building, and such owner or occupier shall, within fifteen days after the service of such notice upon him, remove such projection, encroachment, or obstruction, or alter the same in such manner as shall have been directed by the Justices, and in default thereof shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees; and the Justices in such case may remove such projection, encroachment, or obstruction; and the expense of such removal shall be paid by the owner or occupier so making default, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Proviso.

Provided that, when the expense shall have been paid by the occupier, except in the case in which such projections, encroachments, or obstructions were made or put up by him, such occupier shall be entitled to deduct the expense of removing or altering the same, from the rent payable by him to the owner of the house or building.

CXL. The Justices may cause any such projection, encroachment, or obstruction, erected or placed against or in front of any house or building, in any public street, before this Act comes into operation, to be removed, or altered as they think fit; provided that they give notice of such intended removal or alteration to the occupier of the house or building against or in front of which such projection, encroachment, or obstruction shall be, thirty days before such alteration or removal is begun; and if such projection, encroachment, or obstruction shall have been lawfully made, they shall make reasonable compensation to every person who suffers damage by such removal or alteration; and if any dispute shall arise touching the amount of such compensation, the same shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses.

Removal of existing projections from houses.

Notice of removal.

Compensation when to be made.

CXLI. The Justices may give permission in writing to the owners or occupiers of houses or buildings in public streets, to put up verandahs, balconies, sun-shades, weather-frames, and the like, to project from any upper-story thereof over the street, to an extent not exceeding five feet from the foundation.

Justices may allow certain projections from houses.

CXLII. The external roofs and walls of huts or other buildings erected or renewed within the Town, after this Act comes into operation, shall not be made of grass, leaves, mats, or other such inflammable materials; and it shall not be lawful for the owner of any hut or other building, in or near any street, now having an external roof or wall made of any such material, and which is contiguous to or adjoining to any other building, to suffer such roof or wall to remain after this Act comes into operation, unless with the consent in writing of the Justices; and whoever makes any external roof or wall of such materials, or suffers any roof or wall made of such materials to continue contrary to the provisions herein contained, and who shall not remove or alter the same within one month after notice given to him for that purpose by the Justices, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten Rupees for every day that such roof or wall shall continue. Any person may give information and institute a prosecution under this Section.

Roofs and external walls of huts not to be made of inflammable materials.

CXLIII. If, in any street, any house, building, or wall, or any thing affixed thereon, be deemed by the Justices to be in a ruinous state, or likely to fall, or in any way dangerous to the inhabitants of such house or building, or to the neighbouring houses or buildings, or to the occupiers thereof, or to passengers, they shall immediately, if it appears to them to be necessary, cause a proper hoard or fence to be put up for the protection of passengers, and shall cause notice in writing to be given to the owner, if he be known and resident within the limits of their jurisdiction, and shall also cause such notice to be put on the door or other conspicuous part of the said premises or otherwise to be given to the occupier thereof (if any), requiring such owner or occupier forthwith to take down, secure, or repair such house, building, wall, or thing affixed thereon, as the case shall require; and if such owner or occupier do not begin to repair, take down, or secure the same within three days after such notice, and complete such work with due diligence, the Justices shall cause all or so much of such house, building, wall, or thing as they shall think necessary, to be taken down, repaired, or otherwise secured; and all the expenses incurred by the Justices shall be paid by the owner of the premises, and shall be recoverable from him as hereinafter provided.

Houses in a ruinous and dangerous state.

CXLIV. If any such house, building, or wall, or any part of the same, be pulled down by virtue of the powers aforesaid, the Justices may sell the materials thereof, or so much of the same as shall be taken down, and apply the proceeds of such sale in payment of the expenses incurred, and shall restore any overplus arising from such sale to the owner of such house, building, or wall, on demand. The Justices, although they sell such materials for the purposes aforesaid, shall have the same remedies for compelling the payment of so much of the said expenses as may remain due after the application of the proceeds of such sale, as by this Act are given to them for compelling the payment of the whole of the said expenses.

Sale of materials of ruinous houses.

CXLV. If any building or land, by reason of abandonment or of disputed ownership or other cause, shall remain untenanted, and thereby become a resort of idle and disorderly persons, or be complained of by any two or more of the neighbours as a nuisance, the Justices, after due enquiry, may cause notice in writing to be given to the owner, or to the person claiming to be the owner, if he be known and resident within the limits of their jurisdiction, and shall also cause such notice to be put on the door of the building or some conspicuous part of the premises, requiring the persons concerned therein, whoever they may be, to secure or enclose the same; and if such notice shall not be complied with within eight days, the Justices shall cause the necessary work to be executed, and all expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the owner of the premises, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Power to shut up and secure deserted houses.

CXLVI. Whoever, being the occupier of a house within the Town, keeps or allows to be kept for more than twenty-four hours, or otherwise than in some proper receptacle, any dirt, dung, bones, ashes, night-soil, filth, or any noxious or offensive matter, in or upon the roof of such house, or in any out-house, yard, or ground attached to and occupied with such house, or suffers such receptacle to be in a filthy or noxious state, or neglects to employ proper means to remove the filth therefrom and to cleanse and purify the same, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for each offence.

Penalty on occupier of a house not removing filth.

CXLVII. Whoever, being the owner or occupier of any house, building, or land, within the Town, whether tenantable or otherwise, suffers the same to be in a filthy and unwholesome state, or overgrown with vegetation, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees, and to a penalty not exceeding ten Rupees for every day after conviction for such offence during which the offence is continued.

Filthy houses, &c.

CXLVIII. The Justices may give notice to the owner or occupier of any land to trim or prune the hedges thereof bordering any public road or street, so that they may not exceed the height of seven feet from the level of the road; and to cut and trim all trees which by overhanging any public road or street obstruct the passage or cause damage thereto; and in the event of such notice not being complied with within eight days from the date thereof, the Justices may cause the said hedges and trees to be cut and trimmed in the manner required, and the expense incurred by the Justices in respect thereof shall be paid to them by the owners, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Power to trim hedges and trees bordering roads.

CXLIX. Whoever within the Town shall keep any pig-stye to the front of any street, not being shut out therefrom by a sufficient wall or fence, and whoever shall within the Town, without the permission of the Justices, keep more than ten swine or more than twenty sheep or goats, or ten horned cattle, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Keeping swine or cattle, &c.

CL. All public sewers and drains, and all sewers, drains, tunnels, and culverts in, alongside, or under the streets, existing at the time this Act comes into operation or afterwards made, and whether made at the cost of the Justices or otherwise, and all works, materials, and things appertaining thereto, shall be vested in and belong to the Justices.

Sewers, drains, &c., vested in the Justices.

CLI. The Justices, in making any main or other sewers for the drainage of the Town, may, if needful, carry such sewers through, across, or under any street, or any place laid out as, or intended for, a street, or any cellar or vault which may be under any of the streets, and (after reasonable notice in writing in that behalf) into, through, or under any inclosed or other land whatsoever, making full compensation for any damage done thereby; and if any dispute shall arise touching the amount or apportionment of such compensation, the same shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses.

Powers of Justices in making public sewers.

CLII. The Justices shall maintain, and from time to time repair, and as they see fit, enlarge, alter, arch-over, or otherwise improve, all or any of the sewers and drains vested in them by this Act: and may discontinue, close up, or destroy such of them as they may deem useless or unnecessary. Provided that if, by reason of any thing done under this Section, any person is deprived of the lawful use of any sewer or drain, the Justices shall, at a place within one hundred feet of the sewer or drain of the use of which he is deprived, provide the means of drainage into some public sewer, tidal river, or other place into which the Justices are empowered to empty their sewers, and thereupon the owner shall make a drain leading thereunto, of such materials, of such size, at such level, and with such fall, as the Justices shall direct; and if he neglect to do so within a reasonable time, the Justices may cause the same to be done, and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the owner, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Justices to repair and alter and close sewers.

Proviso.

Cleansing and emptying sewers.

CLIV. When the contents of any sewer or drain, or any other flow or filth or refuse, are discharged into any river or stream, in the bed or channel of which the quantity of water at any season of the year is so much diminished by natural or artificial causes as to be insufficient to keep such channel clean or clear, the Justices, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, so far as the funds at their disposal will admit, shall make such alteration in the bed of such river or stream as may prevent such sewer and drain-water from spreading over the surface of such bed, or from accumulating and stagnating in parts thereof to the injury of health or the annoyance of the surrounding population.

Bed of stream receiving sewerage to be cleared.

CLV. Whoever, without the written consent of the Justices first obtained, makes or causes to be made any drain into any of the sewers or drains vested in the Justices by this Act, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees; and the Justices may cause such branch-drain to be demolished, altered, re-made, or otherwise dealt with as they shall think fit; and all the expense incurred thereby shall be paid by the person making such branch-drain, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Penalty for making unauthorized drains into public sewers.

CLVI. No building shall be newly erected over any sewer or drain vested in the Justices by this Act, without their written consent; and if any building be so erected, the Justices may cause such building to be pulled down, or otherwise dealt with as they may think fit; and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the person offending and be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Building over sewers, &c., not to be erected without consent of the Justices.

Justices empowered to make drains from houses which are not properly drained.

think necessary for the draining of such house or building; and the expenses incurred by the Justices in respect thereof, if not forthwith paid by the owner, shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Level of houses hereafter built within the Town.

CLVIII. No house or building shall be hereafter built within the Town upon a lower level than will allow of the drainage of such house or building being led into some public sewer either then existing or projected, or into some tidal river or other place into which the Justices are empowered to empty their sewers.

Houses hereafter built to have drains constructed under the orders of the Justices.

CLIX. If any house or building, newly erected or re-built within the Town after this Act comes into operation, have such means of drainage, as in the last preceding Section mentioned, existing within one hundred feet thereof, the owner shall make a drain leading thereunto from the site of such house or building, of such materials, of such size, at such level, and with such fall, as the Justices may direct; and if he neglect to do so within a reasonable time, the Justices may cause the same to be done, and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the owner and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Notice of new buildings to be given to the Justices.

CLX. Before beginning, within the town, to build or re-build any house, the person intending to build or re-build such house shall give to the Justices notice thereof in writing, and shall accompany such notice with a plan, shewing the levels at which the foundation and lowest floor of such house are proposed to be laid, by reference to some level ascertained under the direction of the Justices.

Justices to signify disapproval within fourteen days.

CLXI. Within fourteen days after receiving such notice, the Justices shall signify their approval of the proposed levels, or, if they disapprove thereof, they shall fix other levels in lieu thereof within the same time.

Houses built without notice, or contrary to provisions of this Act, may be altered by the Justices.

CLXII. If such building be begun or made without sending such notice and plan, or at any levels different from those fixed by the Justices within the said fourteen days, or in any other respect contrary to the provisions of this Act, the Justices may, if necessary, cause such building to be altered or demolished as the case may require; and the expense thereby incurred shall be paid by the person failing to comply with the provisions aforesaid, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

If Justices fail to signify approval, &c., within fourteen days, parties may proceed without.

CLXIII. If the Justices fail to signify in writing their approval or disapproval of the levels shewn on such plan as aforesaid, and to fix other levels within fourteen days after receiving such notice and plan as aforesaid, the person giving such notice may, notwithstanding any thing hereinbefore contained, proceed to build or re-build the house therein referred to according to the levels shewn on such plan, provided that such building or re-building be otherwise in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

Sewers in streets to be covered with traps, &c.

CLXIV. All sewers and drains in streets, whether public or private, shall be provided by the Justices, or by the persons to whom they severally belong, with proper traps or other coverings or means of ventilation so as to prevent stench. If the owner of any private sewer or drain shall, for ten days after notice given to him by the Justices, neglect or delay to provide proper traps or coverings or means of ventilation as aforesaid, the Justices may forthwith provide and apply the same; and the expense incurred thereby shall be paid by the owner of such sewer or drain, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Power of Justices to erect or affix to building pipes for ventilation of sewers.

CLXV. The Justices may erect on or fix to any house or building such pipes as they may deem necessary for the proper ventilation of the sewers belonging to them, and such pipes shall be carried to a height of not less than six feet above the highest part of the house or building, and erected so as not to occasion any nuisance or inconvenience to any house or building in the neighbourhood.

Throwing rubbish into sewers.

CLXVI. Whoever throws or puts, or permits his servants to throw or put, any earth, dirt, ashes; garden, kitchen, or stable refuse; or any broken glass or earthen-ware, or other rubbish, or, until suitable sewers shall be provided, any night-soil, into any sewer or drain belonging to any of the Justices, or into any drain communicating therewith, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for each offence.

Common necessaries.

CLXVII. The Justices may provide and maintain in proper and convenient situations, so as not to create a nuisance, common necessaries and urinals, and shall cause the same, when provided, to be kept in proper order and to be daily cleansed.

Licensing of public necessaries, and tola Mether's depôts.

CLXVIII. The Justices may license, for any period not exceeding one year, such necessaries for public accommodation, and such tola mehters' depôts, as they, from time to time, may think proper; and whoever keeps any public necessary, or any tola mehter's depôt without such license, or, having a license for a public necessary or tola mehter's depôt, suffers the same to be in a filthy or noxious state, or neglects to employ proper means for cleaning the same, shall, on conviction before a Justice of the Peace, be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees, and the license may be cancelled by the Justice before whom the person is convicted. Provided also that it shall be lawful for the Justices at any time, on giving one month's notice, to cancel any license granted under this Section, if it shall seem proper to them to cancel it.

Neglecting to enclose private privy.

CLXIX. The owner or occupier of any house or building having a privy on his premises, shall have such privy shut out by a

Branch-drains, privies, &c., to be under the control of the Justices, and to be kept in good order by owners.

CLXX. All branch-drains, as well within as without the lands or buildings to which they belong, and all privies and cess-pools within the Town, shall be under the survey and control of the Justices, and shall be altered, repaired, and kept in proper order at the costs and charges of the owners of the lands and buildings to which the same belong, or for the use of which they are constructed or continued; and if the owner of any land or buildings to which any such drain, privy, or cess-pool belongs, neglect, during eight days after notice in writing for that purpose, to alter, repair, and put the same into good order in the manner required by the Justices, the Justices may cause such drain, privy, or cess-pool to be altered, repaired, and put in good order, and the expense incurred by the Justices in respect thereof, shall be paid by the owner, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

If owners neglect, Justices may cause the same to be done and charge the owners with the expense.

Penalty for persons making or altering drains, &c., contrary to the orders of the Justices.

CLXXI. If any such drain, privy, or cess-pool be constructed, after this Act comes into operation, contrary to the directions and regulations of the Justices or contrary to the provisions of this Act, or if any person, without the consent of the Justices, constructs, re-builds, or unstops, any drain, privy, or cess-pool which has been ordered by them to be demolished or stopped up, or not to be made, every person so doing shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees; and the Justices may cause such amendment or alteration to be made in any such drain, privy, or cess-pool, as they think fit; and the expense thereof shall be paid by the person by whom such drain, privy, or cess-pool was improperly constructed, re-built, or unstopped, and shall be recoverable from him as hereinafter provided.

Inspection of drains, privies, and cess-pools.

CLXXII. The Justices, or any Officer appointed by them for the purpose, may inspect any such drain, privy, or cess-pool, and for that purpose, at any time between sunrise and sunset, after one hour's notice in writing to the occupier of the premises to which such drain, privy, or cess-pool is attached, may enter upon any lands and buildings, with such assistants and workmen as are necessary, and cause the ground to be opened where they or he may think fit, doing as little damage as may be; and if, upon such inspection, it appears that the drain, privy, or cess-pool is not in good order and condition, or that it has been constructed after this Act comes into operation contrary to the provisions thereof, the expenses of such inspection shall be paid by the person to whom such drain, privy, or cess-pool may belong, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided; but if the drain, privy, or cess-pool be found to be in proper order and condition, and not to have been constructed in violation of the provisions of this Act, the Justices or Officer as aforesaid shall cause the ground to be closed and made good as soon as may be; and the expenses of opening, closing, and making good, such drain, privy, or cess-pool, shall, in that case, be defrayed by the Justices. Provided always that nothing hereinbefore contained shall authorize an entry into the zenanas or private apartments appropriated to the females of Hindoo and Mussulman families, for the purpose of such inspection, except by the agency of women.

Proviso.

Service of notice on owners and occupiers of buildings and lands.

CLXXIII. Where any notice is required by this Act to be given to the owner or occupier, of any building or land, such notice, addressed to the owner or occupier, as the case may require, may be served on the occupier of such building or land, or left with some adult male member or servant of his family, or, if the notice cannot be so served, or if there be no occupier, may be put up on some conspicuous part of such building or land, and it shall not be necessary in any such notice to name the occupier or the owner. Provided always that, when the owner and his residence are known to the Justices, it shall be their duty, if such owner be residing within the limits of their authority, to cause every notice, required to be given to the owner of any building or land, to be served on such owner or left with some adult male member or servant of his family; and, if the owner be not resident within such limits, they shall send every such notice by post addressed to his residence, and proof of delivery of the notice at the Post Office shall be held to be due service of the same.

Justices, in default of owner or occupier, may execute works and recover expenses.

CLXXIV. Whenever, under the provisions of this Act, any work is required to be executed by the owner or occupier of any building or land, and default is made in the execution of such works, the Justices, whether any penalty is or is not provided for such default, may cause such work to be executed; and the expense thereby incurred shall be paid to them by the person by whom such work ought to have been executed, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Power to levy charges on occupier, who may deduct the same from his rent.

CLXXV. If the defaulter be the owner of the building or land, the Justices may, by way of additional remedy, whether any action or proceeding has been brought or taken against any such owner or not, require the payment of all or any part of the expenses payable by the owner for the time being, from the person who then or at any time thereafter occupies the building or land under such owner, and, in default of payment thereof by such occupier on demand, the same may be levied by distress of the goods and chattels of such occupier; and every such occupier shall be entitled to deduct, from the rent payable by him to his landlord, so much as is so paid by or recovered from him in respect of any such expenses.

Occupier not to be liable for more than the amount of rent due.

CLXXVI. No occupier of any building or land shall be liable to pay more money, in respect of any expenses charged by this Act on the owner thereof, than the amount of rent due from him, for the premises in respect of which such expenses are payable, at the time of the demand made upon him, or which at any time after such demand has accrued and become payable by him, unless he neglect or refuse, upon application made to him for that purpose by the Justices, truly to disclose the amount of his rent and the name and address of the person to whom such rent is payable; but the burden of proof that the sum demanded of any such occupier is greater than the rent which was due by him at the time of such demand or which has since accrued, shall lie upon such occupier; provided further that nothing herein contained shall be taken to affect any special contract, made between any such owner or occupier, respecting the payment of the expenses of any such works as aforesaid.

Occupier, in default of owner, may execute works and deduct expenses from his rent.

CLXXVII. Whenever default is made by the owner of any building or land, in the execution of any work required to be executed by him, the occupier of such building or land may, with the approval of the Justices, cause such work to be executed, and the expense thereof shall be paid to him by the owner, or the amount may be deducted out of the rent from time to time becoming due from him to such owner.

Proceedings in case of tenants opposing the execution of this Act.

CLXXVIII. If the occupier of any building or land prevent the owner thereof from carrying into effect, in respect of such building or land, any of the provisions of this Act, after notice of his intention so to do has been given by the owner to such occupier, any Justice of the Peace, upon proof thereof, may give an order in writing, requiring such occupier to permit the owner to execute all such works, with respect to such building or land, as may be necessary for carrying into effect the provisions of this Act; and if, after the expiration of eight days from the date of the order, such occupier continue to refuse to permit such owner to execute such works, such occupier shall, for every day during which he so continues to refuse, be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees; and every such owner, during the continuance of such refusal, shall be discharged from any penalties to which he might otherwise have become liable by reason of his default in executing such works.

Tanks, &c., vested in the Justices.

CLXXIX. All public tanks, reservoirs, cisterns, wells, aqueducts, conduits, tunnels, pipes, pumps, and other water-works, existing at the time this Act comes into operation or afterwards made, laid, or erected, and whether made, laid, or erected at the cost of the Justices or otherwise, and all bridges, buildings, engines, works, materials, and things, connected therewith or appertaining thereto, and also any adjacent land (not being private property) appertaining to any public tank, shall be vested in and belong to the Justices.

Construction and maintenance of works for supply of water.

CLXXX. The Justices shall cause all existing public tanks, reservoirs, cisterns, wells, aqueducts, conduits, tunnels, pipes, pumps, and other water-works used for the supply of water to the inhabitants or for the other purposes mentioned in this Act, to be continued, maintained, and supplied with water; or they shall substitute other such works, and shall cause them to be maintained and supplied with water; and the Justices may, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, from time to time, construct aqueducts and lay pipes for bringing water into the Town, and may provide any number of new tanks, reservoirs, cisterns, wells, and other such water-works for the purpose aforesaid.

Fouling water by—Bathing.

Washing animals or things, &c.

Throwing rubbish, &c.

Allowing drains, &c., to flow into.

Water fouled by offensive trades.

CLXXXII. Whoever, being the proprietor of any gas-works, or being engaged or employed in the manufacture or supply of gas, or being the occupier or proprietor of any place where an offensive trade or manufacture is carried on, wilfully does any act connected with the said business, whereby the water in any stream, tank, reservoir, well, cistern, conduit, aqueduct, or other water-works, belonging to the Justices, is fouled or corrupted, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one thousand Rupees, and to a further penalty, not exceeding five hundred Rupees, for every day while the offence is continued after twenty-four hours' notice in writing from the Justices in this behalf, and the Justices may, after twenty-four hours' notice in writing, lay open and examine any pipes, conduits, and works belonging to such persons; and if, upon such examination, it appears that the water has been fouled or corrupted by any thing proceeding from or contained in the pipes, conduits, or works examined, the expenses of such examination shall be paid by the person to whom such pipes, conduits, or works belong, or under whose management or control they may be, and be recoverable from him as hereinafter provided; but if it appear that the water has not been so fouled or corrupted, then such expenses, and all damages occasioned by the examination, shall be paid by the Justices.

Injuring water-works or diverting or wasting water.

CLXXXIII. Whoever wilfully or carelessly injures any water-works belonging to the Justices, or unlawfully draws off, diverts, or takes water from any such water-works, or from any water or streams, belonging to the Justices, by which such water-works are supplied, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Justices may set apart bathing places, &c.

CLXXXIV. The Justices may, at their discretion, set apart any public ghaut or place, or any part of the strand of any river (not being private property), for the purpose of being used as a bathing place; and may also provide or set apart a sufficient number of convenient tanks or runs of water for the inhabitants to bathe in, and may also set apart tanks or reservoirs, or runs of water, for washing animals or clothes, or for any other purpose connected with the health, cleanliness, and comfort of the inhabitants.

Bye-laws to regulate—

CLXXXV. The Justices may, in the manner hereinafter provided, make bye-laws—

The use of water.

For regulating all or any matters and things whatsoever connected with the water to be supplied by them, and the use of such water for any of the purposes mentioned in this Act;

Bathing places.

And for regulating the time and places of bathing for persons of each sex in the places provided or appointed by them for the purpose of bathing, in such manner as shall appear to the Justices necessary, making due allowance for the habits and customs of the country.

Power to fill up unwholesome tanks, &c., on private premises.

CLXXXVI. When any private tank or low marshy ground, or any waste or stagnant water, being within any private enclosure, appears to the Justices to be injurious to health, or to be offensive to the neighbourhood, it shall be lawful for the Justices to require, by notice in writing, the owner of the said premises to cleanse or fill up such tank or marshy ground, or to drain off or remove such stagnant water; and if he shall refuse or neglect to comply with such requisition during eight days from the service thereof, the Justices, their Officers, and workmen, may enter into the said premises, and do all necessary acts for all or any of the purposes aforesaid, as they shall think fit; and the expense incurred thereby shall be paid by the owner of such premises, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Power to drain off and cleanse stagnant pools in open places.

CLXXXVII. The Justices are hereby empowered, from time to time, as they shall see fit, to drain off into any sewers belonging to them, and cleanse and fill up or otherwise abate, any stagnant pool, ditch, tank, pond, or other receptacle of water (the same not being within any private enclosure), which shall appear to them to be useless or unnecessary, or likely to prove injurious to the health of the inhabitants, whether the same be the private property of any person or otherwise; and the Justices, their Officers, and workmen, may do all necessary acts for effecting any of the purposes aforesaid.

Justices in executing works, to provide roads, &c., where existing ones are injured.

CLXXXVIII. The Justices, in executing any works directed or authorized by this Act to be made, shall provide and make, at their own expense, a sufficient number of convenient ways, watercourses, drains, and channels in the place of such as may be interrupted, injured, or rendered useless by reason of the execution of such works; and, in case of any difference arising between the Justices respectively and the persons affected thereby, such difference shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses.

Justices breaking up street to restore the same with all convenient speed.

CLXXXIX. When the pavement or surface of any street, or when any sewer or drain, shall be opened or broken up by the Justices, their Officers, or servants, they shall, with all convenient speed, complete the work on account of which the same shall have been broken up, and fill in the ground, and make good the pavement and surface, and the sewer or drain, so opened or broken up, and carry away the rubbish occasioned thereby; and shall, in the meantime, cause the place where such pavement or surface shall be so opened or broken up, to be fenced and guarded, and sufficiently lighted during the night.

Situation of gas and water-pipes to be altered at the expense of the Justices.

CXC. If the Justices deem it necessary for the purposes of this Act to raise, sink, or otherwise alter, the situation of any water-pipe or gas-pipe, or other water-works, or gas-works, laid in any of the streets, they may, from time to time, by notice in writing, require the person to whom any such pipes or works belong or under whose control they may be, to cause forthwith, or as soon as conveniently may be, any such pipes or works to be raised, sunk, or otherwise altered in position, in such manner as the Justices direct; provided that such alteration be not such as permanently to injure such works, or to prevent the water or gas from flowing as freely and conveniently as before; and the expenses attending such raising, sinking, or altering, and full compensation for the damage done thereby, shall be paid by the Justices, as well to the persons to whom such pipes or works belong, as to all other persons. And if any dispute shall arise touching the amount or apportionment of such compensation, the same shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses.

If owner, &c., neglect to make alterations, the Justices may cause the same to be made.

CXCI. If the person to whom any such pipes or works belong or under whose control they may be, do not proceed forthwith, or as soon as conveniently may be after the receipt of such notice, to cause the same to be raised, sunk, or altered, in such manner as the Justices require, the Justices may themselves cause such pipes or works to be raised, sunk, or altered, as they may think fit, provided that such works be not permanently injured thereby or the water or gas prevented from flowing as freely and conveniently as before.

CXCII. Every person intending to build or take down any building, or to alter or repair the outward part of any building, where any street or footway will be obstructed or rendered inconvenient by means of such work, shall, before beginning the same, and having first obtained a license in writing from the Justices so to do, cause sufficient hoards or fences to be put up, in order to separate the building, where such works are being carried on, from the street or footway, and shall continue such hoard or fence standing and in good condition, to the satisfaction of the Justices, during such time as the public safety or convenience requires, and shall cause the same to be sufficiently lighted during the night; and every such person who begins to build, or to take down, or alter, or repair, any building contrary to the provisions of this Section, or who, without license, erects or sets up any hoards, scaffolding, or fence whatsoever, or who, being licensed, fails to put up such fence or hoard, or to continue the same standing and in good condition as aforesaid during the time aforesaid, or who does not, while the said hoards or fences are standing, keep the same sufficiently lighted during the night, or who does not remove the same when directed by the Justices within eight days, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees, and a further penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for every day while the offence is continued, after twenty-four hours' notice from the said Justices.

Hoards to be set up during repairs.

CXCIII. The Justices shall, during the construction or repair by them of any of the streets, sewers, or drains vested in them, take proper precaution for guarding against accident, by shoring up and protecting the adjoining houses, and shall cause such bars, chains, or posts to be fixed across or in any of the streets, to prevent the passage of carriages, carts, or other vehicles, cattle or horses, while such works are carried on, as to them shall seem proper; and the Justices shall cause any sewer or drain or other works in streets, during the construction or repair thereof by them, to be sufficiently lighted and guarded during the night; and whoever takes down, alters, or removes, any of the said bars, chains, or posts, or extinguishes any light, without the authority or consent of the Justices, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees.

Bars to be erected across streets during repairs, and lights placed at night.

CXCIV. No persons shall deposit any building materials, or make a hole in any street, without the permission of the Justices; and when such permission is granted to any person, he shall, at his own expense, cause such materials, or such hole, to be sufficiently fenced and enclosed until the materials are removed, or the hole is filled up or otherwise made secure; and shall cause the same to be sufficiently lighted during the night; and whoever deposits materials or makes a hole without such permission, or fails to fence or enclose and light such materials or hole, or does not remove such materials or fill up such hole when the permission has been withdrawn, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees, and a further penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for every day while the offence is continued, after twenty-four hours' notice from the Justices.

Penalty for not lighting deposits of building materials or excavations.

CXCV. If any building, tank, well, or hole, or other place, be, for want of sufficient repair, protection, or enclosure, dangerous to passengers, the Justices shall cause the same to be repaired, protected, or enclosed, so as to prevent danger therefrom; and the expenses of such repair, protection, or enclosure shall be paid to the Justices by the owner of the property so repaired, protected, or enclosed, and shall be recoverable as hereinafter provided.

Dangerous places near streets to be repaired or enclosed

CXCVI. No place shall be used as a slaughter-house within the Town, unless a license in writing for the use thereof as a slaughter-house has been obtained from the Justices, who are hereby empowered, at their discretion, from time to time, to grant such licenses; and whoever, without such license, uses as a slaughter-house any place within the Town, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees, and to a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for every day after the conviction for such offence, during which the said offence is continued.

No place shall be used as a slaughter-house without a license from the Justices.

CXCVII. The Justices may, from time to time, if they shall think fit, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, provide places for the purpose of being used as slaughter-houses, and they may, in the manner hereinafter provided, make bye-laws for and with respect to the management, regulation, and charges for the use of such places.

Justices to provide places for slaughter-houses.

CXCVIII. Every owner or occupier or farmer of any market for the sale of butcher's meat, poultry, fish, or vegetables, or of any slaughter-house, within the Town, shall cause such drains to be made therein as shall be considered sufficient by the Justices, and (if required so to do by the Justices) shall cause all the floors and drains to be paved with stone or burnt brick, and shall also cause a supply of water to be provided sufficient for keeping such market or slaughter-house in a clean and wholesome state; and if such owner, occupier, or farmer, after notice in writing given to him by the Justices that such market or slaughter-house is defective in any of the said particulars, and requiring him to remedy the defect specified within not less than thirty days, makes default therein, he shall be liable to a penalty, not exceeding fifty Rupees, for every day during which such default is continued.

Markets, slaughter-houses, &c., to be properly drained.

CXCIX. The Justices may, in manner hereinafter provided, make bye-laws for the inspection of all such markets and of all slaughter-houses within the Town, and for the management and conduct of the business therein, and for keeping the same in a cleanly and proper state, and for removing filth at least once every twenty-four hours.

Justices may make bye-laws for the inspection of slaughter-houses.

CC. It shall be lawful for any Justice of the Peace, on the application of the Justices or any of their Officers, setting forth that there is just cause to believe that any article, which has been rendered or has become noxious or unfit for use as food or drink for man, is in the possession of any person for the purpose of being sold or offered or exposed for sale within the Town as food or drink for man, to grant a warrant to enter upon the premises of such person, and to search for and seize such article, and if it appear to the said Justice, upon the evidence of a competent person, that the same is noxious or unfit for such use, he shall order such article to be forfeited and disposed of in such way as to him shall seem proper.

Sale of unwholesome food or drink.

Power to Justices to enter and inspect slaughter-houses, shops, &c., and to seize unwholesome articles exposed for sale.

CCI. The Justices, or any person appointed by them for that purpose, may at all reasonable times, with or without assistants, enter into and inspect any market, building, shop, stall, or place used for the sale of butcher's meat, poultry, fish, or vegetables, or as a slaughter-house, and may examine any animal, carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, or vegetables which may be therein; and in case any animal, carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, or vegetables appear to be intended for the food of man and to be unfit for such food, may seize the same; and if it appear to a Justice of the Peace, upon the evidence of a competent person, that such animal, carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, or vegetables is unfit for the food of man, he shall order the same to be destroyed, or to be so disposed of as to prevent its being exposed for sale or used for such food, and the owner thereof, or the person in whose possession the same is found, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

Suspension or revocation of license, &c.

CCII. The Justice of the Peace, before whom any person is convicted of an offence contrary to the provisions of this Act relating to slaughter-houses, or of the non-observance of any of the bye-laws relating thereto made by virtue of this Act, in addition to the penalty imposed on such person under the authority of this Act, may suspend, for any period not exceeding two months, the license granted to such person under this Act; and the said Justice, upon the conviction of any person for a second or other subsequent like offence, in addition to the penalty imposed under the authority of this Act, may declare the license granted under this Act revoked.

Penalty for using slaughter-houses during suspension or revocation of license.

CCIII. Whoever, during the period for which any such license is suspended, or after the same is revoked as aforesaid, slaughters cattle, or allows cattle to be slaughtered in the slaughter-house to which such license relates, shall be liable to a penalty, not exceeding one hundred Rupees, for every day, after the conviction for such offence, during which the said offence is continued.

Certain offensive and dangerous trades carried on within the Town, to be registered.

CCIV. The owner or occupier of every place within the Town, used at the time this Act comes into operation for any of the following purposes, namely, for melting tallow—or for boiling offal or blood—or as a soap-house—oil-boiling house—dyeing house—tannery—brick, pottery, or lime-kiln—sago manufactory—or other manufactory or place of business from which offensive or unwholesome smells arise—or as a yard or depôt for hay, straw, wood, or coal—shall, within three months after this Act comes into operation, register the same at the Office of the Justices, in a book to be kept by them for that purpose; and whoever, after the expiration of the said three months and after eight days' notice from the Justices, uses any such place without the same being registered, shall be liable to a penalty, not exceeding one hundred Rupees, for every day during which the offence is continued.

Penalty for establishing such trades without license.

CCV. No place shall be newly used within the Town for any of the purposes mentioned in the last preceding Section, except under a license from the Justices, who are hereby empowered, at their discretion, from time to time, to grant such licenses, and whoever, without a license, uses any such place for such purpose, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five hundred Rupees, and a penalty not exceeding fifty Rupees for every day after the conviction for such offence, during which the said offence is continued.

Justices to make rules for licensing, registering, &c., places used for such trades.

CCVI. The Justices may, in the manner hereinafter provided, make bye-laws for the inspection of every place within the Town used for any of the purposes mentioned in Section CCIV, and for the management and conduct of such business, whether the same be newly established or not, in such manner as they may think necessary and proper, in order to prevent or diminish the noxious or injurious or offensive effect thereof.

Justices may, in certain cases, order the use of slaughter-houses and the carrying on of dangerous and offensive trades, to be discontinued.

Burial and burning grounds to be registered.

CCVIII. The Justices may, if they think fit, cause a survey and measurement to be made of every burial ground and every place used as such; and every such place, and every burning ground, existing at the time this Act comes into operation, shall, within one month after this Act shall have come into operation, be registered by the owner or the person having the control thereof, or, if there be no owner or person authorised to control the same, by order of the Justices, in a book to be kept by them for that purpose; and whoever, after the expiration of the said time, knowingly buries or burns, or causes, procures, or suffers to be buried or burned, any corpse in or on any ground not so registered as a burial or burning ground, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding one hundred Rupees.

No vault or burial or burning place henceforth to be constructed without leave of the Justices.

CCIX. No vault or grave shall be made within the walls of, or underneath, any church or chapel or other place of public worship built after this Act comes into operation, and no burial or burning ground, whether public or private, shall be opened, made, or formed after this Act comes into operation, otherwise than by or under the authority of the Government of Bengal, without a license, describing the extent and boundaries thereof, first obtained from the Justices, who are hereby empowered, at their discretion, from time to time, to grant such licenses; and whoever shall bury or burn, or cause, permit, or suffer to be buried or burned, any corpse in any vault, grave, or burial or burning ground, opened, made, or formed without such license or contrary to the terms thereof, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five hundred Rupees.

Justices to issue certificates prohibiting the use of improper burial and burning places.

CCX. If, upon the evidence of competent persons, the Justices, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, shall certify, in manner hereinafter provided, that any burial ground or place of burial, or any place used for the burning of corpses, is in such a state as to be dangerous to the health of persons living in the neighbourhood thereof, or that any church or other place of public worship is dangerous to the health of persons frequenting the same, by reason of the state of the vaults or graves within the walls of, or underneath, the same, or in any church-yard or burial ground adjacent thereto, and shall also certify that a fitting place for interment or burning (as the case may be) exists within a convenient distance and is available, it shall not be lawful, after a time (not less than two months) to be named in such certificate, to bury or burn, or permit or suffer to be buried or burned, any corpses in, upon, within, or under the ground, church, or place of worship to which the certificate relates, except in so far as may be allowed by such certificate; and whoever, after due publication of such certificate as hereinafter provided, buries or burns, or causes, permits, or suffers to be buried or burned, any corpse contrary to this enactment, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees. Provided always that every such certificate shall be published in the Government Gazette, and that a translation thereof in Bengalee shall, in the case of a burial or burning ground, be affixed conspicuously on some part of the said ground.

Proviso.

Justices may, in certain cases, permit interment in churches, &c.

CCXI. Notwithstanding any such certificate as in the preceding Section mentioned, where by usage or otherwise there is at the time this Act comes into operation any right of interment in or under any church or chapel, or in any vault of such church or chapel, or of any church-yard, burial ground, or place of burial affected by such certificate, or where any exclusive right of interment, or any exclusive right to ground for the purpose of interment, has been purchased or acquired before this Act comes into operation, it shall be lawful for the Justices, if, on application made to them, they are satisfied that the exercise of such right or the use of such ground will not be injurious to health, to grant a license for such exercise or use, during such time and subject to such conditions and restrictions as they may think fit.

Justices may provide places to be used as burial or burning grounds.

CCXII. The Justices may, from time to time, out of the Municipal Fund, with the sanction of the Government of Bengal, provide fitting places to be used as burial or burning grounds.

Justices to make bye-laws for regulation of burial and burning grounds.

CCXIII. The Justices may, in manner hereinafter provided, make bye-laws for the inspection and regulation of burial and burning grounds, and may thereby prescribe rules as to the depth of graves and places of interment, and generally as to all matters connected with the good order of burial and burning grounds, due regard being had to the religious usages of the several classes of the community.

Power to enter upon lands for the purposes of this Act.

CCXIV. The Justices shall, for the purposes of this Act, have power, by themselves or their Officers, between sunrise and sunset, to enter into and upon any building or land, as well for the purpose of making any survey or inspection which they may be entitled to make, as for the purpose of executing any work authorized by this Act to be executed by them, without being liable to any legal proceedings or molestation whatsoever on account of such entry or of any thing done in any part of such building or land in pursuance of this Act. Provided that, except when herein otherwise provided, the Justices or their Officers shall not enter upon any building or land which may be occupied at the time, unless with the consent of the occupier thereof, without previously giving the said occupier twenty-four hours' notice of his or their intention to do so.

Proviso.

Power to Justices to enter on lands adjacent to works.

CCXV. The Justices, or their Officers or servants, may enter upon the land of any person adjoining to, or being within the distance of one hundred yards of, any works by this Act authorized to be made, for the purpose of depositing upon such land, any soil, gravel, sand, lime, brick, stone, or other materials, or for any other purposes connected with the formation of the said works, without making any previous payment, tender, or deposit, doing as little damage as may be in the exercise of the several powers hereby granted to them, and making compensation for such temporary occupation or temporary damage of the said land to the owner and occupier thereof, from time to time, and as often as any such temporary occupation shall be taken or such temporary damage done, and making compensation to the owner also for the permanent injury (if any) to such land; and if any dispute shall arise touching the amount or apportionment of such compensation, the same shall be settled in the manner hereinafter provided for the settlement of disputes respecting damages and expenses. Provided that, before the Justices make any such temporary use as aforesaid of the land adjoining or lying near to the said works, they shall give fourteen days' notice of such their intention to the owners and occupiers of such land, and shall set apart, by sufficient fences, so much of the land as shall be required to be used as aforesaid, from the other land adjoining thereto.

Proviso.

Penalty for obstructing persons employed by the Justices in their duty.

CCXVI. Whoever at any time obstructs or molests any person employed by the Justices, or any person with whom they may have contracted under the provisions of this Act, in the performance and execution of their or his duty, or of any thing which they are respectively empowered or required to do by virtue or in consequence of this Act; or removes any mark set up for the purpose of indicating any level or direction necessary to the execution of works authorized by this Act, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding two hundred Rupees, or, in the discretion of the Justice of the Peace before whom he is convicted, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding two months.

Powers to be exercised by the Justices, when constructing drains and aqueducts without the Town.

CCXVII. For the purposes of laying pipes or constructing aqueducts for bringing water into the Town from any place without the limits thereof, or for the purpose of making sewers or drains to communicate with, or empty themselves into, any public sewer, lake, stream, canal, or water-course without the said limits, it shall be lawful, whenever a plan for laying any such pipes or constructing any such aqueduct, sewer, or drain shall have been approved by the Government of Bengal, for the Justices and their Officers, with such assistants as they may require, to exercise, in the laying of such pipes and construction of such aqueduct, sewer, or drain, throughout the line of country through which the said pipes, aqueduct, sewer, or drain are to run, all the powers which by this Act it is lawful for them to exercise within the Town, and which may be necessary for the laying of such pipes or the construction of such aqueduct, sewer, or drain, without being subject to any action or molestation whatever for so doing; and it shall also be lawful for any Magistrate of any district, through which the said pipes, aqueduct, sewer, or drain are to run, to exercise, in respect thereof, the like powers and jurisdiction within the limits of his own district, as it is, by this Act, lawful for a Justice of the Peace to exercise in respect of any work to be executed by the Justices within the Town.

Justices empowered to make bye-laws.

CCXVIII. It shall be lawful for the Justices, from time to time, to make bye-laws, and to repeal, alter, and amend the same, subject to the confirmation hereinafter mentioned, for the several purposes for which bye-laws are authorised by this Act to be made; and also to make bye-laws, and to repeal, alter, and amend the same, subject to such confirmation, for the guidance and control of persons employed by them and for preserving order and cleanliness in the Town, and for carrying out any of the purposes of this Act. Provided that no such bye-law shall be repugnant to any law in force, and that no penalty for any one infringement of such bye-law shall exceed twenty Rupees, and that, in the case of a continuing infringement, no penalty shall exceed ten Rupees for each day after notice from the Justices of such infringement.

Bye-laws to be confirmed.

CCXIX. No bye-law, or alteration of a bye-law, shall have effect until the same is confirmed by the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

Notice of confirmation.

CCXX. No bye-law, or alteration of a bye-law, shall be confirmed until the same has been published in the Government Gazette in English and in Bengalee at least seven times, nor till the space of one month has elapsed since the date of the first publication, during which period a copy of such proposed bye law shall be kept at the Office of the Justices; and all persons may, at any time between ten o'clock in the morning and five o'clock in the afternoon, inspect such copy without fee or reward.

Publication of bye-laws.

CCXXI. Such bye-laws, when confirmed, shall be published in the Government Gazette in English and in Bengalee, and a copy thereof, in English and in Bengalee, shall be painted or placed on boards, which shall be hung up in some conspicuous part of the Office of the Justices.

Bye-laws to be judicially noticed.

CCXXII. All Courts and Magistrates shall take judicial notice of such bye-laws, when the same shall have been confirmed and published as aforesaid.

Publication of penalties.

CCXXIII. The Justices shall publish short particulars of the several offences for which any penalty is imposed by this Act, or by any bye-law made under this Act, and of the amount of every such penalty, and shall cause such particulars, in English, Bengalee, and Oordoo, to be painted or placed on boards, which shall be hung up in some conspicuous part of the Office of the Justices.

Justices may direct prosecutions.

CCXXIV. The Justices may direct any prosecution for any public nuisance whatsoever, and may order proceedings to be taken for the recovery of any penalties and for the punishment of any persons offending against the provisions of this Act, and may order the expenses of such prosecution or other proceedings to be paid out of the Municipal Fund. But nothing in this Section shall be held to hinder any person from prosecuting any other person for any nuisance.

Act not to affect nuisances at common law.

CCXXV. Nothing in this Act shall be construed to render lawful any act or omission on the part of any person, which is, or but for this Act would be deemed to be, a nuisance at common law, nor to exempt any person, guilty of a nuisance at common law, from prosecution or action in respect thereof.

No action to be brought against Justices or their Officers until after one month's notice of cause of action.

CCXXVI. No action shall be brought against the Justices, or any of their Officers, or any person acting under the direction of the Justices, for any thing done or intended to be done under the powers of this Act, until the expiration of one month next after notice in writing shall have been delivered or left at the Office of the Justices, or at the place of abode of such person, explicitly stating the cause of action, and the name and place of abode of the intended plaintiff, and of his attorney or agent in the cause; and upon the trial of any such action the plaintiff shall not be permitted to go into evidence of any cause of action, except such as is stated in the notice so delivered; and unless such notice be proved, the Court shall find for the defendant; and every such action shall be commenced within three months next after the accrual of the cause of action, and not afterwards; and if any person to whom any such notice of action is given shall, before action brought, tender sufficient amends to the plaintiff, such plaintiff shall not recover in any such action when brought; and if no such tender shall have been made, it shall be lawful for the defendant in such action, by leave of the Court where such action shall be pending, at any time before issue joined, to pay into Court such sum of money as he shall think fit, and thereupon such proceedings shall be had as in other cases where defendants are allowed to pay money into Court.

Power to make compensation out of the Municipal Fund.

CCXXVII. The Justices may make compensation, out of the Municipal Fund, to all persons sustaining any damage by reason of the exercise of any of the powers vested in the Justices, their Officers, or servants, under and by virtue of this Act.

Fees for licenses.

CCXXVIII. When any license is granted under the provisions of Sections CLXVIII or CXCVI of this Act, authorizing the use of any place for any of the purposes therein described, and when permission is given under Section CXXV for making any temporary erection, or under Section CXLI for putting up any projection, the Justices may charge a fee for such license or permission; and the rates of the fees to be so charged shall be from time to time adjusted by the Justices with the sanction of the Government, provided that no such fee shall exceed the sum of one hundred Rupees. When permission or license is given for the temporary occupation of any ground belonging to the Justices under the provisions of Section CXCII or Section CXCIV, the Justices may charge rent for such ground, according to the time the occupation may continue, at such rates as may, from time to time, be sanctioned by the Government of Bengal.

Damages and expenses how to be determined.

CCXXIX. In all cases where any damages, costs, or expenses are by this Act directed to be paid, the amount of the same, in case of dispute, shall be ascertained and determined by a Judge of the Calcutta Court of Small Causes.

Method of proceeding before a Judge of the Court of Small Causes.

CCXXX. In any case referred to a Judge of a Court of Small Causes under this Act, it shall be lawful for the said Judge, on the application of either party, to summon the other party to appear before him, at a time and place to be named in such summons, and every such summons shall be served by delivering the original, or a copy thereof, to the person summoned, or by leaving the same at his usual or last known place of abode, with some adult male member or servant of his family. Upon the appearance of the parties, or, in the absence of any of them, upon proof of due service of the summons, it shall be lawful for such Judge to hear and determine such question, and, for that purpose, to examine such parties or any of them, and their witnesses, on oath; and the costs of every such enquiry shall be in the discretion of such Judge, who shall determine the amount thereof.

Recovery of damages by distress.

CCXXXI. If the amount of damages, costs, or expenses, ascertained in the manner above described, be not paid by the party liable to pay the same, within seven days after demand, such amount may be recovered, under a warrant of the said Judge, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of such party; and the overplus arising from the sale thereof, after satisfying such amount and the costs of the distress and sale, shall be returned on demand to the party whose goods shall have been distrained.

Justices may sue in any competent Court instead of realizing by, or on failure of, distress.

CCXXXII. Instead of proceeding by distress or sale, and in case of failure to realize by distress the whole or any part of any expenses, charges, or damages awarded under the provisions of this Act, the Justices may sue the person liable to pay the same, in any Court of competent jurisdiction.

Recovery of fines and penalties.

CCXXXIII. Clause 1.—Every prosecution under this Act may be instituted before any Justice of the Peace, except in cases otherwise provided for, and every fine or penalty imposed under or by virtue of this Act or any bye-law made in pursuance thereof, may be recovered by a summary proceeding before a Justice of the Peace, upon information exhibited by order of the Justices, and, in default of payment of such fine or penalty, the same may be levied, under the warrant of such Justice of the Peace, by distress and sale of the goods of such offender, with all such powers for the issuing of such warrant and upon the return thereof, as are exercised by a Magistrate of Police under Act XIII of 1856 (for regulating the Police of the Towns of Calcutta, Madras, and Bombay) and Act XLVIII of 1860 (to amend Act XIII of 1856*)*, or any other Act for regulating the Police of the Town of Calcutta in force for the time being.

Proviso.

Clause 2.—Every prosecution under Clause 2 of Section XVII of this Act shall be instituted in such manner as a prosecution under Section CLXI of the Indian Penal Code would be instituted, and before such Magistrate or Court as shall have authority to entertain charges and prosecutions in reference to the said last mentioned Section, and not otherwise.

How fines and penalties are to be applied.

CCXXXIV. The Justice of the Peace by whom any fine or penalty is imposed by virtue of this Act, may award any portion, not being more than one-half thereof, to the informer, and shall order the remainder—or, if he makes no award to the informer, the whole of such fine or penalty,—to be paid to the Justices, to be by them applied to the purposes of this Act.

No person liable to fine or penalty unless complaint be made within two months after offence committed.

CCXXXV. No person shall be liable to any fine or penalty under this Act, for any offence made cognizable before a Justice of the Peace, unless the complaint respecting such offence shall have been made before a Justice of the Peace within two months next after the commission of such offence.

Damage to the Justices' property to be made good in addition to penalty.

CCXXXVI. If, through any act, neglect, or default, on account whereof any person shall have incurred any penalty imposed by this Act, any damage to the property of the Justices shall have been committed by such person, he shall be liable to make good such damage, as well as to pay such penalty; and the amount of such damage shall, in case of dispute, be determined by the Justice of the Peace by whom the party incurring such penalty shall have been convicted; and on non-payment of such damage on demand, the same shall be levied by distress, and such Justice of the Peace shall issue his warrant accordingly.

Police Officers to report offences to Justices and to arrest unknown offenders.

CCXXXVII. It shall be the duty of all Police Officers to give immediate information to the Justices, of any offence committed contrary to the provisions of this Act. Any Police Officer may arrest any person committing in his view any offence against any of the provisions of this Act, if the name and address of such person be unknown to him, or if such person decline to give his name and address, or if the Police Officer in question shall have reason to doubt the accuracy of such name and address, if given; and such person may be detained at the Station House until his name and address shall be correctly ascertained.

Certain provisions of this Act extended.

CCXXXVIII. If the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal shall have determined that any portion of the environs of the Town shall be included in the system of sewerage and drainage authorized by this Act, and if the said Lieutenant-Governor shall have declared the boundaries thereof by Notification in the Calcutta Gazette, then Sections CIV to CLXVI, both inclusive, of this Act, shall have effect within the boundaries so declared; and all such expenses and compensation as, under the said Sections and by the provisions of this Act, may be determined by a Judge of the Calcutta Court of Small Causes, may be ascertained and determined by the Judge of the Court of Small Causes having jurisdiction within such boundaries; and all penalties payable under the said Sections and under the provisions of this Act, shall be enforced in the manner prescribed by Section LXI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, before the Magistrate having jurisdiction within such boundaries.

Recovery of expense on account of improvements to private property.

Commencement of Act.

CCXL. This Act shall commence and take effect on and from the first day of July 1863.

A SUPPLEMENT to the GAZETTE will henceforward be published weekly or twice a week, according to circumstances, containing such Official Papers and Information as the Government of India may deem to be of interest to the Public, and such as may usefully be made known.

Non-Subscribers to the GAZETTE may receive the SUPPLEMENT separately on a payment of six Rupees per annum if delivered in Calcutta, or twelve Rupees if sent by Post.

No Official Orders or Notifications the publication of which in the GAZETTE is required by Law, or which it has been customary to publish in the GAZETTE, will be included in the SUPPLEMENT. For such Orders and Notifications the body of the GAZETTE must be looked to as heretofore.

Government of Madras.

Notes on the Propagation and Cultivation of the Medicinal Cinchonas or Peruvian Bark Trees.

IN submitting to the public a brief outline of our experience in the propagation and cultivation of these valuable plants, I would observe that I do not presume to furnish a perfect guide to their management, as little indeed is yet correctly known of the requirements of the plants under cultivation. My object is merely to place in the hands of all who are interested in the extension and increase of this valuable product a knowledge of the management of the plants in their earlier stages, or up to the period to which our experience in their cultivation extends. The Government of Madras has already placed the Cinchonas within the reach of the general public by authorising the distribution of the plants at the moderate rate of four annas each; it however has been felt that the distribution of the plants might in many instances lead to disappointment and failure, if unaccompanied by instructions for their cultivation and management.

2. Selection of sites for Plantations.—This is perhaps the most important task which has to be performed, as much of the future success of the plantations will depend on the suitability of the sites selected. In the first instance, the Cinchonas require rich forest land, the surface soil consisting of an open black or chocolate colored loam of from two to three feet in depth, resting upon an open sub-soil, in order to give efficient drainage, as nothing is so injurious to Cinchonas as stagnant water at the roots; therefore any land with a retentive sub-soil is altogether unsuited to their growth. The site must be well sheltered from prevailing winds; the necessity for this arises from the leaves of the Red and Grey Barks being so large and tender when young, that heavy gales of wind act on them with such force as not only to break and damage the leaves themselves, but to twist and seriously injure the plants. The Yellow and Crown Barks being small leaved species bear the wind better, and would grow in more exposed situations; a certain amount of shelter however is desirable for the successful cultivation of all the species.

3. Sites, Aspect.—The aspect of the plantations should be North or North-West; a North-East exposure will also be found suitable where the winds accompanying this monsoon are not severe. The reason why a northern exposure in these latitudes is beneficial, is from the fact that it is much more moist during the dry season than a southern aspect; because the sun's declination is southerly during our dry and cloudless season of the year, and thus on the northern slope the rays of the sun do not penetrate and parch the soil. A northern aspect has also the advantage of preserving a much more uniform temperature than a southern aspect, because the excessive radiation and evaporation on the southern slopes greatly reduces the temperature at night, while in the day they are heated to excess by the action of the sun's rays striking the surface at nearly right angles. The practical effects of aspect on the plants are so great that they cannot be overlooked with impunity, and in order to impress this upon the minds of all who may have the selection of localities for Cinchona cultivation, I mention that the difference of temperature is almost incredible; for example, at this elevation a thermometer laid on the surface of the southern face of a hill exposed to the sun at 3 P. M. will frequently indicate from 130° to 160° Fahr.: the same thermometer if left in its position and examined at 6 A. M. will generally be observed to indicate from 30° to 40° Fahr.: while on a similar slope if selected with a northern aspect the thermometer under the same circumstances at 3 P. M. will generally indicate 70° to 80° Fahr., and at 6 A. M. from 40° to 50° Fahr. All Authors agree that Cinchonas delight in an equable temperature; and this has been unmistakably established by the plants themselves under cultivation: the vital importance of aspect is therefore fully explained. While on this subject, it should be observed that a hollow or land-locked valley is also unsuitable to the cultivation of Cinchonas, because the cold air generated at night on the sides of the neighbouring hills being of greater specific gravity than the warm air rolls down and fills the valley, displacing the warm air and reducing the temperature of the valley to a degree injurious to the Cinchonas.

4. Sites, Rainfall.—A moderate amount of rain (from 60 to 100 inches in the year) following uniformly in showers at not too great intervals is most beneficial for the growth of Cinchonas; they delight above all things in showers and sunshine; this has been clearly illustrated by the rapid growth and fine healthy appearance which the plants assumed at Neddivuttum during the showery months of October and November. Long continued rain is decidedly injurious to the health of the plants, as also continued drought, but of the two, the latter is to be preferred, as the plants thrive well under artificial irrigation.

5. Elevations.—The best range from 4,500 to 7,500 feet, but different species require different elevations. Our experience indicating 4,500 to 6,000 feet as best suited for the 'Red,' 'Yellow,' and 'Grey,' Barks, and their varieties; while from 5,000 to 7,500 feet promises to be most favorable for the varieties of the "Crown Bark." These elevations are named from our observations on the Neilgherries, where an altitude of 4,500 feet in a sheltered locality gives a mean temperature of about 66° Fahr.: 6,000 feet giving a mean temperature of 59° Fahr., and 7,500 feet giving a mean temperature of about 53° Fahr. It may be mentioned that the temperature of any given locality is a more certain guide than elevation.

6. Plants in Wardian Cases.—In introducing the subject of cultivation I take the opportunity of impressing upon all who may receive Cinchona plants in Wardian cases the desirableness of placing them in the first instance under the protection of glass. If this be not available, the cases should be placed in a shady position, and opened only so much at a time as the plants will bear without flagging. So soon as the leaves of the plants are observed to flag, or droop, the cases should be immediately closed, and great care taken not to give the plants too much water at the roots, as this is apt to cause them to rot; in fact, the soil at the roots should always be kept rather dry than otherwise, the supply of moisture being kept up in the plant by frequently sprinkling the leaves with water. This treatment is only necessary until the roots assume a healthy and vigorous action, which will take place in from eight to twenty days, according to the length of time the plants have been confined in the Wardian cases.

7. Propagation.—It is of the utmost importance that a correct knowledge should be disseminated of the principles of propagation, as the increase and multiplication of every valuable plant forms an object of the utmost utility, as by such means only they can be produced in quantities sufficient fairly to test their advantages to mankind, and their commercial value. The Cinchonas are propagated by seeds, layers, cuttings, and buds.

8. Propagation by Seeds.—The Cinchona seeds previous to being sown should be steeped in cold water for about six or eight hours. As the seeds are very small, when removed from the water (which is effected by pouring both seeds and water into a muslin strainer) they should be mixed with their own bulk of fine dry sand, or powdered charcoal. The only difficulty in the successful management of Cinchona seeds is their impatience of any excess of moisture, and therefore it has been found necessary to take some trouble in the preparation of the soil for their reception; the method which we have pursued with the greatest advantage being as follows:—The soil used being composed of leaf mould, or the earth produced by rotten leaves, was sifted and mixed with four times its own volume of sand. The leaf mould was in the first instance exposed to the sun for two or three days, and thoroughly dried; it was then heated to about 212° Fahr., in order to destroy all grubs or larva of insects: after being allowed to cool, it was brought into the potting shed and watered sufficiently to make it noist, but only to that degree of moisture that the particles of soil would not adhere together when pressed firmly with the hand, that is the earth on being laid down was sufficiently dry to break and fall into its usual form. The leaf mould and sand in this state of moisture were mixed together, and the pots filled; the surface lightly pressed down, and the seeds sown thereon being covered with a sprinkling of sand. The pots were then plunged into beds of moist sand on a bottom heat of about 75° Fahr.: these were never watered in the strict sense of the word; when the surface became dry they were merely sprinkled with a fine syringe, just sufficient water being given to damp the surface, but never to penetrate or consolidate the soil; under this treatment the seeds began to germinate very strongly on the sixteenth day after sowing. The principal art appears to be to keep the soil in an uniform state of moisture, but never wet. The least excess of moisture causes the seeds to mould and damp off in thousands, while as a matter of course, if kept to dry, they become parched up. As soon as the seeds germinate they are carefully pricked out into fresh earth, (prepared as above described) this operation is a very delicate one; the radicle being carefully raised with a small pointed stick out of the original seed-pot is removed to the new pot and covered with soil, while the seed lobes are kept well above the surface. In this way from twenty-five to fifty seedlings are transplanted into a five-inch pot, and then treated in every respect the same as the seeds, that is, they are never watered, the surface being merely sprinkled and the pots plunged in beds of damp sand, as before stated, to keep the soil in that medium state of moisture in which it was when first placed in the pots. The necessity for this care is to prevent the seedlings from damping off, to which they are very liable when treated otherwise; it also greatly facilitates their growth and the formation of roots, the earth in which they are placed being so perfectly open that it is readily affected by the action of the atmosphere, and thus kept in the most favorable condition for promoting vegetation. When treated in this way our seedlings have made an average growth in one year of over thirty inches, while many of our seedlings which were raised and grown on a retentive soil have not attained the height of three inches in the same period.

9. Propagation by Layers.—As soon as the plants have attained a height of from 10 to 15 inches they are propagated by being layered as illustrated in Plate I; in this way they were found to root readily in about six weeks, or two months at the latest, and the plants by being bent down break or throw out shoots from every bud along the whole length of the stem, and not only this but many latent buds are developed and a fine growth of young wood produced for succeeding layers and cuttings; in this way each branch or shoot is treated as it gains sufficient size. The principle of layering we have adopted is somewhat different from that usually practised, as we found when cut the juice of the Cinchonas flowed so freely from the wound that if merely placed in the soil it was apt to cause mildew and rot. To remedy this a piece of perfectly dry brick is placed into the cut as soon as it is made; this absorbs the juice and effectually prevents the ill effects abovementioned. The layers when well rooted are removed from the parent plant, potted off, and kept in a close atmosphere for a few days until they become established. In removing the layers great care must be taken; for, if they are cut off before the shoots shown in Figure 2 at A and B have attained a good size, and their leaves fairly developed, the stock or parent plant is almost certain to die off. The reason of this is the sap flows into the plant with equal vigor, but cannot be elaborated because of the removal of the leaves attached to the layer, and consequently it ferments and causes rot in the parent plant.

10. Propagation by Cuttings.—Cuttings of from three to five inches in length if planted in beds in the open air and partially shaded will form roots in from three to five months, and when a rapid increase of the plants is not an object, this is perhaps the safest and cheapest plan of propagation; but where the object is to increase the plants rapidly, a propagating house as in Plate II is indispensable; the cost of a structure of the description and size given being from Rupees 800 to Rupees 1,000, where labour and material can be procured at a reasonable price. The plate above referred to gives full particulars of the construction and application of this structure, the fuel used by us being wood; the furnace is however equally well suited for the consumption of peat or coal. With the aid of a propagating house, the youngest wood that can be procured is the best adapted for making cuttings, as young tender shoots, a fortnight or three weeks old, form roots in a very short space of time; the majority of these cuttings being invariably rooted within a month. It is however difficult to deal with this description of wood, and to secure success requires a great amount of care. The earth in which these cuttings are placed is prepared as before described for the seeds; it is however kept a little drier. The cuttings on being made are placed around the sides of the pots, the cut end of each being pressed firmly on a piece of dry brick, as shown in the illustration in Plate III, Fig 3. Each pot contains from 20 to 25 cuttings, and as they are filled, they are immediately removed to the propagation frames, and plunged into beds of damp sand on a bottom heat of about 75° Fahr.

11. The cuttings are now carefully watched, the surface and the leaves being moistened by a fine syringe when the atmosphere in the frames appears dry; they are, however never watered, it being very necessary to ensure success to avoid this, as we have invariably found that when the earth is once watered it causes the cuttings to damp off, and seriously retards their rooting. The cause of this appears to be that the cuttings not only suffer from excess of damp, but when the soil is watered in the usual way after the cuttings are placed in the pots by its expansion and adhesion from the action of the water, its particles are forced far too close together to be beneficial for the development of roots. With young wood, our losses with cuttings has recently not averaged 3 per cent. In removing the cuttings from the stock plants, one or two pairs of leaves and buds should, if possible, be left between the plant and the part cut; this is done in order not to decrease the succeeding supplies of young wood, which would be the case if the cut was made close to the parent stem. Another circumstance very necessary to be attended to in order to ensure success is to be careful to place each cutting as it is made into the pot with the cut end on a piece of dry brick; this must be attended to, because where the cut is made the juice begins to flow, and this juice if not immediately absorbed by the dry brick causes mildew and rot. When the cuttings are placed in the frames, they are exposed to as much light as they can bear without flagging.

12. Propagation by Buds.—In December last it occurred to me that the plants could be successfully propagated by leaves with the bud attached, and as this method offered very considerable advantages in producing a large number of plants from a limited supply of wood, we resolved to attempt the experiment, which has been carried out most satisfactorily. Plate III., Fig. 4, illustrates the method by which this is accomplished; the whole secret of success depends entirely on the amount of moisture given: if this is supplied in excess they rot immediately, even in a day; but if sufficient care is exercised the losses will not exceed 3 or 4 per cent., and this percentage has not been exceeded in many thousands we have propagated in this way. By this method fine plants are obtained in every respect resembling strong healthy seedlings. The period required to form roots is nearly the same in all the species, varying from three to six weeks. In the figure above mentioned, the pot on the left represents six Cinchona Calisaya buds put in on the 30th January 1862, which were all rooted in 41 days after, being the date on which the drawing was made by Mr. Batcock. The drawing on the right represents a rooted bud of the Red Bark put in at the same time. It may be observed that it is not indispensable that a leaf be attached to the bud; this is no doubt a great advantage, although we have struck many buds without any leaf attached.

13. The usual way in which we prepare the buds is to remove the point of the shoots for a cutting; the stem is then divided near the middle of each internode, split down the centre, and immediately placed upon the brick in the pot: the bud itself being covered with about ¼ inch of soil, while the leaf of course projects above the surface. The pots are then plunged in damp sand and treated in every respect the same as the cuttings.

14. Nurseries, formation of, in the open air.—Terraces nearly horizontal (having only sufficient fall on one side to carry off the water) 80 to 100 yards in length and 7 feet in width, being cut along the face of a hill in a succession of steps, as illustrated in Plate IV, until the number of beds require to form the nursery be obtained, the surface of the beds is then covered with rich vegetable soil from the forest, and dug over to the depth of 18 inches, leaving 15 inches nearest the bank not dug; this undug portion being slightly hollowed out forms a pathway and drain, so as to draw off the rain water, and prevent it from running over the beds. This being completed, forked sticks 3 feet in height above the surface and 4 feet apart are placed along the front of the beds or terraces; the same description of sticks (but 5 feet in height above the surface) are placed along the back of the beds, or on the outer edge of the pathway, or drain above described. Upon these perpendicular forked sticks, horizontal ones are placed for the support of the thatched hurdles, which are used in covering the beds, while the young plants are being transplated, and until such time as they have become established; when the hurdles are removed by degrees, by raising them more and more daily, according as the plants indicate their ability to bear the effects of light and sunshine.

15. The terraces are now again dug over their entire width, with the exception of the pathway, and formed into small beds 5 feet 9 inches in length and 4 feet wide, with a pathway of 1 foot between each bed; these beds are now ready for the reception of the young plants, which are planted in rows across the bed, 6 inches apart, the plants being 4 inches apart in the row, which gives 110 plants to each small bed, or 10 rows with 11 plants in each; this allows for the spaces lost at the ends and sides of the beds. Of course, the plants in the nurseries require watering, when the weather is dry and even if showery, so long as they are covered with the grass hurdles. In mild showers it will be found beneficial to the young plants, even if not well established, to remove the grass hurdles while the rain is falling, but they should again be covered immediately the rain ceases.

16. In placing the plants in the nursery beds, it is desirable that a small clump of moss be placed in the rows a few inches under the roots of each plant. The object of the moss being placed under the plants is to prevent them from suffering when transplanted, as the roots grow into the clump of moss, which enables us to remove the plants with a ball of earth when permanently transplanted into the plantation.

17. Cultivation.—The question as to the way in which the land should be prepared for the cultivation of Cinchonas is one that has been much discussed since the beginning of this experiment; we have advocated that the land should be entirely cleared of forest, at least so much of it as may be planted with Cinchonas. In very exposed situations, or such as are subject to occasional storms and high winds, perhaps it might be well to clear small patches of a few acres in extent here and there throughout the forest, in order to ensure shelter. The only objection to this system exists in the liability of the trees left standing on the borders of the patches to be blown down and damage the plants within their reach. The system of cultivating the Cinchonas in partially cleared land is liable to the same objection, for the forest trees when deprived of a portion of the support upon which they were accustomed to lean are also liable to be blown down; and moreover this system has the further and more serious objections of shading the plants too much from the sun, while they are subjected to the damaging effects of the drip during the rains, and the roots of the forest trees immediately fill up and choke the holes into which Cinchona plants are placed, thus depriving the young plants of all nourishment. In our experiments here we have planted a considerable extent of land in this way, but I fear with such bad results as will ultimately render it necessary to clear away the remaining forest trees. In the greater part of our operations, the whole of the forest has been felled, and on that which is planted the growth of the plants has been much more satisfactory than that of those placed under any degree of living shade. I therefore feel convinced that the open system of planting will be the only successful one, especially on the Neilgherries; it is true, that while the plants are young, this system has also disadvantages, which should not be overlooked. I refer to the excessive evaporation and radiation during the bright and cloudless season, when our dry and cold weather prevails. We have hitherto combated this difficulty by sheltering the plants with a temporary shading of bamboo or fern, as illustrated in Plate V. Many hundreds of our plants, however, have passed through this dry season without any protection whatever; and although their growth has not been so rapid, their health is quite equal, if not superior, to any of those protected by artificial shade, and it is probable that during the spring and rainy season the growth will be more rapid in the plants without shade than in those which have been shaded; should this prove to be the case, the system of artificial shading will be abandoned altogether, except when the plants are newly transplanted. With these remarks, which are intended to enable the public to draw their own conclusion, I now proceed to detail the system of cultivation I would recommend.

18. Cultivation. Preparation of Sites.—The sites being selected, the operation of felling is begun at the lowest portion of the land, and proceeding with the work upwards, until the whole is completed. Belts of forest may be left upon the ridges to give shelter; but these must be pretty wide, otherwise they will be destroyed by the fire in burning the fallen forest. After the forest has lain for a sufficient time to become dry and fit for burning, the afternoon of a dry day with a brisk wind is selected for this operation. A row of coolies being placed about twenty or thirty yards apart across the entire length of forest at its lowest extremity, each provided with a firestick and a large bundle of dry grass, the grass being carefully placed among the leaves of the fallen trees opposite to each man, at a given signal the whole is set on fire at once, thus immediately generating a force of fire which consumes nearly the whole of the trees, and saves an immense deal of after labor in lopping and burning. By thus firing the forest a good burn (as Planters term it) is almost certain, whereas, if the forest is only set on fire in one or two places, it travels comparatively weakly through the trees, consuming only the leaves and the small branches. The burning being finished, the next operation is to lop and burn such portions as are entangled by the stems of the trees.

19. This operation finished, the lines of road are then marked in such positions as to render the different parts of the plantation easily accessible. The next operation is that of lining or marking off the distances at which the plants are to stand apart. For C. Succirubra, C. Calisaya, and the varieties of Grey Bark, the lines should be placed 10 feet apart, and for the varieties of the Crown Barks 8 feet apart; this being done, the land is trenched over 3 feet wide and 2 feet deep along the lines, and the plants planted in the trenches at 10 feet apart. In placing the plants in the trenches they should stand alternately, that is, the plants of the second row should be in the centre of the vacancies of the first row. When trenching is considered too expensive, pits may be dug for the reception of the plants, 3 feet square, 2 feet deep, and 10 or 8 feet from centre to centre, according to the species intended to be planted. When filling in the holes the best surface soil mixed with charcoal and the burned earth is to be selected.

20. Planting.—The best season for planting is the early part of the year, or after the ground is well soaked by the first showers; this gives the plants time to be well established before the setting in of the dry weather. Damp, cloudy, or foggy weather, without rain, is the best for planting, and when the soil is comparatively dry, that is, in a state that it will not clog and adhere together, which is the case with all soils, when worked during heavy rains. In placing the plants in the holes the roots must not be pressed with the hand, as this invariably causes decay; six to eight plants being taken from the nursery at a time are placed in a basket and conveyed to the Planter, who raising the plant from the basket between the thumb and forefinger of the left hand, while with the right hand he supports the ball of earth, at the same time conveying the plant to the hole made for its reception, where being deposited, the loose earth is filled in lightly around the roots, and the plant shaded by a few palm or fern leaves. If the weather continue dry, the plants should be watered in the mornings or evenings, until they become established. It may here be observed that no plant should ever be watered while the sun is shining upon it, as every globule of water forms a lens, which burns up the portion of the leaf on which it rests; neither should any plant be buried deeper in the ground than the collar, or union of the stem and roots. When a portion of the stem is buried in transplanting, the growth of the plant is much retarded, and it does not, as some suppose, give it a firmer hold of the ground, but the reverse. When manure can be obtained, its application will be found to be highly beneficial, as Cinchona plants like the Coffee delight in a good soil well enriched by manure. If used too fresh, the application of manure might prove injurious; it is therefore always safest to apply such manure only as is well decomposed. When the planting is finished, the young plants must be carefully attended to until such time as they become established; should the weather prove wet with high gales of wind, the fern or date leaves used for shading should be removed to such a distance as not to touch or rub upon the plant when moved by the action of the wind. When it is necessary to stake young plants in order to give them support two stakes should be used, being driven into the ground opposite to each other at from a foot to eighteen inches from the stem of the plant, then around these stakes, and passing from the one to the other, a piece of coir rope is stretched in a double line enclosing the plant, the point where the ropes pass the stem of the plant being secured against rubbing by a clump of soft moss being wrapped round it. The plants being once fairly established, the plantations like those of Coffee will merely require to be occasionally weeded, and the surface turned over from time to time, in order to permit of the action of the atmosphere upon the soil.

21. It may be expected of us to answer the very natural, and probably the first question which will arise in the mind of every Planter, namely, "How will Cinchona cultivation pay?" Although we have not yet practically answered this question, I feel called upon to contradict a very erroneous notion which has been extensively propagated, that "Cinchona trees will not produce Bark under forty or fifty years." It is not desirable to be over sanguine as to the produce to be obtained from any new cultivation, but still the advantages which the Cinchonas offer should be taken fairly into consideration. In the early part of this experiment it occurred to me that a small produce might be obtained in the sixth or seventh year after planting; but since that time I have reason to believe that a small harvest of Bark will be procured even earlier, and that Cinchonas will not be far behind Coffee or Tea in the period which must elapse between the time of planting and that of reaping the first harvest. This opinion has been considerably strengthened by the analysis of Mr. Howard, noted at foot,* of a small portion of young Bark grown on the Neilgherries; this Bark was forwarded in July last, or fifteen months after the receipt of the first Cinchona plant in India, a portion of the Bark being from wood of only eight months growth. Another serious objection urged against the profitable cultivation of Cinchonas is the supposed necessity of felling the trees in order to procure the produce, because this has been usually done on the Andes. There can however be no doubt that such a system can never be put into operation with plants under cultivation; as the opinion which we at first advanced has already been well confirmed, namely, that constant and uniform yearly supplies of Bark can be obtained by simply lopping and pruning the trees; and as this operation if conducted with skill will benefit rather than injure the plants, there can be no doubt that it will be uniformly adopted. Plate VI. gives a general idea of the principle of lopping and pruning recommended. The plants should be induced to branch as near the ground as possible, and in the fifth year the two branches are removed at the line A A; the branches below, marked B B, would immediately take their place, preserving the uniform growth and appearance of the trees. In the sixth year the branches at the line C C would be cut off in like manner, the small branches marked D D being left to take their place; and this operation should be continued on successive branches until the eighth or nineth year, by which time the branches marked B B could again be removed, and so on for any number of years. Judging from the growth the plants have attained here, it would not be too much to estimate 1 lb. of Bark from each tree as the produce of the first pruning, or 500 lbs. per acre; but reducing this estimate to one-half, or 250 lbs. of Bark per acre, as the average produce from the fourth to the eighth year, after this date a rapidly increasing supply would be obtained as the trees gain size; and with this yearly produce an amount of Bark will be annually stored up in the trunk to be made available at a future date, perhaps 40 or 50 years, when the entire tree might be felled; but a year prior to the operation of felling, a triangular incision of 2 inches each way should be made entirely through the Bark, and the piece of Bark removed as illustrated in Plate VI, Fig 3. This would cause the development of buds at E, and a number of young shoots would immediately spring from the base of the triangular incision as illustrated in Fig. 2. F.; when these shoots have attained a height of 3 to 4 feet or more, the trunk may be felled immediately above them, one of the finest shoots on each side being selected to take its place, and the small shoots removed. The average yield of large trees of the C. Succirubra is estimated at 500 lbs. of Dry Bark.

22. There is another advantage possessed by Cinchonas over every other cultivation, that is the great difference between the market value of the produce and the cost of production. This state of the market has been brought about by the supplies of Bark from the South American forests yearly, decreasing, while the demand for the inestimable medicine is increasing, and its application in diseases extending. The average market price of Peruvian Bark produced by the best species may at present be estimated at from five to six shillings per pound of Dry Bark, while judging from the progress our plants have made here the cost of production of this quantity of Bark cannot possibly exceed three pence.

23. The following brief notice of the different species of Cinchonas introduced will enable intending purchasers to select such as may be best suited to their localities.

* "The piece of Bark you sent me from India is so far a "very promising earnest of much that is to follow, as we "hope, in good time. I have examined it both chemically "and microscopically, as far as so small a piece would enable "me so to do, and I am happy to say the result is so far "satisfactory. The test of sublimation shows abundance of "the distinctive carmine color indicating Alkaloid, and the "Section shows under the microscope the commencement of "the chief tissues; the suberous tissues well developed, as "in Red Bark, generally the cellular tissues, cortical fibre, "medullary rays, &c."

species grows to a lofty tree, and is the most valuable known, being the richest in Alkaloids, which generally amount to as much as 3 to 4 per cent., and thus "fair average samples are valued in the market at more than twice the price of Calisaya Bark." The present price of Red Bark varies from 2*s.* 6*d.* to 8*s.* 9*d.* per pound of Dry Bark. This sort is also hardy, its range of growth extending from 3,000 to 8,000 feet; the plant, according to Mr. Spruce, prefers open ground with "plenty of air, light, and room, "wherein to develope its proportions, the Bark "is thin in proportion to the diameter of the trees "when growing at low elevations, and thick in "proportion when growing at high elevations." The amount of "Alkaloids is also much affected by "elevation. Mr. Spruce informs us that Senor "Cordoves (who has analysed the Red Bark, col- "lected at various altitudes) found that the greater "the height at which the tree grows the larger is "the proportion of Alkaloids contained in the "Bark."

Cinchona Calisaya, or "Yellow Bark of Bolivia." This species grows to the height of a large forest tree and was long considered the most valuable of all the medicinal Barks, and certainly it was so until the discovery of the Red Bark; the present price of Calisaya or Yellow Bark varies from 2*s.* 10*d.* to 7*s.* per lb. Of this species we have evidently two varieties very distinctly marked, even when growing under the same conditions. According to Mr. Markham and Dr. Weddell, "the tree "Calisaya grows on declivities and steep rugged "places of the mountains 5,000 to 6,000 feet "above the sea, in the hottest forests of Caravaya "and Bolivia." Subsequently, Mr. Markham in writing of this species states: "There can be no "doubt that the correct method of cultivating the "Cinchonas is planting them out in the open "with plenty of light and air. They may require "shade from the direct rays of the sun at first. "The only really fine well grown plant of Cin- "chona Calisaya that I saw in Caravaya was one "that had been planted in a small clearing entirely "exposed; those in the forest were poor straggling "things in comparison."

Cinchona Uritusinga, the "Cascarilla fina" or "Original Loxa Bark" introduced by J. E. Howard, Esq. This species, which in the days of La Condamine was a noble and lofty forest tree, is now almost extinct, the trees of a large size having entirely disappeared from the Andes; it is rich in Alkaloids, good specimens giving a total of 3·8 per cent., and in this respect it equals the Calisaya Bark of Bolivia; it was common on the mountains of Uritusinga, and grows at elevations from 6,000 to 8,000 feet. A general opinion prevails among the Cascarilleros that the Bark of this species "differs in quality according as it is exposed to the morning or evening sun."

Cinchona Condaminia, the "Cascarilla Colorada del Ray" or "Cascarilla Amarilla," the "Rusty Crown Bark" of English commerce and of equal value to the preceding species, to which it is nearly allied, inhabiting the same localities, but perhaps growing at greater elevations. In the days of Pavon, this was a slender tree of little more than 24 feet in height, and is considered to be the species that produced the Bark which cured the Countess of Cinchon. At the present time Mr. Cross informs us "but few trees are to be seen of these dimen- "sions. The plants from which the Bark of com- "merce is now taken are in general not more than "eight to ten feet in height. When the plants "are cut down three or four young shoots or "suckers in general spring up; but this does not "always happen, as some of the more industrious "Cascarilleros frequently pull up the roots and "bark them also. The Bark is taken from the "smallest twigs, thus the annual growths are "sometimes taken, especially if they are strong. "Mr. Cross also observes that the alluvial deposit "in the ravines where this species is found grow- "ing is shallow and in many places not more than "six inches in depth."

Cinchona Crespilla (C. Crispa Tafalla), or "fine Crown Bark." This species is a small shrub, and contains a smaller quantity of Alkaloids than the preceding; still it brings a high price in the market, being a "very fragrant and pretty looking Bark." It grows at great elevations (from 7,000 to 10,000 feet) in a deposit of peat, and where the temperature sometimes falls to 27° Fahr.

Cinchona Lancifolia from Java or "Pataya Bark." This is a valuable species, it is also hardy and easily cultivated, inhabiting the high and cold regions of the Andes. Dr. Karsten observes that "it descends only to a height of 2,000 metres (6,170 feet) above the sea, from the cold summits of the mostly snow-capped mountains, where it sometimes reaches the upper limits of the growth of trees, that is 3,500 metres, (10,797 feet.) Mr. Howard observes that this species produces a Bark which rivals in their rich product of Quinine the Barks of Bolivia, and consequently commands a very high price."

Cinchonas yielding Cinchonine.

24. Cinchona Nitida, "Quina cana legitima," or "Genuine Grey Bark." This is a lofty tree, abounding in the higher regious of Huanuco; its predominant Alkaloid is Cinchonine, and is consequently of less value than the preceding species, which belong to the class yielding Quinine: the analysis of the Bark from which our seeds were gathered gave 2·22 per cent. of Alkaloids, consisting chiefly of Cinchonine; Mr. Howard has however found Quinine in samples of the fine Grey Barks of commerce. This species grows in exposed places at elevations from 6,000 to 8,000 feet, and is said to delight in "free air, cold, water, and sunshine."

Cinchona, species without name. Allied to the above, and raised from seeds gathered by Mr. Pritchett, near Huanuco. Mr. Howard is of opinion that this species may prove to be identical with Cinchona Obovata of Pavon. It is said to be a "good Bark," and extensively imported with the Grey Bark of commerce.

Cinchona Micrantha, the "Cascarilla Provinciana" or "Grey Bark." This is a lofty tree, inhabiting warm and damp forests, where it attains a great circumference; one tree frequently yielding from 200 to 250 lbs. of Dry Bark. The Bark is generally rich in Alkaloids, yielding as much as 270 per cent. principally consisting of Cinchonine.

Cinchona Peruviana, the "Cascarilla Pata de Gallinaza," or "finest Grey Bark." This species attains the height of an ordinary sized tree in the forests of Cocheros, where it is still abundant, growing at a lower elevation than Cinchona Nitida, and yields a Bark of considerable value; the Bark of the trees our seeds were collected from when analysed by Mr. Howard yielded 3 per cent. of Alkaloids, comprising chiefly "Cinchonidine and Cinchonine." It thus ranks among the most valuable of the Grey Barks.

In concluding this brief manual, I would refer the reader for further information to Mr. Howard's superb work on Cinchonas, entitled "Illustrations of the Nueva Quinologia of Pavon," and for detailed information on the subject, to the able work of Clement R. Markham, Esq., of the India House, entitled "Travels in Peru and India," recently published by Mr. J. Murray, Albemarle Street, London.

Transmission of Plants.

25. In the usual way of packing plants in Wardian cases their transmission to a distance was most expensive and uncertain. To find a system which would obviate the risk and reduce the cost of transit has formed a subject of recent experiments. The issue of these, I believe, justifies us in recommending to the public the following method of packing Wardian cases, by which the cost of transit is reduced to less than one-sixth, and which secures greater safety in conveyance, in as much as the plants are less liable to damp off from an excess of moisture, while it secures the great advantage of reducing the weight of the cases to about one-fifth, thus rendering the cases more easily handled, and less liable to damage in being removed.

The Wardian cases for packing the plants can be supplied here at a cost of Rupees 15 each, one case containing from 170 to 220 plants, according to the species; instead of 28 or 30 plants, as formerly used to be packed in cases of the same size. In the system of packing which I now recommend, the Wardian cases are filled with moss instead of earth, to a depth of about six inches, and the Cinchona plants in the pots in which they were grown are firmly packed in the moss, and secured with cross battens, in order to prevent them being displaced should the cases be upset in transit. When the plants are thus secured, they receive a moderate amount of water; the sashes are then screwed on, the glass being protected by battens, and secured from the direct rays of the sun by a covering of thin cloth, so as to admit a portion of the light. In this way the plants can safely be conveyed to Calcutta or Ceylon without the cases being opened; but where the journey is likely to be prolonged over a month the cases should be opened mornings and evenings, so as to admit of the plant receiving light and air, water being added only when the surface of the earth in the pots is dry.

The cost of the conveyance to Madras of a case of the weight above described is about Rupees 6, and the freight to Calcutta or Ceylon about Rupees 16.

Plants can be conveyed to a short distance (less than eighty miles) with perfect safety, packed in open baskets; about 50 plants forming a cooly load.

3. Table II exhibits the growth of eleven plants planted out by His Excellency the Governor, and other gentlemen, on the 30th August 1862. The average growth of these plants during last month being 3¼ inches, or a quarter of an inch less than in January, which, allowing for the shortness of the month of February, gives merely the same results. The height of the largest plant we possess is now 7 feet two inches, with branches from 3 to 5½ feet in length. The stem, measured half a foot from the ground, is 5-8ths of an inch in circumference.

orter route for River Steamers from the Mutlah River to Dacca.

Memorandum by the Superintending Engineer, South-Eastern Circle.

e Chief Engineer in his No. 5951 of 21st o, says:—"it will be well for us to consider bject of connecting Dacca by a series of gable Canals with Calcutta."

Dacca, as the Chief Engineer is probably , is already connected with Calcutta by a of Navigable Canals for the greater part of istance. By two series the Chief Engineer no means to improve the existing routes by ening them, or deepening them, or by both.

The trade between Calcutta and Dacca is d on at present by two means of transit, ners and Boats. In considering what improve- should be undertaken, the means of transit accommodated must be kept in view, as ch requires different accommodation; a el may be large enough for boats, but too for Steamers, or it may be too large for though well suited for Steamers, the kooree Khall and the Megna River are es.

Again, the position and importance of the rt of Mutlah must have some influence on stion; instead of "between Calcutta and perhaps "between the Mutlah and may be substituted; if the Mutlah is good thing all the Eastern trade will be taken and shipped direct from it, as it now erally passes by or near it.

5. Attention then will be confined to the improvement of the water communication between the Mutlah and Dacca, and the consideration will embrace both means of transit, adopting a separate route for each where required.

6. The improvement of a line for Steamers was thought of so long ago as 1858. When the Mutlah was first started, the undersigned then wrote a Memorandum for the Lieutenant-Governor, (Mr. Grant) proposing the examination of a line from the Mutlah to the Balessur River, see plan, d line; this line was partially examined, and the nclusion was arrived at, that the yellow line on plan was a better route.

7. The undersigned has had a good deal of rience since he wrote the letter quoted above, now believes that the channel between the lah and the Roymungle, where the red and w lines run together, should be avoided by mer, if possible, it is the route for all boats ing to Mutlah, the difficulty of steaming ugh without collisions with the boats is great; ieu of it the yellow dotted line should be ined, and if it can be made navigable at a reasonable cost it might be adopted.

8. The part of the yellow line between the Passer River and the Ballessur also requires careful examination, if it be found practicable to improve it, or use without improvement, no doubt it is the best line to follow, it would require a Coaling Station at Morelgunge, or at the entrance of the Damoodah River.

9. The remainder of the route from the Damoodah River to Dacca was surveyed by Mr. Pearson, his survey was returned to Chief Engineer with this Office No. 2209 quoted above; the undersigned knows the route tolerably well also, the channels change much, but there was a safe route for Steamer up to the end of February last, and most likely there always will be; the route is not very circuitous, there are some windings to the west of Jalookatee, which might be improved if the time gained would be worth the cost, but on the whole this part of the route requires little improvement.

10. In the Memorandum quoted above, written in 1858, the saving of time by Steamers adopting the proposed route is fully discussed, there is no copy in the Superintending Engineer's Office.

11. The route taken by boats to or from Dacca is shown on the Map by the blue lines, the route between the Mutlah and Khoolna is at present on the Books of this Department, and receives as much attention as it can receive, boats will not leave this route to go vid the yellow line, on account of the large Rivers and uninhabited country through which they would have to pass. In considering, then, the question of the improvement of a line for boats attention may be confined entirely to the part of the route between Khoolna and Dacca.

12. The objections to the present route from Khoolna to Dacca are 1st, it is circuitous; 2nd, parts of it are shallow; 3rd, the large Rivers are extremely dangerous during about nine months of the year.

13. As to the first objection the only improvement which is practical is to make the Cuts shown by the dotted blue lines; Nos. 1 and 2 might be made with great advantage, No. 3, would not be worth the cost.

14. As to the second objection, the shallow parts occur at A, B, C, D, the worst are B and D., B could be improved by deepening, and there would be a fair chance of the Khall remaining deep when done. Improvement at D is impracticable, it is a shifting sand, changing every year.

15. There is no remedy for the third evil; at certain seasons, when the country is flooded, boats run up Khalls, or even over the land, and so avoid the large River to some extent, but the route is very dangerous, many boats and lives are lost in it every year.

16. There are only two other lines which seem at all practicable, they are coloured green and brown on the plan. First as to the green line, if it were made navigable and could be kept so it would be a great improvement on the present route, making the journey comparatively safe and shortening the distance 30 or 40 miles, or about one-fifth of the whole.

17. There is no difficulty connected with it until Booshenea Thanna is reached, there a new Cut of great depth should be made, the Khall up to Rungpore should be deepened and improved, and a new Cut made from Rungpore, or Taltollah, to the Puddar, of great depth also, no more difficulty save a big and dangerous River for a short distance until Hilsamaree Khall is reached, that should be opened, deepened, and improved, and either a new Cut made across to the Booreegunga or the old route vid the Dullassur followed.

18. There is no difficulty beyond the cost in executing the improvements noted above, but as to the permanency of the work when done, the nature of the country in which the Cuts must be made and the character of the Rivers to which they must join are discouraging in the extreme;

the Borashee at one end is as changeable as the Ganges, but not on so large a scale; the Puddar at the other end is as changeable as the Ganges, and twice as large; the experience gained by working the Nuddea Rivers is applicable to the proposed improvements, and the conclusion to be drawn from it seems to be that if Cuts were made they would be just as likely to silt up as to keep open.

19. The same remarks apply to the Hilsamaree, but the risk is not so much, as the cost of opening it would not be great, its improvement is now under consideration by the Executive Engineer, Dacca, in order to shorten the route from Furreedpore to Dacca.

20. As to the brown line, it seems feasible; but even here the Rivers are very changeable. When the undersigned was going up the Kistomaree in February last it was quite impossible to trace the branch down to Seeb Chur Thanna, nor could a mile of the River between that point and Furreedpore be identified, though the survey was made only 2 or 3 years before; there is however a good channel in the dotted brown line. If an examination for an improved boat route from Khoolna to Dacca be made, the brown line should not be lost sight of, all that part through the jheel would most likely remain open if made. The Khall between the Kistomaree and the River opposite Naraingunge is often naturally open.

From Lieutenant-Colonel J. P. Beadle, Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, in the Public Works Department, to the Superintending Engineer of the South-Eastern Circle,—(dated the 6th June 1862.)

With reference to your Memorandum No. A., dated 10th April last, I am directed to forward a copy of a letter No. 2701 of the 20th ultimo, with enclosure, from the Officiating Controller of Marine Affairs; and to request that you will undertake the direction of the operations for ascertaining the most direct and safe passage for Steamers from Mutlah to Koolna and Dacca.

2. The Officiating Controller of Marine Affairs will this day be requested to place Mr. Pearson, temporarily, under your orders, as also a Gun Boat with a crew, to enable the exploration to be carried out.

3. The Map received with your Memorandum quoted above is also herewith returned.

From Captain J. G. Reddie, Officiating Controller of Marine Affairs, to Lieutenant-Colonel J. P. Beadle, Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, in the Public Works Department,—(No. 2701, dated the 20th May 1862.)

Sir,—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 1695 of the 15th ultimo, enquiring, with reference to my predecessor's letter, No. 4250 of the 2nd May 1861, if the Chandpai route has been tested, and if not, that I will have it examined on the first opportunity.

2. With reference to the above, I beg to report that Mr. Pearson, an Officer belonging to this Department, went through the Chandpai, and reports favorably of it; there seems only one place where there is any difficulty, and that arises from a sudden bend. Appended is a copy of that Officer's report.

3. It appears desirable that the passages between the Mutlah and the Roymungul Rivers be examined, as it is probable that there is a shorter and equally safe passage than the one now used. The distance is short, and Mr. Pearson (if h be spared from the Celerity) might be sent plore it. It would not take over three we one of the small Gun Boats were placed disposal, and the expense would be trifling.

4. Mr. Leonard and Mr. Pearson see agree so far, as they surveyed the same route as Mr. Leonard is intimately acquainted w the Rivers and routes in the Soonderbunds, is only a person who has that knowledge could issue any orders or offer suggesti would recommend that Mr. Pearson be put Mr. Leonard's orders, with a Gun Boat disposal, so that the various routes be exa in order that it may be decided which is the direct and safest passage from Mutlah to K and Dacca.

5. The Plans are herewith returned.

From H. Leonard, Esq., c. e., Superintending En South Eastern Circle, to the Officiating Chief E Bengal.

With reference to Secretary, Governm Bengal's No. 2557 of 6th instant, I hav Mr. Pearson, and we both agree that it wo waste of time and money to undertake t amination of the Soonderbund Channels season. In many of the Rivers the Gu could not live, in all there would be interruption from rains, storms, &c., and it be impossible to keep the crew wel

2. I recommend that the work be def the 1st November next.

Extract from letter No. 12, date 16th June 186 the Revenue Surveyor, 4th Di on, to the Su General of India, paragraphs 9 to 15.

Para. 9.—For some time passed it has be wish of the Government of Bengal to disc shorter passage for Dacca Steamers than th Koolneah; there is a shorter passage throug very part of Jessore, the survey of which advocate.* I went by passage in the Teesta St in going out to my work and returning fr this season. It is the route by which large B gunge, Chittagong, and other rice boats pass, from the Pusser River is considerably short the junction of the Damooda River and the sur River than round by Koolneah, and o route no survey worth any thing exists at pr

* Vide Map enclosed.

10. There is one portion of this new that requires further s viz., from the junctio the Bojboja Khall and Ourah Seepsah River the present River Steamer route, to find a easterly course into the Pusser River, and Steamer will be required for this work, an will also be necessary to complete the Backerg Survey as already detailed, I would suggest both works should be done by one Steamer, wh an immense saving would accrue to Govern seeing that the great expense in coal is incurr going out and returning from the Survey.

Marked A. in Map.

11. I annex a sketch of the new and old r The saving in distance by this route over by Koolneah and the Attra Banka Rive Dacca and Assam and Cachar, and which is one that large Steamers all take at present about fifty-four miles, and in comparison the Koolneah and Bhyrub River route of a seven miles. The Bhyrub River, moreover, is up, and is now only passable at the top of ide by boats of large tonnage.

Considering, therefore, how the traffic nd the importance of, the Eastern Dis- re yearly increasing, and how essential it ve the means of communication as rapid sible, I believe the route indicated by me, Coaling Station at Morelgunge, will prove ortest and best; and that a better or so an opportunity, or one so economical for the question, will not offer itself again. you will pardon this digression from the s more immediate duties of the Revenue y. The importance of the question will, I sured, be a sufficient excuse.

All that will be required in addition to the ue Surveyor and his party is a competent Surveyor, who should accompany the er during the time he is employed in search- t, taking soundings of, surveying, and re- g on the various channels. I do not think uty would occupy more than one fortnight reaching the ground, and would not in the interfere with the after progress of the Sur- f Backergunge.

If I mistake not I have indicated the best els that should be followed from the Seepsa Pusser.

I should also mention that the Khall that the Pusser and Bhola Rivers (marked by a dotted double line in map) is said to be too w for large boats. But as it promises a much r and better route than that by the Chilla apsegonj, it is worth looking at. A little en- ring talent may probably render it navigable.

H. Leonard, Lieut., C. E., Superintending Engineer, uth-Eastern Circle, to the Officiating Chief Engineer d Secretary to the Government of Bengal, in the ublic Works Department,—(No. 691, dated the 28th uly 1862.)

—With reference to the 3rd paragraph of tary, Government of Bengal's No. 3163 of stant, to the Surveyor-General of India, e to the survey of route between the Pusser llissur Rivers, I solicit more definite instruc- s to the meaning of carrying out the work in rt with the Officers of the Revenue Survey."

Major Gastrell in his letter to the Surveyor- l states that "an immense saving would to Government if the work were done e Revenue Survey Officers when on their a Steamer to their survey operations in Bengal;" and that the only thing re- in addition to his party would be a com- Naval Surveyor.

I think this Department is much indebted jor Gastrell both for the interest already n this project and for the offer now made. e is more competent to undertake the work is; and as it will, as he says, cause an saving to Government, at most a delay to him, I beg to recommend the work e over to him for a survey and report.

t will be well to notify to the Survey Depart- at the survey required should shew not only rtest present navigable route, but also rter route which may be capable of im- t by an expenditure of a lakh or two of e communication from the Surveyor- refers to that part of the route between er and Ballissur Rivers only. It is also necessary to examine the route between the Mutlah and the Seepsa. This line is in the direct route to the line examined by Major Gastrell, and no doubt could be examined in connection with the examination of the other route at even a greater saving to Government. I enclose a Tracing shewing the line, which it would be probably desirable to examine.

6. If, however, the Survey Department will not undertake this part of the line, there is no reason whatever why their offer to do the eastern portion should not be accepted.

7. Mr. Pearson will be placed under my directions from the 1st November next; he is a competent Naval Surveyor. I can give him to Major Gastrell while he is surveying the route.

From Lieutenant-Colonel J. P. Beadle, Officiating Secretary to the Government of Bengal, in the Public Works Department, to the Superintending Engineer, South-Eastern Circle,—(dated the 29th August 1862.)

With reference to your letter No. 691, dated the 28th ultimo, I am directed to state that it is considered advisable that the proposed Survey or examination of a shorter route for Steamers between Calcutta and Dacca should be made under your orders, and that the information and data obtained should be submitted with a Report from yourself.

2. Lieutenant Pearson, or the Officer deputed by the Marine Department, should however communicate with Major Gastrell, or the Officer in charge of the Revenue Survey, and obtain any information in respect to routes likely to be of advantage. The more detailed instructions for the guidance of the Marine Surveyor should be issued by you.

3. The Map received with your No. 907, dated the 25th instant, is herewith returned.

Memorandum of Instructions for the guidance of Mr. Pearson, appointed to survey a route between the Mutlah and Hooriaghatta Rivers.

The object of the survey is to ascertain roughly the cost of forming a tolerably direct route for River Steamers between the Town of Mutlah and the entrance of the Damooder River, in lieu of the present route, which is very circuitous.

2. The limits of the ground to be examined as far as Khoolna are the Canal route on the North, and the present Steamer route on the South. These routes are shown on the accompanying Map, the former by a strong blue line, the latter by a blue dotted line. The route which is likely to be found most practicable is shown by a dotted red line.

3. It is not expected that a continuous navigable route will be found in the dotted red line nor any where between the limits noted above, but it is expected that a line will be found, which by some improvements can be made a good and direct navigable route.

4. The course of examination should be something in this way. Examine the dotted line, see how much of it is navigable, then at the parts which are not navigable examine what connexion there is North or South between the navigable portions, when the shortest navigable line is found. See what portions of it deviates far from the dotted line, and if any new Cuts could be made to shorten it.

5. A Map of the whole of the route decided on should be plotted to a scale of 1 inch to a mile. It should show in figures the width and depth of the Rivers at low water. Another plan plotted to a scale of 4 inches to the mile should be given of all portions requiring improvements, it should show the depth and width in more detail, the length of proposed new Cuts, and the height of the land over low water.

6. When two or three lines have been surveyed to enable the Surveyor to decide which to adopt, the plot of all should be given on the plan.

7. The Surveyor should be furnished with the plan of Canals Division (4 inches to a mile) on which the lines are marked, and with any stationary or instruments which he may require. Coals should be sent to him to such points as may be fixed on, so that he may not lose time steaming back and forward for it. This should be done by the Executive Engineer of Canals, who knows the route and has been on it. The Executive Engineer should also be directed to order his Overseers to give all the assistance they can to the Surveyor, if called on.

8. The correspondence in the Office shows how the Surveyor is to be paid.

Superintending Engineer, South-Eastern Circle.

From H. LEONARD, ESQ., C. E., Superintending Engineer, South-Eastern Circle, to the Officiating Chief Engineer and Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department,—(No. 302, dated the 5th June 1863.)

SIR,—WITH reference to the correspondence marginally noted, relative to the survey of a route for River Steamers between the Mutlah River and Dacca, I have just received Mr. Pearson's Map shewing the result of his season's work.

Bengal Government's No. 4126 of 29th August 1862.
Bengal Government's No. 2557 of 6th June 1862.
Bengal Government's No. 3013 of 20th May 1863.

2. The Survey does not extend beyond the Damoodah River, because beyond that point there is no likelihood of any improvement being made.

3. I have discussed the matter over with Mr. Pearson since his return, and have arrived at the following conclusions—(See Plan of route, four miles=one inch).

4. The Cut between the Kalinda and Jaboona should be made, it is only about a mile long, it will shorten the route eighteen miles, and there is every probability that, if made, it would keep open, because the tide in the Kalinda is fully an hour earlier than that in the Jaboonah, consequently it would run through and most likely keep the Cut clear.

5. The Cut marked between the Choomkooree and the Mullinchew should not be made at all events for the present, it would shorten the distance only seven miles, it is one and a quarter mile long, and it would most likely silt up when made, the tide being about the same in each River.

6. It would be useless to attempt the improvements necessary to make the "Dholai Khall" route navigable, as the route vid Shakerboree is good and as short as the other.

7. The route vid Barree Khally need not be improved at present, as there is a good route vid the Budder and Pusser, only six miles longer.

8. Neither of the two Cuts proposed near Manikgunge need be made, the advantage to be gained by making them would not be at all commensurate with the cost. They would shorten the distance only a few miles.

9. The Damoodah River need not be improved, as the route vid Kholsa River is only four miles longer, and by taking it the crowd of boats which is generally in the Damooda[illegible], will be avoided.

10. The Coaling Station, if the new route be adopted, may be at Burrisaul, it is not too far, and as it is a large Station and Bazar, the public will be benefitted by the Steamer stopping there for Coal.

11. Captain Pearson states that all the part of the route not marked by him as requiring improvements are quite capable of accommodating the largest River streams.

12. Supposing Steamers to make an average of seven miles an hour, I find the time saved by starting from the Mutlah and taking the new route will be about twelve hours steaming, or twenty-four hours of passage.

13. The time saved by Steamers leaving the Mutlah and taking the new route compared with those leaving Calcutta and taking the old route will be about twenty-four hours' steam, or about eight hours of passage.

14. The cost of improving the new route noted above, would be,—new Cut between Kalinda Nuddee and Juboonah, say one and a quarter mile =6,600 long, 20 feet deep, 200 feet wide, 1,58,400 lacs of earth, at Rupees 600 per lac=Rupees 1,58,400, say 1½ lacs of Rupees, this calculation is very liberal. Other spots would likely require improvement also, jungle should be cut, &c., for which 50,000 Rupees might be added, making a total of 2,00,000 of Rupees, which seems to be a very small sum for a work likely to confer so much benefit.

15. Any calculation I could make as to the exact amount of benefit would be mere speculation, the object is to open a better route to a part of undeveloped District, how much its development may be facilitated by opening such a work I cannot say, but it seems very certain that a good Steamer passage, a fertile District, and its port of shipment must be of great advantage.

16. The distance from Calcutta to Burrisaul vid old route is ...
From Calcutta to Burrisaul vid new route ...
From Mutlah to Burrisaul vid old route ...
From Mutlah to Burrisaul vid new route ...

will be good enough to submit, on an
, an Estimate for the proposed Cut between the Kalinda Nuddee and the Jaboona River, which will save a distance of eighteen miles, to admit of the work being commenced and completed during the next working season. The question of establishing a Coaling Station at Burrisaul will, I am desired to state, receive consideration in the General Department of this Office.

3. The papers in this case will be published in the Calcutta Gazette for public information.
